(OF LONDON)

Founded 1830

Funds Nearly Three Millions

Since the War began there has been a marked tendency on the part of British Life Offices either to suspend bonus declarations for the time being or to declare a considerably reduced bonus. This has given rise to a demand by the Assuring public for

NON-PROFIT ENDOWMENT ASSURANCES AT VERY LOW PREMIUMS.

In order to meet this demand, this old mutual Society has decided to grant Assurances of this description at premiums which are

AMONG THE LOWEST QUOTED BY ANY BRITISH OFFICE.

By effecting such an Assurance the policyholder secures, in effect, the benefit of which is absolutely guaranteed and not dependent on the profits of the future.

A LARGE IMMEDIATE BONUS

INTRODUCTION

THE following introductory note<sup>1</sup> on the history of the University Calendar has been contributed by S. C. Roberts, M.A., of Pembroke College, Assistant Secretary to the Press Syndicate:

'In 1796, when William Pitt was High Steward of the University and one of its representatives in Parliament and Henry Gunning one of the three "Esquire Beadles," there appeared the first Cambridge University Calendar.

It was a small volume of 190 pages, edited by G. Mackenzie, B.A., of Trinity, and contained "a list of the present members, the livings in the gift of each College, with their incumbents; some useful particulars concerning the Fellowships, Scholarships, etc., Professors, Officers, Prizemen, etc." It was printed by Benjamin Flower and published at 2s. 6d. by W. Page; in the Preface a pious hope that it would be "neither useless nor uninteresting to the Members of the University" was coupled with a warning that "in the first attempt of a Work of this nature, perfection cannot be expected."

A note on the Origin of the University occupied the first page:

"The origin of Cambridge as an University is very doubtful. We are however informed that one Cantaber, a Spaniard, about 370 years before Christ, is intitled to this honour; Certain it is, that after many years laying desolate, Sigebert, King of the East Angles, restored it A.D. 630."

<sup>1</sup> This note has been already printed in the Introduction to the University Calendar, 1914—15.

The second issue was more ambitious. Edited by T. Beverley, Esquire Bedell<sup>1</sup>, it contained 60 more pages and cost one shilling more than its predecessor.

In the "Advertisement" it claimed not only to supply defects in the previous issue but "to contain several new and very interesting articles." "The candor," the editor continues, "which many members of the University have shewn in contributing the utmost information in their power...claims every tribute of gratitude. The communications, however, in a few particular instances...have not been bestowed with such a spirit of liberality as might have been expected." A manuscript note in the University Library copy of this issue runs: "Alluding to the Pres. of Queens' who refused to supply any information."

The higher flights of the editor of 1797 are especially seen in the historical introduction, where a circumstantial account is given of the career of Cantaber—his flight to Britain about the year of the world 3588, his marriage with the daughter of King Gurguntius, his building of Cantabrigia, his foundation of the University on the Athenian model, with philosophers hired from Athens—"this is the origin of the University of Cambridge, now one of the first and most eminent in the world."

The inconsistencies of spelling in these early Calendars recall Dr Venn's description of the variations in the written records<sup>2</sup>. In the volume for 1796, for instance, there is SYDNEY SUSSEX in the text and SIDNEY in the index, "Registrar" in the text and "Register" in the index; in the second issue we find MEDALIST on the title-page and MEDALLIST in the text, "Bedell" in the text and "Beadle" in the index. "Queen's" seems the accepted form throughout.

Except for the year 1798, the Calendar has appeared annually since 1796. In 1803 the title was temporarily changed to The Cambridge University Register, and the following year's issue, edited by "a member of the Senate," was dedicated to William Pitt and the Earl of Euston. The Calendar was printed at the University Press in 1803 and 1804, and this has also been the case from 1826 to the present time. Finally, in 1914 the proprietorship of the work was transferred from Messrs Deighton, Bell & Co. to the Syndics of the Press, who are now responsible for its publication.'

---

The last issue of the Calendar in the old form, published in October 1913, had reached the unwieldy dimensions of  $\text{cxxiv} + 1423 = 1547$  pages. The Syndics of the Press therefore decided to transfer the historical information hitherto contained in the annual Calendar to a separate volume, to be published at much longer intervals as an Historical Register. This re-arrangement has afforded an opportunity for additions to the customary information, the most important of which are the following:

(1) The lists of the holders of University Offices, Professorships, Readerships, and Lectureships have been completed from the earliest date of which there is any record, and brief footnotes have been added to the names of notable men. The lists as printed in the Register end with 1910, but they are continued in the annual Calendar for 1911 and subsequent years.

(2) New sections have been added on the historical jurisdiction and procedure of the University Courts, on University Ceremonies, Costume, and Discipline, on Old Degrees and Privileges, and on the history of the Mathematical Tripos.

(3) The Tripos Lists in the old Calendar have been collated with the original sources and a number of mistakes have been discovered and corrected. Aegrotats and honorary optimes have also been included, and the footnotes have been entirely rewritten. These are now restricted, as a rule, to service in Church or State, or to the Universities, but within these limits they are much fuller and many more names have been identified. As in the case of University Offices, the Tripos Lists extend only to 1910, but the lists for 1911 and subsequent years will be found in the annual Calendar. The footnotes have been corrected as far as the end of 1915. The Lists printed in the old Calendar began with 1748, but it is possible to obtain from the Grace-Books an order of seniority which goes back, with a few lacunae, as far as 1498—9, and selections from this, with footnotes on the same plan as in the case of the Tripos Lists, are given in the present volume. These include many famous names, for instance: Latimer (1510—11), Cranmer (1510—11), and Ridley (1521—2); Sir Thomas Smith (1529—30), Sir John Cheke (1529—30), John Caius (1532—3), and Roger Ascham (1533—4); Archbishops Parker (1523—4), Grindal (1537—8), Sandys (1538—9), Whitgift (1553—4), and Bancroft (1566—7); Edmund Spenser (1572—3), George Herbert (1612—13), and John Milton (1628—9); Abraham Cowley (1639—40), and Matthew Prior (1686—7); Archbishop Sancroft (1637—8), and Bishop Stillingfleet (1652—3); Sir Robert Cotton (1585—6), Thomas Baker (1650—1), and Richard Bentley (1679—80).

The necessary identifications would scarcely have been possible, but for the publication of the Dictionary of National Biography, and of Dr Venn's Graduati, 1544—1659.

(4) Indexes have also been compiled to University Appointments and to the Ordo Senioritatis, 1498—1747, and the General Index to the whole volume has been much enlarged. It is hoped that these indexes will be of service to future biographers and genealogists.

The Editor desires gratefully to acknowledge advice and help from many quarters. In particular, he owes a special debt of gratitude to the Reverend H. P. Stokes, LL.D., Litt.D., Honorary Fellow of Corpus Christi College, who has placed his profound knowledge of University history unreservedly at the disposal of the new enterprise. Dr Stokes has not only contributed from his own pen the section entitled 'Old Degrees and Privileges,' and an account of the history of the Antiquarian Society, but has provided material from his note-books for amplifying the lists of the early holders of University Offices, and has given valuable advice upon difficult and doubtful points.

Special thanks are also due to the following:—A. C. Seward, M.A., Master of Downing College, Professor of Botany, for advice in connexion with the section dealing with the Constitution of the University; Sir J. E. Sandys, Litt.D., Fellow of St John's College, Public Orator, and F.J.H. Jenkinson, M.A., Fellow of Trinity College, Librarian, for notes on the history of their respective offices, and for other kind help; C. S. Kenny, LL.D., Downing Professor of the Laws of England, for contributing the section on University Courts; Stephen Gaselee, M.A., Fellow of Magdalene College, for suggestions for the section on University Ceremonies; E. C. Clark, LL.D., late Fellow of St John's College, Emeritus Professor of Law, and Mr Barnet W. Beales, Mayor of Cambridge, for help and advice in connexion with University Costume; W. W. Rouse Ball, M.A., Fellow of Trinity College, for reading the proofs of the section on the Tripos, and making suggestions; John Venn, Sc.D., Fellow and President of Gonville and Caius College, for advice on numerous questions connected with the older Honours Lists; J. A. Venn, M.A., of Trinity College, for his experienced assistance in preparing and indexing the Ordo Senioritatis, and for compiling the Table of Matriculations, 1544—1910; Mr Robert Bowes, for notes on early University Printers; G. D. Liveing, Sc.D., Fellow and President of St John's College, for notes on the history of the Philosophical Society; Sir W. H. St John Hope, Litt.D., of Peterhouse, for providing the proper blazons of the arms of the University and of the Regius Professors; and the Professors and Heads of Departments, and others, for verifying the statements made in the section entitled 'Public Buildings and Institutions.'

The Editor desires especially to acknowledge the Registry's valuable advice and ready help over the entire field of the work. He also owes much to the unfailing kindness of the Assistant Registry and to the expert knowledge of Mr C. J. Stonebridge, Registry's Clerk, whose time and trouble were always at his disposal. Finally, he would like to express his appreciation of the skill and care of the staff of the University Press in dealing with an unusually exacting piece of work.

Constitution of the University<sup>1</sup>

THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE may be said to have originated in the 12th century, and it is almost certain that before the beginning of the 13th century it was a recognised centre of study<sup>2</sup>. The myth of its early foundation by 'Cantaber, a Spanish king,'<sup>3</sup> is as unhistorical as the corresponding legend that the University of Oxford was founded by King Alfred<sup>4</sup>. Nor can greater weight be given to the claim made on behalf of 'Sigebert, King of the East Angles,' although a cautiously-worded sentence in the Commemoration Service included him, until lately, among 'Royal Benefactors' (see p. 165).

<sup>2</sup> It was not, however, until 1318 that Cambridge received from Pope John XXII formal recognition as a Studium Generale or Universitas.

<sup>3</sup> In Bishop Fisher's oration as Chancellor, on the occasion of the visit of King Henry VII to Cambridge in 1506, he appears as Cantaber, a king of the East Saxons, who had been educated at Athens. Fisher also claimed that the University of Paris owed its origin to Cambridge, which had been known as a seat of learning long before the time of Charlemagne.

<sup>4</sup> Maitland, addressing an Oxford audience, remarked, 'The oldest of all inter-university sports was a lying match. Oxford was founded by Mempricius in the days of Samuel the prophet, and Cambridge by the Spanish Cantaber in the days of Gurguntius Brabtruc.'

That early in the 13th century Cambridge was famous as a seat of learning appears from the fact that the Mendicant Orders began to establish themselves there<sup>1</sup>—first the Franciscans in, or soon after, 1224, on the present site of Sidney Sussex; next the Carmelites, who about the middle of the century settled near the present site of Queens', having been driven from their habitation at Newnham by the winter floods; next the Dominicans in, or shortly before, 1275, who built a friary where Emmanuel now stands; and last the Augustinian Friars, who towards the close of the century took up their residence near the site of the old Botanic Garden, about where the new University Lecture Rooms were erected in 1911. But the 13th century is also important in our history in other ways. The earliest University Exhibitions were those founded (1256) by William de Kilkenny, Bishop of Ely from 1254 to 1256, for two priests, students of Divinity, who were to pray for his soul and to receive annually ten marks from the revenues of Barnwell Priory. Academic discipline<sup>2</sup> also may be said to have begun with a University ordinance of 1276, issued with the special approval of Hugh de Balsham, the successor of William de Kilkenny in the Bishopric of Ely, providing that no one was to receive a scholar, presumably either as a lodger or a pupil, unless such scholar 'had a fixed master within fifteen days after his entry into the University.' Thus University discipline preceded, though not by many years, the establishment of College discipline. Peterhouse was founded by Hugh de Balsham in 1284, and its statutes, closely modelled upon those drawn up in 1264 for the College of Walter de Merton, the founder of the Collegiate system at Oxford, were received from Simon de Montacute, Hugh de Balsham's successor as bishop, about 1338. But meanwhile Michaelhouse, founded in 1324, had received statutes at the time of its foundation, and these may therefore claim to be the earliest College code.

It was not until the 14th century that the University equipped itself with buildings. The earliest part of the Public Schools Quadrangle, the north side, was not completed until 1400; and the entire quadrangle, as it stood down to the reign of George I, was finished during the 15th century. Before 1400, therefore, University lectures must have been given in buildings which were not the property of the University or were not specially appropriated to University purposes. In 1309 a house opposite St Mary's Church was hired from a townsman, Nicholas the Barber, for lectures in Theology and the Canon and Civil Law, and another house, situated on ground now occupied by the Old Court of <sup>1</sup> It has been pointed out by the Master of Jesus that when the Gilbertines of Sempringham (White Canons) came to Cambridge in 1291 their object was undoubtedly educational. Their house was in Trumpington Street, nearly opposite Peterhouse (Arthur Gray, 'Robert Bruce in Cambridge,' Cambridge Review for April 28, 1915).

<sup>2</sup> Cf. Fuller, History of the University, p. 22, where he refers under date 1231 to 'a crew of pretenders to scholarship' who 'lived under no discipline, having no Tutor (saving him who teacheth all mischief).'

Caius, was rented as an Arts School<sup>1</sup>. Lectures were also given at the Franciscans or the Dominicans, while larger University meetings generally took place at Great St Mary's<sup>2</sup>. The use of this church by the University seems to have been fully established before the end of the 13th century. In 1275 there is a distinct account of a Grace passed at a Congregation held there, and in 1303 notices of University sermons begin.

The organisation of the medieval University of Cambridge was profoundly affected by the example of the University of Paris, and its earlier statutes, like those of Oxford, had been little more than a transcript from Paris. The government of the University was vested in a Chancellor and the two academic Houses—the Regents, who were the acting body of teachers, and the Non-Regents, or other permanent residents in the University, who were no longer concerned with the work of education. The House of Non-Regents had no control over teaching, but it exercised a concurrent jurisdiction with the other House in all questions relating to the property, privileges, and common weal of the University. The Chancellor was chosen every two years by the Regents<sup>3</sup>, and was sometimes continued in office for a third year. He summoned Congregations, presided in his own Court to hear and determine cases in which a scholar was concerned, and generally administered University discipline; and no Graces could be proposed or passed without his assent. He could delegate some of his duties to a Vice-Chancellor appointed by the Regents from year to year, but the more important part of his functions could not be so delegated. His authority, although confirmed, and extended by royal charters, was ecclesiastical both in its nature and origin, and he enjoyed the power of excommunication and absolution, derived in the first instance from the Bishop of Ely and ultimately from the Pope. The practice of kneeling to receive a degree is evidence that he was regarded as an ecclesiastical superior<sup>4</sup>. In earlier times the authority of the Chancellor to veto or sanction Graces was not controlled in any way, but later<sup>5</sup> a council called the Caput was instituted to advise the Chancellor, and to discuss and approve Graces before they were submitted to the Senate. This consisted of the Vice-Chancellor and five other members, one of whom was always the 'senior doctor religiosus,' and later the Public Orator, but the rest were generally Heads, nominated by the Vice-Chancellor but liable to rejection by either House. As the Caput was usually appointed afresh at the beginning of each Congrega-

<sup>3</sup> The statutes of 1549 vested the election of the Chancellor in the whole body, both Regents and Non-Regents.

tion it possessed comparatively limited powers, notwithstanding the fact that each member enjoyed the technical right of himself vetoing any Grace. But by an important change of statute made in 1570 it was reserved to the Heads to nominate annually two candidates for the Vice-Chancellorship, one of whom was to be chosen by the Regents; and the Caput, consisting of the Chancellor, a doctor of each of the three faculties (Divinity, Law, and Medicine), a Non-Regent, and a Regent, was to be appointed at the beginning of the academical year and to hold office until the end of it. In the election of the Caput the Chancellor and each of the two Proctors prepared separate lists of five persons each, the ultimate choice being left to the Heads and the doctors of all faculties. The effect of these changes was to confer extraordinary powers upon the Heads, who now became, as Dean Peacock described them, 'a distinct and separate estate in the government of the University,' for the choice of the Vice-Chancellor was in their hands and they had a large share in constituting the Caput, which now became a very powerful body.

At the same time a change was effected in the position and powers of the Proctors. Under the medieval constitution they had been the most important administrative officers in the University. They were chosen every year on the 10th of October by the Regents, and when chosen they exercised very wide powers. They regulated disputations in the Schools, and all the public ceremonies of the University; superintended the markets with a view to the supply of wine and provisions for the scholars; controlled University finance; conducted examinations; administered oaths of admission to all degrees; and they alone could confer the privilege of the regency. The statutes of 1570 instituted nomination by a cycle of Colleges for the approval of the Regents in place of a free election by them, and many of the proctorial functions, including financial control, were transferred either to the Chancellor or to the Vice-Chancellor. The office thus lost much of its ancient importance; the Proctors ceased to be the official representatives of the House of Regents and became strictly subordinate to the authority of the Chancellor.

The other officers of the medieval University were the two Bedels, the Scrutators, and the Taxors. The Bedel of Theology and Canon Law, and the Bedel of Arts were elected by Grace by the concurrent authority of the two Houses, and were required to be in perpetual attendance upon the Chancellor and Proctors, and at all disputations in the Public Schools. The two Scrutators were elected by the Non-Regents at each Congregation to collect the votes and announce the decisions in their House in the same way as was done by the two Proctors in the House of Regents. The two Taxors were Regents appointed by the House of Regents to tax or fix the rent of the hostels and houses occupied by students, and to assist the Proctors in making the assize of bread and beer and in regulating the markets<sup>1</sup>.

An outstanding feature of the medieval University of Cambridge is the way in which the larger powers were placed in the hands of those who were actually engaged in the teaching work of the University. And when the Elizabethan Statutes of 1570, while extending the necessary period of Regency to five years, made the Masters of Arts after that time ipso facto Non-Regents, this had the effect of concentrating a great part of such authority as was not exercised by the Chancellor and Heads in the hands of the younger Masters of Arts. The House of Regents, although the junior House, was the more important House. And the Constitution, as modified in 1570, continued to govern the University until the greater changes of the 19th century.

The University, as an incorporation of students in all and every of the liberal arts and sciences, was incorporated by 13th Eliz. c. 29 under the name of "The Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University of Cambridge."

The body thus incorporated received a grant of arms, gules a cross ermine and four gold leopards with a book gules upon the cross, from Robert Cooke, Clarencieux King of Arms, 9 June 1573. The origin of the motto, Hinc lucem et pocula sacra, is not known.

The present code of Statutes for the University was approved by Queen Victoria in Council in 1882.

The legislative body of the University is called the SENATE, and the place in which it assembles is called the Senate-House. The Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor, Doctors of Divinity, Law, Medicine, Science, Letters, and Music, Bachelors of Divinity, and Masters of Arts, Law, Surgery, and Music, having their names upon the University Register, are 'members of the Senate' and have votes in this assembly. Those whose names are removed from the Register lose the right of voting, but may recover it by replacing their names on the Register and paying all University dues from the time of removal of their names, 180 days being first allowed to elapse after the replacing of the names<sup>2</sup>.

The ELECTORAL ROLL is the body of resident members of the Senate, which elects the central administrative council of the University known as the Council of the Senate. It is constituted annually in October under the Cambridge University Act of 1856 (19 and 20 Vict. c. 88), and consists of those members of the Senate who have resided within one mile and a half of Great St Mary's Church for fourteen weeks at the least between the first day of the preceding Michaelmas Term and the first day of October; together with all Officers of the University being members of the Senate, the Heads of Houses, the Professors, and the Public Examiners<sup>1</sup>.

<sup>1</sup> Fuller describes the office of Taxor as one 'of profit and credit, as employed in matters of weight, and to see the true gauge of all measures, especially such as concern the victuals of scholars: for, where the belly is abused in its food, the brains will soon be distempered in their study' (p. 25). Elsewhere (p. 109) he further develops his view of the influence of diet upon study. 'True it is that a body surfeited with food is unfit for study. Scholars, like hawks, flying best when sharp, and not full gorged.'... However, there may be a fault as well in the defect as on the excess: and there is a distention as well of wind and emptiness as of flesh and fulness, equally impeditve to a studious mind.'

The COUNCIL OF THE SENATE<sup>1</sup>, also constituted under the Cambridge University Act of 1856, consists of the Chancellor, the Vice-Chancellor, four Heads of Colleges, four Professors of the University, and eight other members of the Senate to be chosen from the Electoral Roll, such Heads of Colleges, Professors, and members of the Senate being elected by the persons whose names are on the Electoral Roll; provided always that there shall never be more than two members of the same College among the eight elected members. The members of the Council hold office for four years, but the ordinary elections are biennial, as two of the Heads of Colleges, two of the Professors, and four of the other members of the Council retire every two years. The elections for filling these vacancies take place on November 7 (or on November 8 if November 7 should be a Sunday) in the years in which the date is an even number. The principal duty of the Council of the Senate is to consider and prepare all Graces to be offered to the Senate, whether proceeding from individual members of the Senate or from Syndicates, and no Grace may be offered to the Senate without the sanction of the major part of those voting upon it in the Council. The Council also nominates to the Senate members appointed by Grace to serve on Boards, Syndicates, and other bodies.

The FINANCIAL BOARD is appointed for the care and management of the property and income of the University, and consists of the Vice-Chancellor, two members of the General Board of Studies elected by that Board, four members of the Senate elected by the Colleges in common, and four members of the Senate elected by Grace on the nomination of the Council of the Senate. Of the members of the Board elected by the Colleges in common, not more than one may belong to any one College. The members serve for four years. The quorum of the Board is five.

The GENERAL BOARD OF STUDIES consists of the Vice-Chancellor, one member of each Special Board of Studies elected by that Special Board, and eight members of the Senate elected by Grace. The members of the Board serve for four years.

It is the duty of the General Board to consult together from time to time on all matters relating to the studies and examinations of the University, including the maintenance and improvement of existing institutions, and the establishment and maintenance of new institutions. They are required to prepare, whenever it appears to them desirable, and present to the Vice-Chancellor, a report to be published by him to the University. They are also required to issue from time to time regulations and instructions in respect to the subjects and character of the lectures to be delivered, the subordination when necessary of the Readers and University Lecturers to the Professors, the extent to which in any cases discourses shall be supplemented by oral or written examinations, the times and places of lecturing, the arrangements to be made for the distribution of students among the different teachers, so as to secure classes of suitable size, and to group separately the more and less advanced students, and any other matters affecting the method of instruction to be pursued, with the view of providing suitable and efficient education in all subjects of University study for all students whether more or less advanced who may require it.

The General Board is also required to consider the schemes for lectures in every year submitted to it by the several Special Boards, and to approve the said schemes or remit them for further consideration with alterations and amendments, or, if necessary, frame schemes; provided that, in case the General Board of Studies and any of the Special Boards shall be unable to agree as to any scheme, the question shall be referred to a meeting of the members of the General Board and of the Special Board deliberating together, whose decision shall be final. When such schemes have been finally determined, the General Board presents them to the Vice-Chancellor for publication.

Readers and University Lecturers are appointed by the General Board of Studies, subject to the confirmation in every case of the Special Board with which the Readership or Lectureship is connected. If the General Board and Special Board do not agree within twelve weeks after the vacancy in the case of a Readership, or within four weeks after the General Board have communicated an appointment to the Special Board in the case of a University Lectureship (days of vacation not being reckoned in either case), the appointment lapses to the Council of the Senate.

The General Board has also certain functions in connexion with the residence of Professors and Readers within the University during term-time. The current Ordinances governing residence are printed in each annual issue of the University Calendar.

The Chancellor and six persons, called the SEX VIRI, elected singly by Grace for two years, or four at least of the number, of whom one must always be the Chancellor, adjudicate respecting all persons not in statu pupillari charged with offences against the Statutes or Ordinances of the University. They may punish offenders at their discretion, by deprivation or suspension of Degree, or any lighter sentence; but appeal may be made to the Senate within twenty-four hours after judgment given, in the manner described in Statute A, Chapter VIII.

If the Chancellor and the Sex Viri, or four at least of their number, of whom the Chancellor must be one, report to the Council of the Senate that it has been proved to their satisfaction that a Graduate of the University has been convicted of a crime for which he has been sentenced to penal servitude or imprisonment and that such crime is one which renders him unfit to be a Graduate of the University, then the Council of the Senate may propose to the Senate a Grace depriving him of his Degree or Degrees and of all privileges enjoyed by him as a Graduate of the University, and in case the Grace is approved by the Senate he is deprived accordingly.

The Chancellor and the Sex Viri have power to admonish the Orator, the Registry, the Librarian, and the Esquire Bedells, or to remove them from their offices for serious neglect of duty or for other grave misconduct. They have also power to admonish or to deprive Professors and Readers, but in such cases an appeal lies to the Senate within twenty-four hours after judgment given, in the manner described in Statute A, Chapter VIII.

The COURT OF DISCIPLINE for persons in statu pupillari consists of the Chancellor and six Heads of Colleges appointed by Grace to serve for three years in such manner that two of the six go out of office every year but are capable of re-election. No sentence involving deprivation of Degree, rustication, or expulsion is valid without the concurrence of the Chancellor and three at least of the other members of the Court.

If the Head of the College to which a person in statu pupillari charged with any offence belongs is not a member of the Court, notice must be given to him to enable him to be present as an Assessor, but he is not entitled to vote.

Regulations for the procedure of the Court must be made by the Court from time to time, subject to the approval of the Senate. The Regulations at present in force will be found in the Book of Ordinances.

ELECTORS TO PROFESSORSHIPS. In those cases in which the election to a Professorship is governed by Statute B, the election is made by a Board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two of such persons being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board of Studies to which the Professorship is assigned. With a view to the representation of opinion outside the University, one at least of the three persons nominated by the General Board, and one at least of the three persons nominated by the Special Board, are required to be persons who are not resident in the University nor officially connected with it. The members of these Boards of Electors serve for eight years, one retiring every year. No election of a Professor may be made unless two-thirds at least of the number of the existing Board be present at the time of voting; and in the final voting no election may be made unless a majority of votes of the members present be given for some one person. If no election be made within twelve weeks from the day for electing, the appointment of the Professor for that turn lapses to the Chancellor.

In the case of the Downing Professorships of the Laws of England and of Medicine the Master of Downing College is an additional Elector; and in the case of the Dixie Professorship of Ecclesiastical History the Master of Emmanuel College is an additional Elector. For the Hulsean Professorship of Divinity, the Sadleirian Professorship of Mathematics, the Whewell Professorship of International Law, the Elrington and Bosworth Professorship of Anglo-Saxon, the Slade Professorship of Fine Art, and the Quick Professorship of Biology there are specially constituted Electoral Boards. The Regius Professors of Divinity, Hebrew, and Greek are elected by the Council of the Senate; the Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity is elected by the Vice-Chancellor together with the Doctors and Bachelors of Divinity who are also members of the Senate; the Lucasian Professor of Mathematics, the Norrisian Professor of Divinity, and the Disney Professor of Archaeology are elected by the Heads of Colleges; and the Lowndean Professor of Astronomy and Geometry is chosen by certain ex officio Electors. The Regius Professors of Civil Law, of Physic, of Modern History, and the King Edward VII Professor of English Literature are appointed by the Crown.

SYNDICATES. The routine business of the University is largely managed by Committees appointed by Grace of the Senate and technically known as Syndicates. These have the right to report to the Senate on all matters within their jurisdiction, and the recommendations contained in such reports, if approved by the Senate, become Ordinances and are binding on the whole University. In addition to the permanent Syndicates, occasional Syndicates are from time to time appointed to superintend particular changes, as for instance the erection of new buildings, or to enquire into and report on particular questions of University policy or reform.

The NON-COLLEGIATE STUDENTS BOARD, for admitting and superintending students who are members of the University without being members of any College, consists of nine members of the Senate elected by Grace to serve for three years, three retiring by rotation every year. Four members form a quorum, the Chairman (or his deputy formally appointed by the Board) being one.

The BOARD OF EXAMINATIONS is charged with the general superintendence of certain University Examinations. It consists of eight members of the Senate elected by Grace to serve for four years, two of them retiring by rotation every year; and of the Chairmen of the Examiners for Part I and for Part II of the Previous Examination and for the General Examination, each serving as a member of the Board for one year from the first day of the Easter Term next following the date of his election as an Examiner.

The University is required by Statute to appoint SPECIAL BOARDS OF STUDIES for all important departments of study recognised in the University, to consist of the Professors assigned by Statute to such Boards severally, together with such Readers, University Lecturers, Examiners, and other persons as may be appointed from time to time by Grace of the Senate. The University has power to vary the number and designation of Special Boards from time to time on the recommendation of the General Board of Studies, provided that the whole number of such Boards shall never be less than eight. The University also has power to vary by Grace from time to time on the recommendation of the General Board of Studies the assignment of Professors to the several Special Boards, and to appoint any Professors ex officio members of one or more Special Boards other than those to which they shall have been severally assigned by Statute.

It is the duty of every Special Board to consult together from time to time on all matters relating to the studies and examinations of the University in its department, and to prepare, whenever it appears to them desirable, and present to the Vice-Chancellor, a report to be published by him to the University. The Board is also required, after consultation with the Professors, Readers, and University Lecturers connected with its department, to frame a scheme of lectures in every year: taking care to provide that the subject of the said lectures be determined with regard to the general objects of every particular Professorship, and so to distribute the several branches of learning in the department among the said Professors, Readers, and University Lecturers; having regard also to the regulations and instructions which the General Board of Studies may have issued. Every scheme so settled by any Special Board must be submitted to the General Board of Studies, and no scheme may be taken to be final until it has received the approval of the General Board.

Two or more Special Boards may deliberate together, and take such action in common as may appear to them desirable.

The current Regulations determining the constitution of the different Special Boards are printed in each annual issue of the University Calendar.

In addition to these 'Special' Boards, established by Statute, other Boards of Studies have been constituted by Ordinance to superintend more recent departments of study, such as Agriculture, Anthropology, Architecture, Geography, and Military Studies. There are also permanent committees with similar functions, such as the Forestry Committee and the Foreign Service Students Committee.

The COLLEGES are corporate bodies distinct from the corporate body that forms the University. They possess and manage their own property; they are self-governing and elect their own officers; and for nearly all purposes they are independent of University control. The University existed before the Colleges, but it is almost impossible now to conceive of the University apart from the Colleges, for the connexion between them is of the most intimate kind. The University is in part supported by contributions from the Colleges; certain officers of Colleges have special privileges in the University, and some Professors of the University are entitled to certain privileges and emoluments in the Colleges; and without any formal agreement to that effect the University and the Colleges do as a matter of fact recognise each other's regulations. This intimacy of connexion is explained by the fact that nearly all the members of the University belong to the Colleges, and nearly all the members of the Colleges belong to the University. Thus the same persons acting in different capacities manage the business of the Colleges and the business of the University, and so the good understanding which makes this dual organisation possible is maintained easily and without an effort.

There are seventeen Colleges and one Public Hostel in the University of Cambridge, and among these the whole of the resident undergraduates are distributed, with the exception of those who are entered as Non-Collegiate Students.

The Colleges were founded in the following order:

(1) PETERHOUSE or ST PETER'S COLLEGE, founded in 1284 by Hugh of Balsham, Bishop of Ely.

(2) CLARE COLLEGE, founded in 1326 by the Lady Elizabeth, sister and co-heir of Gilbert, Earl of Clare.

(3) PEMBROKE COLLEGE, founded in 1347 by Mary de S. Pol, the widow of Aymer de Valence, Earl of Pembroke.

(4) GONVILLE AND CAIUS COLLEGE, founded in 1348 as Gonville Hall by Edmund Gonville, Rector of Terrington, Norfolk, and refounded in 1557 by John Caius.

(5) TRINITY HALL, founded in 1350 by William Bateman, Bishop of Norwich.

(6) CORPUS CHRISTI COLLEGE, founded in 1352 by the united Gilds of Corpus Christi and the Blessed Virgin Mary.

(7) KING'S COLLEGE, founded in 1441 by King Henry VI.

(8) QUEENS' COLLEGE, founded in 1448 by Queen Margaret of Anjou, consort of Henry VI, and refounded in 1465 by Elizabeth Widville consort of Edward IV.

(9) ST CATHARINE'S COLLEGE, founded in 1473 by Robert Woodlark, Chancellor of the University and Provost of King's.

(10) JESUS COLLEGE, founded in 1496 by John Alcock, Bishop of Ely.

(11) CHRIST'S COLLEGE, founded in 1505 by the Lady Margaret, Countess of Richmond and Derby, mother of King Henry VII.

(12) ST JOHN'S COLLEGE, founded in 1511 by the same Foundress, and dedicated in honour of St John the Evangelist.

(13) MAGDALENE COLLEGE, founded in 1542 by Thomas, Baron Audley of Walden.

(14) TRINITY COLLEGE, founded in 1546 by King Henry VIII.

(15) EMMANUEL COLLEGE, founded in 1584 by Sir Walter Mildmay, Queen Elizabeth's Chancellor of the Exchequer.

(16) SIDNEY SUSSEX COLLEGE, founded in 1596 under the Will of the Lady Frances Sidney, Countess Dowager of Sussex.

(17) DOWNING COLLEGE, founded in 1800 under the Will of Sir George Downing, Bart., of Gamlingay Park in the County of Cambridge.

SELWYN COLLEGE, a Public Hostel, was founded by public subscription in 1882 in memory of George Augustus Selwyn, late Bishop of Lichfield and formerly Bishop of New Zealand.

NON-COLLEGIATE STUDENTS were first admitted to the University in 1869, and in 1892 Fitzwilliam Hall was acquired to serve as the centre of their corporate life.

The ultimate responsibility for the administration of a College rests upon its Head. The Head of King's College is styled PROVOST; of Queens', PRESIDENT; and of every other College, MASTER. But a large part of the actual business of a College devolves of necessity upon certain College Officers, who are as a rule selected from the general body of the FELLOWS of the College. Of these the most important from the point of view of the undergraduate are (1) the PRESIDENT or VICE-MASTER, who presides over the High Table in Hall, acts as the Master's deputy in his absence, and sometimes discharges other important functions; (2) one or more TUTORS, whose duty it is to advise their pupils (to whom they stand in loco parentis) not only about their studies, but also on every kind of problem arising out of College and University life on which a young man is likely to need counsel; the Tutor also represents undergraduates in their dealings with the University, controls the educational and business arrangements arising out of their relation to the College, and exercises a large and undefined disciplinary authority; (3) one or more DEANS, who are responsible for the services in the College Chapel<sup>1</sup>, and usually also for College discipline; (4) a staff of LECTURERS, who undertake College teaching; (5) one or more BURSARS<sup>2</sup>, who have control of the College property; (6) a STEWARD, who superintends the College commissariat and is responsible for the Hall and Kitchen<sup>3</sup>; (7) a PRAELECTOR (or Father of the College), who presents its members for degrees; and (8) a LIBRARIAN. Some Colleges have also (9) an ORGANIST.

Besides the Head, Fellows, and College Officers, who constitute what is known as 'the Society,' each College may include among its members the following:

1. NOBLEMEN GRADUATES<sup>4</sup>, DOCTORS in the several faculties, BACHELORS IN DIVINITY, MASTERS OF ARTS, MASTERS OF LAW, and MASTERS OF SURGERY, who are not on the foundation.

2. BACHELORS OF ARTS, LAW, MEDICINE, and SURGERY.

3. FELLOW-COMMONERS, whom the University Calendar has been accustomed to describe as 'the younger sons of the nobility, or young men of fortune' who 'have the privilege of dining at the Fellows' table, whence the appellation originated.'

4. SCHOLARS, who are generally foundation members of their respective Colleges, and who enjoy various advantages in conformity with the conditions of their foundation. They are for the most part elected, by direct examination or otherwise, at different periods either prior or subsequent to the commencement of their residence at the University, from the most promising and distinguished students.

5. PENSIONERS, who form the great body of the students, and pay for their commons, chambers, &c., in full.

6. SIZARS are generally students of limited means. They usually have their commons free, or an equivalent allowance, and receive various emoluments.

<sup>1</sup> Some Colleges have one or more CHAPLAINS in addition to the Dean, who may be, although he is not usually, a layman.

University Offices<sup>1</sup>

CHANCELLOR

THE office of Chancellor is held 'in accordance with the ancient laws and customs of the University' for 'two years complete' or for such a length of time beyond two years as the tacit consent of the University permits. The longer tenures begin with Bishop Fisher's Chancellorship, 1504—35, and from that time the practice of electing magnates appears to have been regularly adopted.

The election of a Chancellor is governed by Statute A, c. iv. § 1, which provides that when a vacancy of the office is certainly known to the Vice-Chancellor, he shall call a Congregation as soon as possible, and 'openly declare the fact through the Senior Proctor,' and assign a day, not before the seventh nor after the twelfth day next following, for another Congregation for the election of a new Chancellor. The election must be completed before the fifteenth day after that on which the vacancy was declared. If the vacancy becomes known in the Vacation after the end of the Easter Term, the Congregation for declaring the vacancy and assigning the day of election is held on the first day of the Michaelmas Term ensuing. On the day assigned for the election the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors stand in scrutiny. They first give their own votes in writing, and then take the votes in writing of all other persons present who have the right of voting. The person for whom the greatest number of votes is given is declared by the Vice-Chancellor to be elected. An instrument of election of the Chancellor must be sealed and delivered to him without delay. Under § 32 of the Cambridge University Act of 1856 the University may provide by statute that members of the Senate may vote at the election of a Chancellor by proxy.

<sup>1</sup> For the University offices and their holders reference should be made to Dr John Caius's History of the University, to Matthew Stokys's Book, to Richard Parker's History and Antiquities of the University of Cambridge, and to Fuller's History of the University, edited by Prickett and Wright. Lists of office-holders, compiled by Romilly and brought up to date by Luard, are printed at the end of their editions of the Graduati, but these are not in all cases correct or complete, although on the whole, as might be expected, they maintain a high level of accuracy.

Where not otherwise stated, the footnotes to the names in the following lists are from the Dictionary of National Biography. Fellows of Colleges are so described, but the almost impossible task has not been attempted of distinguishing between past Fellows and those who were actually Fellows at the time of their appointment to the University offices concerned.

In dating appointments, the New Style has been adopted throughout.

The more general powers of the Chancellor are thus described in Statute A, c. v. § 1:

The Chancellor shall have power to call Congregations, to admit candidates to degrees and to reject those who have not fulfilled the required conditions, to see that all officers of the University duly perform their duties and to punish members in statu pupillari for disobedience to the Statutes or Ordinances of the University by suspension of Degree or other lighter sentence at his discretion. The Chancellor shall decide whether or not any person charged with any offence shall be prosecuted in his Court. The Chancellor shall have the custody of the box in which the University Seal is kept. The box shall have two keys of different make, one of which shall be kept by the Chancellor and the other by the Registrar, and they shall not allow the seal to be affixed to any document without the authority of a Grace of the Senate. Except where it is otherwise specially provided, in case of an equality of votes at an election under the Statutes of the University or on a question at a meeting where the Chancellor presides he shall have a second or casting vote. Except where it is otherwise specially provided, whatsoever in the Statutes of the University is authorised to be done by the Chancellor may be done by the Vice-Chancellor in his absence, or even when the office of Chancellor is vacant.

The fabulous history of the University which assigned its foundation to Cantaber and recognised the Greek philosophers Anaximander and Anaxagoras among its earlier Tutors, commenced the list of Chancellors in A.D. 289 with Amphibalus the Martyr. The following list begins, however, with the earliest Chancellor of which there is any record.

ELECTED

- <sup>1</sup> [1246] Hugh de Hottun.
- 1256 Reginald de Gerninghall.
- 1257 Stephen de Hepworth, M.A. Benefactor.

<sup>4</sup> As Chancellor, Robert Fitzhugh delivered a speech which was much admired for the elegance of its Latinity. He proposed as a remedy for the decrease of students at the University that the richer English benefices should be bestowed solely on graduates of Cambridge and Oxford.

<sup>5</sup> Sir T. D. Hardy's edition of Le Neve's Fasti (iii. 600) inserts Nicolas Swaffham as elected in 1435.

<sup>6</sup> The same authority inserts Thomas Bourchier as elected 'circa 1443.' Bourchier had been Chancellor of the University of Oxford from 1434-7, and Bishop of Worcester 1434-43. He was not confirmed in the bishopric of Ely, an appointment which would have brought him within reach of Cambridge, until 1444. He was afterwards Archbishop of Canterbury (1454), Lord Chancellor (1456), and Cardinal (1467). His intimate connexion with Cambridge is, however, shewn by his benefaction of a chest.

<sup>4</sup> In Luard's Appendix to the Graduati (p. 598) Fisher appears as Chancellor in 1501, but as he was Vice-Chancellor in that year this seems improbable, and it is not supported by the authorities, nor is there any record to this effect in the Registry. Of this, the first election of a Chancellor for life, Fuller (p. 175) writes: 'The University perceived it was troublesome every year to choose a new Chancellor: wherefore, having now pitched on a person of much merit for the place, (so that they could not change but to loss) this year they concluded his continuance therein for term of life, which act of the University was anno 1514 more solemnly confirmed' (see note 5).

<sup>5</sup> In 1513, on Wolsey's promotion to the see of Lincoln, Fisher offered to retire from the office of Chancellor in his favour. Wolsey, however, declined the honour, and Fisher was re-elected.

<sup>6</sup> Northumberland was at the same time High Steward of the Borough. 'two offices,' says Fuller (p. 250), 'which never before or since met in the same person.'

<sup>7</sup> Charles, Duke of York, afterwards Charles I, was also considered for the office. For an account of the election see Cooper, Annals, iii. 47 and Fuller, p. 305. Bacon chose Northampton 'as the learnedest councillor' of the kingdom to present his 'Advancement of Learning' to James I.

VICE-CHANCELLOR

THE old University Statutes<sup>7</sup> required that the Chancellor should reside. He was not to be absent for more than a month between the beginning of the Michaelmas Term and the beginning of the Long Vacation, and if he was absent more than fifteen days the nomination of a Vice-Chancellor (vicarius) passed from him to the House of Regents<sup>8</sup>. The result of the practice of electing magnate Chancellors who were non-resident was to

<sup>3</sup> Sir T. D. Hardy's edition of Le Neve's Fasti (iii. 602) gives under date 1688 George Legge, Lord Dartmouth, viz the Duke of Albemarle. There seems to be no authority for this. After Albemarle's death in 1688 James II directed the University to appoint Lord Dartmouth as his successor, but no election took place until 15 Dec. 1688, when William Sancroft, Archbishop of Canterbury, was elected Chancellor, but he declined to accept the honour.

<sup>5</sup> As Chancellor he was instrumental in appointing the poet Gray to the Regius Professorship of Modern History.

increase the importance of the Vice-Chancellor, for with a non-resident Chancellor he holds office continuously. This point is noted by Fuller<sup>1</sup>, who under date 1417 remarks, 'The Chancellors of Cambridge being lately either persons of noble birth or great employment, whose occasions often caused their absence, it was fashionable henceforward to substitute Vice-Chancellors in their room.'

The election of the Vice-Chancellor is now governed by Statute A, c. iv. § 2:

The Vice-Chancellor shall be elected yearly some time before he enters upon his office, and the day of election and the day of entering upon office in every year shall be prescribed by Grace from time to time as the University may find expedient.

On the day preceding the day of election the Council of the Senate shall assemble in the Senate House. The Members of the Council in order of seniority of Degree shall severally nominate one of the Heads of Colleges for the office. They shall then severally mark two of the persons so nominated for election. The two persons to be proposed to the Senate for election must be so marked that in a first, or second, or third scrutiny each of them has more marks than any of the other persons nominated. If in none of these three scrutinies two, but in the third scrutiny one, shall be found to have the required greater number of marks, the Regius Professor of Divinity, or, if he be a member of the Council, the Vice-Chancellor of the next preceding year who is not a member of the Council, shall nominate one of the persons who have each an equal number of marks next less than the highest.

If in the third scrutiny neither two nor one of the persons nominated be found to have more marks than any other, the said Regius Professor, or the said Vice-Chancellor of a preceding year, shall nominate two of those who have each an equal number of marks greater than any other.

The Chancellor shall on the same day publish the names of the two persons thus nominated to the members of the Senate.

On the next day the election of the Vice-Chancellor shall be made as follows:

The Proctors shall stand in scrutiny with the two senior Doctors then present in the Senate House, or if no Doctors be present, the two senior Bachelors of Divinity present. They shall first give their own votes in writing and then take the votes in writing of all persons present who have the right of voting. That one of the two persons nominated, for whom the greater number of votes is given, shall be declared to be elected.

If the election of a Vice-Chancellor becomes void before the day of entering upon office by the death of the person elected, or by any other cause, or if the office of Vice-Chancellor becomes vacant during his year of office, a new Vice-Chancellor shall be elected as nearly as possible in the same manner, as soon as possible after certain knowledge of the vacancy.

The Vice-Chancellor may nominate one or more Deputies at his discretion.

The Vice-Chancellor's year of office formerly commenced at the beginning of November, but in 1884 the experiment was tried of making it coincide with the civil year and begin in January. In 1889, however, the academical year was adopted, and the Vice-Chancellor now enters upon office at or about October 1. The Regulations at present prescribing the day of election and the day of entering upon office will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar.

By Grace of May 3, 1815, a stipend of £400 was attached to the office, and a Grace of Nov. 26, 1908, empowered the Vice-Chancellor to spend in each year a sum not exceeding £50 for additional clerical assistance.

By a determination made in 1599 by the Earl of Essex, Chancellor of the University, in his capacity of Earl Marshal of England, and 'judge' of 'all places and precedencies,' the Vice-Chancellor of Cambridge is to be in commission before the Mayor<sup>1</sup>. This decision was supported in 1606 by a royal letter addressed by James I to the Lord Chancellor<sup>2</sup>, and in 1612 by an Order in Council<sup>3</sup>, in which reference was made to 'the example of almost 200 years.' In 1647 also the general question of the right of precedence came before the House of Lords, and judgment was given in favour of the Vice-Chancellor and his successors<sup>4</sup>. The same view was taken by the House of Commons in 1666 when they amended a bill by inserting the Vice-Chancellor before the Mayor<sup>5</sup>. The Town has, however, always pleaded ancient usage to the contrary, and although in 1705 the Mayor, under the pressure of a Grace discommuning him, admitted the claim of the University<sup>6</sup>, it was still being resisted a hundred years later<sup>7</sup>. The Municipal Corporations Acts of 1835 and 1882 both assigned to Mayors precedence in all places within their respective Boroughs, but in both Acts the rights of the two older Universities were reserved by a special clause, that in the Act of 1882 being as follows: 'Nothing in this Act shall entitle the Mayors of Oxford and Cambridge respectively to any precedence over the Vice-Chancellors of those Universities respectively.' This enactment accordingly preserves the previous rights as to precedence—whatever they may be. Fortunately the old dispute no longer arouses the old ill-feeling.

 1504 John Smith, again.
 1505 Richard Burton, D.D. Archdeacon of Worcester, 1479.
 1506 John Eccleston, D.D., Master of Jesus.
 1507 William Robson, D.D.
 1508 William Buckenham<sup>3</sup>, D.D. Master of Gonville Hall, 1513.
 1509 The same.
 1510 Thomas Thompson, D.D., Master of Christ's.
 1511 The same.
 1512 John Fawne, D.D., Vice-President of Queens'. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1515.
 1513 The same.
 1514 John Eccleston, again.
 1515 The same.
 1516 Robert Dowsing (or Dussing), D.D.
 1517 Edmund Natures (or Natares), D.D., Master of Clare Hall.
 1518 John Watson, D.D., Master of Christ's.
 1519 The same.
 1520 Edmund Natures (or Natares), again.
 1521 Thomas Stackhouse, D.D., Master of Michaelhouse.
 1522 John Edmunds, D.D. Master of Peterhouse, 1523.

 1531 The same.
 1532 Simon Heynes, D.D., President of Queens'. Dean of Exeter, 1537.
 1533 The same.
 1534 John Crayford<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Master of Clare Hall. Canon of Cardinal College, Oxford, 1525. D.D. 1535. Archdeacon of Berks, 1545. Master of University College, Oxford, 1546.

<sup>3</sup> When Vice-Chancellor, he compiled a collection of documents relating to the University known as the Old Black Book (Cooper, Athenae Cantabrigienses, i. 72). This is probably the book still preserved in the Registry, and called the 'Black parchment book.'

<sup>4</sup> 'Hitherto,' says Fuller (p. 215), 'none were chosen Vice-Chancellors of the University save such who before their election were actual doctors. Crayford was the first who innovated herein, being Vice-Chancellor before a doctor.' He adds, quoting Dr Calus, that he was 'gladiator melior quam Procancelarius,' 'who in a fury cut off the hand from one Pindar, and cast out a fellow out of the Regent House, catching him up on his shoulders by main force.'

ELECTED

- 1535 The same.

 1568 John Young, D.D., Master of Pembroke Hall. Canon of Windsor, 1572. Bishop of Rochester, 1578.

ELECTED

- 1569 John May, D.D., Master of Catharine Hall. Archdeacon of the East Riding, 1569. Bishop of Carlisle, 1577.
 1570 John Whitgift, D.D., Master of Trinity. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1563; Regius Professor, 1567. Dean of Lincoln, 1571. Bishop of Worcester, 1577. Archbishop of Canterbury, 1583.
 1571 Roger Kelke, again.
 1572 Thomas Bynge, LL.D., Master of Clare Hall. Public Orator, 1565. Regius Professor of Civil Law, 1574. Dean of Arches, 1595.
 1573 John Whitgift, again.
 1574 Andrew Perne, again.
 1575 John Still, D.D., Master of St John's. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1570. Master of Trinity, 1577. Archdeacon of Sudbury, 1577. Bishop of Bath and Wells, 1593.
 1576 Roger Goad, D.D., Provost of King's.
 1577 Richard Howland, B.D., Master of St John's. Master of Magdalene, 1576. D.D. 1578. Bishop of Peterborough, 1584.
 1578 Thomas Bynge, again.
 1579 John Hatcher, M.D., Fellow of St John's. Regius Professor of Physic, c. 1554?
 1580 Andrew Perne, again.
 1581 William Fulke, D.D., Master of Pembroke Hall.
 1582 John Bell, D.D., Master of Jesus. Dean of Ely, 1589.
 1583 Richard Howland, again.
 1584 Robert Norgate, D.D., Master of Corpus.
 1585 Humphrey Tindall, D.D., President of Queens'. Dean of Ely, 1591.
 1586 John Copcot, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Master of Corpus, 1587.

'Dr Copcot,' says Fuller (p. 281), 'when chosen Vice-Chancellor, was only Fellow of Trinity College, within which he gave upper hand to Doctor Still (then Master) but took it out of him when out of the walls of the College; but before the year ended he was chosen Master of Bene't College, and an act made amongst the Doctors that "for the time to come none but heads of houses should be chosen Vice-Chancellors."' This explains the change in the form of the lists<sup>1</sup>.

ELECTED

- 1587 Thomas Legge, LL.D., Caius.
 1588 Thomas Nevile, D.D., Magdalene. Master of Trinity, 1593.
 1589 Thomas Preston, LL.D., Trinity Hall.
 1590 Robert Soame, D.D., Peterhouse.
 1591 The same.
 1592 John Still<sup>2</sup>, again.
 Thomas Legge, again.

 1614 The Bishop of Chichester [see 1606].
 1615 Owen Gwyn, D.D., St John's.

<sup>1</sup> It will also be noticed that cross-references to other University offices held by Vice-Chancellors are no longer given.

 1687 (17 May) John Balderston, D.D., Emmanuel.
     (4 Nov.) The Hon. John Montagu,
     D.D., Trinity.
 1688 John Covell, D.D., Christ's.
 1689 James Johnson, D.D., Sidney.

<sup>3</sup> On April 1, 1632, 'being Easter Day,' Dr Henry Butts, Vice-Chancellor, hung himself in his chamber at Corpus Christi College, of which he was Master (Cooper, Annals, iii. 251). He had been conducting a strenuous and heroic struggle against the plague.

<sup>5</sup> Whilst he was Vice-Chancellor he was very zealous for the conversion of the Indians and propagating the gospel in America, and promoted that design very vigorously with the assistance of the Heads' (Baker, p. 220).

 1764 John Barnardiston, D.D., Corpus.
 1765 William Samuel Powell, D.D., St John's.
 1766 John Smith, D.D., Caius.
 1767 [Sir] James Marriott, LL.D., Trinity Hall. Judge of the Court of Admiralty, 1778.
 1768 John Hinchliffe, D.D., Trinity. Bishop of Peterborough, 1769.
 1769 William Richardson, again.
 1770 John Sumner, again.
 1771 James Brown, D.D., Pembroke.
 1772 William Cooke, D.D., King's.
 1773 Lynford Caryl, again.
 1774 Hon. Barton Wallop<sup>7</sup>, M.A., Magdalene.
 1775 Richard Farmer<sup>8</sup>, D.D., Emmanuel.

1 The proceedings against Bentley in 1731 were taken before his predecessor in the office of Vice-Chancellor, then Bishop of Ely.

2 During his Vice-Chancellorship, Sherlock arranged the University archives, and vindicated the rights of the University against Bentley, then Archdeacon of Ely, who nicknamed him 'Alberoni.'

3 Matthias Mawson's term of office as Vice-Chancellor was signalised by 'several useful reforms.' 'Academic exercises were made more stringent and orderly; capricious migration from College to College was checked; and the practice of exhuming bodies from the neighbouring churchyard for dissection by students of medicine was prohibited.'

4 Founder of the Smith's Prizes. See also p. 87, note 2.

5 As an amateur architect of some skill and reputation in the University, Burroughs had a considerable share in the Cambridge buildings of the time, and especially in the Senate House.

6 He was a fairly good scholar, and the story that he introduced into his Vice-Chancellor's speech the line 'Rogerus immemor Robèrtum denotat hebètem' is probably a calumny.

7 A son of the Earl of Portsmouth.

8 During his term of office the University voted an address to the King in support of the policy of the Government towards America. A member of the Caput, however, refused to give up the key of the place containing the University seal, whereupon Farmer forced the door with a sledge-hammer. See Gunning, i. 173.

 1853 Thomas Charles Geldart, LL.D., Trinity Hall.
 1854 Edwin Guest, LL.D., Caius.
 1855 William Whewell, D.D., Trinity, again.
 1856 Henry Philpott, D.D., St Catharine's, again.
 1857 The same.

<sup>1</sup> He was about 70 when re-elected, and declined to serve on the ground of ill-health, and a Grace was brought forward to excuse him on his paying £100 by way of mulct: Cole says that he opposed this, and adds that it was superfluous, for being over 60 he was exempt from any such service (Pelle's History of Christ's College, p. 242).

<sup>2</sup> Sir James Marriott declined office, claiming exemption on the ground that he was a Judge of the Court of Admiralty (see Gunning, Reminiscences, i. 125).

<sup>6</sup> In November, 1798, addresses were voted by the University and the Corporation congratulating the King on the battle of the Nile. 'It unfortunately happened that several of our deputation were not particularly well calculated to make a good figure in a procession. The Vice-Chancellor was a martyr to the gout, and so extremely deaf that he never knew whether he was speaking in a high or low tone. Dr Douglas had but one eye and was a perfect skeleton. The Registrar (George Borlase) was afflicted with black jaundice; and Broderip, of King's, was just recovering from yellow jaundice. Another of the deputation was a cripple, but I cannot just now remember his name' (Gunning, Reminiscences, ii. 104).

<sup>11</sup> 'After his election he invited, according to ancient custom, the members of the Senate to drink wine with him. The numbers had for some years been decreasing, but the Vice-Chancellor's wine bore so high a character that there was a strong muster on this occasion. Chafy's covetousness (which in many respects was almost inconceivable), did not extend to his entertainments' (Gunning, Reminiscences, ii. 369).

ELECTED

- 1858 William Henry Bateson, D.D., St John's.
 1859 Hon. Latimer Neville, M.A., Magdalen. Lord Braybrooke, 1902.

 1908 Arthur James Mason, D.D., Pembroke.
 1909 The same.
 1910 Robert Forsyth Scott, M.A., St John's.

HIGH STEWARD

THE election of the High Steward is to be made 'in the manner prescribed for the election of the Chancellor.' His functions are described on p. 64 below.

ELECTED

- 1418 Thomas Lopham.
 *? Sir Reginald Bray. High Steward of the University of Oxford, 1494.
 1504 Sir Roger Ormston.
 1504 Sir John Mordaunt. Speaker of the House of Commons, 1487.
 1504 Sir Richard Empson. Speaker of the House of Commons, 1491.
 1509 Sir Thomas Lovell. Speaker of the House of Commons, 1485. President of the Council, 1502. High Steward of the University of Oxford, 1509?
 1524 Sir Richard Winkfield (or Wingfield).
 1525 Sir Thomas More, Canterbury Hall<sup>5</sup>, Oxford. Speaker of the House of Commons, 1523. Lord Chancellor of England, 1529.
 ?1529 William Blount, Baron Mountjoy<sup>6</sup>.
 1534 Thomas Cromwell. Chancellor of the Exchequer, 1533. High Steward, 1534. King's Secretary, 1534. Master of the Rolls, 1534. Vicar-General, 1535. Chancellor of the University, 1535. Lord Privy Seal, 1536. Baron Cromwell, 1536. Dean of Wells, 1537. Earl of Essex, 1540. Executed, 1540.
 1540 Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk<sup>7</sup>. Lord High Admiral, 1513. Lord High Treasurer of England, 1522. Earl Marshal, 1533.

1 The date of the Vice-Chancellor's entering upon office was changed from November to January, and Dr Porter was not succeeded by Dr Ferrers until Jan. 10, 1884. This accounts for the missing year, 1883.

2 The date of the Vice-Chancellor's entering upon office was this year changed from January to October. Dr Searle was re-elected and held office from January until October 1889, when Dr Butler succeeded him. This explains why there were two Vice-Chancellors in 1889.

3 Sir Reginald Bray was appointed at some uncertain date before 1503.

4 Both Sir Roger Ormston and Sir John Mordaunt died in 1504.

5 Canterbury Hall was afterwards merged in Christ Church.

6 Lord Mountjoy was a famous patron of learning, who studied in Paris under Erasmus, and brought him to England in 1498. For some years Erasmus was domiciled in Mountjoy's house, and during the whole of his stay in England he was largely dependent upon his bounty.

7 The name of his son, Henry, Earl of Surrey, the poet, was joined with his in the patent of appointment. Surrey was executed and Norfolk imprisoned in 1547, and from that date until his release in 1553 the duties of his office were discharged by Sir William Paget, afterwards Lord Paget of Beaudesert. In 1553 the Duke resumed office, and held it until his death in the following year.

ELECTED

- 1554 William Paget, Baron Paget of Beaudesert, Trinity Hall. King's Secretary, 1543. Lord Privy Seal, 1556.
 1563 Lord Robert Dudley. Earl of Leicester, 1564. Chancellor of the University of Oxford, 1564.
 1588 Sir Christopher Hatton, St Mary Hall, Oxford. Lord Chancellor of England, 1587. Chancellor of the University of Oxford, 1588.
 1591 Sir Robert Cecil. Queen's Secretary, 1596. Baron Cecil, 1603; Viscount Cranborne, 1604; Earl of Salisbury, 1605. Lord High Treasurer of England, 1608.
 1601 Thomas Howard, Baron Howard de Walden, St John's. Earl of Suffolk, 1603. M.A. 1605. Lord High Treasurer of England, 1614. Chancellor of the University, 1614.
 1614 Sir Edward Coke<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Trinity. University Counsel, 1586. Chief Justice of the King's Bench, 1613.
 1634 Henry Montagu, Earl of Manchester, Christ's. Chief Justice of the King's Bench, 1616. Lord High Treasurer of England, 1620.
 1642 Thomas Wriothesley, Earl of Southampton, Magdalen College, Oxford. Lord High Treasurer of England, 1660.
 1667 William Craven, Earl of Craven, M.A.
 1697 Charles Montagu, Earl of Manchester, M.A., Trinity. Secretary of State, 1702. Duke of Manchester, 1719.
 1722 Arthur Annesley, Earl of Anglesey, M.A., Magdalene. M.P. for the University, 1702, 1705, 1708.
 1737 Thomas Holles Pelham, Duke of Newcastle, LL.D., Clare. Secretary of State, 1724. Chancellor of the University, 1748. First Lord of the Treasury, 1754. Lord Privy Seal, 1765.
 1749 Philip Yorke, Baron Hardwicke. University Counsel, 1724. LL.D. 1753. Lord Chancellor of England, 1737. Earl of Hardwicke, 1754.
 1764 Philip Yorke, Earl of Hardwicke, LL.D., Corpus.
 1790 Right Hon. William Pitt, M.A., Pembroke. M.P. for the University, 1784—1806.
 1806 Philip Yorke, Earl of Hardwicke, M.A., Queens'.
 1834 Hugh Percy, Duke of Northumberland, LL.D., St John's. Chancellor of the University, 1840.
 1840 John Singleton Copley, Baron Lyndhurst, LL.D., Fellow of Trinity<sup>2</sup>. M.P. for the University, 1826. Lord Chancellor of England, 1827. Chief Baron of the Exchequer, 1831.
 1863 Edward James Herbert, Earl of Powis, LL.D., St John's.
 1891 Thomas de Grey, Baron Walsingham, M.A., Trinity. LL.D. 1891.

DEPUTY HIGH STEWARD

The Deputy High Steward is appointed by the High Steward by Letters Patent; but the appointment is subject to the approval of the Senate.

- <sup>3</sup> 1806 Thomas Harrison, M.A., Fellow of Queens'. Commissary, 1814.
 1824 John Lodge Hubbersty<sup>4</sup>, M.D., Fellow of Queens'. Recorder of Lancaster.
 1835 The same reappointed.
 1839 John Cowling, M.A., Fellow of St John's. University Counsel, 1841.
 1840 The same reappointed.
 1856 Francis Barlow, M.A., Fellow of Trinity Hall.
 1863 The same reappointed.
 1887 Right Hon. Spencer Horatio Walpole, LL.D., Trinity. Home Secretary, 1852, 1858-9, 1866. M.P. for the University, 1856-82.
 1892 The same reappointed.
 1899[—1913] [Right Hon.] Alfred Lyttelton, M.A., Trinity. Recorder of Hereford, 1894. Recorder of Oxford, 1895—1903. Secretary of State for the Colonies, 1903-5. Privy Councillor, 1903.

<sup>3</sup> As a stipend of £4 a year is paid to the Deputy High Steward, it would be possible to complete this list by research into the University accounts, but the result would scarcely repay the labour involved. A list in the Registry, however, contains the following earlier names:—1549, George Frenyle [Freville?]; 1566, Edward? Stanhope, M.A.; 1609, Israel Frere. George Freville was Recorder of Cambridge, 1553, and a Baron of the Exchequer, 1559-79. Edward Stanhope may possibly be the elder brother of Sir Edward Stanhope, Fellow of Trinity, 1564, also named Edward and educated at Trinity; he was Recorder of Doncaster. Gunning (i. 211) also mentions John Fisher, LL.D., Fellow of Christ's, as appointed Deputy High Steward c. 1790. He was also Commissary (see p. 33 below).

<sup>4</sup> He was described in the Gazette as "Fellow of Queens', Master of Arts, Doctor of Medicine, Barrister-at-Law, Recorder of Lancaster, a Cotton Spinner, and a Bankrupt" (Gunning, Reminiscences, i. 264).

REPRESENTATIVES IN PARLIAMENT

JAMES I., by his Charter in the first year of his reign, granted power to the Chancellors, Masters, and Scholars of the two Universities, to elect and return two persons in each, to represent them in Parliament. Whenever there is a vacancy in the representation, the Sheriff sends the precept to the Vice-Chancellor, who proceeds to election within six days after receipt of it, giving three clear days' notice at least of the day of election. At the time of election the two Proctors stand in scrutiny with the Vice-Chancellor, who is the returning officer. The members of the Senate give their votes in writing in person or by voting papers tendered for them.

PROCTORS

'PROCTORS' or 'rectors' are first mentioned in a Grace dated July 8, 1275<sup>1</sup>, and their names are on record, with a few lacunae, from 1314 to the present time.

In earlier times it was their duty to regulate the hours of disputing and lecturing, of burial services, inceptions, and festivals, and to act for the University in all kinds of business. They destroyed bad herrings exposed for sale, bought vestments, bell-ropes, and candlesticks, and had charge of the University Chest. They also patrolled the streets to repress disturbances, and exercised jurisdiction over improper persons<sup>2</sup>. The decline of the office from its earlier position of great importance is referred to on p. 4 above; but by the Cambridge Award Act of 1856 the exemption of the Proctors and their men from the summary jurisdiction of the Justices of the Peace is expressly recognised, and the Cambridge University and Corporation Act of 1894 gives them the powers of constables and authorises them to enter licensed premises and places of public entertainment.

The insignia of the proctorial office are, for the Senior Proctor a lintstock and a small partizan, and for the Junior Proctor a halberd. The halberd is a ceremonial weapon only, but it may be as early as late 16th century, and may perhaps be identified with the halberd presented to the University in 1591 by John Townsend, a member of Trinity. The lintstock probably belongs to the 18th century. Associated with these is an instrument commonly called a 'butter measure' and supposed to be used for 'regulating the yard of butter'; it is also said to be an apparatus for measuring liquids in casks<sup>3</sup>. The weapons and the measure are brought to the Senate House when the incoming Vice-Chancellor is to be installed by the Proctors at the beginning of the academical year. The Proctors also carry clasped books, dating from 1785, which contain the earlier University Statutes.

The nomination of the Proctors is vested in the Colleges. In every year two Colleges nominate persons for Proctors in the order prescribed in the following cycle of 50 years. The earliest proctorial cycle was established by a statute of August 11, 1514.

Each of the two Colleges nominates one person, who must be a member of the Senate of at least three years' standing, and must have resided in the University for the major part of each of three terms during the preceding two years. He must be presented to the Vice-Chancellor, in the presence of the Registrary, by the Head of his College, or by some one in his name, before the end of the Easter Term.

If the office becomes vacant before the expiration of the year, Trinity Hall nominates a Proctor for the remainder.

The Proctors are elected by the Senate on the first day of the Michaelmas Term. The Regulations governing the election will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar. The stipend of each office is at present (1915), £250. The Proctor's men each receive £25 a year and a livery (see p. 197) provided by the University.

11 1519-20. 'Hoc anno procurator Junior homo statura procerus et vultu decorus intra quindenam a tempore suo electionis hac vita defunctus est cuius anime proficietur deus' (Grace-Book B 11, p. 76). This year the Junior Proctor was chosen by King's College.

12 Master of Clare, 1530.

13 During his Proctorship he was indicted for homicide 'ex pura malicia oppidanorum' (Grace-Book B 11, p. 113).

14 Provost of Eton, 1536. Bishop of Carlisle, 1537. An entry in the Proctor's Book for 1527, 'Magistro Aldryg pro tribus literis missis ad dominum regem, 10c.' (Grace-Book B 11, p. 136) has been regarded as evidence of his special skill in composition.

15 Master of St John's, 1538. Dean of Lincoln, 1544; Bishop of Lincoln, 1552.

16 Master of Pembroke, 1540. Bishop of Rochester, 1547; of London, 1550; burned as a heretic at Oxford 16 Oct. 1555. See also p. 51, note 4.

1573 Richard Bridgewater, Fellow of King's.
Lancelot Browne<sup>24</sup>, Fellow of Pembroke.
1574 John Cragge, Fellow of Queens'.
Luke Gilpin, Fellow of Trinity.
1575 Thomas Randall, Fellow of St John's.
David Yale, Fellow of Queens'.
1576 Arthur Purefye, Fellow of Peterhouse.
Thomas Pattinson, Fellow of Christ's.
1577 Osmond Lakes, Fellow of King's.
Nicholas Steer, Clare.
1578 William Farrand, Fellow of Trinity.
Richard Willowbye, Fellow of Corpus.
1579 William Lakyn, Fellow of St John's.
John Bradley<sup>25</sup>, Peterhouse.
1580 Thomas Nevile (or Nevell)<sup>26</sup>, Fellow of Pembroke.
John Duport<sup>27</sup>, Fellow of Jesus.
1581 John Jegon<sup>28</sup>, Fellow of Queens'.
Robert Liless, Fellow of King's.

1 Master of St Catharine's, 1554.

3 Master of Pembroke, 1559. Bishop of London, 1588; Archbishop of Canterbury, 1576.

4 Master of Jesus, 1560.

6 Provost of King's, 1558.

8 Master of Christ's, 1559.

9 Bishop of Bangor, 1566.

2 Master of Peterhouse, 1554. Dean of Ely, 1557.

5 Master of St John's, 1554.

7 Fellow of Christ's, 1552.

10 Master of Clare, 1557.

11 In 1557 a new cycle of Proctors begins, with the Hostels omitted and Trinity added.

12 Provost of Eton, 1561. Dean of Windsor, 1572; Bishop of Winchester, 1596.

13 Master of Jesus, 1579. Dean of Ely, 1589.

15 Dean of Chichester, 1566; Bishop of Chichester, 1570.

16 Master of Clare, 1571. Dean of Arches, 1586.

17 The recurrence of nominations by Peterhouse and King's in two successive years appears to be due to the fact that in the disturbed first year of Queen Elizabeth the cycle was upset by the failure of the small Colleges, Gonville Hall and St Catharine's Hall, to nominate when their turn came.

18 Master of Trinity Hall, 1584.

19 Vice-Master of Trinity, 1564; Master of St John's, 1569.

20 Judge of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, 1576. He was nominated by Trinity Hall to succeed

John Welles, resigned (Grace-Book Δ, p. 230).

22 Bishop of Bangor, 1566; of Chester 1595.

21 Master of Corpus, 1563.

23 Afterwards Fellow of Peterhouse (see 1576).

24 Physician to Queen Elizabeth and James I.

25 It was the turn of Magdalene to nominate—its only turn in 44 years.

26 Master of Magdalene, 1582; Master of Trinity, 1593. Dean of Peterborough, 1590; of Canterbury, 1597.

27 Master of Jesus, 1590. One of the translators of the Bible.

28 Master of Corpus, 1590. Dean of Norwich, 1601; Bishop of Norwich, 1603.

 1613 Arthur Johnson, Fellow of King's.
 Richard Anguish, Fellow of Corpus.
 1614 Thomas Kitchin, Fellow of Trinity.
 John Dodd (or Dod)<sup>15</sup>, Fellow of Jesus.
 1615 Andrew Perne, Fellow of Peterhouse.
 Thomas Smyth, Fellow of St John's.
 1616 John Brown, Fellow of Caius.
 George Ramsey, Fellow of Christ's.
 1617 John Smithson, Fellow of King's.
 Alexander Read, Fellow of Pembroke.

1 Reader in Greek to Queen Elizabeth.

2 A friend of Spenser's, who introduces him into the Shepherd's Calendar as Hobbinol.

3 Master of Trinity Hall, 1593. See p. 24, note 3.

4 Master of Magdalene, 1595. Dean of Peterborough, 1597.

5 Master of Pembroke, 1605. Bishop of Chichester, 1609; of Norwich, 1619; Archbishop of York, 1629.

6 Brother of John Jegon, the then Master of Corpus, whose turn it was to nominate. He afterwards became a Fellow of Corpus and succeeded as Master in 1603.

7 Dean of Peterborough, 1612; of York, 1617.

8 An account of an altercation between Mr Bolton and the Mayor is given in Cooper, Annals, ii. 576.

9 Master of Caius, 1619.

10 Dean of Westminster, 1610; Bishop of Lincoln, 1617; of London, 1621; of Durham, 1627; Archbishop of York, 1628. He is said to have obtained the Archbishopric of York, by saying to the King, when he was discussing the vacant see in his presence: 'Hadst thou faith as a grain of mustard seed, thou wouldst say unto this mountain, be removed into that see.'

11 Knighted, 1614. Master of Requests, 1616; Secretary of State, 1618. Author of Fragmenta Regalia.

12 Master of Peterhouse, 1617; of Trinity, 1625. Bishop of Bath and Wells, 1628.

13 Dean of Salisbury, 1619; of Westminster, 1620. Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, 1621. Bishop of Lincoln, 1621; Archbishop of York, 1641. He gave a large benefaction to St John's College for building the present Library.

14 Probably the biblical scholar known as 'Dutch Thomson' from his having been born in Holland. He was one of the translators of the Bible, and 'a most admirable philologist.' He died in January, 1613; this would account for the vacancy in the office of Proctor, filled, as was customary, on the nomination of Trinity Hall.

15 M.A. 1606; possibly a son of the well-known Puritan divine, John Dod, M.A. 1579, also a Fellow of Jesus, the reputed author of the famous 'Sermon on Malt.' It has been suggested that the Proctor of 1614 was Dod himself.

ELECTED

- 1645 Charles Eden, Fellow of Trinity Hall.
John Sloper, Fellow of King's.
- 1646 John Harrison, Fellow of Trinity.

<sup>3</sup> Another 44 years had elapsed (see p. 38, note 25) and it is again the turn of Magdalene to nominate, but no John Smith of Magdalene is to be found in the Graduali, so presumably the College once more had to go outside.

<sup>10</sup> 'Soon after the outbreak of the Civil War Gatford retired to Cambridge in order to write a pamphlet setting forth the doctrine of the Church in regard to the obedience due to kings. On the night of 26 Jan. 1642-3, Cromwell seized his manuscript, then in the press at Cambridge, arrested Gatford in his bed at Jesus College, and sent both author and copy to London. On 30 Jan. the Commons ordered him to be imprisoned in Ely House... He died of the plague in 1665 while acting as a curate at Great Yarmouth.

<sup>11</sup> Poet and scholar. He founded in 1635 an academy of learning called the 'Museum Minervae,' for which he obtained a license under the Great Seal, a grant of arms, and a common seal. Only the nobility and gentry were to be admitted to the Academy, the object of which was 'to give language and instruction, with other ornaments of travel unto our gentlemen... before their undertaking long journeys into foreign parts.

<sup>12</sup> The first steps for the rebuilding of Clare were taken under Oley's direction in 1633, and the structure was much indebted, we are told, to his 'benefaction, zeal, and inspections.' Extensive purchases of bricks are recorded in the College books as having been made by him, and Fuller called him its 'Master of the Fabric.' He edited George Herbert.

<sup>14</sup> Tutor, and afterwards Senior Bursar, of Trinity and deputy Public Orator. In 1645 he would have been elected Master of Sidney if Cromwell had not caused one of his supporters to be arrested and conveyed away, thereby securing the election of Richard Minshull.

<sup>18</sup> It is recorded that 'among other of his singularities he made the sophisters say their positions without book.' In his younger days he studied astrology, and afterwards chemistry, being described as 'a searcher into the secrets of nature.'

Clement Scott, Fellow of Corpus.

1 Author of a remarkable pamphlet, entitled 'A Discourse of Patronage.' Cawdry's only other publication is a sermon preached at the funeral of Lord Delamere, in which he speaks of his rising in 1659 as giving 'the first warm and invigorating spring-beam to the frost-nipt loyalty of the nation.' He was deprived of his office of Proctor for 'aiding and assisting to the king in the unnatural war against the Parliament by contribution of monies' (Cooper, Annals, iii. 418).

2 Dean of York, 1677. He was appointed Proctor on the death of Crouch.

3 A new cycle of Proctors now includes Emmanuel and Sidney.

4 Archdeacon of Leicester, 1669, and Rector of St Margaret's, Westminster, 1670. He was an excellent preacher, and was reputed to have 'extraordinary skill in rabbinical learning.'

5 Tutor of Magdalene; but as he declined to conform in 1662, the authorities 'cut his name out of their books in kindness to him' to save him from formal ejection. He was a lexicographer and book-collector.

6 Archdeacon of Salisbury, 1670. His Historia Collegii Jesu Cantabrigiae gives an account of the nursery of St Rhadegund, and the earlier history of the College to the mastership of Edmund Boldero, 1683-73.

7 A new cycle of Proctors.

8 Master of Magdalene, 1690.

9 Vice-Master of Trinity. He was buried in the College Chapel, where there is a monument to his memory.

12 A writer on the Apocalypse.

14 Master of Sidney, 1723.

8 Master of the Charterhouse, 1685.

10 Master of Pembroke, 1677.

13 It is uncertain which Proctor he succeeded.

15 Master of Pembroke, 1694.

ELECTED

1733 John Evans, King's.
Francis Sawyer Parris, Sidney.

<sup>2</sup> Acquired a great reputation as Tutor of Clare. He also distinguished himself as a supporter of the Newtonian philosophy, and when it became his duty as Proctor to appoint a Moderator, he appointed himself. At that time, according to Whewell, he had already issued a paper of questions on the Newtonian theory with the design of suggesting theses for disputation in the Schools. As Proctor he made great efforts to restore the discipline of the University, at that time greatly relaxed. His speech as Senior Proctor in the Bachelors' Schools is among the Cambridge University MSS. OO. vi., 113 (3).

1 Master of St John's, 1815. Dean of Ely, 1820.

2 See p. 86, note 4.

3 Professor of Mathematics in the East India Company's College at Haileybury.

4 Acquired a considerable reputation as a philologist. He published one part of an etymological dictionary with a preface in which he enlarged on the value of the gipsy language. This led to his acquaintance with George Borrow, who introduced him into Llenguas understanding some twenty languages. Porson was one of his intimate friends.

5 See Gunning, Reminiscences, ii. 215-18.

6 Master of St John's, 1839.

7 The author of several mathematical works, chiefly geometrical.

8 Tutor of Pembroke. Appointed Master of Jesus, 1820, by Dr Sparke, Bishop of Ely, when only 34 years of age. His mathematical attainments were of the highest order, and to classical scholarship he added a considerable acquaintance with oriental languages.

9 First Fellow of St John's; then Tutor of Trinity Hall; afterwards Dean of Emmanuel. One of the first Examiners for the new Classical Tripos of 1824.

10 See p. 86, note 6.

11 Professor of Medicine at King's College, London, 1835-40; President of the College of Physicians, 1862-7; Physician in Ordinary to Queen Victoria, 1870. Created a baronet, 1868. His Lectures on the Principles and Practice of Physic, 1843, was for thirty years the chief English text-book of medicine.

12 Son of John Venn, Rector of Clapham, one of the founders of the Church Missionary Society in 1797. Acted as Honorary Secretary of the Society for thirty-two years, 1841-73.

13 See p. 91, note 5.

14 Tutor of Peterhouse. Principal of the East India College at Haileybury, 1843-57. Canon of St Paul's, 1856. He was one of the most popular preachers in London.

15 Owing to continued disturbances among the undergraduates, the Proctors elected in 1828 resigned in April 1829, and a fresh election took place. An account of the episode is given by Gunning (Reminiscences, i. 367).

16 See p. 16, note 7.

17 Formerly Camplin.

A Deputy for each Proctor is appointed annually by Grace of the Senate.

PRO-PROCTORS

THE office of Pro-Proctor was instituted by Grace of the Senate, April 29, 1818. This was due to 'the great increase of the students, and the necessity of their lodging in the town'<sup>15</sup>. The two Pro-Proctors are nominated by the Colleges according to the cycle of Proctors (each College nominating a Pro-Proctor the year before it nominates a Proctor) for the approbation of the Senate; and the election, which is by Grace, takes place at the last Congregation in May. The stipend at present (1915) attached to each office is £120.

ADDITIONAL PRO-PROCTORS

By Grace of the Senate, June 6, 1878, two Additional Pro-Proctors, who shall be Masters of Arts or of Law of not less than three years' standing, are to be appointed by Grace of the Senate in October in each year, on the nomination of the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors, to hold office till the appointment of their successors. The stipend at present (1915) attached to each office is £120.

PUBLIC ORATOR

THE office of Public Orator was founded in 1522<sup>1</sup>, and Richard Croke, instructor in Greek to King Henry VIII, and Reader in Greek at the University, who had studied under Grocyn at Oxford, was appointed for life, with the provision that future appointments should be for seven years only. The Orator was to have precedence of all other Masters of Arts, and, as a mark of honour, to walk in processions and sit in public acts separate from the rest; but the stipend attached to this dignified office was only forty shillings a year<sup>2</sup>. The appointment is now for life.

The functions of the Orator are now determined by Statute A, c. v. § 2:

It shall be the duty of the Orator to write letters in the name of the University whenever the Chancellor or the Council of the Senate think fit, the letters to be submitted to the Senate for approval by Grace. When the Chancellor or the Council of the Senate think fit the Orator shall carry to eminent persons the letters addressed to them after these have been duly approved and sealed. He shall whenever the Chancellor or the Council of the Senate think fit welcome persons of eminence visiting the University. He shall also present to the Chancellor and University persons on whom Degrees or titles of Degrees are conferred honoris causâ.

On a vacancy in the office the Council of the Senate nominate two persons; and on the following day one of them is elected by the members of the Senate. The election must be made within fourteen days (exclusive of any vacation) from the vacancy being known. The stipend of the office is at present (1915) £150 a year, residence being required within five miles of Great St Mary's Church.

The Latin letters written on behalf of the University by the Public Orators, beginning with Richard Croke and ending in 1867 with W. G. Clark, are transcribed in three volumes, entitled Epistolæ Academicæ, now preserved at the Registry. Sir <sup>1</sup> As early as 1483—4 Caius Auberinus, an Italian, was employed to write letters for the University, and he may be regarded as a predecessor of the Public Orator in some of his functions. Thus, the Proctors' accounts for that year contain an entry, 'Item, Caio Auberino pro compositione quatuor litterarum quatuor episcopis vjs vijld' (Grace-Book A, p. 185). Elsewhere he is called a poet (ib. p. 202).

<sup>2</sup> The stipend of the Public Orator was increased in 1587, and again in 1614, by assigning to him certain fees.

Richard Jebb's letters also are preserved among the Grace-papers, but they have not been transcribed. Sir John Sandys's Orationes et Epistolae, 1876-1909, were published in 1910.

ELECTED

- 11522 Richard Croke, M.A. Fellow of St John's c. 1523<sup>2</sup>. Greek Lecturer at Louvain, Cologne, and Leipzig, 1515-17, and at Cambridge, 1518.
 1528 George Day, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Master of St John's, 1537. Provost of King's, 1538<sup>3</sup>. Bishop of Chichester, 1543.
 1537 John Redman (or Redmayn)<sup>4</sup>, D.D., Fellow of St John's. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1538 and 1549. Archdeacon of Stafford, 1540; of Taunton, 1547. Master of King's Hall, 1542. First Master of Trinity, 1546.
 1538 [Sir] Thomas Smith<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Queens'. LL.D. 1542. Regius Professor of Civil Law, 1542. Provost of Eton, 1547. Dean of Carlisle, 1547. Knighted, 1548. King's Secretary, 1548; Queen's Secretary, 1572. Ambassador to France, 1562.
 1542 [Sir] John Cheke<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Regius Professor of Greek, 1540. Provost of King's, 1548. Knighted, 1551. King's Secretary, 1553.
 1546 Roger Ascham<sup>7</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's.
 1554 Thomas Gardiner<sup>8</sup>, M.A., Fellow of King's.
 1557 John Stokes, M.A., Fellow of King's.
 1559 George Ackworth<sup>9</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Peterhouse. LL.D. 1561.
 1560 Anthony Girlington<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke.
 1561 Andrew Oxenbridge, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1563 William Masters<sup>11</sup>, M.A., Fellow of King's.
 1565 Thomas Byng<sup>12</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Peterhouse. LL.D. 1570. Master of Clare Hall, 1571. Regius Professor of Civil Law, 1574. Dean of Arches, 1595.
 1570 William Lewin (or Lewen)<sup>13</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. LL.D. 1576. Master in Chancery, 1593.
 1571 John Becon (or Beacon), Fellow of St John's. LL.D. 1576.

1 In previous issues of the University Calendar the list of Public Orators has been headed by the name of 'Desiderius Erasmus, D.D., Queens': but the office was not instituted until after he had left England and settled at Basle. There seems, however, to be no doubt that he had discharged some of the duties which afterwards devolved upon the Orator. See also Commissioners' Documents, i. 431-4.

2 Richard Croke had been educated at Eton, and in 1506 had been admitted a Scholar of King's; but he appears to have interested himself in the affairs of the College of his adoption. Early in 1529, when the Senate decreed an annual service to commemorate Bishop Fisher's benefactions to the University and to St John's, Croke protested that Fisher ought not to be honoured as founder of St John's, as that title belonged only to the Lady Margaret. For this Thomas Baker, the historian of the College, denounces him as 'an ambitious, envious, and discontented wretch.' In 1532 he became Canon and Subdean of Cardinal's College, afterwards Christ Church, but failed to obtain the office of Dean, when it fell vacant in the following year, notwithstanding the fact that he was able to assure Thomas Cromwell that he had preached sixty sermons in thirty-seven different places in favour of the King's supremacy.

3 George Day is supposed to have been originally a Scholar of Corpus. He was appointed Provost of King's by the authority of the King, although he had never been a Fellow of the Society. As Bishop of Chichester he was allowed to hold the Provostship in commendam with the Bishopric. In the reign of Mary he was esteemed 'the florid preacher' that was to be found among the prelates of the Old Learning. Thomas Baker, comparing him with his predecessor in the office of Orator, says that he was 'a much greater man, though the other made the louder noise' (p. 113).

4 Redman was 'profoundly learned in the Greek and Latin languages, and greatly encouraged the study of exact classical literature' at Cambridge (Cooper, Athen. Cantabr., i. 107). He was one of the compilers of the Liturgy.

5 He took a leading part in reforming the pronunciation of Greek. His important work on the Tudor constitution, De Republica Anglorum, was first published in 1583, six years after his death.

6 He resigned the office of Public Orator on being appointed Tutor to Prince Edward. Cheke was one of the most learned men of the age, and at St John's he is said to have 'laid the very foundations of learning.' He taught publicly the new pronunciation of Greek, although the success of his efforts were hindered for a time by a decree issued by Stephen Gardiner as Chancellor confirming the old pronunciation. Those who refused to obey it were, if Regents, to be expelled from the Senate; if scholars, to lose their scholarships; if 'the younger sort,' to be chastised. He is said to have been the last 'Master of the Glomery' (see p. 343).

7 Tutor to the Princess Elizabeth, and author of Toxophilus and The Scholmaster. As Public Orator he conducted a voluminous correspondence, and was noted for the beauty of his handwriting. As Latin Secretary to Queen Mary, he wrote 47 letters for her in three days to persons of exalted rank, 'of whom cardinals were the lowest.'

8 Tutor to Sir Francis Walsingham.

9 'Though a man of considerable talent, he was idle, addicted to drinking, and otherwise of dissolute habits. On this account he lost all his preferments in England, but on 18 March, 1576-7, was constituted master of the faculties and judge of the Prerogative Court in Ireland' (D.N.B.).

10 He did penance, 15 Feb. 1556-7, for eating flesh in Lent (Cooper, Athenae Cantabrigienses, i. 212).

11 A speech which he made before Queen Elizabeth in 1564 is said to have 'pleased her Majesty exceedingly.'

12 In 1564, when Queen Elizabeth visited Cambridge, Byng made a Latin oration in her presence on the excellence of monarchical government; it is printed in Nichols's Progresses, iii. 63. Before his appointment as Orator he had served as deputy to his predecessor.

13 'Some, if not all, of the letters written in the name of the University during the short period he held the office of Public Orator, were by his substitute, John Becon' (D.N.B.).

ELECTED

- 1573 Richard Bridgewater, M.A., Fellow of King's. LL.D. 1579.
 1580 Anthony Wyngelyld (or Wyngelyld)<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1589 Henry Mowtlow<sup>2</sup>, LL.D.?, Fellow of King's. M.P. for the University, 1604.
 1594 [Sir] Robert Naunton<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity and afterwards of Trinity Hall. Knighted, 1615. Master of Requests, 1616. Secretary of State, 1618. M.P. for the University, 1621.
 1611 [Sir] Francis Nethersole<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Knighted, 1619.

 1639 Henry Molle<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of King's. Ejected, 1650.
 1650 Ralph Widdrington<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. Regius Professor of Greek, 1654. D.D. 1660. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1673.
 1673 Henry Paman<sup>7</sup>, M.D., Fellow of St John's. LL.D. 1684.
 1681 John Billers<sup>8</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's.
 1689 Henry Felton<sup>9</sup>, LL.D., Fellow of Peterhouse.
 1696 William Ayloffe, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. LL.D. 1705.
 1727 Edmund Castle<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Corpus. B.D. 1728. Master of Corpus, 1744. Dean of Hereford, 1748.
 1730 Philip Williams, B.D., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1730.
 1741 James Tunstall<sup>11</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1744.
 1746 Philip Yonge, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1750. Master of Jesus, 1752. Bishop of Bristol, 1758; of Norwich, 1761.
 1752 John Skyner, M.A., Fellow of St John's. B.D. 1756.
 1762 William Barford<sup>12</sup>, M.A., Fellow of King's. D.D. 1771.
 1768 Richard Beadon<sup>13</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1780. Master of Jesus, 1781. Bishop of Gloucester, 1789; of Bath and Wells, 1802.
 1778 William Pearce<sup>14</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1787. Master of Jesus, 1789.
 1788 William Lort Mansel<sup>15</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1798. Master of Trinity, 1798. Bishop of Bristol, 1808.
 1798 Edmund Outram, M.A., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1806. Archdeacon of Derby.
 1809 Ralph Tatham, M.A., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1839. Master of St John's, 1839.
 1836 (4 Feb.) Christopher Wordsworth<sup>16</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1839. Bishop of Lincoln, 1868.
 (27 Apr.) Thomas Crick, B.D., Fellow of St John's.
 1848 William Henry Bateson, B.D., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1857. Master of St John's, 1857.

1 Nephew of the famous 'Bess of Hardwick,' Countess of Shrewsbury. Reader in Greek to Queen Elizabeth. In March 1589 he was granted leave of absence by the University to go abroad in the Queen's service, on condition that he supplied a deputy, but he resigned office on 25 Sept. 1589.

2 Several of Mowtlow's letters are in the Orator's book, and are remarkable for the ease and elegance of their style.

3 See p. 39, note 11. Naunton travelled much abroad during his tenure of the office, and did not return to Cambridge to take up his duties until 1600.

4 On the occasion of the visit of James I to the University in 1614, accompanied by his son, Nethersole gave great offence by addressing the young Prince in his oration of welcome as 'Jacobule' and 'Jacobissime Carole.' This led to a parody by Corbet, which began

'I wonder what your Grace doth here,
 Who have expected been twelve year;
 And this your son, fair Carolus,
 That is so Jacobissimus.'

5 On applying for the office of Public Orator in succession to Nethersole, George Herbert spoke of it as 'the finest place in the University.' He easily adopted the style of the professional courtier, and flattered both James I and Buckingham with a view to preferment. It was not until 1625 that he began to consider whether to pursue 'the painted pleasures of a court life, or betake himself to a study of divinity,' and this question was soon after resolved by his association with Nicholas Ferrar and the community at Little Gidding. Two of Herbert's Orations and a few of his Letters, including his Letter to his successor Creighton, are printed in Grosart's edition of his works (1874), iii. 379-477.

6 Ejected for not subscribing to the Engagement by the Committee for the Reformation of the University, who appointed Ralph Widdrington in his place. This choice was largely due to the influence of Cromwell. In 1660 Widdrington entertained Samuel Pepys 'very courteously' on his visit to Cambridge.

7 Eight of Paman's letters as Public Orator were printed under the title 'Literae Academiae Cantabrigiensis ab Henrico Paman cum esset orator publicus scriptae.'

8 When Charles II visited Cambridge in September, 1681, Billers made a Latin speech before the King in Regent Walk. In 1716 he was ejected from his Fellowship as a non-juror.

9 Formerly a member of St John's.

10 Headmaster of St Paul's School, 1744.

11 Tutor and Senior Dean of St John's. He was famous 'as a pupil-monger,' both for his classical knowledge and for the kindness of his manners. As Public Orator he was largely an absentee, in consequence of his appointment in 1745 to be domestic chaplain to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and his resignation in 1746 was probably due to the rejection of a grace continuing his leave of absence.

12 Tutor of King's.

13 See Gunning, i. 55, 194, 317; ii. 101.

14 Youngest son of Christopher Wordsworth, Master of Trinity 1820. At Winchester he was both a scholar and an athlete, and was known as 'the Great Christopher'; and at Cambridge his list of College and University honours and prizes was almost unique. He was Headmaster of Harrow from 1836 to 1844.

ELECTED

1857 William George Clark<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.1869 [Sir] Richard Claverhouse Jebb<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Litt.D. 1885. Regius Professor of Greek, 1889. M.P. for the University, 1891. Knighted, 1900. O.M. 1905.

1876 [Sir] John Edwin Sandys, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Litt.D. 1886. Knighted, 1911.

REGISTRARY

THE office of Registrary was established by Grace in 1506. In 1624 John Taber, who was then holding it, complained in a petition to the King that 'the profits of his place' were 'very small' while the duties had increased. The petition was referred to the Vice-Chancellor and Heads, who took occasion to make regulations with regard to the subscriptions to the Liturgy and Articles required of persons admitted to degrees. By these the 'register' of the University was required to 'provide and safely keep the book of subscriptions fairly bound and clasped or tyed up'; to check the lists of candidates for degrees; and to superintend the orderly admission of those desiring to subscribe, so as to avoid the 'great disorder at the times of subscription by... unruly crouding and striving... whereby the register attending that service hath been discouraged and wronged by some unruly persons<sup>3</sup>.' In consideration of 'his daily attendance and labour in that service,' the Registrary was authorised to charge the subscribers a fee of sixpence each. Another increase of fees took place in 1646<sup>4</sup>, and in the next year the duties of the Registrary were further defined by Grace<sup>5</sup>.

There has been a great increase in the variety and complexity in the duties of the office, but the historical character of it has been on the whole retained. The principal statutory duty of the Registrary is 'to keep an accurate record of the proceedings of the University, to place in the Registry in due order of arrangement all letters, writings, and documents delivered to him by the Chancellor, to construct indexes of reference whereby easy access may be had by the Chancellor and all concerned in the business of the University to the knowledge of past transactions.' For this purpose he is required to attend 'all Congregations of the Senate, the courts of the Chancellor, the audits of University accounts, matriculations, and all public proceedings of the Chancellor or of the University,' and to 'preserve carefully all writings and documents delivered to him,' not allowing them 'to be taken away or be copied without leave of the Chancellor.' Thus the Registrary is also Keeper of the Archives, a duty which at Oxford is discharged by a separate officer. Among the other duties now assigned to the Registry by Ordinance he is required to receive the names and fees of all candidates for degrees, to ascertain that they are duly qualified, and to keep a book in which they subscribe their names; to inform Examiners of their duties; to edit the official publications of the University; and to act as Secretary to the Council of the Senate if requested by the Council to do so. He also accompanies addresses to the Crown, and has certain important duties in connexion with the Court of Discipline. He is required to reside within two miles and a half of Great St Mary's Church, and may not at any time be absent from the University for more than seven days in succession without appointing a Deputy approved by the Chancellor.

The mode of election of the Registry is the same as that of the Public Orator. The stipend of the office is at present (1915) £700 a year.

In such junctures of time, so great the confusion and embazzling of records, that had not Master Stokes been the more careful I believe that though Cambridge would not be so oblivious as Messala Corvinus who forgot his own name, yet would she have forgotten the names of all her ancient officers. To secure whose succession to posterity, Mr Stokes with great industry and fidelity collected a Catalogue of the Chancellors, Vice-Chancellors, and Proctors' (Fuller, Worthies, Nuttall's edn, i. 205). This book, known as 'Stokys's Book,' is still in the Registry. See also p. 60, note 9.

As Registry he rearranged the documents under his care, binding each group in a volume with a separate index of his own making. These indexes were afterwards united so as to give a complete clue to the whole body of records. One of these indexes was published in 1870 under the title: 'A chronological List of the Graces, Documents, and other papers in the University Registry which concern the University Library.' He also edited the Graduati, 1800—1872 (published in 1873), and 1800—1884 (published in 1884).

ASSISTANT REGISTRARY

THE office of Assistant Registry was established by Grace, June 11, 1885. The holder, who must be a member of the Senate, is appointed on each occasion for a term of three years by the Registry with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, and is removable by him with the like consent. The Assistant Registry is under the general direction of the Registry, and assists him in carrying out the duties of the office; he discharges the duties of Registry during a vacancy in that office. Present stipend (1915) £200.

LIBRARIAN

THE care of the Library was originally entrusted to the University Chaplain<sup>1</sup>, who was also the Cross-Keeper of the University, the Keeper of the Chapel and of the Schools, and the Executor of various University trusts. Among the holders of the office were Hugh Latimer, and Nicholas Heath, his successor both in the Chaplaincy (1529) and in the Bishopric of Worcester (1543); while Heath was succeeded (1531-2) by Nicholas Ridley, afterwards Bishop of London. The primary duty of the Chaplain was to keep the obit of Nigel de Thornton, but he had charge of other exequies ordered to be observed in the New Chapel in the Divinity Schools of which he was custodian. Thus it was not unnatural that in 1570 the office should have been abolished 'ut Papistica.' 'It being an office and institution purely Popish,' says Dr Ashton, 'tis no wonder it sunk at the beginning of Queen Elizabeth.'

Although the office of Custos Bibliothecae was only a subsidiary part of the Chaplain's functions, the distinguished men who were charged with it gave much attention to the Library, and to one of them, Thomas Stoye, the University is partly indebted for the gifts of Archbishop Rotherham, his life-long friend, while Stoye himself was one of the earliest donors of printed books. He died June 3, 1487, and his virtues are commemorated on a tablet in St Edward's Church.

The last Chaplain, John Stokes of Queens', died in 1568, a few years after the abolition of the ecclesiastical functions of the office, and in 1577 a separate office of Librarian was created, a salary of £10 being assigned to it.

Four years after the appointment of the first Librarian a Grace was passed in 1581 requiring Bachelors of Arts to pay 4*d.*, Masters of Arts or Bachelors of Law 8*d.*, Bachelors in Divinity 12*d.*, and Doctors in all faculties 16*d.* to the Keeper of the Public Library on admission to their degrees<sup>1</sup>. In the following year regulations for the Library were drawn up requiring the Librarian's attendance 'the whole yeare throughowte in terme tyme, except all Sondayes and holydayes; that is to say, from eight of the clocke untill tenne in the forenoone, and from one till three in the afternoone: so that all Masters of Arte, Batchelours of Lawe or Phisicke, or any other of the Universitie above that degree, maye have free accesse to the books in the sayd Librarie.'<sup>2</sup> He was also made responsible for one of the three copies of the catalogue; for the key of one of the two locks of the 'convenient place within the Librarie' where 'all written books and all other books of Imagerie with colours, all Globes, Astrolobes, and all other instruments mathematicall' with any 'bookes Mathematicall or Historicall' of special value were to be 'saifelie locked up'; and he was 'bound by obligation under Sureties in two hundreth pounds' to keep all other books safely and to restore within three months any missing books and fresh copies of books 'defayced or cutt.' His remuneration was five marks a year 'of Lawfull money of England, to be payde unto hym quarterlie by even portions, by the hands of Mr Vice Chancellor for the tyme beinge.'<sup>3</sup> In 1669 the stipend was fixed at £35, 'besides the usual fees from the Commencers,' but out of this allowance he was to provide 'one that he will trust under him.' He was also to have £10 'extraordinarily' for 'the pains which he hath taken in setting the books in order.'<sup>4</sup>

The office of Librarian was continued on its original footing from 1577 to 1721, but in the latter year the University created by Grace a new office of 'Protobibliothecarius,' and to this a stipend of £50 a year was assigned<sup>5</sup>. This was expressly in order to do honour to the first holder, Conyers Middleton, partly as a recognition of his learning, but also as a mark of sympathy with him in his controversy with Bentley<sup>6</sup>. The King's recent donation of Bishop Moore's library furnished a pretext, and in 1723 Middleton published a plan for the arrangement of the books, but during a great part of 1724 and 1725 he was living in Rome. After his death in 1750 a successor was appointed, and the offices of 'Protobibliothecarius' and 'Bibliothecarius' continued to exist side by side for a hundred years, until in 1828 they were vested in the same person, with a stipend of £210, 'being the amount of the two salaries formerly paid.'<sup>1</sup> In 1845 the offices were finally consolidated by Grace<sup>2</sup>.

The statutory duty of the Librarian is to 'have the custody of the books of the University' and to 'arrange them in order in classes,' placing them 'on their proper shelves at stated times, and entering 'in the catalogues from time to time all newly acquired books.'

The nomination and election of the Librarian was, until 1909, in the manner prescribed for the Public Orator and the Registrar; but in that year a new Statute was obtained from the King in Council vesting the appointment in a Board of Electors consisting of the Vice-Chancellor and ten persons elected by the Senate, five of them being nominated by the Council and five by the Library Syndicate, one elector of each nomination being neither resident in the University nor specially connected with it. The Librarian is required to reside within two miles and a half of Great St Mary's Church, and may not at any time be absent from the University for more than seven days in succession without appointing a Deputy approved by the Chancellor. The stipend at present (1915) attached to the office is £500 a year.

2 See p. 82, note 1. 'There are traces of his hand,' wrote Bradshaw in 1869, 'almost throughout the collection as it existed in his day; and we certainly know more of the Library and have more materials still preserved there for its history from what remains to us of Wheelock's time and that of his immediate successor, William Moore, than we have of any subsequent period down to the last twenty years' (Collected Papers, p. 195). His stipend as Public Librarian and amanuensis was £10 a year.

3 During Moore's Librarianship he received in 1658 from Sir Samuel Morland, Cromwell's envoy to the Duke of Savoy, the remarkable collection of Waldensian manuscripts now in the Library. Some of these were long supposed to have mysteriously disappeared from the Library, and it was generally believed that they had been removed by the Puritans; but they were all discovered by Bradshaw in 1862, in their proper places, where they had probably remained undisturbed for more than a century (Bradshaw, Collected Papers, pp. 1-3). Moore continued the 'Annales Collegii' begun by Dr John Caius, and bequeathed to his College the whole of his own library.

4 In 1718 'proceedings were taken in the Vice-Chancellor's Court against Philip Brooke, B.D., Fellow of St John's College and Librarian of the University, for disaffection to the King. Pending the prosecution he resigned his office of Librarian, whereupon all further proceedings against him were stayed. The friends of the Government charged Dr Gooch the Vice-Chancellor with disloyalty on account of his forbearance and lenity to the accused' (Cooper, Annals, iv, 160).

14 'In 1797 the office was again vacant by the death of the Master of Emmanuel... The Heads nominated Philip Douglas, D.D., Master of Bennet and Thomas Kerich, B.D., President of Magdalene College. Doctor Douglas was a decided invalid, and confined himself very much within the precincts of his Lodge, and dared not for any consideration pass three hours in the Public Library, which at that time there were no means of warming, and it was so extremely damp that few persons could pass any length of time in it with impunity. He had besides lost one eye, and suffered so much from inflammation in the other that he was frequently confined for days together to his bed. Mr Kerich never courted popularity. I have heard him, after his appointment, repeatedly declare that he always considered himself one of the most unpopular men in the University. Having detailed the circumstances preceding and accompanying this election, I feel it quite unnecessary to make any comments on the result' (Gunning, ii, 78). 'To great antiquarian and architectural knowledge Kerich united the most accurate skill as a painter and draughtsman. He was also a miniature-painter and a practised etcher' (D.N.B.).

3 Attorney for the Duchy of Lancaster, 1580; knighted, 1603.

4 Recorder of Northampton; Speaker of the House of Commons, 1597; Justice of the Queen's Bench, 1602; knighted, 1603.

5 Recorder of Coventry, 1585; of Norwich, 1588; of London, 1592. Solicitor-General, 1592; Speaker, 1593; Attorney-General, 1594; Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, 1606; of the King's Bench, 1613. His Reports and Institutes justify Fuller's quaint eulogy that 'his learned and laborious works will be admired by judicious posterity while Fame has a trumpet left her, and any breath to blow therein.'

6 Solicitor-General, 1581; Attorney-General, 1592; knighted, 1593; Master of the Rolls, 1594-1603; Lord Keeper, 1596 and 1603. Baron Ellesmere and Lord Chancellor, 1603. Chancellor of Oxford, 1610-17. Viscount Brackley, 1616.

7 Attorney for the Court of Wards and Liveries; Recorder of Preston, 1597; knighted, 1603.

8 M.A. 1604, 'on account of former gratuitous service.'

9 Knighted, 1603. Solicitor-General, 1607; Attorney-General, 1613; Lord Keeper, 1617; Lord Chancellor and Baron Verulam, 1618; Viscount St Albans, 1621.

10 Attorney-General, 1617; knighted, 1618; Justice of the Common Pleas, 1625.

11 Balliol College, Oxford. Recorder of London, 1616; Solicitor-General and knighted, 1617; Attorney-General, 1621; Lord Keeper, 1625. Baron Coventry of Aylesborough, 1628. Clarendon says of him that 'he understood not only the whole science and mystery of the law...but had a clear conception of the whole policy of the government both of Church and State...He knew the temper, disposition, and genius of the kingdom most exactly...He had in the plain way of speaking and delivery, without much ornament of elocution, a strange power of making himself believed.'

12 Solicitor-General and knighted, 1625. According to Clarendon he was 'an old, illiterate, useless person.'

13 Exeter College, Oxford. Attorney-General, 1631. The originator of the ship-money writs.

14 Queen's College, Oxford. Attorney-General to the infant Prince Charles, then Duke of Cornwall, 1631. Knighted, 1631. Attorney-General, 1634. Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, 1641. Represented the Crown against John Hampden in the ship-money case.

15 Succeeded Bankes as 'attorney to the Prince,' 1634. Knighted, 1644. Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, 1644; Lord Keeper, 1645. Conducted the defence of Strafford with great ability.

16 Attorney-General and knighted, 1660; baronet, 1660. He was one of the managers of Strafford's impeachment, but afterwards joined the King's party.

17 Attorney-General to the Queen, 1636; Solicitor-General, 1640; Attorney-General and knighted, 1641; Lord Keeper, 1653.

18 Probably the John Fountaine who was Serjeant-at-law, 1658, and Commissioner of the Great Seal, 1659-60.

19 Solicitor-General to the Prince of Wales, 1640; knighted, 1640; Chief Baron of the Exchequer, 1660; baronet, 1660; Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, 1660-8; Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, 1667-72.

20 Magdalen Hall, Oxford. Justice of the Common Pleas, 1654; Chief Baron of the Exchequer, 1660; knighted, 1660; Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, 1671. Baxter describes him as 'the pillar of justice, the refuge of the subject who feared oppression, and one of the greatest honours of his Majesty's government.'

21 Hart Hall (since merged in New College), Oxford. Recorder of London, 1643. One of the managers of Strafford's impeachment. Justice of Assize, c. 1654; Chief Justice of the Upper Bench, 1655-9; knighted, 1660.

22 Serjeant-at-law, 1669; Baron of the Exchequer, 1673.

23 Master in Chancery; knighted, 1665.

Took part as an Ecclesiastical Commissioner in the expulsion of the Fellows of Magdalen, Oxford, and presided at the trial of the Seven Bishops.

<sup>4</sup> Solicitor-General, 1710–14; knighted, 1710; Attorney-General, 1720–4; Judge of the King's Bench, 1724; Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench. Baron Raymond of Abbot's Langley, 1731. Raymond was a man of great learning and, although he does not rank with the most illustrious of the sages of the law, left an enviable reputation for justice, impartial, and painstaking administration of justice.

<sup>15</sup> King's Serjeant, 1806. He was named a lay Fellow of Downing in the original charter of the College. He refused various honours, including the Solicitor-Generalship, 1813, although it was pressed upon him by the Prime Minister at the request of the Prince Regent. His independence was proverbial, and the toast 'Serjeant Lens and the independence of the Bar' was given at public dinners.

<sup>17</sup> Judge of the King's Bench, 1824–41; knighted, 1824. According to Lord Campbell, Littledale was 'one of the most acute, learned, and simple-minded of men,' but a lawyer and little more. At the time when he was a special pleader, before being called to the bar, on being asked what his politics were, he gave the famous reply: 'My politics are the politics of a special pleader.'

<sup>19</sup> Solicitor-General and knighted, 1826; Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, 1829. See also p. 32. He was very learned in legal antiquities, and is famous for having successfully claimed for his client in the case of Asford v. Thornton the right of wager of battle.

<sup>21</sup> Studied medicine in London and Edinburgh. Master of the Rolls, 1836. Baron Langdale, 1836. Temporarily Speaker of the House of Lords, 1853. As Keeper of the Rolls he was 'the father of record reform.'

<sup>22</sup> Solicitor-General, 1834–5 and 1841; knighted, 1834; Attorney-General, 1844. He had the reputation of being the greatest advocate of the nineteenth century.

<sup>23</sup> Son of the first Lord Denman, Lord Chief Justice, 1832–50. Judge of Common Pleas, 1872; of Queen's Bench Division of the High Court, 1881–92. Rowed seven against Oxford, 1841 and 1842, and won the Colquhoun Sculls, 1842.

ESQUIRE BEDELLS<sup>4</sup>

THE Bedells were not originally members of the University, but 'privileged persons,' claiming, in virtue of their office, exemption from the town jurisdiction. Thus they are not at first described as Esquire Bedells. The first known use of the term Armiger Bedellus is in 1473, in reference to John Canterbury, the first member of the University to hold the office<sup>5</sup> except Robert Woodlark, afterwards Provost of King's.

An early reference to this office occurs in the Ordinance of 1276 embodying the decisions of Hugh de Balsham, Bishop of Ely, on certain questions in dispute between the University and the Archdeacon of Ely which had been referred to him. From this it appears that two Bedells of the University were required to be present 'bearing their staves, at all vespers, inceptions, congregations, exequies of the dead, and at all other assemblies, no one else being allowed to bear a staff to their prejudice'<sup>6</sup>. One of these was described in the old Statute as Bedell in Theology and Canon Law, and the other Bedell in Arts; but when the study of Canon Law was abolished the Senior became simply the Bedell in Divinity. But there is also a reference to a third Bedell, the 'Bedell of Glomery,' who was prohibited from bearing a mace before the Chancellor and Masters 'in the aforesaid assemblies and places'—presumably because, like the 'Master of Glomery,' who presided over the 'Glomerels' or students in grammar, he owed obedience to the Archdeacon of Ely rather than to the University<sup>7</sup>. He, however, disappears after 1276 and is not referred to again. More than a century later a reference again occurs to three Bedells, for in 1386 Pope Urban VI granted that 'John Wesenham, William Wykmore, and William Fysshewyke, married men, and bedels of the University, should have as full power of granting plenary indulgence of sins at the point of death as the best clerks'<sup>8</sup>. The third Bedell was sometimes called Bedellus Subsidiarius, or simply 'the other Bydill.' In later times the three officers came to be known as the Senior, the <sup>3</sup> He resigned office in 1887, when he was appointed a Referee of the Supreme Court, and no successor to him was appointed until 1915. Hemming wrote several mathematical works, including Billiards mathematically treated, 1899.

<sup>4</sup> The history of this office has been exhaustively treated by Dr Stokes in The Esquire Bedells of the University of Cambridge (Cambridge Antiquarian Society, Octavo Publications, No. XLV., 1911).

Middle, and the Junior Bedells. By the Statutes of 1858 the number of Esquire Bedells was reduced to two, and on the death of George Leapingwell in 1863 his place was not filled. The office of Yeoman Bedell<sup>1</sup> also came to an end in 1858.

The present Statutes provide for two Esquire Bedells only, equal in rank, who shall attend the Chancellor on all public occasions, and perform such duties as may be defined from time to time by Grace. They are to be nominated and elected in the same manner as the Vice-Chancellor. A stipend of £100 a year is attached to each office.

The University possesses four silver-gilt maces, three for Esquire Bedells, presented by George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham<sup>2</sup>, Chancellor in 1626, and one for a Yeoman Bedell, presented by Henry Rich, Earl of Holland, who succeeded the Duke of Buckingham as Chancellor in 1628. The Esquires' maces are engraved with the Royal arms, the University arms, and the arms, crest, and badge of the donor, and each has three mottoes taken from one of the Latin editions of the Bible. The Yeoman Bedell's mace is like the others, except that the staff is of mahogany with the central part encircled by two silver rings engraved with a motto. The arms are those of the University and of the Earl of Holland. At the installation of Lord Rayleigh as Chancellor in 1908 the mace of the Yeoman Bedell was borne by the University Marshal, who has also carried it in academical processions since that date.

The Royal arms on the top of the maces were cut out during the Commonwealth, but they were replaced in 1663, as appears from the bill preserved at the Registry.

1 The duties of this functionary were sometimes unpleasant. In 1581 John Standish was called upon to arrest a 'bereward' and nearly fell into the clutches of the bear (Cooper, Annals, ii. 383); and in 1585, in trying to pull down the sign of an unlicensed vintner, he was resisted 'with skaldinge water myngled with lyme and aishes, and with stones and brickbattes' (ib. p. 406).

2 According to Fuller, he 'gave the bedells their old silver staves, and bestowed better and bigger on the University, with the King's and his own arms insculped thereon.' A more detailed description of the maces will be found in an article by A. F. Humphry, M.A., Esquire Bedell, in the Cambridge Antiquarian Society Communications, iv. 207.

3 Where dates are placed in square brackets they are only approximate.

4 Possibly identical with Robert Carless (c. 1290) or Robert the Bedell (c. 1300).

1 He appears to have been an unpopular person, and in the riot of the Town against the University in 1381 the mob went to his house and 'destroy'd and burnt the same, conveying away his Goods. They also proclaim'd, That the first that could light on the said William, should kill him' (Parker, History, vii—x, quoted by Dr Stokes).

2 Physician to the Lady Margaret. See also p. 36.

3 It is possible that William Pickerell was only a Deputy Bedell for Morgan.

4 See p. 51.

5 Sir John Cheke's father. During his tenure of the office of Bedell of Divinity, he was indicted 'for using of unlawful games and other misorders,' but this may have been only an episode in the standing quarrel between the University and the Town.

6 'Item conceditur magistro Clerke bedello vi possit incedere capite cooperto temporibus hiemalibus et aliis temporibus frigidis ac etiam temporibus quibus eum egrotari contingit propter diuersa incomoda et egritudines que proueniunt sibi et frigiditate accepta in capite' (Grace of 1517—18, Grace-Book T, p. 158).

7 See p. 51, note 2.

8 Muryell was not properly elected, but was appointed by the Chancellor on his own authority. An account of his dismissal is given in Mere's Third Diary (Lamb's Documents, p. 184 etc., quoted by Dr Stokes).

9 Matthew Stokes established during his lifetime almshouses for six poor widows in Wall's Lane, now King Street. These he devised to the University, vesting the appointment of the inmates in the Vice-Chancellor for the time being (Cooper, Athen. Cantabr. ii. 109). See also p. 51, note 3.

10 Steward of St John's.

1814 George Ware, M.A., St John's (vice Isola, deceased).

1826 George Leapingwell<sup>12</sup>, M.A., Corpus (vice Ware, deceased). LL.D. 1851.

<sup>3</sup> After his election the successful candidate records in his diary, 'I invited the whole University next day to a glass of wine at the Mitre, except the Heads.' He also treated the whole College.

<sup>4</sup> See p. 26, note 5. He was one of the three corpulent Bedells referred to in the line

'Pingula tergeminaurum abdomina Bedellorum.'

<sup>5</sup> His extravagant eulogy of George II in his Seatonian Prize Poem on 'Death' in 1759 caused him to be gibbeted by Thackeray in The Four Georges. But he was a most energetic and generous bishop, and one of his sermons on the instruction of youth led John Norris to found the Norrisian Professorship of Divinity.

<sup>7</sup> Beverley seems to have obtained his office through the influence of Lord Sandwich, at that time First Lord of the Admiralty, with whom he was a great favourite. In his Reminiscences Gunning, who had no great respect for him, gives many illustrations of the careless way in which he performed his duty. After the death of Mathew in 1797 he appears, as Senior Bedell, to have had things very much his own way, as 'the few Heads who had usually been considered the expounders of our statutes, and who, whenever a difficulty arose, were applied to for a solution, were either dead or too infirm to attend Congregations... and it not unfrequently happened, at the close of a Congregation, for Borsale (the Registrar) to remark to me, "I presume you are aware everything that has been done this morning's unstatutable." To this remark it was impossible not to assent' (Reminiscences, i. 149-50). Beverley was, however, a musician and a collector, and he published in 1788 a book on Senate House Ceremonies. When he had completed his fiftieth year of office, the Senate provided a Deputy for him, and John Smith, B.A., of St John's, the decipherer of Pepys's Diary, was appointed in 1821. Gunning gives an account of him in his Reminiscences (ii. 333-6).

<sup>8</sup> Tutor of Magdalene, 1782-96. His chief work was a Dissertation on the Pernicious Effects of Gaming, by which he gained a prize of fifty guineas offered by an anonymous donor through the University. He also gained another prize, offered by the same donor, for his Dissertation on Duelling, and a third prize with his Dissertation on Suicide. See Gunning, Reminiscences, i. 252, and p. 313 below.

<sup>10</sup> The author of the Reminiscences (1780-1830), published posthumously in 1854, the year of his death. 'Though he did not begin these entertaining sketches until he was more than eighty years old, they betray few marks of senility. The anecdotes of his contemporaries are highly amusing, and his facts are usually accurate' (D.N.B.). He also published in 1828 a new edition of Adam Wall's Ceremonies observed in the Senate House of the University of Cambridge. As Senior Bedell he received the customary gold chain from three Chancellors at their installations.

<sup>12</sup> 'Having most acutely felt the degradation of being obliged to associate with men whom I blush to recollect as my colleagues, I have a proud satisfaction in being able to record the entire restoration of the respectability of the office of Esquire Bedell by the appointment... of George Leapingwell, M.A., of Corpus (the son of my old College friend, with whom in my undergraduateship I had passed so many merry hours) and of William Hopkins of Peterhouse, who was elected the following year' (Gunning, Reminiscences, ii. 338). See also p. 59 supra.

<sup>13</sup> William Hopkins, mathematician and geologist, was remarkably successful as a private tutor. He had among his pupils nearly 200 wranglers, of whom 17 were senior and 44 in one of the first three places. They included Stokes, Kelvin, Tait, Fawcett, Clerk Maxwell, and Todhunter, and it was Hopkins's admirable letter to Fawcett after his accident that first roused him to his resolute acceptance of his blindness (see Leslie Stephen's Life of Fawcett). After his death the Hopkins Prize (see p. 341) was founded in his memory by the Cambridge Philosophical Society.

ADDRESSES TO THE CROWN

The following Regulations, adopted by Grace of March 4, 1858, govern the action of University officers on the occasions when addresses to the Crown are presented on behalf of the University. These are for the most part based upon earlier custom.

The Council recommend that upon every occasion the deputation to be appointed to accompany the Chancellor in the presentation of the address should consist of the Vice-Chancellor, the Public Orator, the Proctors, and the Registry, together with six other Members of the Senate, to be nominated by the Vice-Chancellor.

The Council recommend, further, that, as it has been allowed on late occasions, the Registry should attend the Chancellor to the foot of the Throne and hold the address while the Chancellor reads it; and that he should afterwards call over the names of the deputation in the order of seniority.

The Council recommend also that, in conformity likewise with recent custom, the Esquire Bedells should precede the Chancellor with their maces, and in approaching the royal presence should fall aside at such point of time as will conveniently admit of the deputation passing by and advancing to the Throne; and that on the return of the Chancellor to the door of the presence-chamber they should conduct him back in the same order in which they went.

And, lastly, the Council recommend that the expenses of the Vice-Chancellor, the Public Orator, the Proctors, the Registry, and the Esquire Bedells only should be paid out of the Common Chest.

University Courts

THE jurisdiction now possessed by the Court of the Chancellor Masters and Scholars of the University of Cambridge—often called “the Chancellor’s Court,” and still more frequently “the Vice-Chancellor’s Court”—appears to have originated in a charter of Edward I. The University having petitioned Parliament for the grant of a forensic jurisdiction, and having been answered that it should receive the same powers that Oxford enjoyed, the King in 1305 gave to the “scholars” of the University power to summon the burgesses and other laymen of the town before the Chancellor, in all litigation that did not concern landed property. Edward II in 1317 confirmed this power by a grant that “all causes of clerks arising out of...contracts concerning moveables in Cambridge” should be decided by the Chancellor. Edward III, in his 17th year, made a similar confirmation; and added a provision that the Chancellor “shall not be in any wise molested in the King’s Court in consequence of any imprisonment or punishment which he may have imposed.” Ten years later, he bade the Justices of the Peace for the County of Cambridge abstain from trying any indictments brought before them in cases to which any scholars of the University were parties; “the cognisance of such cases being a privilege of the Chancellor of the University.” Richard II in 1383 specially confirmed by charter, in definite detail, the Chancellor’s right to exercise jurisdiction over “all manner of personal pleas, whether of debts accounts and any other contracts and wrongs, or of breaches of the peace and misprisions whatsoever, committed within the town of Cambridge and its suburbs (felony and mayhem alone excepted) in which a master or scholar or a scholar’s servant or a common officer of the University is one of the parties;... and to do execution thereon according to their laws and customs”; and to imprison convicted offenders in Cambridge Castle or any other gaol of the town. The award of 1502 made between the University and Town, at the instance of the Lady Margaret, accordingly arranged that the Town gaoler should keep in secure places such persons as should be committed by the Chancellor; and from privileged persons should take no fee, and from all other persons so committed only the fees therein specified.

Henry IV, in his second year, gave a charter which purported to empower the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge to exercise their forensic jurisdiction according to the course of the Civil Law, instead of the doctrines and procedure of the English Common Law. But only six years later, when the Chancellor of Oxford had accordingly tried an action of debt by the methods of Civil Law, this power was pronounced by the whole of the King's judges<sup>1</sup> to be invalid; because, though the King could create new Courts, he could not by his grant alter the law of the land, for neither the Pope nor any other person could change the Common Law without a parliament. Yet the Civil Law procedure continued in use at both Oxford and Cambridge; probably as deriving its authority not from royal charter but from a higher source—that of immemorial custom.

By letters patent of April 26, 1561, Elizabeth declared the University court to be a court of record; and confirmed Richard's grant to it of jurisdiction over civil proceedings (however great the amount in dispute) in which title to land was not concerned, and over criminal proceedings for all offences below the grade of felonies and mayhems, whenever one of the parties to the proceeding enjoyed the privilege of the University. At the same time she provided a higher criminal jurisdiction, by granting that whenever any person enjoying the privilege of the University should be accused by a "layman," at the assizes or quarter-sessions, of having committed treason or felony or mayhem in the town or county of Cambridge, the University might claim the prisoner. He would then be tried by its High Steward (Senescallus Cancellarii); but in the Common Law manner, and accordingly with a jury—half of them being members of the University and half not. For each case, however, a special commission must be obtained from the Lord Chancellor of the realm, to authorise the High Steward to try the offender.

The jurisdiction of the Chancellor's Court Elizabeth directed him to exercise according to the University's "laws and customs in use aforetime"; and she confirmed to the University all the privileges granted by her predecessors. But, as invalidity was suspected in some of these dispositions, the sanction of Parliament to them was obtained a few years later. In 1571 by 13 Eliz. c. 29, her letters patent of 1561, and all other letters patent granted by any of her predecessors to either of the Universities, were declared to be of as full legal effect "as if the same letters patent were recited verbatim in this present Act of Parliament." This "blessed act," as Lord Coke gratefully terms it<sup>2</sup>, placed beyond challenge the authority of the University Court and the power of the Chancellor to employ a Civil Law procedure. Thus he could sit in private, could interrogate the accused, could refuse him the aid of counsel, and could try him without a jury. Almost simultaneously, a room on the east side of the Schools Quadrangle was fitted up<sup>1</sup> as a Consistory Court for the Chancellor's use.

In 1600, as we find from a description of the University submitted by the Registrary (Mr Taber) to Sir Robert Cecil on his becoming Chancellor the Consistory Court sat weekly in term time to administer justice whenever claimed either by or against a person enjoying the privilege of the University. Its procedure, like that of the Ecclesiastical Courts, was by "citation" and "libel." Indeed the essentially ecclesiastical character of the court was shewn by its having power to grant probate of the wills of resident members of the University, by its authority to punish such persons for incontinency, and by its success in "excommunicating divers mayors of the town of Cambridge for impugning the known privileges of the University."<sup>2</sup> It could suspend from degrees, and could imprison; but, by a University statute of 1569, any sentence of imprisonment passed upon a Doctor, or a sentence of expulsion passed on anyone, was ineffectual unless assented to by a majority of the heads of Colleges. From this Court there lay an appeal to the University itself, which would be heard by Delegates elected by the Senate (as in the well-known case of Mr Frend in 1793). Their decision, as Mr Taber noted, would not be open to review by any of the ordinary courts of justice, "the Common Law and Civil Law very much disagreeing, and therefore the one not fit to correct the error of the other." But (according to Blackstone) an appeal would lie to the King in Council. In 1771 we find the Chancellor's Court claiming jurisdiction over a case in which two undergraduate fellow-commoners had been indicted at the Cambridge Quarter Sessions for having assaulted the University Printer at a coffee house in the town<sup>3</sup>.

To exercise the Chancellor's authority there was also an inferior court, in which his Commissary was the judge. It sat both in the University and in Midsummer and Sturbridge Fairs. But it could deal with no case in which anyone of so high a degree as that of a Master of Arts was concerned. From it an appeal lay to the Chancellor's Court; and thence to the University's Delegates.

Probably the maintenance of these jurisdictions was somewhat irksome. At any rate it was found at Oxford, as Dr John Wallis writes thence in 1667 to Sir Leoline Jenkins, that there "the Vice-Chancellor's officers cannot arrest a person, or execute a writ, but they are presently sued for it in the courts above. And, though perhaps it be but a matter of forty shillings, it shall cost the University as many pounds to defend their jurisdiction; the townspeople always countenancing all vexatious actions of this kind, and frequently bearing the charges of them."

Still greater difficulty impeded the exercise of the High Steward's jurisdiction. Blackstone could not find that at Oxford any case had been tried under it since the reign of Charles I. Sir Leoline Jenkins explains the reason. When active in Oxford as Master of Jesus, in 1664, he writes<sup>1</sup> that there the University had sometimes preferred to abandon its claim to try privileged persons, who had committed felony, because of the great cost of obtaining the necessary commission for the High Steward and of bringing him down to Oxford to sit in judgment. Thus, as he tells us, "one Pidessey, the Proctor's man, killed one Marsh... and was tried by the City Justice at the Guildhall and was hanged. Whereas 'twas thought he had not all the justice he ought to have had; and that if he had been tried by the University he might have been saved. And, before that, Dr Dun, who was then student of Christ Church, killed a boy; and brought down a commission and the Sub-Steward, who was then Sergeant Crook; and had his trial by the University; and was acquitted. I ever thought it the safest way for a privileged person to be tried at home. The manner of Dr Dun's trial was this:—the Steward sat in the middle of the bench; the Vice-Chancellor on his right hand; and the doctors and masters sat round about the bench, in their formalities. The trial was in the ordinary form as in other courts."

At Cambridge the High Steward seems not to have tried any case since "many years" before 1798, when Gwillim edited Bacon's Abridgment; though he adds that, as might well be in that age of duelling, "instances have unhappily occurred in which the claim might have been made." Indeed the University Commissioners who reported in 1852 found that the High Steward's jurisdiction had "become in practice a merely nominal power," except in his Court Leet for superintending weights and measures.

In 1828, by the 9 Geo. IV, c. 31, Parliament conferred upon Justices of the Peace sitting in petty sessions a summary jurisdiction over cases of assault; and the Act contained no reservation of the University's hitherto exclusive jurisdiction over cases in which its members were concerned. The Chancellor's Court seems accordingly to have found its business greatly diminished; as undergraduates guilty of assault were henceforward more commonly tried by the Justices than by the Vice-Chancellor or Commissary. The Commissioners in 1852 reported that the Chancellor's Court was already obsolete except in cases of discommuning or of a Universityman's breach of discipline.

For the assertion of the Chancellor's privilege was, they found, "attended with considerable difficulty; in consequence of the formalities required for establishing the claim of cognizance when the complaining party has appealed to the municipal magistrates or to the Superior Courts of Law." Accordingly the way was easy for the Cambridge Award Act, 1856, to provide (s. 18) that "the right of the University, or any officer thereof to claim conusance of any action or criminal proceeding, wherein any person who is not a member of the University shall be a party, shall cease and determine." (At the same time, s. 15, the University's powers in the market and fairs of the borough were abolished.)

Hence the Chancellor, and similarly the High Steward, is now only competent to deal with cases in which both the defendant and also the plaintiff or prosecutor enjoy the privileges of the University. At Oxford the Chancellor's civil jurisdiction retains its original wide range; and, probably on that account, his Court retains some measure of activity. When, in 1865, it successfully claimed cognizance of an action<sup>1</sup> which a wine-merchant had commenced in the Queen's Bench against an undergraduate resident in Oxford, Lord Chief-Justice Cockburn remarked "It is, in general, better that cases should be tried in the superior courts...yet such a local court as this may be extremely useful in deciding questions...which may depend much on the custom of the place and the rules of the University."

A little later the statutes made for the University in 1858 recognized (c. 5, s. 1) the Chancellor's power to hear and determine all controversies of all scholars and their servants summarily, and without any legal formality beyond what these statutes impose, according to the Civil Law and the privileges and customs of the University. As, four years previously, the Oxford University Act, of 1854, had provided (s. 45) that "the Court of the Vice-Chancellor at Oxford shall in all matters of law be governed by the common and statute law of the realm, and not by the rules of the civil law," and that its procedure should be re-modelled on that of the county courts, Cambridge now remained the only home of those civilian doctrines which Blackstone called "the King's Academical laws." In matters of civil litigation that fell under academical jurisdiction (c. 8) our Chancellor's powers might be exercised by the Commissary unless a Master of Arts or one of higher degree was one of the litigants; but in that case the Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor must sit. For matters of penal discipline (c. 7, s. 4) persons in statu pupillari might be tried by the Chancellor sitting alone; but any sentence so grave as deprivation of degree or expulsion must have the consent of a majority of the heads of colleges. After that consent no appeal would lie. But, in the case of such offenders against the statutes and ordinances of the University as had advanced beyond the status pupillaris, a new form of the Chancellor's tribunal was established; by associating with him sex viri biennially elected. He, sitting with at least three of these, was empowered to punish by deprivation or suspension of degrees or any lighter penalty. But an appeal would lie to Delegates appointed by the University.

By the University's present statutes (Statute A, of 27th February, 1882, c. 8) all 'causes and contentions which belong to the cognisance of the University' may be submitted to the judgment of the Chancellor or the Commissary; unless one of the litigants be a person having the degree of Master of Arts or some equal or higher degree, in which case the Chancellor only will have jurisdiction. From the Commissary an appeal lies to the Chancellor; and from him to Delegates appointed by the Senate. These provisions appear to relate to the Chancellor's civil jurisdiction, now practically obsolete<sup>1</sup>. As regards his penal jurisdiction, he is authorized to decline exercising it; he "shall decide whether or not any person charged with any offence shall be prosecuted in his court" (Stat. A, c. 5). At the same time it is expressly recognized (c. 5, s. 1) that for "disobedience to the statutes or ordinances of the University" the Chancellor can at his discretion punish members of the University who are in statu pupillari, by suspension of degree or other lighter sentence. But for graver offences (c. 7) a fuller court of discipline for offenders in statu pupillari is provided; consisting of the Chancellor sitting with six Heads of Colleges periodically appointed. By the concurrence of the Chancellor and three of these Heads a sentence so grave as actual deprivation of degree or rustication or expulsion can be imposed. It was decided by the Court of King's Bench in Frend's case (6 T.R. 89) that the Heads who similarly sat with the Chancellor under Elizabeth's statute were merely his assessors, a check on his severity but not parties to his judgment; but under the statutes of 1882 the six Heads are made component members of the court. For senior members of the University, no longer in statu pupillari, who are charged with offences against the statutes or ordinances of the University, the adjudicating court is to consist, as under the statutes of 1858, of the Chancellor and the Sex Viri (an appeal, as before, lying from them to the University's Delegates). It seems somewhat anomalous, though historically intelligible, that for the more dignified offenders a less dignified tribunal should be provided than for undergraduates.

<sup>1</sup> For a striking instance of its exercise in 1809, see the Life of Isaac Milner, pp. 383—392 and 422—436; also 12 East 13. On the University's claim of cognisance, the litigation was removed from the Court of King's Bench. The cause of action was the oral statement in the Senate House, by the defendant, of the facts which made it impossible for him to vote for the election of the plaintiff as Vice-Chancellor.

By a private Act of Parliament passed in 1894 (57 and 58 Vict. c. LX. s. 5), as the result of amicable negotiations between the Borough Council and the University, the Chancellor's Court ceased to possess a jurisdiction, which Queen Elizabeth's before-mentioned letters patent of 1561 had confirmed to it, over "common women, procuresses, vagabonds and other persons suspected of evil coming or resorting to the town and suburbs," whom it had been authorized to punish "by imprisonment of their bodies, banishment, or otherwise." This jurisdiction had been twice tested, and confirmed, in Queen Victoria's reign by important litigation; in 1861 in Kemp v. Neville<sup>1</sup>, and in 1891-2<sup>2</sup> in Ex parte Hopkins and Hopkins v. Wallis.

In the seventeenth century the great mathematician Wallis insisted, on behalf of Oxford, that unless the chartered jurisdiction of the University Courts were maintained "the government of the University cannot subsist."<sup>3</sup> In the eighteenth century, Lord Mansfield pronounced that jurisdiction to be "essential to the happiness of the University."<sup>4</sup> But in the nineteenth, Lord Chief-Justice Coleridge recognized that this exclusive jurisdiction was appropriate only in "a state of things which has now passed away."<sup>5</sup>

Professorships<sup>1</sup>

THE Professorships are not the oldest teaching posts in the University. The first of the existing Professorships is the Lady Margaret's Professorship of Divinity, founded in 1502, but as early as 1501 Roger Collingwood, M.A., Fellow of Queens', the author of Arithmetica Experimentalis, began to receive a stipend of two marks a year from the University<sup>2</sup>, and the occurrence in the University accounts of the names of a regular series of successors in this office indicates the establishment of professional salaried teaching in mathematics, as distinguished from the ordinary compulsory public lectures of the regent masters and doctors. In 1539-40 the name of Roger Ascham occurs in the succession, and he receives 'xxvj<sup>s</sup> viij<sup>d</sup>' 'pro lectione Mathematica.'<sup>3</sup> The payment of fees to Caius Auberinus (see p. 47 note 1) for a Terence lecture began still earlier, his fees for Long Vacation lectures being entered under date 1492<sup>4</sup>, and after 1511 the payment of salaries to lecturers becomes an important item in the University accounts<sup>5</sup>.

The Regius Professorships were not founded until 1540, but they were preceded by Sir Robert Rede's foundation in 1524 of three Lectureships or Readerships in Humanity, Logic, and Philosophy (see p. 147). It is possible that these Readerships, together with the mathematical Lectureship referred to in the preceding paragraph, are identical with the Praelectorships in Mathematics, Philosophy, Logic, and Rhetoric which are to be found in the reign of Elizabeth<sup>6</sup>. Thus although, as Dean Peacock remarks<sup>7</sup>, 'the establishment of the Regius Professorships was preparatory to a most important change in the system of academical education,' it only accelerated a process, already begun, by which the endowed University teacher displaced the amateur.

In 1590, just fifty years after the foundation of the Regius Professorships, Robert Cooke, Clarenceux King of Arms, granted to the five Regius Professors by letters patent, 'and their 6 The presumption of identity is based not only on the correspondence of the subjects taught, but also on the fact that the appointments described in the Graces as Praelectorships are indexed at the Registry under 'Barnaby Lecturers,' and a list of Praelectors from 1668 to 1683 is bound into a volume entitled 'Rede Lecture' (vol. II)—thus establishing the existence of a definite Registry tradition that the offices were the same. Materials for a list of the holders of these Praelectorships compiled from Grace-Book Δ and three lists of the personnel of the University at different dates preserved among the Lansdowne MSS., were printed by Professor G. C. Moore Smith in the Cambridge Review for February 11, 1914.

Under Statute B. c. xi the University has power to determine from time to time by Grace for every Professorship and Readership the time during which the Professor or Reader shall be bound to reside in the University, care being taken that the Professors and Readers shall as a general rule be resident throughout full term time, provided that in the cases of the Regius Professor of Hebrew and the Ely Professor of Divinity due regard be had to their obligations of residence and other duties as Canons of the Cathedral Church of Ely. This includes the power in exceptional cases to make for particular Professorships a permanent provision that the Professor shall not be bound to reside in the University throughout full term time.

The University also has power to determine from time to time by Grace what is to be held to constitute residence. The Regulations at present governing the residence of Professors and Readers are given in the current issue of the University Calendar.

LADY MARGARET'S PROFESSORSHIP OF DIVINITY

THIS Professorship was founded in 1502 by the LADY MARGARET TUDOR, mother of Henry VII, the Foundress of Christ's and St John's Colleges. The Lady Margaret's stipend of 20 marks per annum was augmented by James I in 1605 with the rectorial tithes of Terrington, Norfolk (of which a portion is now assigned to the endowment of the Norrisian Professorship), and by Mrs Alice Davers in 1625 with a small garden in Cambridge. The 'ancient stipend' of about £10 is still paid by the University.

<sup>1</sup> See Sir W. H. St John Hope's paper On the Armorial Ensigns of the University and Colleges of Cambridge (Cambridge Antiquarian Society, Proceedings and Communications, vii. 107). The original letters patent are preserved in the Registry. They are printed in Endowments, p. 33.

The electors are the Vice-Chancellor, together with the Doctors and Bachelors in Divinity who are also members of the Senate. Candidates are required to be in Holy Orders. If there are more than four applicants the Vice-Chancellor, together with those members of the Special Board for Divinity who are electors and are not themselves applicants, select four of them, and these four are required to deliver a prelection before the electors on some branch of Theology, not exceeding an hour in length, on a day to be fixed by the Vice-Chancellor. No elector may vote who has not heard the prelections of all the candidates. An election cannot be made until a candidate has obtained a majority of those present and voting, and if after six scrutinies no election has been made the appointment for that turn lapses to the Chancellor. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Divinity.

ELECTED

- 1502 John Fisher<sup>1</sup>, D.D., Master of Michaelhouse. Chancellor of the University, 1504. Bishop of Rochester, 1504. President of Queens', 1505. Cardinal, 1535.
 1504 Thomas Cosyn<sup>2</sup>, D.D., Master of Corpus. Chancellor of the University, 1490.
 1506 William Burgoine, B.D. Master of Peterhouse, 1518.
 1511 Desiderius Erasmus, D.D., Queens'.
 1515 John Fawne<sup>3</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Queens'.
 1521 Thomas Ashley, D.D., Fellow of King's.
 1532 William Buckmaster<sup>4</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Peterhouse.
 1538 John Redman<sup>5</sup>, D.D., Fellow of St John's. Public Orator, 1537. Archdeacon of Stafford, 1540; of Taunton, 1547. Master of King's Hall, 1542. Master of Trinity, 1546.
 1542 William Skete, B.D., King's. D.D. 1544.
 1544 William Glyn<sup>6</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Queens'. Fellow of Trinity, 1546. President of Queens', 1553. Bishop of Bangor, 1555.
 1549 John Redman<sup>5</sup>, D.D., a second time.
 1554 Thomas Sedgwick (or Segiswycke)<sup>7</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Regius Professor of Divinity, 1557.
 1556 George Bullock<sup>8</sup>, B.D., Master of St John's. D.D. 1557. Deprived, 1559.
 1559 Robert Beaumont (or Beamond)<sup>9</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Peterhouse. Master of Trinity, 1561. D.D. 1564.
 1561 Matthew Hutton<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Master of Pembroke, 1562. Regius Professor of Divinity, 1562. D.D. 1565. Dean of York, 1567. Bishop of Durham, 1589. Archbishop of York, 1596.
 1563 John Whitgift<sup>11</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Peterhouse. D.D. 1567. Regius Professor of Divinity, 1567. Master of Pembroke, 1567. Master of Trinity, 1567. Dean of Lincoln, 1571. Bishop of Worcester, 1577. Archbishop of Canterbury, 1583.
 1567 William Chaderton (or Chatterton)<sup>12</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Christ's. President of Queens', 1568. D.D. 1569. Regius Professor of Divinity, 1569. Bishop of Chester, 1579; of Lincoln, 1595.

<sup>5</sup> According to Sir John Wynne he was 'a great scholar and a great hebrician,' though Hebrew was 'rare at that time.'

<sup>7</sup> See p. 23. Baker calls him 'a learned, good man, but deeply tinctured,' presumably with Romish doctrine. In his will, however, he desired to be buried without 'the jangling of bells or other Popish ceremonies.'

<sup>9</sup> Entered first at Queens'; then migrated to Pembroke Hall; finally elected to a Fellowship at Peterhouse. Whitgift suggested the revision of the University statutes, carried through in Sept. 1570, by which the election of the Vice-Chancellor and of the Caput was practically left to the Heads. He was himself elected Vice-Chancellor in Nov. 1570, and used the new powers to deprive Cartwright. See p. 24.

<sup>10</sup> Originally at Pembroke. Sir John Harrington describes him as 'a learned and grave doctor, able to lay aside his gravity, even in the pulpit: well beloved by scholars for not affecting any sour or austere fashion, either in teaching or governing.' See also p. 75.

ELECTED

- 1569 Thomas Cartwright<sup>1</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Trinity (formerly Fellow of St John's). Ejected, 1570.
- 1570 John Still<sup>2</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Christ's. D.D. 1575. Master of St John's, 1574; of Trinity, 1577. Archdeacon of Sudbury, 1577; Bishop of Bath and Wells, 1593.
- 1573 John Hansome (Hanson), B.D., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1583.
- 1574 Peter Baro (or Barrowe)<sup>3</sup>, Trinity. L.L.B. (incorp.) 1576. D.D. 1576.
- 1596 Thomas Playfere (or Playford)<sup>4</sup>, D.D., Fellow of St John's.
- 1609 John Davenant<sup>5</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Queens'. D.D. 1609. President of Queens', 1614. Bishop of Salisbury, 1621.
- 1623 Samuel Ward<sup>6</sup>, D.D., Master of Sidney. Archdeacon of Taunton, 1615.
- 1643 Richard Holdsworth<sup>7</sup>, D.D., Master of Emmanuel. Archdeacon of Huntingdon, 1634. Dean of Worcester, 1647.
- 1649 Richard Love<sup>8</sup>, D.D., Master of Corpus. Dean of Ely, 1660.
- 1661 Peter Gunning<sup>9</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Clare. Master of Corpus, 1661; of St John's, 1661. Regius Professor of Divinity, 1661. Bishop of Chichester, 1669; of Ely, 1675.
- 1661 John Pearson<sup>10</sup>, D.D., Master of Jesus. Archdeacon of Surrey, 1660. Master of Trinity, 1662. F.R.S. 1667. Bishop of Chester, 1673.
- 1673 Ralph Widdrington<sup>11</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Christ's. Public Orator, 1650. Regius Professor of Greek, 1654.
- 1688 Humphrey Gower<sup>12</sup>, D.D., Master of St John's. Master of Jesus, 1679.
- 1711 Robert Jenkin<sup>13</sup>, D.D., Master of St John's.
- 1727 John Newcome, D.D., Fellow of St John's. Master of St John's, 1735.
- 1765 Zachary Brooke, D.D., Fellow of St John's.
- 1788 John Mainwaring, B.D., Fellow of St John's.
- 1807 Herbert Marsh<sup>14</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1808. Bishop of Llandaff, 1816; of Peterborough, 1819.
- 1839 John James Blunt, B.D., Fellow of St John's.
- 1855 William Selwyn<sup>15</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1864.
- 1875 Joseph Barber Lightfoot<sup>16</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Hulsean Professor of Divinity, 1861. Bishop of Durham, 1879.

<sup>1</sup> Originally at St John's, and formerly Fellow and Junior Dean. In his lectures as Lady Margaret's Professor on the Acts of the Apostles, he criticized the constitution and hierarchy of the Church, comparing them with those of the primitive Christian organizations, and thus shifted the ground of controversy between Anglicans and Puritans from the service-book and ceremonies to Church government and organization. He may be regarded as the most influential Puritan teacher of his day.

<sup>2</sup> Long reputed on insufficient evidence to be the author of 'Gammer Gurton's Needle.' Sir John Harington wrote of him: 'I hold him a rare man for preaching, for arguing, for learning, for lying; I could only wish that in all these he would make lesse use of logique and more of rhetoricke.'

<sup>3</sup> Peter Baro was a native of France, who by the influence of Lord Burghley, then Chancellor, was admitted to Trinity and incorporated from the University of Bourges. Fuller (p. 229) refers to him as 'a great scholar,' for 'he who denieth learning in Baro (so witnessed in his works) plainly affirmeth no scholarship in himself.'

<sup>7</sup> Originally at St John's; Fellow, 1613. Holdsworth was elected Professor when a prisoner in the Tower as a Royalist by order of the Parliament, and he never returned to Cambridge to take up the duties of the office.

<sup>8</sup> Originally at Clare; Fellow, c. 1615. Lloyd calls him 'a natural wit and orator,' and adds that when Lady Margaret's Professor, he was sure 'to affront any man that put up questions against the doctrines or discipline of the Church of England in the worst of times.'

<sup>9</sup> Tutor of Clare. Both Evelyn and Pepys speak of Gunning very highly, the latter referring over and over again to his 'excellent sermons,' and John Barwick, the Dean of St Paul's, calls him 'the best friend of his soul and by far the most learned of theologians.' But he opposed the newly-founded Royal Society, fearing that researches into natural science might tend to undermine revealed truth.

<sup>10</sup> Entered at Queens', but migrated to King's; Fellow of King's, 1634. Probably the ablest English scholar and systematic theologian of the 17th century. Bentley calls him 'the most excellent Bishop Pearson, the very dust of whose writings is gold.'

<sup>14</sup> Second Wrangler and second Smith's Prize. Marsh by his writings 'introduced into theological study at Cambridge a more scientific and liberal form of Biblical criticism' (D.N.B.). He delivered his professional lectures in English, and not as hitherto in Latin, and his first course was given in Great St Mary's instead of the Divinity Schools, so as to accommodate the crowded audience, which listened to him 'with rapture.' In addition to being 'the best pamphleteer of the day' he was a good chess-player.

<sup>16</sup> Tutor of Trinity; founder of the Lightfoot Scholarships for Ecclesiastical History. For an account of the important influence exercised by him on Cambridge thought see the Dictionary of National Biography.

ELECTED

- 1879 Charles Anthony Swainson<sup>1</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Christ's. Norrisian Professor of Divinity, 1864. Master of Christ's, 1881.
 1887 Fenton John Anthony Hort<sup>2</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Emmanuel. Hulsean Professor of Divinity, 1878.
 1892 Joseph Rawson Lumby<sup>3</sup>, D.D., Fellow of St Catharine's. Norrisian Professor of Divinity, 1879.
 1896 Arthur James Mason<sup>4</sup>, D.D., formerly Fellow of Trinity. Fellow of Jesus, 1896. Master of Pembroke, 1903.
 1903 Alexander Francis Kirkpatrick<sup>5</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Regius Professor of Hebrew, 1882. Master of Selwyn, 1898. Dean of Ely, 1906.
 1907 [-11] William Ralph Inge<sup>6</sup>, B.D., formerly Fellow of King's. Fellow of Jesus, 1907. D.D. 1910. Dean of St Paul's, 1911.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIP OF DIVINITY

THIS Professorship was founded by HENRY VIII in 1540. The original stipend of £40 per annum was augmented by James I in 1605 with the Rectory of Somersham, Hunts. The endowment was further augmented in 1878 by a bequest of £1000 from George Jeremy, M.A., of Lea Coombe House, Axminster. By an Act of 1882 the Rectory of Somersham was severed from the Professorship, the Professor to receive one-half of the net income of the benefice.

The Regius Professor was required by the Statutes of Elizabeth of 1572 to preach a sermon every year on May 8, in commemoration of King Henry VII, whose Benefaction of 1504 assigned £10 a year 'to be employed and disposed for the common wele' of the University.

The electors are the Council of the Senate. The candidates, who must be Bachelors or Doctors of Divinity and Clerks in Holy Orders, are required to 'expound openly in the Public Schools for the space of one hour a part of Holy Scripture' assigned by the electors. No elector is allowed to vote who has not attended the expositions of all the candidates. Present stipend (1915), about £700 exclusive of any Fellowship. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Divinity.

ELECTED

- 1540 Guy Wygan, D.D.
 ? John Madew, D.D., Fellow of St John's. Master of Clare, 1549.
 1550 Martin Bucer<sup>7</sup>, D.D. 1550.
 1555 John Young<sup>8</sup>, D.D., Master of Pembroke.

1 Originally at Trinity; Tutor of Christ's, 1847-51. He was the author of important works on the Creeds and the Greek Liturgies.

2 Originally at Trinity. For his remarkable work in association with his friends Lightfoot and Westcott, see the Life by Arthur Fenton Hort, 1893.

3 Originally at Magdalene. Vicar of St Edward's, Cambridge, 1875. For an account of his work, see the Dictionary of National Biography.

4 See p. 28.

5 See p. 77.

6 Fellow and Tutor of Hertford College, Oxford, 1889-1904.

7 Educated at Heidelberg. Invited to England by Cranmer, who had already appointed his former colleague, Peter Martyr, to the Regius Professorship of Divinity at Oxford. John Madew at once retired from the Professorship in his favour, and the stipend was increased to £100, 'the ordinary salary tripled,' says Fuller (p. 244), 'as well it might, considering his worth, being of so much merit; his need, having wife and children; and his condition, coming hither a foreigner, fetched from a far country.' Bucer's views as Professor excited much controversy in Cambridge, but when he died, Feb. 28, 1551, 3000 people attended his funeral. He was buried in Great St Mary's Church, but during the visitation of the University under Queen Mary in 1557 his body was exhumed and publicly burned on Market Hill.

8 Formerly Fellow of St John's, and afterwards of Trinity. As Regius Professor, Young delivered a series of lectures entitled 'Enarrationes Joelis Prophetæ,' which he dedicated to Cardinal Pole: they are now among the Rawlinson MSS. in the Bodleian Library. He had been one of Bucer's principal critics.

ELECTED

- 1557 Thomas Sedgwick (or Segiswycke)<sup>1</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1554.
 1559 James Pilkington, B.D., Master of St John's. Bishop of Durham, 1561.
 1561 Leonard Pilkington<sup>2</sup>, B.D., Master of St John's. D.D. 1564.
 1562 Matthew Hutton<sup>3</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Trinity. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1561. Master of Pembroke, 1562. D.D. 1565. Dean of York, 1567. Bishop of Durham, 1589. Archbishop of York, 1596.
 1567 John Whitgift<sup>4</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Peterhouse. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1563. Master of Pembroke, 1567; of Trinity, 1567. Dean of Lincoln, 1571. Bishop of Worcester, 1577. Archbishop of Canterbury, 1583.
 1569 William Chaderton<sup>5</sup> (or Chatterton), D.D., President of Queens'. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1567. Bishop of Chester, 1579; of Lincoln, 1595.
 1580 William Whitaker<sup>6</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Trinity. Master of St John's, 1586. D.D. 1587.
 1596 John Overall<sup>7</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Master of St Catharine's, 1598. Dean of St Paul's, 1602. Bishop of Lichfield, 1614; of Norwich, 1618.
 1607 John Richardson<sup>8</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Emmanuel. Master of Peterhouse, 1608; of Trinity, 1615.
 1617 Samuel Collins<sup>9</sup>, D.D., Provost of King's.
 1651 John Arrowsmith<sup>10</sup>, D.D., Master of St John's. Master of Trinity, 1653.
 1656 Anthony Tuckney<sup>11</sup>, D.D., Master of St John's. Master of Emmanuel, 1644.
 1661 Peter Gunning<sup>12</sup>, D.D., Master of Corpus. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1661. Master of St John's, 1661. Bishop of Chichester, 1669; of Ely, 1675.
 1674 Joseph Beaumont<sup>13</sup>, D.D., Master of Peterhouse. Master of Jesus, 1662.
 1700 Henry James, D.D., President of Queens'.
 1717 Richard Bentley<sup>14</sup>, D.D., Master of Trinity.
 1742 John Whalley, D.D., Master of Peterhouse.
 1749 John Green<sup>15</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1749. Master of Corpus, 1750. Dean of Lincoln, 1756; Bishop of Lincoln, 1761.
 1756 Thomas Rutherford, D.D., Fellow of St John's. F.R.S. 1743. Archdeacon of Essex, 1752.
 1771 Richard Watson<sup>16</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Professor of Chemistry, 1764. F.R.S. 1769. Archdeacon of Ely, 1779-82; Bishop of Llandaff, 1782.

<sup>2</sup> Baker conjectures, with regard to his early resignation of the Professorship, that he was 'either weary of the charge or not so equal to the business.' Baker also says of him that he was 'a good preacher rather than a great divine.'

<sup>7</sup> Graduated from St John's; Junior Dean of Trinity. He told Thomas Fuller, the elder, that having to preach before the Queen, 'he had spoken Latin so long it was troublesome to him to speak English in a continued oration.' He was one of the revisers of the Old Testament.

<sup>8</sup> An excellent Hebraist, he was appointed one of the translators of the Bible. Some notes of his for professorial lectures are preserved in manuscript in the University Library. He was one of the first of the Cambridge divines to revolt against Calvinism, and 'being a corpulent man, he was publicly reproached, in St Marie's pulpit in his own University, by the name of a Fat-bellied Arminian.'

<sup>9</sup> 'He was reckoned the most fluent Latinist of his age, and was remarkable for his admirable wit and memory' (D.N.B.).

<sup>10</sup> Originally at St John's, but afterwards Fellow of St Catharine's. See also p. 25.

<sup>11</sup> Originally at Emmanuel. When Tuckney was Master of St John's, it is said that he was urged to give special weight to piety in electing to Fellowships, but declined, being 'determined to choose none but scholars, adding very wisely, they may deceive me in their godliness, they cannot in their scholarship.' See p. 25, note 5.

<sup>16</sup> Richard Watson was distinguished as a chemist, and, as he himself put it, 'knew as much of Divinity as could reasonably be expected of a man whose course of studies had been directed to, and whose time had been fully occupied in, other pursuits.' But the Regius Professorship had 'long been the secret object' of his ambition, and 'by hard travelling, we are told, and 'some adroitness,' he obtained the king's mandate and was created D.D. just in time for the election. He then devoted himself to theological studies, and edited 'A Collection of Theological Tracts.' In 1787, however, under medical advice, he appointed as his deputy Thomas Kipling, of St John's, the editor of the Codex Bezae, and left Cambridge. See also p. 86, note 2.

<sup>17</sup> Senior Wrangler and first Chancellor's Medallist, 1804. Tutor of Christ's, 1808-14. As Regius Professor, Kaye revived the public lectures which had been suspended for more than a century. He was the first to recall theological students to the study of the Fathers, and recent research has not much diminished the value of his published courses of lectures.

ELECTED

- 1827 Thomas Turton<sup>1</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St Catharine's. Lucasian Professor of Mathematics, 1822. D.D. 1828. Dean of Peterborough, 1830; of Westminster, 1842. Bishop of Ely, 1845.
 1843 Alfred Ollivant<sup>2</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Bishop of Llandaff, 1849.
 1850 James Amiraux Jeremie<sup>3</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Trinity. Christian Advocate, 1833. D.D. 1850. Dean of Lincoln, 1864.
 1870 Brooke Foss Westcott<sup>4</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Bishop of Durham, 1890.
 1890[–1915] Henry Barclay Swete, D.D., Fellow of Caius. Emeritus Professor of Divinity, 1915.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIP OF HEBREW

THIS Professorship, founded by HENRY VIII in 1540, with a stipend of £40 per annum, was further endowed in 1848 with a Canonry of Ely Cathedral.

The electors are the Council of the Senate. The candidates are required to 'expound openly in the Public Schools for the space of one hour a part of...a book written in the Hebrew...language' assigned by the electors. No elector is allowed to vote who has not attended the expositions of all the candidates. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Oriental Studies.

The first Professor was appointed by the Founder's letters patent.

APPOINTED

- 1540 Thomas Wakefield<sup>5</sup>, M.A. Afterwards Trinity.
 6[1549 Paul Fagius<sup>7</sup>. Matriculated from Trinity May 20, 1550.]
 6[1550 John Immanuel Tremellius<sup>8</sup>.]
 6[1569 Anthony Rodolph Chevallier<sup>9</sup>.]
 6[1572 Philip Bignon<sup>10</sup>.]
 1575 Edward Lively (or Lyveley)<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1605 Robert Spalding<sup>11</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's.
 1607 Geoffrey Kynge, B.D., Fellow of King's.

1 Entered at Queens'; graduated as Senior Wrangler from St Catharine's, 1805; Tutor of St Catharine's. He was 'the composer of several excellent pieces of church music.'

2 One of the revisers of the Old Testament.

3 Founder of the Jeremie Septuagint Prizes (see p. 330 below).

4 An account of Westcott's profound influence upon Cambridge thought will be found in the Life by his son, Arthur Westcott, 1903.

5 He was educated at Cambridge but his College is not known, although in virtue of his Professorship he became a member of Trinity soon after its foundation (Cooper, Athen. Cantabr. i. 337).

6 Wakefield had been appointed Professor for life, but as he was an adherent of the old religion, he was displaced by others during the reign of Edward VI. He resumed his lectures during Mary's reign, but Chevallier was again acting as 'King's Reader in Hebrew' from 1569. This was the earlier designation of the Professorship, but during Wakefield's lifetime his successors do not appear to have been formally admitted into it (Luard, Graduati, p. 620). He died in 1575.

7 Professor of Hebrew at Strasburg, 1544–6, and Heidelberg, 1546–9. When he was deposed from his offices in 1549, he was invited to England by Crammer, and appointed to act as Reader in Hebrew, but he died of fever in Cambridge the same year. He had written portions of a course of lectures on Isaiah. He was buried in St Michael's Church, Nov. 24, 1549, but in Queen Mary's reign his body was exhumed and publicly burned.

8 A Jew of Ferrara who had been converted by Cardinal Pole. He was invited to England in 1547 by Crammer and resided at Lambeth Palace until his appointment to succeed Fagius in 1550. On the accession of Mary he took refuge on the Continent, and in 1561 became Professor of Old Testament studies at Heidelberg. His great work was a translation of the Bible from Hebrew and Syriac into Latin.

9 Born in Normandy. Settled in Cambridge; lodged with Tremellius and gave free lectures in Hebrew. Took refuge abroad at Mary's accession and became Professor of Hebrew at Strasburg, 1559. Returned to London, 1568; but he was in Paris at the time of the massacre of St Bartholomew and his death is attributed to the sufferings he underwent as a fugitive.

10 Lord Burghley as Chancellor had recommended the election of Philip Bignon, who was a native of France, but Edward Lively, who had received instruction in Hebrew from the famous John Drusius, was unanimously chosen. He was one of the translators of the Authorised Version.

11 Hebrew lecturer and Junior Dean of St John's. He also was one of the translators of the Authorised Version (Cooper, Athen. Cantabr. ii. 479).

ELECTED

- 1608 Andrew Byng<sup>1</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Peterhouse. Archdeacon of Norwich, 1618.
 c. 1622 Robert Metcalfe<sup>2</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's, and afterwards Fellow and Vice-Master of Trinity. D.D. 1630.
 1645 Ralph Cudworth<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Master of Clare. D.D. 1651. Master of Christ's, 1654.
 1688 Wolfran Stubbe, D.D., Trinity.
 1699 James Talbot, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1705.
 1705 Henry Sike<sup>4</sup>, LL.D., Trinity.
 1712 Philip Bouquett<sup>5</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity.
 1748 Thomas Harrison, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. B.D. 1751.
 1753 Charles Torriano, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1757 William Disney, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1789.
 1771 William Collier<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. B.D. 1789.
 1790 John Porter, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1792. Bishop of Killala, 1795; of Clogher, 1798.
 1795 Henry Lloyd, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1804.
 1831 Samuel Lee<sup>7</sup>, B.D., Queens'. D.D. 1833. Sir Thomas Adams's Professor of Arabic, 1819.
 1848 William Hodge Mill<sup>8</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Christian Advocate, 1839.
 1854 Thomas Jarrett<sup>9</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St Catharine's. Sir Thomas Adams's Professor of Arabic, 1831.
 1882 Alexander Francis Kirkpatrick<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1892. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1903. Master of Selwyn, 1898. Dean of Ely, 1906.
 1903 Robert Hatch Kennett, M.A., Fellow of Queens'. D.D. 1911.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIP OF GREEK

THIS Professorship was founded by HENRY VIII in 1540, with a stipend of £40 per annum, and was further endowed in 1848 with the Canonry of Ely Cathedral now annexed to the Ely Professorship of Divinity (see p. 106).

The electors are the Council of the Senate. The candidates are required to 'expound openly in the Public Schools for the space of one hour a part of...a book written in the...Greek language' assigned by the electors. No elector is allowed to vote who has not attended the expositions of all the candidates.

Stipend, £360 from the University and £290 from Trinity College. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Classics.

1 He also was one of the translators of the Authorised Version.

2 Duport speaks of him as a man of singularly retired habits, leading a solitary life among his books in his College chamber. The date of his election to the Professorship is uncertain.

3 Originally Fellow and Tutor of Emmanuel, Sir William Temple being one of his pupils. Cudworth was the leader of the 'Cambridge Platonists.'

4 A famous Oriental scholar from Bremen. The Professorship actually fell vacant in 1704, but Sike, who was abroad, was not admitted until 1705. During this interval the office was temporarily discharged by Philip Bouquett. Dr Sike hanged himself in his rooms at Trinity, May 20, 1712.

5 Cole describes him as 'born in France, an old, miserly refugee, who died rich in College and left his money among the French refugees.'

6 Tutor of Trinity. Gunning says of him that he was 'an admirable classic, and particularly well versed in modern languages (at that time a very rare accomplishment in the University).' He also tells a story to illustrate the fact that he was 'a notorious gourmand' (Reminiscences, ii. 119).

7 See p. 82. Educated at a village school and at the age of twelve apprenticed to a carpenter; but he managed to learn Greek and Hebrew, and before he was twenty-five he had made some progress in Chaldee, Syriac, Samaritan, Persian, and Hindustani. He was brought to Cambridge under the auspices of the Church Missionary Society. It was said that he knew eighteen languages.

8 See p. 98. First Principal of Bishop's College, Calcutta, 1820-38. He was best known as a Sanskrit and Arabic scholar. His lectures as Professor were chiefly on the text of the Psalms.

9 He knew at least twenty languages, and taught Hebrew, Arabic, Sanskrit, Persian, Gothic, and indeed almost any language for which he could find a student. He spent much time in the transliteration of Oriental languages into the Roman character, according to a system devised by himself; and also in promulgating a system of printing English with diacritical marks to show the sound of each vowel without changing the spelling of the word' (D.N.B.).

ELECTED

- <sup>1</sup>1540 [Sir] John Cheke<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Public Orator, 1542. Provost of King's, 1548. Knighted, 1551. King's Secretary, 1553.
- 1547 Nicholas Carr<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.D. 1558.
- 1549 Francis Encinas<sup>4</sup>.
- 1562 Bartholomew Dodington<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
- 1585 Andrew Downes<sup>6</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's.
- 1625 Robert Creighton (or Critone<sup>7</sup>), M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Public Orator, 1627. Archdeacon of Stow, 1641. Dean of Wells. Bishop of Eath and Wells, 1670.
- 1639 James Dupont<sup>8</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1660. Dean of Peterborough, 1664. Master of Magdalene, 1668.
- 1654 Ralph Widdrington<sup>9</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. Public Orator, 1650. D.D. 1660. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1673.
- 1660 Isaac Barrow<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Lucasian Professor of Mathematics, 1664. D.D. 1666. Master of Trinity, 1672.
- 1663 James Valentine, B.D., Fellow of Trinity.
- 1666 Robert Creighton (or Critten<sup>11</sup>), M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1678.
- 1672 (23 Apr.) Thomas Gale (or Gayle)<sup>12</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1675. F.R.S. 1677. Dean of York, 1697.
- 1672 (30 Oct.) Hon. John North<sup>13</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Jesus. Master of Trinity, 1677.
- 1674 Benjamin Pulleyn, B.D., Fellow of Trinity.
- 1686 Michael Payne, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
- 1695 Joshua Barnes<sup>14</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Emmanuel.
- 1712 Thomas Pilgrim, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. B.D. 1716.
- 1726 Walter Taylor, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. B.D. 1736.
- 1744 William Fraigneau<sup>15</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
- 1750 Thomas Francklin<sup>16</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1770.

<sup>3</sup> First at Christ's and afterwards at Pembroke, of which he was a Fellow. On the foundation of Trinity in 1546 he was nominated one of the original Fellows there. He practised in Cambridge as a physician while still Professor of Greek. There is a monument to him in St Giles's Church.

<sup>4</sup> Francis Encinas, commonly known by the name of Dryander, and also as Du Chene, Van Eyck, and Eichman, being translations of the word encina, an oak, was a native of Burgos in Spain. In 1548 he came to England as a refugee, with letters of introduction from Melancthon to King Edward VI and Archbishop Crammer, and Crammer sent him to Cambridge to be Reader in Greek. At the end of 1549, however, he went abroad again and does not appear to have returned (Cooper, Athen. Cantabr. i. 292).

<sup>6</sup> He revived the study of Greek in St John's, where it had been almost abandoned. He was Professor of Greek for thirty-nine years, and also gave private lectures at his house. D'Ewes describes him as he was in 1629: 'I was, during the latter part of my stay at Cambridge, for the most part a diligent frequenter of Mr Downes's Greek lectures, he reading upon one of Demosthenes's Greek orations, "De Corona." When I came to his house near the Public Schools he sent for me up into a chamber, where I found him sitting in a chair, with his legs upon a table that stood by him. He neither stirred his hat nor body, but only took me by the hand, and instantly fell into discourse (after a word or two, of course, passed between us) touching matters of learning and criticism. He was of personage big and tall, long-faced and ruddy, coloured, and his eyes very lively, although I took him to be at that time at least seventy years old.' Downes was one of the translators of the Apocrypha for the Authorised Version. He is commemorated by a mural tablet in Coton Church.

<sup>8</sup> See p. 25. Dupont continued to lecture during the Civil War, but in 1654 he was ejected from his Professorship by the Commission for visiting the University and Ralph Widdrington was appointed in his place. At the Restoration, however, he resumed office, although he soon resigned in favour of Isaac Barrow. He was Tutor of Trinity for thirty years; among his pupils were Isaac Barrow, John Ray the naturalist, and the ill-fated Lord Russell. He was also Vice-Master from 1655 until he left Cambridge to be Dean of Peterborough in 1694. Bishop Monk says of him that he was 'the main instrument by which literature was upheld in this University during the civil dissensions in the seventeenth century, and though seldom named and little known at present, he enjoyed an almost transcendent reputation for a great length of time among his contemporaries, as well as in the generation which immediately succeeded.'

<sup>10</sup> First entered at Peterhouse, the College of his uncle, Isaac Barrow, afterwards Bishop of St Asaph, but migrated to Trinity before residence. He was not very successful as Professor of Greek and it is as a mathematician and theologian that he is most famous. John Locke regarded his sermons as 'masterpieces of their kind' and Bishop Warburton 'liked them because they obliged him to think,' while Charles II called him 'an unfair preacher, because he exhausted every topic, and left no room for anything new to be said by any one who came after him.'

<sup>12</sup> He resigned the Professorship after a short tenure to become High Master of St Paul's School.

<sup>13</sup> Fifth son of the fourth Baron North. He was only twenty-eight years of age when elected to the Professorship, but 'Greek,' says his brother Roger North, 'became almost vernacular to him.'

<sup>14</sup> Bentley describes him as 'one of a singular industry and a most diffuse reading,' and he used to pay him the doubtful compliment of saying that he 'knew as much Greek as a Greek cobbler.'

<sup>15</sup> He was of Huguenot extraction, and is described by Cole as 'a little man of great life and vivacity.'

<sup>16</sup> For the controversy between the Regius Professor of Greek and the Senior Proctor in connexion with a dinner of old Westminster boys at the Tuns Tavern to commemorate the accession of Queen Elizabeth, see Wordsworth, Social Life at the English Universities in the Eighteenth Century, pp. 70-6. Francklin translated Sophocles and Lucian and wrote much for the press and the stage.

ELECTED

- 1759 Michael Lort<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. F.R.S. 1766. D.D. 1780.
 1771 James Lambert<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1780 William Cooke, M.A., Fellow of King's.
 1792 Richard Porson<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1808 James Henry Monk<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1822. Dean of Peterborough, 1822; Bishop of Gloucester, 1830.
 1823 Peter Paul Dobree<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1825 James Scholefield<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1853 William Hepworth Thompson<sup>7</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Master of Trinity, 1866. D.D. 1867.
 1867 Benjamin Hall Kennedy<sup>8</sup>, D.D., Fellow of St John's.
 1889 [Sir] Richard Claverhouse Jebb<sup>9</sup>, Litt.D., Fellow of Trinity. Public Orator, 1869. M.P. for the University, 1891. Knighted, 1900. O.M. 1905.
 1906 Henry Jackson, Litt.D., Fellow of Trinity. O.M. 1908.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIP OF PHYSIC

FOUNDED by HENRY VIII in 1540, with a stipend of £40 per annum. A house and premises were bequeathed to the University by Mr Crane in 1652 for the use of the Professor, but as the site was required for the building of the Senate-House in 1724, they were exchanged for property in Market Street.

The stipend is £700 per annum paid by the University (or £500 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or a Fellowship). The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Medicine.

The Professor is appointed by the King.

APPOINTED

- 1540 John Blyth<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Fellow of King's. M.D. (by incorporation from Ferrara 1543).
 11 c. 1554 John Hatcher<sup>12</sup>, M.D., Fellow of St John's.
 c. 1555 Henry Walker<sup>13</sup>, M.D., Caius.
 1564 Thomas Lorkin<sup>14</sup>, M.D., Fellow of Peterhouse.
 ? 1591 William Ward<sup>15</sup>, M.D., Fellow of King's.

1 In 1768 he applied for the Professorship of Modern History when the poet Gray was appointed, who described him as 'a worthy man,' and added, 'I wish he could have it, or something as good.' Madame d'Arbly speaks of his 'good and very original physiognomy.'

2 Bursar of Trinity, 1789-99. It is stated in the Dictionary of National Biography that a road connecting the Trumpington and Hills Roads is 'still known by the name of the Via Lambertina.' See Gunning, Renaissance, II, 120.

3 After his election Porson continued to live in London and did not lecture, in this following the example of his more recent predecessors; but his grant services to Greek scholarship are described in the Dictionary of National Biography, Sir John Sandys's History of Classical Scholarship, and elsewhere.

4 As Regius Professor, Monk published several tracts advocating the establishment of a Classical Tripos. He was also the author of a Life of Richard Bentley.

5 As a classical scholar Dobree has been compared to Porson, whom in some ways he closely resembled. His health gave way soon after his election to the Professorship, and he only held it for two years. He is buried close to Porson in Trinity College Chapel.

6 Scholefield's chief service to classical literature was the collection and publication of the works of his predecessor. When in 1849 the stipend of £40 which he received as Professor was augmented by a Canonry at Ely, he at once abolished fees for admission to his professorial lectures. He is commemorated by the Scholefield Prize (see p. 326).

7 Tutor of Trinity, 1844-53.

8 An account of the famous Headmaster of Shrewsbury will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography. His compositions in Greek and Latin were those of a poet as well as a scholar, and he had a profound and minute knowledge of English History.

9 See p. 50, note 2.

10 He travelled abroad and acquired skill in medicine, taking the M.D. degree at Ferrara. He married Sir John Cheke's sister (Cooper, Athen. Cantabr. i, 174).

11 The exact date of Hatcher's appointment is not known, but his predecessor was confirmed in office by letters patent of May 11, 1554.

12 V.C. 1579; see p. 24.

13 See Cooper, Athen. Cantabr. i, 231.

14 Originally at Penbroke; afterwards for a short time Fellow of Queens'. In 1590 he obtained a grant of arms for the five Regius Professors (see p. 71). He bequeathed his books on physic to the University Library.

15 Ward was a translator of medical works. In a letter of dedication he protests against the folly of 'some curious Christians among us nowadays... which most impudently despise all manner of medicines,' and defends the 'heavenly science' of physic.

APPOINTED

- 11596 William Burton, M.A., Fellow of King's.
 1623 John Gostlyn<sup>2</sup>, M.D., Master of Caius.
 1625 John Collins<sup>3</sup>, M.D., Fellow of St John's.
 1635 Ralph Winterton<sup>4</sup>, M.D., Fellow of King's.
 1636 Francis Glisson<sup>5</sup>, M.D., Fellow of Caius.
 1677 Robert Brady<sup>6</sup>, M.D., Master of Caius. M.P. for the University, 1681.
 1700 Christopher Greene, M.D., Fellow of Caius.
 1741 Russell Plumtree, M.D., Fellow of Queens'.
 1793 [Sir] Isaac Pennington<sup>7</sup>, M.D., Fellow of St John's. Professor of Chemistry, 1773. Knighted, 1796.
 1817 John Haviland<sup>8</sup>, M.D., Fellow of St John's. Professor of Anatomy, 1814.
 1851 Henry John Hayles Bond<sup>9</sup>, M.D., Corpus.
 1872 [Sir] George Edward Paget<sup>10</sup>, M.D., Fellow of Caius. K.C.B. 1885.
 1892 [Sir] Thomas Clifford Allbutt, M.D., Fellow of Caius. K.C.B. 1907.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIP OF CIVIL LAW

FOUNDED by HENRY VIII in 1540, with a stipend of £40 per annum. Present stipend (1915) £800 paid by the University (or £600 if the Professor holds a Headship or a Fellowship). The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Law.

The Professor is appointed by the King, to continue in office durante bene placito.

APPOINTED

- 1542 [Sir] Thomas Smith<sup>11</sup>, LL.D., Fellow of Queens'. Public Orator, 1538. Provost of Eton, 1547. Dean of Carlisle, 1547. Knighted, 1548. King's Secretary, 1548: Queen's Secretary, 1572. Ambassador to France, 1562.
 12[1545] Humphrey Busby, LL.D., Fellow of Trinity Hall.
 1551 Walter Haddon<sup>13</sup>, LL.D., King's. Master of Trinity Hall, 1552. President of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1552.
 1559 William Drury, LL.B., Trinity Hall. LL.D. 1559. Master in Chancery, 1585.
 1561 William Sone (Soone, or Zoone)<sup>14</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Gonville Hall. Fellow of Trinity Hall, 1561-4.

<sup>1</sup> By letters patent dated 8 November 1596, William Ward and William Burton were appointed jointly 'Readers in Medicine or the Medical Art' with a stipend of £40, but Ward is referred to as having already held the position alone. As Thomas Lorkin died in 1591, Ward's first appointment probably dated from that year. He died in 1609, so presumably Burton held office alone from that date.

<sup>4</sup> The work which obtained him the Regius Professorship was an edition of the Aphorisms of Hippocrates, containing Latin and Greek epigrams in praise of Winterton's work by the Regius Professors of Physic at Cambridge and Oxford; by the President and seventeen Fellows of the College of Physicians; by Francis Glisson, his successor in the Chair; by members of every College in Cambridge except one, and of several Colleges in Oxford; and concluding with twenty epigrams by members of King's. Laudatory opinions in prose by the Masters of Peterhouse, Christ's, and Trinity, the President of Queens', and two Professors of Divinity are also included, so that no Cambridge medical work has ever received so high a degree of academical commendation. In the year of his appointment the Regius Professors of Divinity and Law, as well as Physic, were members of King's.

<sup>5</sup> Glisson's treatise on rickets, published in 1650, is, with the exception of 'Caius on the Sweating Sickness,' a much less thorough work, the first monograph on a disease published in England, and to some of his descriptions subsequent writers have added little. It has been described as 'one of the glories of English medicine.' He was one of the original Fellows of the Royal Society.

<sup>6</sup> See p. 30. He acted as deputy for his predecessor for two years before his appointment to the Professorship. He was a historian as well as a physician and at one time held the office of Keeper of the Records in the Tower.

<sup>7</sup> See p. 86 and p. 175. He was not admitted to the Professorship until June 14, 1794.

<sup>8</sup> See p. 88. He was the first Professor who gave regular courses on pathology and the practice of medicine; and he did much to make medical examinations real and satisfactory.

<sup>10</sup> An account of Sir George Paget's influence upon medical teaching in the University will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography and in the Memoir attached to Charles R. Paget's edition of his Lectures, published in 1933.

<sup>11</sup> See p. 48, note 5. Sir Thomas Smith was the rival of Cheke as a classical scholar, and he was also an accomplished 'physician, mathematician, astronomer, architect, historian, and orator.'

<sup>14</sup> As he refused to accept the reformed doctrines, Sone left England and was for some years Professor of Law at the University of Louvain. Later he went to Antwerp and acted as assistant to the famous geographer, Abraham Ortelius.

APPOINTED

- 1563 William Clarke<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Clare. LL.D. 1569.

 1847 [Sir] Henry James Sumner Maine<sup>11</sup>, M.A. LL.D. 1847. K.C.S.I. 1871. Master of Trinity Hall, 1877. Whewell Professor of International Law, 1887.
 1854 John Thomas Abdy, LL.D., Fellow of Trinity Hall.
 1873[-1913] Edwin Charles Clark, M.A., LL.M., Fellow of Trinity. LL.D. 1875. Fellow of St John's, 1883. Emeritus Professor of Law, 1913.

SIR THOMAS ADAMS'S PROFESSORSHIP OF ARABIC

FOUNDED in 1632 by Mr Thomas Adams, draper, of London, afterwards Sir THOMAS ADAMS, Bart., and endowed by him with £40 per annum. This sum is still paid to the University by the Drapers' Company as Trustees of the Benefaction. The Reverend John Palmer, B.D., Fellow of St John's, Arabic Professor, 1804-19, bequeathed £1000 in 1840 for the perpetual augmentation of the stipend.

A letter of thanks to the Founder from the Vice-Chancellor and Heads, dated May 9, 1636, refers to the maintenance of a Professor of Arabic in the University as tending 'not onely to the advancement of good Literature by bringing to light much knowledge which as yet is lockt upp in that learned tongue;

1 Formerly Fellow of Gonville Hall. 2 See p. 24. 3 See p. 48, note 12.
 4 See p. 24, note 3. 5 He had been appointed Reader of Logic in 1620.
 6 Entered first at Peterhouse. 7 See p. 31.
 8 Formerly Fellow of Jesus, and Praelector, Dean, Tutor, Steward, and Bursar. Migrated to Trinity Hall, 1760, and was soon afterwards appointed Tutor. Sir Egerton Brydges, who attended his law lectures, describes him as 'a mild, courteous little man, accomplished with learning, and of a clear intellect, not only of no force, but even languid.' He was the first English bishop who was translated to a Welsh see.
 9 Originally at Trinity, but migrated to Trinity Hall, where he was Tutor, 1775-95. He was a man of small stature, and when he laid out a garden in the angle between the two divisions of the east front of Trinity Hall, someone is said to have posted up the following couplet:
 'This little garden little Jowett made,
 Surrounded by this little palisade.'
 Soon after another couplet was found written below:
 'But little wit had little Dr Jowett,
 And little did this little garden show it.'
 This is the version given in the Cambridge Portfolio (i. p. 141), but there are several others. The lines were afterwards turned into Latin thus:
 'Exiguum hunc hortum fecit Jowettulus iste
 Exiguus vallo et munit exiguus.
 Exiguus hoc horto forsan—Jowettulus iste
 Exiguus mentem prodidit exiguum.'

In Ackerman's History of the University (1815), i. 164, it is said that Jowett 'was an elegant scholar and a man of mild and amiable manners.'

10 Originally at Trinity Hall; Fellow of St Catharine's, 1808; Fellow and Tutor of Trinity Hall, 1809.

11 See p. 101, note 1. He was admitted to the Professorship June 21, 1847, and to the Degree of LL.D. by mandate the same day.

but also to the good service of the King and State in our commerce with those Easterne nations, and in Gods good time to the enlarging of the borders of the Church, and propagation of Christian religion to them who now sitt in darkenesse.

The present stipend is £700 per annum (or £500 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or a Fellowship). This Professorship can be held in conjunction with the Lord Almoner's Readership in Arabic, but not with any other Professorship. The candidate must be well learned (probe eruditus), and skilled in the Oriental Languages, especially the Arabic. The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Oriental Studies, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1632 Abraham Wheelock<sup>1</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Clare. Librarian. 1629. Died, 1653.
 1666 Edmund Castell<sup>2</sup>, D.D., Emmanuel.
 1685 John Luke, D.D., Fellow of Christ's.
 1702 Charles Wright, D.D., Fellow of Trinity.
 1711 Simon Ockley<sup>3</sup>, B.D., Queens'.
 1720 Leonard Chappelow<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's. B.D. 1723. Lord Almoner's Reader in Arabic, 1729.
 1768 Samuel Hallifax<sup>5</sup>, LL.D., Fellow of Trinity Hall. Lord Almoner's Reader in Arabic, 1768. Regius Professor of Civil Law, 1770. D.D. 1775. Bishop of Gloucester, 1781; of St Asaph, 1789.
 1770 William Craven, B.D., Fellow of St John's. Lord Almoner's Reader in Arabic, 1770. Master of St John's, 1789. D.D. 1789.
 1795 Joseph Dacre Carlyle<sup>6</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Queens'.
 1804 John Palmer<sup>7</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's.
 1819 Samuel Lee<sup>8</sup>, M.A., Queens'. D.D. 1833. Regius Professor of Hebrew, 1831.
 1831 Thomas Jarrett<sup>9</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St Catharine's. Regius Professor of Hebrew, 1854.
 1854 Henry Griffin Williams, B.D., Fellow of Emmanuel.
 1870 William Wright<sup>10</sup>, Hon. LL.D., Fellow of Queens'. M.A. 1872.
 1889 William Robertson Smith<sup>11</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. Lord Almoner's Reader in Arabic, 1883. Librarian, 1886.
 1894 Charles Pierre Henri Rieu<sup>12</sup>, M.A. 1895.
 1902 Edward Granville Browne, M.A., M.B., Fellow of Pembroke.

1 See p. 55, note 2. 'Wheelock appears to have both taught and studied Arabic diligently, but he published little or nothing bearing on the subject, owing, he says, to the want of Arabic types and compositors capable of setting them up. In a letter to Ussher dated 1640 he mentions that he had prepared a refutation of the Koran, but that the missionary to whom he had shown a specimen of the work had discouraged him from proceeding with it' (D.N.B.). He also studied Persian, and began printing in 1652 an edition of the Persian version of the Gospels. The Professorship was interrupted by the Interregnum, but it may have continued to Wheelock's death. It was reestablished in 1698.

2 The great work of his life was the Lexicon Heptaglotton, published in 1693, which 'marks an epoch in Semitic scholarship' (D.N.B.). He reduced himself to poverty by spending 12,000*l.* over the work, and in 1667 he was actually in prison for debt. As Castell himself states, in a letter to Dr Spencer, Master of Corpus, the Chair of Arabic cost him more than it brought in (ib.).

3 Said to have been made Hebrew Lecturer at Queens' when about seventeen years of age. He was a French, Italian, and Spanish scholar as well as an Orientalist. Like his predecessor Castell, he was imprisoned for debt, but he claimed to have found the quiet of Cambridge Castle more conducive to steady work than the interruptions of his 'overpopulated parsonage' at Swavesey.

4 He held the College livings of Great and Little Hormend, Hertfordshire, and lectured during one term of each academical year.

5 See p. 81, note 8.

6 He studied oriental languages while in residence at Cambridge, but after his appointment to the Chair of Arabic he was appointed Chaplain to Lord Elgin's mission to Constantinople and travelled through the East collecting Greek and Syriac manuscripts for a new version of the New Testament. His principal work was an Arabic Bible, which was published after his death.

7 It was said of him that he could be silent in more languages than any man in Europe.

8 See p. 77, note 7.

9 See p. 77, note 9.

10 Originally at St Andrews, and afterwards resided at Halle and Leyden. Professor of Arabic at University College, London, 1855-6; at Trinity College, Dublin, 1856-61. He was a member of the Old Testament Revision Committee. He was most influential both as a student and as a teacher, and to his active mediation the University Library owes the possession of the finest European collection of early Indian manuscripts.

11 See D.N.B. liii. 160.

12 Born at Geneva, and educated there and at Bonn. Assistant at the British Museum, 1847, and first holder of the office of Keeper of Oriental Manuscripts, 1867. Besides Arabic and Sanskrit, he had an extensive knowledge of Persian and Turkish.

LUCASIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF MATHEMATICS

THIS Professorship was founded in 1663, in pursuance of the Will of HENRY LUCAS, M.A., of St John's College, M.P. for the University, and was endowed with an estate in Bedfordshire. By Grace of the Senate, May 27, 1886, the Lucasian Professorship was made subject to the provisions relating to Professors contained in Statute B. Stipend, £850 per annum paid by the University (or £650 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and the Heads of Colleges. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Mathematics.

ELECTED

- 1664 Isaac Barrow<sup>1</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Trinity. Regius Professor of Greek, 1660. D.D. 1666. Master of Trinity, 1673.
 1669 [Sir] Isaac Newton<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.P. for the University, 1689. Knighted, 1705.
 1702 William Whiston<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Clare. Ejected as an Arian, 1710.
 1711 Nicholas Sanderson. M.A., Christ's, 1712. LL.D. 1728.
 1739 John Colson<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Emmanuel.
 1760 Edward Waring<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Magdalene. M.D. 1767.
 1798 Isaac Milner<sup>6</sup>, D.D., President of Queens'. Jacksonian Professor, 1783. Dean of Carlisle, 1791.
 1820 Robert Woodhouse<sup>7</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Plumian Professor, 1822.
 1822 Thomas Turton<sup>8</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St Catharine's. Regius Professor of Divinity, 1827. D.D. 1828. Dean of Peterborough, 1830; of Westminster, 1842. Bishop of Ely, 1845.
 1826 [Sir] George Biddell Airy<sup>9</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Plumian Professor, 1828. Hon. LL.D. 1862. K.C.B. 1872.
 1828 Charles Babbage<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Trinity.
 1839 Joshua King, LL.D., President of Queens'.
 1849 [Sir] George Gabriel Stokes<sup>11</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke. M.P. for the University, 1887. Hon. LL.D. and Sc.D. 1888. Baronet, 1889. Master of Pembroke, 1902.
 1903 [Sir] Joseph Larmor, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Knighted, 1909. M.P. for the University, 1911.

<sup>2</sup> Born at Woolsthorpe, 1642; attended Grantham Grammar School, 1654-6. Sub-sizar at Trinity, 1661; Scholar, 1664; B.A. 1665; Fellow, 1667. F.R.S. 1672; President, 1703, and annually re-elected for twenty-five years. Master of the Mint, 1699. Knighted, 1705. Buried in Westminster Abbey, 28 March 1727. See also p. 31. Newton's Optical Lectures, published 1729, were given as professorial lectures, and his lectures for the Michaelmas Term, 1684, 'De Motu Corporum' were the first draft of the first ten sections of the Principia. They are preserved in Newton's autograph in the University Library.

<sup>3</sup> He is best known as the translator of Josephus, but he was one of the first to popularise the Newtonian theories.

<sup>4</sup> Cole speaks of him as 'a very worthy, honest man,' but 'an humourist and peevish'; the University 'was much disappointed' in him as Professor.

<sup>5</sup> His examinations for the Smith's Prizes were considered 'the most severe test of mathematical skill in Europe,' but his researches 'were not,' says Dr Parr, 'adapted to any form of communication by lectures.' In 1775 he migrated to Trinity.

<sup>6</sup> See p. 84, note 1 and p. 27. He delivered no lectures as Lucasian Professor, but was a most efficient examiner for the Smith's Prizes. He held the living of St Botolph's, 1778-92.

<sup>7</sup> See p. 87. 'Woodhouse is entitled to distinction in the history of mathematics in England for the important share he had during his earlier years as a teacher at Cambridge in bringing to the notice of his countrymen the development in mathematical analysis which had taken place on the Continent. He was the first in England to explain and advocate the notation and methods of the calculus' (D.N.B.). He was the first Superintendent of the Cambridge Observatory.

<sup>9</sup> See p. 87. Astronomer Royal, 1835-81. Airy 'renewed the prestige of the Lucasian chair by his ardour for the promotion of experimental physics in the University' (D.N.B.). He left a detailed autobiography which was edited by his eldest son, Mr Wilfrid Airy, and published at Cambridge in 1896.

<sup>10</sup> Entered at Trinity but graduated from Peterhouse. It was at Cambridge about 1812 that the idea first occurred to him of calculating numerical tables by machinery, and he devoted thirty-seven years of his life and a large part of his fortune to perfecting the extraordinary monument of inventive genius known as Babbage's calculating machine. Although he was Lucasian Professor for eleven years, he gave no lectures.

KNIGHTBRIDGE PROFESSORSHIP OF MORAL PHILOSOPHY

FOUNDED in 1683 as a Professorship in 'Moral Theology or Casuisticall Divinity' in pursuance of the Will of JOHN KNIGHTBRIDGE, D.D., Fellow of Peterhouse; further endowed in 1707 by a bequest from the first holder, Dr Smoult. Stipend, £700 per annum (or £500 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or a Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Moral Science, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1683 Thomas Smoult, B.D., Fellow of St John's. D.D. 1684.
 1788 George Borlase<sup>5</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Peterhouse. Registry, 1778.
 1809 Robert Towerson Cory, D.D., Master of Emmanuel.
 1813 Francis Barnes, D.D., Master of Peterhouse.
 1838 William Whewell<sup>6</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Trinity. Professor of Mineralogy, 1828. Master of Trinity, 1841. D.D. 1844.
 1855 John Grote<sup>7</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Trinity.
 1866 John Frederick Denison Maurice<sup>8</sup>, Trinity Hall. M.A. 1867.
 1872 Thomas Rawson Birks<sup>9</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1883 Henry Sidgwick<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Litt.D. 1884.
 1900 William Ritchie Sorley, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Fellow of King's, 1901. Litt.D. 1905.

PROFESSORSHIP OF MUSIC

FOUNDED by the University in 1684 on the recommendation of the Crown, but no stipend was assigned to the Professorship until 1868. Present stipend (1915) £200 per annum. The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Music, to which the Professor is assigned.

<sup>6</sup> See pp. 27 and 96. The Professorship was of small value and for more than a century had been treated as a sinecure, but Whewell not only lectured, but published his lectures and wrote other works upon allied subjects. He also introduced Philosophy into the Trinity Fellowship Examination, and took an important part in founding the Moral Sciences Tripos.

<sup>7</sup> Brother of George Grote the historian. As Professor he lectured and wrote copiously upon philosophical subjects.

<sup>8</sup> Entered at Trinity, 1823, but migrated to Trinity Hall, 1825. There he would have had a fair chance of election to a Fellowship but was prevented by the subscriptions from taking a degree. Professor of English Literature and History at King's College, London, 1840. In 1870 he accepted the living of St Edward's, in the gift of Trinity Hall. He was also a member of Exeter College, Oxford.

<sup>9</sup> Vicar of Trinity Church, 1866-77. He was a critic of Herbert Spencer.

<sup>10</sup> An account of Sidgwick's influence upon Cambridge thought will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography (First Supplement). See also the Memoir by E. M. S. and A. S.

The Professor is not required to reside in the University, but he must give not less than four lectures in Music annually, and take part in all the Examinations for Degrees in Music and in the Special Examinations in Music for the Ordinary B.A. Degree. For conducting these examinations he receives additional payments from the University amounting to £40.

ELECTED

- 1684 Nicholas Staggin<sup>1</sup>, Mus.D.
 1730 Maurice Greene<sup>3</sup>, Mus.D.
 1755 John Randall<sup>4</sup>, Mus.B., King's. Mus.D. 1756.
 1799 Charles Hague<sup>5</sup>, Mus.B., Trinity Hall. Mus.D. 1801.
 1821 John Clarke-Whitfeld<sup>6</sup>, Mus.D., Trinity.
 1836 Thomas Attwood Walmisley<sup>7</sup>, Mus.B., Jesus. M.A. 1841; Mus.D. 1848.
 1856 [Sir] William Sterndale Bennett<sup>8</sup>, St John's. Mus.D. 1856; M.A. 1868.
     Knighted, 1871.
 1875 [Sir] George Alexander Macfarren<sup>9</sup>, Trinity. Mus.D. 1875; M.A. 1878.
     Knighted, 1883.
 1887 [Sir] Charles Villiers Stanford, M.A., Trinity. Mus.D. 1889. Knighted, 1902.

PROFESSORSHIP OF CHEMISTRY

FOUNDED by the University in 1702. The Chair was at first unendowed and the University provided nothing but a lecture-room; but in 1766 the Crown provided a stipend of £100, which was continued until 1856, when the obligation was taken over by the University. The stipend is now £850 per annum paid by the University (or £650 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1703 John Francis Vigan<sup>10</sup>.
 1713 John Waller, B.D., Fellow of Corpus.
 1718 John Micklebrough, M.A., Fellow of Corpus. B.D. 1724.

<sup>1</sup> Master of the King's Music, 1675. In 1682 he was admitted Mus.D., and it was said that this was through interest and without the proper tests. To meet this charge, the University appointed him by Grace Professor of Music, and a statement was published in the London Gazette that Staggin, having been desirous to perform his exercise for the Degree of Mus.D. upon the first public opportunity, had acquitted himself 'so much to the satisfaction of the whole University this Commencement that by a solemn vote they had constituted and appointed him public Professor of Music there.' The office thus established in order to pay a compliment, was only honorary.

<sup>2</sup> Organist of King's, Pembroke, and Great St Mary's. In 1706 he was deprived of his degree, his professorship, and his three posts as organist for making puns at the Queen's expense, but on public submission and retraction in the Regent House he was reinstated in the following year.

<sup>3</sup> Organist of St Paul's, 1718; organist and composer to the Chapel Royal, 1727. His exercise for the Degree of Mus.D. was a setting of Pope's 'Ode on St Cecilia's Day,' a new verse being specially written for him by Pope. Master of the King's Music, 1735.

<sup>7</sup> Organist of Trinity and St John's, 1833-56. He entered at Corpus but migrated to Jesus before taking the B.A. Degree. As Professor he instituted a system of lectures, in one of which he prophesied the supremacy of Bach's music, then almost unknown in England. There is a brass tablet to his memory in the ante-chapel of Trinity.

<sup>8</sup> Entered the King's choir, 1824; but passed on to the newly-formed Royal Academy of Music, 1836, and in 1866 became its Principal.

<sup>9</sup> Succeeded Sterndale Bennett as Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, 1875. His eyesight had always been defective, and in 1860 he became blind.

<sup>10</sup> Born at Verona; travelled much in Spain, France, and Holland, studying Mining, Metallurgy, and Pharmacy. Settled in Cambridge in 1683, and gave private tuition in Chemistry and Pharmacy. The Professorship created for him was only titular, and in recognition of the fact that he had 'taught Chemistry with reputation' in Cambridge for 20 years.

ELECTED

- 1756 John Hadley<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Queens'. M.D. 1763.
 1764 Richard Watson<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1771. Regius Professor of Divinity 1771. Bishop of Llandaff, 1782.
 1773 [Sir] Isaac Pennington<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's, M.L. 1773; M.D. 1777. Regius Professor of Physic, 1793. Knighted, 1796.
 1794 William Farish<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Magdalene. Jacksonian Professor, 1813. B.D. 1820.
 1813 Smithson Tennant<sup>5</sup>, M.D., Emmanuel.
 1815 James Cumming<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1861 George Downing Liveing, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Hon. Sc.D. 1908.

PLUMIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF ASTRONOMY AND EXPERIMENTAL PHILOSOPHY

FOUNDED in 1704 in pursuance of the Will of THOMAS PLUME, D.D., of Christ's, Archdeacon of Rochester, and endowed with the rent of an estate situated at Balsham. The purpose of the bequest was 'to erect an Observatory (see p. 215) and to maintain a studious and learned Professor of Astronomy and experimental Philosophy, and to buy him and his successors Vtensills and Instruments Quadrants Telescopes etc.', and to provide him with a convenient residence, 'soe as any ingenious Scholars or Gentlemen may resort to him at all proper Seasons to be instructed and improved by him in the knowledge of Astronomy the Globes Navigation naturall Philosophy dialling and other practicall parts of the Mathematicks in or near Cambridge.' The stipend was increased by a bequest, in 1768, from Dr Smith, formerly Plumian Professor, a sum now producing about £46 per annum being left by him to the Plumian Professor on condition of an examination for Smith's Prizes (see p. 299) being annually held. By a Statute sanctioned by the Queen in Council, March 7, 1860, the stipend was augmented by one-eighth of the net annual income of Lady Sadleir's Foundation for Algebra Lectures (see p. 98).

Stipend, £800 per annum (or £600 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or a Fellowship).

<sup>2</sup> See p. 75, note 16. Watson's own statement is that he 'had never read a syllable' on the subject of Chemistry, 'nor seen a single experiment,' but he was 'tired with Mathematics and Natural Philosophy,' and wanted to try his strength in a new pursuit. On his election he sent to Paris for an 'operator,' shut himself up in his laboratory, and in fourteen months, in the course of which his workshop was shattered by an explosion, he began a course of lectures which were largely attended. Besides Chemistry, he studied Anatomy and practised dissection. See also Gunning, Reminiscences, i. 232-6.

<sup>4</sup> In his lectures as Professor, Farish was the first to introduce the application of Chemistry to manufactures. In 1800 he became Vicar of St Giles's.

<sup>5</sup> Entered at Christ's, 1782, but migrated to Emmanuel, 1786. In 1784 he travelled in Denmark and Sweden; and afterwards resided partly in London and partly near Cheddar, where he farmed his own land. He only gave one course of lectures on Chemistry in Cambridge. On 22 Feb. 1815 he was accidentally killed by the collapse of a bridge near Boulogne over which he was riding. See also Gunning, Reminiscences, ii. 59-62.

<sup>6</sup> He contributed much to the early fame of the Cambridge Philosophical Society, of which he was for some time President, and his papers 'though extremely unpretentious, are landmarks in electro-magnetism and thermo-electricity.' (D.N.B.)

Candidates may be Englishmen (nostrates), or foreigners. The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Mathematics, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1707 Roger Cotes<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1716 Robert Smith<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. LL.D. 1723. D.D. 1739. Master of Trinity, 1742.
 1760 Anthony Shepherd<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. D.D. 1766.
 1796 Samuel Vince<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Sidney. Archdeacon of Bedford, 1809.
 1822 Robert Woodhouse<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Lucasian Professor, 1820.
 1828 [Sir] George Biddell Airy<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Lucasian Professor, 1826. LL.D. 1862. K.C.B. 1872.
 1836 James Challis<sup>7</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1883[–1913] [Sir] George Howard Darwin, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. K.C.B. 1905.

PROFESSORSHIP OF ANATOMY

FOUNDED by the University in 1707. Stipend, £600 per annum (or £400 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or a Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Medicine, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1707 George Rolfe. Deprived<sup>8</sup>, 1728.
 1728 John Morgan, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1734 George Outhbert, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1735 Robert Bankes, M.A., Fellow of King's. M.D. 1735.
 1746 William Gibson, M.A., Jesus. M.D. 1746.
 1758 Charles Collignon<sup>9</sup>, M.B., Trinity. M.D. 1754.
 1785 [Sir] Busick Harwood<sup>10</sup>, M.B., Christ's. M.D. Emmanuel, 1790. Downing Professor of Medicine, 1800. Knighted, 1806.

<sup>1</sup> While he was still an undergraduate, Cotes's extraordinary proficiency in science had attracted the attention of Bentley, and it was his influence, together with the testimonials of Newton and Whiston, which secured his election to the newly-founded Chair. He gave Newton important assistance in the reissue of the Principia, 1704–13. Bentley spoke of Cotes as 'one of the finest young men in Europe,' and when he died in the thirty-fourth year of his age, Newton exclaimed 'Had Cotes lived we might have known something!' He is buried in the Chapel of Trinity.

<sup>2</sup> See p. 26, note 4. During his tenure of the Chair, the Observatory over the great gate of Trinity, begun under his predecessor, was completed, and assigned (1739) to the use of the Plumian Professor. Smith published two important mathematical works, one on Optics and the other on Harmonics.

<sup>4</sup> The son of a Suffolk bricklayer, who worked with his father until he was twelve years of age. He was educated at Caius.

<sup>7</sup> Director of the Cambridge Observatory, 1836–61. To him, in September, 1845, Adams communicated his first results, and when Leverrier's similar indications became known in England, Challis began, on 24 July 1846, to search for the undiscovered planet; but, partly owing to the elaborateness of his plan, the discovery was made first, on 23 September, at Berlin.

<sup>9</sup> He was of French extraction, and had practised in Cambridge as a physician before his election to the Professorship. Cole says of him 'He is an ingenious, honest man, and if they had picked the three kingdoms for a proper person to represent an anatomical professor, they could not have pitched upon a more proper one, for he is a perfect skeleton himself, absolutely a walking shadow, nothing but skin and bones.'

<sup>10</sup> Entered the University late, having already practised in India as a surgeon for some years. He retained the Chair of Anatomy when appointed Downing Professor of Medicine. He is best known for his experiments on the transfusion of blood. See also Gunning, Reminiscences, i, 52–6.

ELECTED

1814 John Haviland<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Regius Professor of Physic, 1817. M.D. 1817.

1817 William Clark<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.D. 1827.

1866 [Sir] George Murray Humphry<sup>3</sup>, M.D., Downing. Professor of Surgery, 1883. Fellow of King's, 1884. Knighted, 1891.

1883 Alexander Macalister<sup>4</sup>, M.D. (Dubl.). M.A. 1883. Fellow of St John's, 1883. M.D. (incorporated from Dublin), 1884.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIP OF MODERN HISTORY

INSTITUTED by GEORGE I in 1724, and continued by succeeding Sovereigns. The King's original letter to the University indicates his intention of appointing at Cambridge and Oxford respectively 'two Persons of Sober Conversation and prudent Conduct'... 'Skilled in Modern History and in the knowledge of Modern Languages'... 'to be Our Professors of Modern History.' The Professors were each to maintain out of their stipends of £400 'two Persons at least, well qualified to teach and instruct in writing and Speaking the Said Languages' who were to give free instruction to twenty Scholars of the King's nomination. The motive of the Foundation was declared to be the desire to remove 'the prejudice that has accrued to the Said Universitys' through 'Persons of Foreign Nations being often employed in the Education and Tuition of Youth both at home and in their Travels,' and 'great numbers of Young Nobility and Gentry being either sent abroad directly from School or taken away from the Universitys before the Course of their Studys can be there completed, and Opportunities frequently lost to the Crown of employing and encouraging Members of the two Universitys by conferring on them such Employment both at home and abroad as necessarily require a competent Skill in writing and Speaking the Modern Languages.'

Stipend, £800 per annum (or £600 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The Professor is appointed by the King, and holds the Professorship during pleasure. He is assigned to the Special Board for History and Archaeology.

APPOINTED

1724 Samuel Harris<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Peterhouse.

1735 Shallet Turner, LL.D., Fellow of Peterhouse.

<sup>2</sup> He was a friend of Lord Byron, who came up to vote for him when he contested the Chair unsuccessfully in 1814, and was cheered by the undergraduates in the Senate House. Clark laid the foundation of the School of Biological Science in Cambridge, and made large collections for the Museum of Comparative Anatomy. He took orders in 1818 and held three livings in succession during his tenure of the Chair.

<sup>3</sup> In 1883 he resigned the Professorship of Anatomy for the newly-founded but unpaid Professorship of Surgery. An account of his influence in Cambridge will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography.

<sup>4</sup> Professor of Zoology, 1869, and Professor of Anatomy and Chirurgery, 1877, in the University of Dublin. His inaugural lecture (in Latin) was printed. He was also the author of a curious and learned commentary on the 53rd chapter of Isaiah.

THE LORD ALMONER'S PROFESSORSHIP OF ARABIC

INSTITUTED 1724. The Reader or Professor of Arabic is appointed by the LORD ALMONER, and the stipend (£50 per annum) is paid out of the Almonry bounty. The Professor is required by his commission to deliver at least one public lecture yearly within the University on a subject connected with Arabic or Arabic history or literature. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Oriental Studies.

APPOINTED

- 1724 David Wilkins<sup>9</sup>, D.D.
 1729 Leonard Chappelow<sup>10</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's. Sir Thomas Adams's Professor of Arabic, 1720.
 1768 Samuel Hallifax<sup>11</sup>, LL.D., Fellow of Trinity Hall. Sir Thomas Adams's Professor of Arabic, 1768. Regius Professor of Civil Law, 1770. D.D. 1775. Bishop of Gloucester, 1781; of St Asaph, 1789.
 1770 William Craven<sup>12</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's. Sir Thomas Adams's Professor of Arabic, 1770. Master of St John's, 1789. D.D. 1789.
 1815 George Cecil Renouard<sup>13</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Sidney.
 1821 Thomas Musgrave<sup>14</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1837. Dean of Bristol, 1837; Bishop of Hereford, 1837; Archbishop of York, 1847.
 1837 Thomas Robinson<sup>15</sup>, M.A., Trinity. D.D. 1844. Master of the Temple, 1845-69.
 1855 Theodore Preston, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1871 Edward Henry Palmer<sup>16</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

<sup>2</sup> Originally at St John's, but elected a Fellow of Peterhouse in 1753; in 1772 he migrated to Trinity. He was Recorder of Bury St Edmunds. He was not actually admitted to the Professorship until 1772.

<sup>4</sup> Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, 1836-47; K.C.B. and Privy Councillor, 1847.

<sup>5</sup> An account of the difficulties encountered by Kingsley as Regius Professor will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography. There was no serious School of History at Cambridge in his day, and as his clerical duties prevented regular residence he was not able to establish one.

<sup>6</sup> An account of Seeley's remarkable influence as Regius Professor will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography. He was the founder of the existing History School.

<sup>8</sup> Professor of Modern History, 1893-1902, and Regius Professor of Greek, 1893, in the University of Dublin.

<sup>9</sup> He was of Prussian parentage, his true name being Wilke. Besides Arabic, he was versed in Hebrew, Chaldaic, Coptic, and Armenian; but he is best known for his Concilia Mogae Britanniae et Hiberniae, A.D. 446-1717, 'a magnificent monument of learning and industry' not yet entirely superseded.

<sup>13</sup> Renouard had served as British Chaplain at Constantinople and Smyrna, and had travelled much in the East. He was an admirable classical scholar, and was well acquainted with French, German, and Italian, as well as with Arabic, Turkish, and Hebrew; he had also a considerable reputation as a geographer and botanist.

<sup>15</sup> He went out to India as a missionary in 1816, and as a chaplain on the Bombay establishment translated the Old Testament into Persian. He was Archdeacon of Madras.

<sup>16</sup> An account of Palmer's remarkable genius for languages will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography. His portrait in Eastern dress, painted by the Hon. John Collier, is in the Hall of St John's.

APPOINTED

- 1883 William Robertson Smith<sup>1</sup>. M.A. 1883. Fellow of Christ's, 1885. Librarian, 1886. Sir Thomas Adams's Professor of Arabic, 1889.
 1886 Hon. Ion Grant Neville Keith-Falconer<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Trinity.
 1887 Robert Lubbock Bensly<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Caius.
 1893 Anthony Ashley Bevan, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

PROFESSORSHIP OF BOTANY

FOUNDED by the University on Nov. 10, 1724. In 1793 the Professor received a patent from George III, with a stipend of £200 a year, and this was continued to his successor. In 1857 the obligation was taken over by the University. Stipend, £700 per annum (or £500 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Biology and Geology, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1724 Richard Bradley<sup>4</sup>.
 1733 John Martyn<sup>5</sup>, Emmanuel.
 1762 Thomas Martyn<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Sidney. B.D. 1766.
 1825 John Stevens Henslow<sup>7</sup>, M.A., St John's. Professor of Mineralogy, 1822.
 1861 Charles Cardale Babington<sup>8</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's.
 1895 Harry Marshall Ward<sup>9</sup>, Sc.D., Fellow of Christ's. Fellow of Sidney, 1897.
 1906 Albert Charles Seward, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel. Fellow of St John's, 1899; re-elected, 1910. Master of Downing, 1915.

WOODWARDIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF GEOLOGY

FOUNDED and endowed by JOHN WOODWARD, M.D., of Pembroke College, in 1728. By his Will the 'Lecturer' was to be appointed in the first instance by the executors, and afterwards elected by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of Ely, the

<sup>2</sup> Third son of the ninth Earl of Kintore. His tenure of the Professorship was short, as he left Cambridge in 1886 to take up his duties as a missionary at Aden, where his knowledge of Arabic might be directly utilised. He died there of fever, 11 May 1887.

<sup>4</sup> His entire ignorance of Latin and Greek caused some scandal in the University, and his neglect to give the prescribed courses of lectures gave much offence; but his botanical publications were in some respects in advance of his time.

<sup>5</sup> He entered at Emmanuel in 1730, at the age of 31, but only kept five terms. On the election of his son Thomas to succeed him, he presented his botanical collections to the University.

<sup>6</sup> Originally at Emmanuel; Tutor of Sidney, 1760-74. He was Professor of Botany for sixty-three years, but only lectured until 1796, as the subject was not popular.

<sup>7</sup> 'His enthusiasm rendered Botany a popular subject in the University,' and Darwin, Berkeley, and Babington were among his pupils. He recommended Darwin as naturalist for the Beagle, and during the five years of the voyage took charge of all the specimens sent home. He also cooperated with Adam Sedgwick in founding the Cambridge Philosophical Society. He was at one time curate of St Mary-the-Less.

<sup>8</sup> The influence of the successive editions of Babington's Manual of British Botany upon field botany can hardly be over-estimated, as it harmonised English work with that of Germany, and later with France and Scandinavia. In 1836 he was one of the founders of the Ray Club, and acted as its secretary for fifty-five years.

<sup>9</sup> Professor of Botany in the Royal Indian Engineering College at Cooper's Hill, 1885-95. An account of his work as a botanist and as a teacher will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography.

Presidents of the Royal Society and the College of Physicians, the Members of Parliament for the University, and 'by the whole Senate' 'or a majority of the above specified illustrious and excellent persons.' It was also provided 'that none be chose but Batchellours,' and that the office should be immediately vacated by marriage, 'lest the care of a wife and children should take the Lecturer too much from study, and the care of the Lecture'; and a preference was to be given to laymen. He was to reside in the University, and to attend at certain fixed hours on three days in the week to shew the Founder's collection of fossils gratis 'to all such curious and intelligent persons as shall desire a view of them for their information and instruction.' His stipend was £100 a year.

On the next vacancy the statutory stipend of the Chair will be £700 per annum (or £500 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The electors are now the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Biology and Geology, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1731 Convers Middleton<sup>1</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Protobibliothecarius, 1721.
 1734 Charles Mason, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1749.
 1762 John Michell<sup>2</sup>, B.D., Fellow of Queens'.
 1764 Samuel Ogden<sup>3</sup>, D.D., Fellow of St John's.
 1778 Thomas Green, M.A., Trinity.
 1788 John Hailstone<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1818 Adam Sedgwick<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Hon. LL.D. 1866.
 1873 Thomas McKenny Hughes, M.A., Trinity. Fellow of Clare, 1883.

LOWNDEAN PROFESSORSHIP OF ASTRONOMY AND GEOMETRY

FOUNDED in 1749 by THOMAS LOWNDES of Overton in Cheshire. Under the original Will the electors to the Professorship were the Lord Chancellor, the Lord President of the Privy Council, the Lord Privy Seal, the Lord High Treasurer or the First Lord

<sup>2</sup> Senior Bursar of Queens', 1766-60. He is best known as an astronomer, and his leisure and fortune were devoted to the advancement of science; but he also cultivated music, and was a skilful player upon the violin. He was Rector of St Botolph's, 1760-3.

<sup>3</sup> Vicar of the Round Church, where for about eighteen years he preached to crowded congregations consisting mostly of members of the University. He is buried in the Church, and a tablet has been placed there to his memory. He was 'an excellent classical scholar, a scientific divine, and a proficient in the Oriental languages.' Boswell admired his sermons and pressed them upon the attention of Dr Johnson, who read one of them aloud 'with a distinct expression and pleasing solemnity. He praised...his elegant language and remarkable acuteness...' Gunning, who describes him as 'amongst the very eccentric characters of the University, has a whole collection of stories about him (Reminiscences, i. pp. 236-40).

<sup>4</sup> He was elected Professor when he was only twenty-nine years of age, and held the office for thirty years. He did not lecture, but devoted himself to the study and collection of geological specimens, by which the Museum was greatly enriched. Vicar of Trumpington, 1818-47.

<sup>5</sup> On his election to the Chair, Sedgwick was practically ignorant of geology. The stipend was only £100 a year, and the office had been regarded almost as a sinecure; but he succeeded in realising what he described in his last published words as the 'three prominent hopes' of his life—to form a collection worthy of the University, to secure the building of a suitable museum, and to 'bring together a class of students who would listen to my teaching, support me by their sympathy, and help me by the labour of their hands.' He is buried in Trinity Chapel, and the Sedgwick Museum is a worthy memorial of his life-work.

of the Treasury should it be in Commission, and the Lord Steward of the Household. The earliest statutes required residence for the major part of each term or two whole terms in each academical year, and two courses of 20 lectures each, one on Astronomy and the other on Geometry. The Professor was also to make astronomical observations for six weeks in every year.

The stipend is now £800 per annum (or £600 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor, the President of the Royal Society of London, the President of the Royal Astronomical Society of London, the Astronomer Royal, and the Lucasian, Plumian, and Sadleirian Professors. If a majority of the electors is not obtained, that person is elected in whose favour the Chancellor and any three of the electors concur. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Mathematics.

ELECTED

1771 John Smith, D.D., Master of Caius.

1795 William Lax<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1837 George Peacock<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1839. Dean of Ely, 1839.

1859 John Couch Adams<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke.

NORRISIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF DIVINITY

JOHN NORRIS, of Gonville and Caius College, B.A. 1761, bequeathed, in 1777, £105 a year to found and endow this Professorship. The testator's original directions for the Professorship provide, among other things, for a fresh election every five years. 'The Professor may have been educated at either of our English Universities; may be Lay or Clerical, but he shall not be elected into the office under his 30th year, nor re-elected after his 60th'... 'no pupil or auditor shall be admitted into the Lecture Room unless he be provided with the Old and New Testament, and with Pearson on the Creed; if anyone not thus provided be admitted, the Professor shall forfeit... out of his salary 21s. for every such person so received.' Benedict Chap-

<sup>3</sup> Tutor of Trinity, 1823-39. As Dean of Ely he carried through the restoration of the Cathedral. His work on 'The Statutes of the University,' published in 1841, is an important contribution to University History.

<sup>4</sup> Fellow and Tutor of St John's. Director of the Cambridge Observatory, 1861. The calculations which should have led to the discovery of the planet Neptune were deposited at the Royal Observatory at Greenwich, 21 Oct. 1845, but the actual discovery was made by Galle at Berlin from Leverrier's calculations announced seven months later. The memorandum made by Adams as an undergraduate, dated 3 July 1841, is now in the Library of St John's College:—'Formed a design, in the beginning of this week, of investigating as soon as possible after taking my degree, the irregularities in the motion of Uranus which are yet unaccounted for: in order to find whether they may be attributed to the action of an undiscovered planet beyond it, and if possible thence to determine the elements of its orbit, &c. approximately, which would probably lead to its discovery.'

man, D.D., Master of Gonville and Caius College, left, in 1852, £1000 to augment the stipend. By a Statute, confirmed by the Queen in Council in 1860, the Professorship is now further endowed with the rectorial tithe rent-charge of Terrington St John's and a portion of the rent-charge of Terrington St Clement's. The stipend is at present (1915) about £530, exclusive of any Fellowship.

The electors are the Heads of Houses, eleven of whom must be present and vote. In case of equality of votes after three scrutinies, the Master of Trinity, or in his absence the Provost of King's, or in the absence of both, the Master of Caius, has a casting vote. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Divinity.

ELECTED

- 1780 John Hey<sup>1</sup>, D.D., Fellow of Sidney.
 1795 James Fawcett<sup>2</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St John's.

 1824 John Banks Hollingworth, D.D., Fellow of Peterhouse. Archdeacon of Huntingdon.
 1838 George Elwes Corrie<sup>4</sup>, B.D., Fellow of St Catharine's. Master of Jesus, 1849. D.D. 1853.
 1854 Edward Harold Browne<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel. D.D. 1864. Bishop of Ely, 1864; of Winchester, 1873.
 1864 Charles Anthony Swainson<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. D.D. 1864. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1879. Master of Christ's, 1881.
 1879 Joseph Rawson Lumby<sup>7</sup>, D.D., Fellow of St Catharine's. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, 1892.
 1893 Joseph Armitage Robinson, B.D., Fellow of Christ's. D.D. 1896. Dean of Westminster, 1902-11; Dean of Wells, 1911.
 1899 Handley Carr Glyn Moule, D.D., Fellow of Trinity. Fellow of St Catharine's, 1899. Bishop of Durham, 1901.
 1901 Frederick Henry Chase, D.D., President of Queens'. Bishop of Ely, 1905.
 1905 Francis Crawford Burkitt, M.A., Trinity. D.D. 1915.

JACKSONIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF NATURAL EXPERIMENTAL PHILOSOPHY

FOUNDED in 1783 in pursuance of the Will of the Reverend RICHARD JACKSON, M.A., formerly Fellow of Trinity College.

By the Founder's Will the Professor is to be chosen for 'his knowledge in Natural Experimental Philosophy...and of Chymistry,' but he is allowed great latitude in the choice of the subjects of his lectures, provided they be of an experimental character. It is directed that the natural bodies which are the subject of inquiry be exhibited at the lectures, and a course of experiments made upon them in the way of chemical analysis. The Professor was requested to 'have an eye more particularly to that opprobrium medicorum called the gout.' The electors

were to be the Regent Masters of Arts resident in the University, and in making their election they were to give preference to a member of Trinity, and to a Staffordshire, Warwickshire, Derbyshire, or Cheshire man.

The electors are now the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, to which the Professor is assigned. Statutory stipend at the next vacancy, £800 per annum (or £600 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship).

ELECTED

- 1783 Isaac Milner<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Queens'. President of Queens', 1788. Dean of Carlisle, 1791. D.D. 1792. Lucasian Professor, 1798.
 1792 Francis John Hyde Wollaston<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity Hall. B.D. 1795. Archdeacon of Essex, 1813.
 1813 William Farish<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Magdalene. Professor of Chemistry, 1794. B.D. 1820.
 1837 Robert Willis<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Caius.
 1875 [Sir] James Dewar. M.A. 1875. Fellow of Peterhouse, 1883. Knighted, 1904.

DOWNING PROFESSORSHIP OF THE LAWS OF ENGLAND

FOUNDED in 1800, in pursuance of the Will of Sir GEORGE DOWNING, Bart., K.B. In the original Charter of Downing College it was provided that the election should be by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the Masters of Clare and St John's, and the Master 'of the said intended College to be called Downing College.' Annual stipend, an amount greater by £500 than the share of the revenue of Downing College paid to each Fellow.

The electors are now the Vice-Chancellor, the Master of Downing College, or, if the Master be a candidate or the Master-ship vacant, the senior member of the Governing Body of Downing College who is not a candidate, and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Law, to which the Professor is assigned.

<sup>1</sup> See p. 83, note 6, and p. 27. Gunning says that 'the University perhaps never produced a man of more eminent abilities' (Reminiscences, i. 237). Professor William Smyth described him as 'a very capital lecturer,' and added 'what with him and his German assistant, Hoffmann, the audience was always in a high state of interest and entertainment.' Cf. also Gunning, Reminiscences, i. 259.

<sup>2</sup> Originally at Sidney: Tutor of Trinity Hall. He began by lecturing alternately on Chemistry and Experimental Philosophy, and is said to have exhibited 'not less than three hundred experiments annually,' but after 1796, when Vince became Plumian Professor, he lectured on Chemistry only. In 1807 he was made Master of Sidney, but the election was declared invalid by the Visitor on the ground that he had never been a Fellow of the College.

<sup>4</sup> 'His practical knowledge of carpentry, his inventive genius, and his power of lucid exposition, made him a most attractive Professor, and his lecture-room was always full' (D.N.B.); but he will always be remembered in Cambridge as a student of Architecture and Archaeology, who planned and partly carried out the comprehensive work afterwards published in 1886 as The Architectural History of the University and Colleges of Cambridge.

ELECTED

- <sup>1</sup>1788 Edward Christian<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's.
 1823 Thomas Starkie<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St Catharine's. University Counsel, 1825.
 1849 Andrew Amos<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1860 William Lloyd Birkbeck, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Master of Downing, 1885.
 1888 Frederic William Maitland<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Trinity. Reader in English Law, 1884.
 LL.D. 1891.
 1907 Courtney Stanhope Kenny, LL.D., Fellow of Downing. Reader in English Law, 1888.

DOWNING PROFESSORSHIP OF MEDICINE

FOUNDATION and election as for the preceding, except that the Special Board of Studies is the Board for Medicine. Annual stipend, an amount greater by £300 than the share of the revenue of Downing College paid to each Fellow.

ELECTED

- 1800 [Sir] Busick Harwood<sup>6</sup>, M.D., Emmanuel. Professor of Anatomy, 1785.
 Knighted, 1806.
 1814 Cornwallis Hewett<sup>7</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Downing. M.D. 1822.
 1841 William Webster Fisher<sup>8</sup>, M.D., Fellow of Downing.

 1894 John Buckley Bradbury, M.D., Downing.

PROFESSORSHIP OF MINERALOGY

FOUNDED by the UNIVERSITY in 1808.

Lectures had been given by Dr Clarke for two years prior to the establishment of the Professorship, and they were illustrated by specimens which had been collected during his travels. After the death of Dr Clarke the Senate decreed that the Professorship should be continued.

The Professor's salary, £100, was paid by the Crown until 1857, when it devolved upon the University. The statutory stipend at the next vacancy will be £600 per annum (or £400 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship).

The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special

<sup>2</sup> Brother of Fletcher Christian, who headed the mutiny of the Bounty. He was not very successful, either as a lawyer or a professor, and it was said at his death that he had passed away 'in the full vigour of his incapacity.' Gunning tells several anecdotes about him (see Reminiscences, i. 211-20).

<sup>4</sup> First Professor of English Law at University College, London, 1829. Succeeded Macaulay as 'fourth member' of the Governor-General's Council in India, 1837. He published many works and pamphlets both legal and literary, but he is best known in the legal world through his share in a treatise on the law of fixtures, 1827. In 1846 he dedicated to his lifelong friend, Dr Whewell, four 'Lectures on the Advantages of a Classical Education as auxiliary to a Commercial Education.'

<sup>8</sup> Entered at Trinity; M.B. from Downing, 1834. In addition to fulfilling the duties of the Professorship, he had a large practice as a physician in Cambridge.

Board for Physics and Chemistry, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1808 Edward Daniel Clarke<sup>1</sup>, LL.D., Fellow of Jesus. Librarian, 1817.
 1822 John Stevens Henslow<sup>2</sup>, M.A., St John's. Professor of Botany, 1825.
 1828 William Whewell<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Knightbridge Professor of Moral Philosophy, 1838. Master of Trinity, 1841. D.D. 1844.
 1832 William Hallowes Miller<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's. M.D. 1841.

DISNEY PROFESSORSHIP OF ARCHAEOLOGY

FOUNDED in 1851 by JOHN DISNEY, of the Hyde, Ingatestone, who also presented to the University a valuable collection of Ancient Marbles. The Professor must be a member of the University of Cambridge, and of the degree of M.A., or some higher degree. He is required to deliver six lectures at least during the academical year, 'on the subject of Classical Mediæval and other Antiquities the Fine Arts and all matters and things connected therewith.' The appointment remained with the Founder during his life-time<sup>6</sup>, and it is now vested in the Vice-Chancellor and Heads of Colleges: the locum tenens of the Head of any College being entitled to vote in his stead. The Professorship is tenable for five years, and the Professor may be re-elected.

Present stipend (1914) about £95, with £100 a year in addition granted to the present Disney Professor only and not permanently assigned to the Chair. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for History and Archaeology, but he is not in other respects subject to the provisions of Statute B.

ELECTED

- 1851 John Howard Marsden, B.D., Fellow of St John's. Re-elected, 1856 and 1861.
 1865 Churchill Babington, B.D., Fellow of St John's. Re-elected, 1870 and 1875. D.D. 1879.
 1880 Percy Gardner, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. Re-elected, 1885. Litt.D. 1883.
 1887 George Forrest Browne, B.D., Fellow of St Catharine's. D.D. 1897. Bishop Suffragan of Stepney, 1895; Bishop of Bristol, 1897.
 1892 William Ridgeway, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Re-elected, 1898, 1903, 1908 [and 1913]. Brereton Reader in Classics, 1907. Sc.D. 1909.

<sup>1</sup> See p. 55. Bursar of Jesus, 1798; Senior Tutor, 1805. Clarke was a great traveller and visited Asia Minor, Palestine, and Greece, collecting minerals, coins, manuscripts, and marbles. He presented his Greek statues to the University in 1803, and his collection of minerals was purchased after his death for £15000. He was called 'Stone' Clarke, to distinguish him from 'Bone' Clark, the Professor of Anatomy (see p. 88) and 'Tone' Clarke, afterwards Clarke-Whitfield, the Professor of Music (see p. 89). Gunning describes him as one of the kindest and most benevolent of human beings, but throws some doubt on his scientific attainments (see Reminiscences, ii. 202-15).

<sup>4</sup> Miller's great reputation was won in crystallography. His system 'gave expressions adapted for working all the problems that a crystal can present, and it gave them in a form that appealed at once to the sense of symmetry and appropriateness of the mathematician... he thus placed the keystone into the arch of the science of crystallography.'

HULSEAN PROFESSORSHIP OF DIVINITY

THE Reverend JOHN HULSE, of St John's College, B.A. 1728, died in 1790, bequeathing his estates in Cheshire to the University, first, to maintain two Scholars at St John's College; secondly, to found a Prize for a Dissertation; thirdly, to found and support the office of Christian Advocate, and fourthly, that of the Hulsean Lecturer or Christian Preacher.

The Christian Advocate was required to be a 'learned and ingenious person of the degree of Master of Arts or of Bachelor or Doctor of Divinity, and of the age of thirty years or upwards,' and resident in the University, who should 'prepare some proper and judicious answer or answers every year to all...new and popular or other cavils and objections against the Christian or Revealed Religion, or against the Religion of Nature,' 'such his written answer to be in English, and only against notorious infidels, whether Atheists or Deists, not descending to any particular controversies or sects amongst Christians themselves, except some new and dangerous error either of superstition or enthusiasm, as of Popery or Methodism, either in opinion or practice shall prevail.'

By a Statute confirmed by the Queen in Council Aug. 1, 1860, the office of Hulsean Professor of Divinity was substituted for that of Christian Advocate; and the office of Hulsean Lecturer considerably modified. The Bishop of Ely is Visitor. The gross annual income from Mr Hulse's Benefaction is about £1000.

The Professor is to print and publish at least six lectures in the course of every six years. Candidates must be thirty years of age or upwards, in Holy Orders, and Master of Arts or of some higher degree in the University of Cambridge. Annual stipend, eight-tenths of the net income from Mr Hulse's benefaction.

The Professor is appointed by the Vice-Chancellor, the Master of Trinity College, the Master of St John's College, and the Regius, the Lady Margaret's, the Norrisian, and the Ely Professors of Divinity, the Vice-Chancellor having a casting vote. If the Master of Trinity or the Master of St John's be Vice-Chancellor, the Regius Professor of Greek supplies his place. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Divinity.

SADLEIRIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF PURE MATHEMATICS

LADY SADLEIR, wife of Sir Edwin Sadleir of Temple Dinsley, Hertfordshire, by Will dated 25 September 1701, made provision for Lectures in the different Colleges 'for the full and clear explication and teaching that part of Mathematical knowledge commonly called Algebra.' The testatrix died in 1706, and the lectures began in Emmanuel (to which preference was given because her first husband, William Croone<sup>12</sup>, M.D., who had suggested the Foundation, had been a Fellow there) at Michaelmas, 1710. Lecturers were ultimately appointed in all the Colleges, but the arrangement was not found to work satisfactorily, and in 1860, by a University Statute approved by the Queen in Council, the Lectureships were abolished and a Professorship of Pure Mathematics substituted for them.

Stipend, £850 per annum (or £650 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship).

<sup>7</sup> He was killed, 18 Aug. 1859, by falling over a precipice in the Pyrenees.

The electors are the Vice-Chancellor, three Heads of Colleges elected by the persons whose names are on the Electoral Roll, to hold office as long as they continue to be Heads of Colleges, and the Lucasian, the Plumian, and the Lowndean Professors. These were technically called the 'Algebra Trustees.'

The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Mathematics.

ELECTED

- 1863 Arthur Cayley<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Hon. Sc.D. 1888.
 1895 Andrew Russell Forsyth, Sc.D., Fellow of Trinity.
 1910 Ernest William Hobson, Sc.D., Fellow of Christ's. Stokes Lecturer in Mathematics, 1903.

PROFESSORSHIP OF POLITICAL ECONOMY

The title of Professor of Political Economy was conferred by a Grace of the Senate, May 21, 1828, on George Pryme, M.A., late Fellow of Trinity College.

The Professorship was established by Grace of the Senate, Oct. 29, 1863.

Stipend, £700 per annum (or £500 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Economics and Politics, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1828 George Pryme<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1863 Henry Fawcett<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity Hall. Postmaster-General, 1880-4. F.R.S. 1882.
 1884 Alfred Marshall, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Hon. Sc.D., 1908.
 1908 Arthur Cecil Pigou, M.A., Fellow of King's.

PROFESSORSHIP OF ZOOLOGY AND COMPARATIVE ANATOMY

FOUNDED by the University in 1866. Stipend, £700 per annum (or £500 if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Biology and Geology, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1866 Alfred Newton<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Magdalene.
 1907 Adam Sedgwick, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Reader in Animal Morphology, 1890.
 1909 John Stanley Gardiner, M.A., Fellow of Caius.

<sup>1</sup> An account of Cayley's distinguished career as a mathematician will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography (First Supplement, i. 401).

<sup>2</sup> Although he graduated as Sixth Wrangler (1803), Pryme obtained the Browne Medal twice—once for a Latin epigram and again for a Greek ode; he also twice gained the Members' Prize for a Latin Essay. He began to lecture on Political Economy, not then a recognised subject, in 1816, and in 1828 he received the title of Professor by Grace. He continued to lecture until 1863, and at his death in 1868 he bequeathed his books and pamphlets on Political Economy to the University for the use of his successors.

<sup>4</sup> An account of Newton's great services to Zoology in Cambridge will be found in the Dictionary of National Biography (Second Supplement, iii. 10).

PROFESSORSHIP OF SANSKRIT

ESTABLISHED by Grace of the Senate, May 16, 1867. Stipend, £700 per annum (or £500 if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship).

The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Oriental Studies, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

1867 Edward Byles Cowell<sup>1</sup>, M.A. 1868. Fellow of Corpus, 1874.

1903 Cecil Bendall<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Caius.

1906 Edward James Rapson, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

WHEWELL PROFESSORSHIP OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

FOUNDED in 1867, in accordance with the Will of WILLIAM WHEWELL, D.D., late Master of Trinity College.

The Professor is required to give annually a course of twelve lectures<sup>3</sup> at least on the subject of International Law, and by the Founder's express injunctions he is 'to make it his aim,' in all parts of his treatment of the subject, 'to lay down such rules and to suggest such measures as may tend to diminish the evils of war and finally to extinguish war between nations.'

The salary is £500 per annum, subject to the condition that the Professor shall deliver every year, at the end of the Easter Term, to the Council of Trinity College, a certificate<sup>3</sup>, signed by ten resident members of the University, that they have each of them attended ten at least of the Professor's lectures during the preceding academic year.

The electors are the Vice-Chancellor, the Master of Trinity (with a casting vote), the Regius Professor of Civil Law, the Professor of Moral Philosophy, the Downing Professor of the Laws of England, and the Professor of Political Economy. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Law.

ELECTED

1869 [Sir] William George Granville Venable Vernon Harcourt<sup>3</sup>, B.A., Trinity, M.A. 1869. Solicitor-General, 1873-4. Knighted, 1873. Home Secretary, 1880-5. Chancellor of the Exchequer, 1886 (Feb.-July) and 1892-5.

<sup>1</sup> Magdalen Hall, Oxford. Professor of English History in the Presidency College, Calcutta, 1866, and Principal of the Sanskrit College (founded by Warren Hastings), 1868. As an undergraduate he had already made a reputation by his Oriental publications, and during his 36 years' tenure of the Professorship he achieved an immense amount of teaching and literary work. He was a student of Persian, Hebrew, Spanish, and Welsh, and also took up archaeology, botany, and geology.

<sup>4</sup> In a letter to Lord John Russell, Harcourt described International Law as 'my passion, not my profession,' and his letters to the Times over the signature of 'Historicus,' dealing chiefly with questions of International Law arising out of the American Civil War, early won him a reputation in this field.

ELECTED

- 1887 Sir Henry James Sumner Maine<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Master of Trinity Hall. Regius Professor of Civil Law, 1847.
 1888 John Westlake<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. LL.D. 1895.
 1908 Lassa Francis Lawrence Oppenheim, LL.D. (Göttingen). M.A. 1908.

[KENNEDY] PROFESSORSHIP OF LATIN

A SUBSCRIPTION was set on foot by the friends and former pupils of Benjamin Hall Kennedy, D.D., on his retirement in 1865 from the Headmastership of Shrewsbury School, the amount to be offered to the University for the purpose of founding a Professorship of Latin to be called the Kennedy Professorship, in recognition of his great services to Literature and Education. Dr Kennedy offered to give £500 to the fund on condition that his name should not be attached to the proposed Professorship, and this offer was accepted by the subscribers. [By Grace of June 15, 1911, it was provided that the Professorship should be called the Kennedy Professorship of Latin. This step was taken after consultation with Dr Kennedy's family, it being generally agreed that the objection entertained by Dr Kennedy during his lifetime could not be regarded as fatal to a proposal for perpetuating his memory.]

The fund was accepted and the Professorship established by Grace of the Senate, April 29, 1869. By Grace of the Senate, May 30, 1872, the stipend was augmented from the University Chest to £300 a year. The Professor is required to deliver a course of not less than ten lectures in each of two terms in every year. [The present stipend is £800 per annum (or £600 if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship); and the residence of the Professor is now governed by Statute B.]

The electors to the Professorship were originally the Vice-Chancellor, the Regius Professor of Greek, the Public Orator, the Professor of Sanskrit, the members of the Senate for the time being who have been specially elected by Grace to serve on the Special Board for Classics, the Professor of Latin in the University of Oxford, and the Headmaster of Shrewsbury School. [By Grace of March 16, 1911, the election to the Professorship was transferred to a Board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two of such persons being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Classics.]

The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Classics.

<sup>2</sup> Westlake's Collected Papers on Public International Law, edited by his successor, were published in 1914.

ELECTED

1869 Hugh Andrew Johnstone Munro<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Litt.D. 1884.1872-1910 John Eyton Bickersteth Mayor<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Librarian, 1864-7.

SLADE PROFESSORSHIP OF FINE ART

THIS Professorship, founded in pursuance of the Will of FELIX SLADE, with an endowment of £12,000 Three per Cent. Consolidated Annuities, was established by Grace of the Senate, June 24, 1869. It is tenable for three years, but the holder is eligible for re-election. By Grace of June 6, 1907, it was further provided that, if re-elected, he holds the Professorship during life or until resignation, provided that he has at any time previous to re-election held the Professorship for the full period of three years, or is re-elected during his third year of tenure. The Professor is not required to reside at the University until the stipend of the Professorship shall have been increased to not less than £500 per annum. [Stipend in 1915, about £340.] The Professorship is not tenable with any other University Professorship, Readership, or Lectureship.

It is the duty of the Professor to deliver annually in the University in some place to be appointed from time to time by the Vice-Chancellor not fewer than twenty-four lectures on the History, Theory, and Practice of the Fine Arts, or of some section or sections of them. The lectures must be given in full term and must be open to all members of the University free of charge. It is also his duty to organise and develop the study of Art in the University.

The Professor is required to present annually to the Board of Electors before the end of the Michaelmas Term a Report on the work of his Chair and the studies with which it is concerned.

The Professor is elected by a Board consisting of four members resident at Cambridge and three non-resident. The resident members are the Vice-Chancellor (who has a casting vote), and three persons on the Electoral Roll appointed by the Senate. The non-resident members are the President of the Royal Academy of London, the Vice-Chancellor of the University of London, and the Director of the Art Museum, South Kensington, nominated for life. [By Grace of June 20, 1911, the number of non-resident electors was increased by the addition of the Secretary (as well as the Director) of the museum now described as the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington.]

The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for History and Archaeology.

<sup>2</sup> Also educated at Shrewsbury School. For an account of his life see obituary notices in the Eagle,—the St John's College Magazine (xxxii. 189-222).

ELECTED

- 1869 Sir Matthew Digby Wyatt<sup>1</sup>, M.A. 1870.
 1873 [Sir] Sidney Colvin<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Re-elected 1876, 1879, 1882, and 1885. Director of the Fitzwilliam Museum, 1876. Knighted, 1911.
 1886 John Henry Middleton<sup>3</sup>, Fellow of King's. Re-elected, 1889 and 1892. M.A. 1886. Director of the Fitzwilliam Museum, 1890. Litt.D. 1893.
 1895 [Sir] Charles Waldstein, Litt.D., Fellow of King's. Re-elected, 1898. Reader in Classical Archaeology, 1883. Director of the Fitzwilliam Museum, 1883. Knighted, 1912.
 1901 Sir William Martin Conway<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Trinity.
 1904[-11] [Sir] Charles Waldstein, Litt.D., again. Re-elected, 1907.

CAVENDISH PROFESSORSHIP OF EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICS

ESTABLISHED by Grace of the Senate, Feb. 9, 1871. The name of the Chair commemorates the munificent endowment of WILLIAM CAVENDISH, seventh Duke of Devonshire, when Chancellor of the University, for building the Laboratory of Experimental Physics.

Stipend, £850 per annum (or £650 if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship).

The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

- 1871 James Clerk Maxwell<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1879 John William Strutt, Baron Rayleigh, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Hon. Sc.D. 1888. Chancellor of the University, 1908.
 1884 [Sir] Joseph John Thomson, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Knighted, 1908. O.M. 1912.

PROFESSORSHIP OF MECHANISM AND APPLIED MECHANICS

ESTABLISHED by Grace of the Senate, Oct. 28, 1875.

Stipend, £700 per annum (or £500 if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship).

The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, to which the Professor is assigned.

<sup>5</sup> Entered at Peterhouse, but migrated to Trinity after one term. Professor of Natural Philosophy at Aberdeen, 1856-60, and at King's College, London, 1860-5. His remarkable achievements as an original investigator are described in the Dictionary of National Biography. By his will he left funds to the University to found the Scholarship in Experimental Physics which bears his name (p. 279).

1875 [Right Hon.] James Stuart<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Privy Councillor, 1909.

1890 [Sir] James Alfred Ewing<sup>2</sup>, B.Sc. (Edinb.). M.A. 1891, post Trinity. Fellow of King's, 1898. K.C.B. 1911.

1903 Bertram Hopkinson, M.A., Trinity. Fellow of King's, 1914.

ELRINGTON AND BOSWORTH PROFESSORSHIP OF ANGLO-SAXON

JOSEPH BOSWORTH, D.D., of Trinity College, Rawlinsonian Professor of Anglo-Saxon in the University of Oxford, gave in 1867 the sum of £10,000, which was to accumulate until it would provide for a stipend of not less than £500 per annum for a Professorship to be thereupon founded and called the Elrington and Bosworth Professorship of Anglo-Saxon<sup>3</sup>. The Professorship was founded in 1878.

A candidate must be a graduate of Cambridge, Oxford, or Dublin. The electors are the Vice-Chancellor, the Rawlinsonian Professor of Anglo-Saxon in the University of Oxford, the Masters of Trinity, Caius, and Corpus Christi Colleges, the Regius Professor of Greek, the Professor of Modern History, and the Professor of Sanskrit. In case of an equality of votes the Vice-Chancellor, or, in his absence, the elector present next in rotation according to the above order, has a casting vote.

The Professor is required to reside within one mile and a half of Great St Mary's Church for eighteen weeks at least in term time during each year, and to deliver not less than fifteen lectures in each year, the subject, and times and places of delivery, being approved by the Special Board for Medieval and Modern Languages, to which the Professor is assigned. Stipend in 1914, about £500.

ELECTED

1878[–1912] Walter William Skeat, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. Litt.D. 1886.

DIXIE PROFESSORSHIP OF ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY

SIR WOLSTAN DIXIE, Lord Mayor of London, who died in 1594, endowed Fellowships and Scholarships at Emmanuel. In 1878 the Fellowships were abolished, and in 1882 a Statute was approved by the Queen in Council for the University and Emmanuel in common, in virtue of which there was 'established in the University a Professorship to be called the Dixie Professorship of Ecclesiastical History.'

<sup>3</sup> The foundation of the Professorship was in a great measure due to Anne Margaret Elliot, who was married first to Colonel Hamilton Elrington, and afterwards to Dr Bosworth.

Stipend, £500 per annum paid by Emmanuel College, and in addition a Fellowship at the College. The electors are the Vice-Chancellor, the Master of Emmanuel College, and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for History and Archaeology, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

1884 Mandell Creighton<sup>1</sup>, M.A. (Oxford). Fellow of Emmanuel, 1884. M.A. 1885. D.D. 1891. Bishop of Peterborough, 1891; of London, 1897.
1891[–1916] Henry Melvill Gwatkin, M.A., formerly Fellow of St John's. Fellow of Emmanuel, 1891.

PROFESSORSHIP OF ANIMAL MORPHOLOGY

A GRACE was passed on May 11, 1882, to establish in the University a Professorship of Animal Morphology, to terminate with the tenure of office of the Professor first elected, unless the University should decide that the Professorship should be continued. On May 31 was elected who died in the same year.

1882 Francis Maitland Balfour<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity,

PROFESSORSHIP OF PHYSIOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by the University by Grace of May 10, 1883. Stipend, £800 per annum (or £600 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or a Fellowship). The Professor may not undertake the private practice of Medicine or Surgery. The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Biology and Geology, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELY PROFESSORSHIP OF DIVINITY

THE Universities Act of 1877 had given authority for 'the Canonry in the Chapter of the Cathedral Church at Ely, which is annexed and united to the Regius Professorship of Greek, being on a vacancy severed therefrom, and being thenceforth permanently annexed and united to a Professorship in the University of a theological or ecclesiastical character.' This led to the establishment in 1889 of the Ely Professorship of Divinity, endowed with the aforesaid Canonry. The Professorship is governed by a special statute, Statute B, c. xiv.

The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Divinity, to which the Professor is assigned. No person is eligible who is not at the time of election in Priest's Orders.

ELECTED
1889[-1916] Vincent Henry Stanton, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1892. Regius Professor of Divinity, 1916.

PROFESSORSHIP OF CHINESE

THIS Professorship was first established by Grace, Feb. 9, 1888, for Sir Thomas Wade, who was willing to discharge the duties of the office without stipend. It was however provided that the Professorship should terminate with the tenure of office of the Professor first elected. Sir Thomas Wade died July 31, 1895, but the Professorship was re-established by Grace, Oct. 28, 1897, and by Grace of June 8, 1899, the Professor was made subject to the general regulations for the residence and duties of Professors and Readers passed by the Senate June 18, 1885 (see p. 71). The stipend was also fixed at £200 per annum subject to deduction in case the Professor should hold a Headship or Fellowship. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Oriental Studies.

ELECTED
1888 Sir Thomas Francis Wade<sup>1</sup>, K.C.B., Hon. Litt.D., Trinity. M.A. 1888.

1897 Herbert Allen Giles<sup>2</sup>, Hon. LL.D. (Aberdeen). M.A. 1898, Trinity.

PROFESSORSHIP OF MENTAL PHILOSOPHY AND LOGIC

ESTABLISHED by Grace, December 10, 1896. To aid in its foundation Dr Henry Sidgwick gave, until 1900, £200 a year towards the stipend of the Professor. Stipend, £700 per annum (or £500 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Moral Science, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED
1897 James Ward, Sc.D., Fellow of Trinity.

PROFESSORSHIP OF ANCIENT HISTORY

ESTABLISHED by the University by Grace of October 27, 1898. Stipend now (1915) £700 per annum (or £500 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Classics, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

1899 James Smith Reid, Litt.D., Fellow of Caius. Formerly Fellow of Christ's.

DRAPERS PROFESSORSHIP OF AGRICULTURE

ESTABLISHED by the University by Grace of May 11, 1899, from a Benefaction provided by the Worshipful Company of Drapers. Stipend, £800 from the Agricultural Education Fund (or £600 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship). The Professorship ceases at the end of the Easter Term, 1919, unless before the expiration of that period the University shall have otherwise determined. The electors are the Vice-Chancellor and eight persons elected by the Senate, two being nominated by the Council of the Senate, three by the General Board of Studies, and three by the Special Board for Biology and Geology, to which the Professor is assigned.

ELECTED

1899 William Somerville<sup>1</sup>, B.Sc. (Edinburgh), M.A. (Durham). M.A. 1899. Fellow of King's, 1899.

1902 Thomas Hudson Middleton<sup>2</sup>, B.Sc. (Glasgow and Edinb.). M.Sc. (Durham). M.A. 1902, St John's.

1907 Thomas Barlow Wood, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Reader in Agricultural Chemistry, 1902.

QUICK PROFESSORSHIP OF BIOLOGY

THIS Professorship, in pursuance of the Will of FREDERICK JAMES QUICK, B.A., Trinity Hall, 1859, of Eltham in the County of Kent, was established by Grace of the Senate, May 10, 1906. The stipend is nine-tenths of the income of the Frederick James Quick Fund, provided that if in any year nine-tenths of the income of the fund exceeds the sum of £1000, the Professor's stipend shall be £1000, and no more; and provided further that if in any year the Professor holds a Fellowship or Headship in any College of the University, his stipend as such Professor shall not exceed £800. The Professorship is not tenable for more than three years without a fresh election, open to all candidates, including the prior holder thereof.

<sup>1</sup> Educated at the Universities of Edinburgh and Munich. Professor of Agriculture and Forestry, Durham College of Science, 1891-3. Assistant Secretary to the Board of Agriculture, 1902-6. Now Sibthorpean Professor of Rural Economy, and Fellow of St John's College, Oxford.

Unless and until the Senate shall otherwise determine, it is the duty of the Professor to devote himself to the study of the Protozoa, especially such as cause disease, and generally to promote that branch of science by research and by the superintendence of a laboratory and otherwise. He is not required to give lectures in more than one University Term in each year, when he sets forth the result of researches carried out in his Laboratory and elsewhere. He is required to make an annual report to the Board of Managers of the work done and of the discoveries and advances made in the knowledge of Protozoa in the Laboratory, together with a list of the papers on the subject written by himself or his pupils and published in any journal or otherwise.

The Professorship is not tenable with any other Professorship, Readership, or Lectureship in the University or elsewhere.

The election of the Professor rests with the Board of Managers of the Quick Fund, who are to proceed as if they were a Board of Electors constituted under Statute B. The Board consists of the Vice-Chancellor and six members of the Senate appointed by Grace, three on the nomination of the Council of the Senate, and three on the nomination of the Special Board for Biology and Geology, to which the Professor is assigned.

The Professorship is governed by, and the Professor is required to comply with the provisions of, Statute B, chapter xi, for the Residence and Duties of Professors and Readers (see p. 71), so far as such provisions are not inconsistent with the special regulations for the Professorship.

ELECTED

1906 George Henry Falkiner Nuttall<sup>1</sup>, Sc.D., Fellow of Christ's. Re-elected, 1909, 1912, [and 1915]. Reader in Hygiene, 1906. Fellow of Magdalene, 1908.

PROFESSORSHIP OF AGRICULTURAL BOTANY

ESTABLISHED by the University by Grace of February 13, 1908. The Professorship ceases at the end of the Easter Term, 1919, or earlier if the Professor first elected vacate the office, unless the University shall previously have determined otherwise. Stipend, £500 from the Agricultural Education Fund, with an additional stipend of £200 from the portion of the Fund devoted to research as soon as, in the opinion of the Board of Agricultural Studies, the state of the Fund shall permit. The stipend is subject to a deduction of £200 if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship, provided that it is not thereby reduced below £500. The electors are the Council of the Senate. The Professor is assigned to the Special Board for Biology and Geology.

ELECTED

1908 Rowland Harry Biffen, M.A., Emmanuel. Fellow of St Catharine's, 1909.

PROFESSORSHIP OF BIOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by the University by Grace of May 14, 1908, in pursuance of Statute B, c. vi, § 3. [In consequence of the establishment of a Professorship of Genetics, this Professorship was suppressed by Grace, Feb. 15, 1913.]

ELECTED

1908 William Bateson<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Reader in Zoology, 1907.

1910[-12] Reginald Crundall Punnett, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Superintendent of the Museum of Zoology, 1909. Arthur Balfour Professor of Genetics, 1912.

PROFESSORSHIP OF ASTROPHYSICS

ESTABLISHED by the University by Grace of May 13, 1909. The Professorship has at present no stipend attached to it [but owing to an anonymous Benefaction accepted by Grace of the Senate on March 7, 1913, a stipend of £800 per annum (or £600 per annum if the Professor holds a Headship or Fellowship) will be attached to the Professorship on the next vacancy. The election will be governed by Statute B, chapter ix, and the residence and duties of the Professor by Statute B, chapter xi (see p. 71)].

The Professor, who is assigned to the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, is ex officio Director of the Solar Physics Observatory.

ELECTED

1909 Hugh Frank Newall, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

SCHRÖDER PROFESSORSHIP OF GERMAN

MESSRS J. H. SCHRÖDER & Co. offered in October, 1909, the sum of £20,000 for the endowment of a Professorship of German. This offer was accepted by Grace of October 28, 1909.

The election to the Professorship and the residence and duties of the Professor are governed by Statute B (see p. 71).

The Professorship is assigned to the Special Board for Medieval and Modern Languages.

The stipend attached to the Professorship is the income yielded by the Schröder Fund, so long as this income does not exceed £800; when the income exceeds this sum, the stipend is £800. The stipend is subject to a deduction of £200 in any year in which the Professor shall hold a Fellowship or Headship in any

College of the University; and whenever a deduction is made in accordance with this provision, the sum deducted is added to the Schröder Fund.

If and whenever the income of the Schröder Fund exceeds £800, the excess of the income above this amount is to be employed for the furtherance and study of the German Language and Literature in the University in such manner as may be approved by the Senate, on the recommendation of the General Board of Studies.

1910 Karl Hermann Breul<sup>1</sup>, Litt.D., King's. Reader in Germanic, 1900.

* * Lists of the holders of Professorships since 1910 will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar, where an account of Professorships established after 1910 is also given.

Readerships

THE Statutes of 1882 contemplated the appointment of not less than twenty Readers with stipends of £400 a year, but so far the funds at the disposal of the University have not permitted the assignment of more than £300 a year to these offices, except in a few cases.

Readers are appointed by the General Board of Studies, subject to confirmation by the Special Board with which the Readership is connected. The residence of Readers is governed by the same regulations as that of Professors (see p. 71).

INDIAN LAW

THE Readership in Indian Law, which had already been in existence since 1878, was established by Grace of Dec. 6, 1883, as a Readership under the new Statutes. It was suppressed by Grace, Oct. 13, 1892, on the resignation of the first holder, but was re-established by Grace, May 23, 1901. The Readership finally lapsed on the retirement of Sir Raymond West in 1907.

1908 Arthur Everett Shipley, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. Master of Christ's, 1910.
Sc.D. 1911.

GOLDSMITHS READER IN METALLURGY

IN 1908 a sum of £10,000 was granted by the Goldsmiths Company for the purpose of founding and endowing a Readership in Metallurgy. This was accordingly established by Grace, June 11, 1908. The Readership is connected with the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry. It is the duty of the Reader to give instruction in Metallurgy and especially to promote by teaching and research the study of the precious metals and of the theory and practice of assaying. The stipend is the net annual income of the Benefaction. The Readership is not tenable with any other Readership in the University or with a Professorship in the University or with a University Lectureship. Stipend in 1914, about £360.

1908 Charles Thomas Heycock, M.A., Fellow of King's.

ETHNOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, June 3, 1909. The stipend is £200 per annum. The Readership is connected with the Special Board for History and Archaeology, and the Reader is also a member ex officio of the Boards of Anthropological and Geographical Studies. The Readership terminates with the tenure of office of the first holder.

1909 Alfred Cort Haddon<sup>2</sup>, Sc.D., Fellow of Christ's. Curator in Zoology, 1879.

* * Lists of the holders of Readerships since 1910 will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar, where an account of Readerships established after 1910 is also given.

University Lectureships

THE Statutes of 1882 authorized the appointment of 'College Lecturers or other persons' as University Lecturers, each receiving from the University 'an annual stipend of not less than £50.'

Except where otherwise stated, University Lecturers are appointed by the General Board of Studies, subject to confirmation by the Special Board with which the Lectureship is connected. By Grace of Jan. 28, 1886, the General Board was authorized to limit these appointments to a term of years not exceeding five, and they are now made for five years only but may be renewed as they expire.

CLASSICS (EPIGRAPHY AND DIALECTS)

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, in connexion with the Special Board for Classics, with a stipend of £50. The Lectureship was at first assigned to Comparative Philology.

1883 Ernest Stewart Roberts, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Master of Caius, 1903.

1906 Sidney George Campbell, M.A., Fellow of Christ's.

CLASSICS (ANCIENT HISTORY)

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, as a University Lectureship in Roman History in connexion with the Special Board for Classics, with a stipend of £50 a year. In 1899 it became a Lectureship in Ancient History, and by Grace of Dec. 13, 1906, the stipend was increased to £200 a year.

1883 James Smith Reid, LL.M., Fellow of Caius. Litt.D. 1885. Professor of Ancient History, 1899.

1887 Arthur Augustus Tilley, M.A., Fellow of King's.

1899-1910 Leonard Whibley, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke.

SANSKRIT

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883. The Lectureship was suppressed by Grace of Nov. 26, 1903, in consequence of the election of Mr Bendall to the Professorship of Sanskrit (see p. 100).

1901-3 Cecil Bendall<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Professor of Sanskrit, 1903.

MATHEMATICS

FIVE University Lectureships in Mathematics were established by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, in connexion with the Special Board for Mathematics, with an annual stipend of £50 each.

1883-95 Andrew Russell Forsyth<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Sc.D. 1890. Sadleirian Professor of Pure Mathematics, 1895-1910.

1883-1910 Ernest William Hobson, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. Sc.D. 1892. Sadleirian Professor of Pure Mathematics, 1910.

1883-98 Richard Tetley Glazebrook<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1883-4 [Sir] Joseph John Thomson, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Cavendish Professor of Experimental Physics, 1884. Knighted, 1908. O.M., 1912.

1883-8 William Herrick Macaulay, M.A., Fellow of King's.

1885-1903 [Sir] Joseph Larmor, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Lucasian Professor of Mathematics, 1903. Knighted, 1909. M.P. for the University, 1911.

1888-1901 Richard Pendlebury, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

1895[-1914] Henry Frederick Baker, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Sc.D. 1902. Cayley Lecturer, 1903-14. Lowndean Professor of Astronomy, 1914.

1898-9 Augustus Edward Hough Love<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

1899-1904 Hector Munro Macdonald<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Clare.

1901 Herbert William Richmond, M.A., Fellow of King's.

1903-5 George Ballard Mathews<sup>7</sup>, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

1904-5 James Hopwood Jeans<sup>8</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Stokes Lecturer, 1910-12.

1905-6 Edmund Taylor Whittaker<sup>9</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1905-9 John Gaston Leathem, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

1906 Robert Alfred Herman, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1909 Thomas John P'Anson Bromwich, Sc.D., Fellow of St John's.

1910 John Hilton Grace, M.A., Fellow of Peterhouse.

BOTANY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, in connexion with the Special Board for Biology and Geology. Present stipend (1915) £100.

1883 [Sir] Francis Darwin, M.A., M.B., Trinity. Fellow of Christ's, 1888. Reader in Botany, 1888. Hon. Sc.D. 1909. Knighted, 1913.

1888 Walter Gardiner, M.A., Fellow of Clare. Sc.D. 1905.

1897 Frederick Frost Blackman, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Reader in Botany, 1904.

1904 Arthur William Hill<sup>10</sup>, M.A., Fellow of King's.

1907 Reginald Philip Gregory, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

ANIMAL MORPHOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883. The Lectureship lapsed when a Readership was established by Grace, Oct. 30, 1890 (see p. 114).

1883-90 Adam Sedgwick, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Reader in Animal Morphology, 1890. Professor of Zoology and Comparative Anatomy, 1907.

PHYSIOLOGY

THREE University Lectureships in Physiology were established by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, in connexion with the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with a stipend of £50 each, but the stipend of Dr Gaskell was increased by Graces of Nov. 21, 1889, and June 15, 1899, to £150.

1883[-1914] Walter Holbrook Gaskell, M.D., Trinity. Fellow of Trinity Hall, 1889.
 1883-96 Arthur Sheridan Lea, M.A., Trinity. Fellow of Caius, 1885. Sc.D. 1886.
 1883-1903 John Newport Langley, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Sc.D. 1896. Professor of Physiology, 1903.
 1896 Lewis Erie Shore, M.D., Fellow of St John's.
 1903[-12] Hugh Kerr Anderson, M.D., Fellow of Caius. Master of Caius, 1912.

GEOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, in connexion with the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with a stipend of £100. Dr Marr's stipend was increased by Graces of June 4, 1891, and June 15, 1899, to £150.

 1886 John Edward Marr, M.A., Fellow of St John's. Sc.D. 1904.

HISTORY

FIVE University Lectureships in History were established by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, in connexion with the Special Board for History and Archaeology, with a stipend of £50 each. One of these was suppressed by Grace of Nov. 10, 1892, and a second by Grace of June 13, 1907, in each case on the resignation of the holder. [The others have been replaced by a Readership in Modern History, established in 1911.]

1883-1910 Oscar Browning, M.A., Fellow of King's.
 1883[-1912] Basil Edward Hammond, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.
 1883-91 William Cunningham, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. D.D. 1889. Archdeacon of Ely, 1907.
 1883-94 George Walter Prothero, M.A., Fellow of King's. Litt.D. 1894.
 1883-1907 Thomas Thornely, M.A., Fellow of Trinity Hall.
 1894-1909 James Bass Mullinger, M.A., St John's. Hon. Litt.D. 1912.

<sup>1</sup> Secretary to the London Society for the Extension of University Teaching, 1885-94; Secretary for Lectures to the Local Examinations and Lectures Syndicate, 1894-1902; Registrar of the Extension Board in the University of London, 1902-11. See also Dictionary of National Biography (Second Supplement, iii. 211).

MORAL SCIENCE

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, in connexion with the Special Board for Moral Science, with a stipend of £50.

1883[-1911] John Neville Keynes, M.A.,<sup>1</sup> Fellow of Pembroke. Sc.D. 1891.
Registrary, 1910.

HARMONY AND COUNTERPOINT

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, in connexion with the Special Board for Music, with a stipend of £100.

1883 George Mursell Garrett, Mus.D., St John's.
1897 Charles Wood, Mus.D., Fellow of Caius.

MEDICINE

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883 [but suppressed as from Oct. 1, 1911, by Grace of Jan. 18, 1912].

1884 [Sir] Donald MacAlister<sup>1</sup>, M.D., Fellow of St John's. K.C.B. 1908.
1901[-11] Laurence Humphry, M.D., Trinity.

MIDWIFERY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883. The Lectureship was suppressed by Grace of March 11, 1909.

1884 Robert Nichols Ingle, B.A. (M.D. St Andrews), Downing. M.A. 1885.
1891 Walter Spencer Anderson Griffith, M.D., Downing.
1894 Edward Henry Douty, M.A., M.B., B.C., King's. M.D. 1898.
1897 Arthur Francis Stabb, M.B., B.C., Downing.
1903-9 Arnold Clarkson Ingle, M.D., Emmanuel.

MEDICAL JURISPRUDENCE

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883, in connexion with the Special Board for Medicine, with a stipend of £50.

1884[-1916] Bushell Anningson, M.D., Caius.

SURGERY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883 [but suppressed as from Dec. 31, 1911, by Grace of Jan. 18, 1912].

1884[-1911] George Edward Wherry, M.A., M.C., Downing.

FRENCH

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 6, 1883. Suppressed by Grace, June 8, 1899, when a Readership in Romance was established (see p. 114).

Reader in Germanic, 1900. Schröder Professor of German, 1910.

ADVANCED MORPHOLOGY OF VERTEBRATES

ESTABLISHED by Grace, June 12, 1884, with a stipend of £100 a year. The stipend of Mr Gadow was raised by Graces of June 4, 1891, and June 15, 1899, to £150 a year.

1884 Hans Friedrich Gadow, Ph.D. M.A., 1884, post King's.

ZOOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, June 12, 1884, in connexion with the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with a stipend of £50 a year. [The stipend of Mr Borradaile was increased by Grace of June 6, 1912, to £100 a year.] Until 1908 the subject to which the Lectureship was assigned was the Advanced Morphology of Invertebrates.

1884 Walter Frank Raphael Weldon<sup>1</sup>, B.A., Fellow of St John's. M.A. 1885.

1891 Sydney John Hickson<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Downing.

1894 Arthur Everett Shipley, M.A., Fellow of Christ's. Reader in Zoology, 1908.
Master of Christ's, 1910. Sc.D. 1911.

1909 John Stanley Gardiner, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Professor of Zoology and Comparative Anatomy, 1909.

1910 Lancelot Alexander Borradaile, M.A., Selwyn. Fellow of Selwyn, 1913.

EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICS

ESTABLISHED by Grace, May 26, 1887, in connexion with the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, with a stipend of £50.

1887 [Sir] William Napier Shaw<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel. Sc.D. 1902. Knighted, 1915.

1900 Lionel Robert Wilberforce<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Trinity.

1901 Charles Thomson Rees Wilson, M.A., Fellow of Sidney.

GEOGRAPHY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, June 9, 1887, with a stipend of £200 a year, £150 of which was provided by the Royal Geographical Society. The Lecturer was appointed by a Committee consisting of an equal number of representatives of the Council of the Society and the Council of the Senate. The Lectureship was converted into a Readership by Grace, March 10, 1898 (see p. 114).

1888 Francis Henry Hill Guillemand, M.D., Caius.

1889 John Young Buchanan, Christ's. M.A. 1891.

1898-8 Henry Yule Oldham, M.A. (Oxford), King's. Incorporated 1894. Reader in Geography, 1898.

PERSIAN

ESTABLISHED by Grace, May 24, 1888, in connexion with the Special Board for Oriental Studies, with a stipend of £100 a year.

1888 Edward Granville Browne, M.A., M.B., Fellow of Pembroke. Sir Thomas Adams's Professor of Arabic, 1902.

1902 Reynold Alleyne Nicholson, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Litt.D. 1909.

HUMAN ANATOMY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Nov. 8, 1888, in connexion with the Special Board for Medicine, with a stipend of £50.

1888 Alex Hill, M.D., Master of Downing.

1907[-15] Edward Barclay-Smith, M.D., King's.

BOTANY

AN additional Lectureship in Botany (see p. 118) was established by Grace, Feb. 27, 1890, in connexion with the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with a stipend of £100.

1890 Albert Charles Seward, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel, formerly Fellow of St John's. Professor of Botany, 1906. Re-elected Fellow of St John's, 1910. Master of Downing, 1915.

1906 Arthur George Tansley, M.A., Trinity.

TALMUDIC

ON the suppression of the Readership in Talmudic in 1890 (see p. 112) a University Lectureship was established in its place by Grace of May 22, 1890. This Lectureship lapsed when the Readership was restored in 1891.

1890-1 Solomon Schechter. Reader in Talmudic, 1892. M.A. 1892. Litt.D. 1898.

ORGANIC CHEMISTRY

ESTABLISHED by Grace of June 13, 1891, in connexion with the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry. Present stipend (1915) £200.

PALAEOGRAPHY

ESTABLISHED by Grace of June 2, 1892, in connexion with the Special Board for Divinity. Continued on the resignation of the first holder, by Grace of June 11, 1903. On Mr Burkitt's election to a Professorship, it was allowed to lapse, but it was re-established by Grace, May 26, 1906, with a stipend of £100 a year in connexion with the Special Board for History and Archaeology.

PHYSIOLOGICAL AND EXPERIMENTAL PSYCHOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, June 10, 1897. Suppressed by Grace of Nov. 7, 1907, when two new Lectureships were established in the Physiology of the Senses, and Experimental Psychology (see pp. 128, 129).

1897-1907 William Halse Rivers, M.D. (London). M.A., St John's, 1898.
Fellow of St John's, 1903.

CHEMICAL PHYSIOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, June 16, 1898. Suppressed by the Grace of June 12, 1902, which established a Readership (see p. 115).

1898-1902 Frederick Gowland Hopkins, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel. Reader in Chemical Physiology, 1902. Fellow of Trinity, 1910. Professor of Bio-Chemistry, 1914.

PHYSICAL ANTHROPOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, June 8, 1899, in connexion with the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with a stipend of £50.

1899 Wynfrid Laurence Henry Duckworth, M.A., Fellow of Jesus. M.D. 1905;
Sc.D. 1906.

PALAEOZOOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 2, 1899, in connexion with the Special Board for Biology and Geology. Present stipend (1915) £100.

1899 Henry Woods, M.A., St John's.

ETHNOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, May 24, 1900. The Lectureship was suppressed by Grace, June 1, 1909, on the establishment of a Readership in Ethnology (see p. 116).

1900-9 Alfred Cort Haddon<sup>1</sup>, Sc.D., Fellow of Christ's. Reader in Ethnology, 1909.

BACTERIOLOGY AND PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

ESTABLISHED by Grace, May 24, 1900. The Lectureship came to an end in 1906 when a Readership in Hygiene was established (see p. 115).

1900-6 George Henry Falkiner Nuttall, M.D. (California), Ph.D. (Göttingen). M.A., Christ's, 1900. Sc.D. 1906. Fellow of Christ's, 1906. Reader in Hygiene, 1906. Quick Professor of Biology, 1906. Fellow of Magdalene, 1908.

EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICS

A SECOND Lectureship in Experimental Physics (see p. 121), in connexion with the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, was established by Grace, May 24, 1900, with a stipend of £50 a year.

1900 George Frederick Charles Searle, M.A., Peterhouse. Fellow of Peterhouse, 1911. Sc.D. 1912.

AGRICULTURAL CHEMISTRY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, May 24, 1900, but suppressed by the Grace of May 22, 1902, which established a Readership (see p. 114).

1900-2 Thomas Barlow Wood, M.A., Caius. Reader in Agricultural Chemistry, 1902. Drapers Professor of Agriculture, 1907. Fellow of Caius, 1908.

ANCIENT HISTORY

AN additional Lectureship in Ancient History (see p. 117), in connexion with the Special Board for History and Archaeology, was established by Grace of May 9, 1901. [It was suppressed by Grace, Jan. 18, 1912.]

1901[-12] Nathaniel Wedd, M.A., Fellow of King's.

MORAL SCIENCE (SIDGWICK LECTURESHIP)

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Dec. 12, 1901, in connexion with the Special Board for Moral Science, with a stipend provided by the Sidgwick Memorial Fund of £50, or such larger sum as the Fund may from time to time produce. [By Grace of Oct. 31, 1913, an offer from an anonymous Benefactor to increase the stipend of the present Lecturer by £200 a year for five years from Oct. 1 was accepted by the University.]

1902 William Ernest Johnson, M.A., Fellow of King's.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

ESTABLISHED by Grace, June 11, 1903, in connexion with the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, with a stipend from the University of £100. The Lectureship was established in the first instance for five years only, but was renewed by Grace of May 28, 1908.

1903 Charles George Lamb, M.A., Clare.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

ESTABLISHED by Grace, June 11, 1903, in connexion with the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, with a stipend from the University of £100. The Lectureship was established in the first instance for five years only, but was renewed by Grace of May 28, 1908.

1903 James Bennet Peace, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel. University Printer, 1916.
1908 Charles Edward Inglis, M.A., Fellow of King's.

ARABIC

ESTABLISHED by Grace of Nov. 26, 1903, for the first holder, for a period of two years.

1903-5 Shaykh Hasan Tawfiq.

PHILOSOPHY OF RELIGION

ESTABLISHED by Grace, April 28, 1904, from a benefaction offered by Dr Stanton, Ely Professor of Divinity. The Lecturer is connected with the Special Board for Divinity, and receives a stipend of £100 or such greater or less sum as the income for the year may afford. He is appointed for three years only, but a retiring Lecturer is eligible for re-appointment provided that no Lecturer hold office for more than six years in succession. It is the duty of the Lecturer to deliver at least twelve lectures in each academical year.

1907[-13] Frederick Robert Tennant, D.D., Caius. Re-elected, 1910. Fellow of Trinity, 1913.

ECONOMICS (GIRDERS LECTURESHIP)

ESTABLISHED for three years by Grace, May 12, 1904, from a grant of £100 a year for three years by the Worshipful Company of Girders. This grant has since been continued for successive periods of three years. The Lectureship is connected with the Special Board for Economics and Politics.

1904 Arthur Cecil Pigou, M.A., Fellow of King's. Professor of Political Economy, 1908.

CHEMISTRY

Two additional University Lectureships in Chemistry (see p. 123) were established by Grace, May 26, 1904. The Lectureships are connected with the Special Board for Physics and Chemistry, and each Lecturer receives a stipend of £50 a year from the University.

1904[-15] William James Sell, M.A., Christ's. Sc.D. 1906.

1904 Henry John Horstman Fenton, M.A., Christ's. Sc.D. 1906.

PETROLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, May 26, 1904, in connexion with the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with a stipend of £50 from the University.

1904 Alfred Harker, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

RUSSIAN

IN 1899 Sir David Lionel Salomons, Bart., of Caius (B.A. 1874, M.A. 1877) offered to provide a stipend of £50 for five years for a Lecturer in Russian, to be called the Salomons Lecturer. This offer was accepted by Grace of Jan. 18, 1900.

1900-5 Alexander Porter Goudy. M.A. 1902.

In 1904 the Worshipful Company of Fishmongers made a grant to the University of £250 to provide a stipend of £50 a year for five years, and Sir David Salomons offered an additional sum of £50. A University Lectureship in Russian was therefore established by Grace, Dec. 3, 1904, in connexion with the Special Board for Medieval and Modern Languages, with a stipend of £60. By Grace of Feb. 3, 1910, the Lectureship was continued with a stipend of £50 payable out of further funds placed at the disposal of the University by the Fishmongers Company for the purpose of providing instruction in the Russian Language [and by Grace of June 6, 1912, a further £50 a year was granted to the present Lecturer from the funds of the University.]

1905 Alexander Porter Goudy, M.A. Salomons Lecturer in Russian, 1900-5.

SPECIAL PATHOLOGY (HUDDERSFIELD LECTURESHIP)

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Feb. 16, 1905, in connexion with the Special Board for Medicine. The Lectureship is endowed from a Fund of £1600 contributed at the instance of Professor Woodhead by friends residing in or connected with Huddersfield. The stipend of the Lecturer is £50 or such larger sum as the Endowment Fund may produce [in 1914 about £100].

1905 Thomas Strangeways Pigg Strangeways, M.A., St John's.

HYGIENE

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Jan. 17, 1907, when the Readership in Hygiene came to an end (see p. 115). The Lectureship is connected with the Special Board for Medicine, and the Lecturer receives a stipend of £100, payable out of the funds in the hands of the State Medicine Syndicate.

1907 George Stuart Graham-Smith, M.D., Pembroke.

PATHOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, March 9, 1907, in connexion with the Special Board for Medicine, with a stipend of £100 a year.

PHYSIOLOGY OF THE SENSES

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Nov. 7, 1907, on the suppression of the existing Lectureship in Physiological and Experimental Psychology (see p. 124). The Lectureship is connected with the Special Board for Biology and Geology, and the Lecturer receives a stipend of £100 a year.

1907[-16] William Halse Rivers, M.A., M.D. (London), Fellow of St John's.

EXPERIMENTAL PSYCHOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Nov. 7, 1907, on the suppression of the existing Lectureship in Physiology and Experimental Psychology (see p. 124). The Lectureship is connected with the Special Board for Moral Science, and the Lecturer receives a stipend of £50 a year.

AGRICULTURAL PHYSIOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, May 28, 1908, for a period of five years from Midsummer, 1908, [and since continued for five years from Midsummer, 1913]. Present stipend (1915) £200, payable out of the Agricultural Education Fund. The Lecturer is required to advance by teaching and by research the application of Animal Physiology to Agriculture. The Lectureship is connected with the Special Board for Biology and Geology, and the Lecturer is ex officio a member of the Board of Agricultural Studies.

1908 Francis Hugh Adam Marshall, M.A., Christ's. Fellow of Christ's, 1909. Sc.D. 1912.

GEOGRAPHY

By Grace of June 11, 1908, the Readership in Geography (see p. 114) was suppressed, and the three following Lectureships were established in its place for a period of five years:—

1. A Lectureship in Historical and Economic Geography, in connexion with the Special Board for History and Archaeology, with an annual stipend of £150.

1908 Henry Yule Oldham, M.A., King's. Reader in Geography, 1898.

2. A Royal Geographical Society Lectureship in Regional and Physical Geography, in connexion with the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with an annual stipend of £150 provided by the Royal Geographical Society.

1908 Philip Lake, M.A., St John's.

3. A Royal Geographical Society Lectureship in Surveying and Cartography, in connexion with the Special Board for Mathematics, with an annual stipend of £50 provided by the Royal Geographical Society.

1908[–13] Arthur Robert Hinks<sup>2</sup>, M.Â., Trinity.

PHARMACOLOGY

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Nov. 12, 1908, for five years in connexion with the Special Board for Medicine, with an annual stipend of £50, [and since continued for five years from Michaelmas, 1913].

1909 Walter Ernest Dixon<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Downing.

CHEMISTRY AND PHYSICS IN THEIR APPLICATION TO HYGIENE AND PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Nov. 11, 1909, for five years as from Oct. 1, 1909, [and since continued for five years from Oct. 1, 1914], in connexion with the Special Board for Medicine, with a stipend of £50 payable out of the funds in the hands of the State Medicine Syndicate, with such additional sum as may be determined from time to time by that Syndicate.

1909 John Edward Purvis, M.A., St John's. Post Corpus.

AGRICULTURE

ESTABLISHED by Grace, March 5, 1910, for five years as from Jan. 1, 1910, [but suppressed by Grace of December 11, 1914, on the establishment of a Readership in Agriculture].

1910[-14] Kenneth James Joseph Mackenzie. M.A., Christ's, 1911.

GERMAN

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Nov. 10, 1910, in connexion with the Special Board for Medieval and Modern Languages, with a stipend of £100 a year.

1910 Edmund Crosby Quiggin, M.A., Fellow of Caius.

SCANDINAVIAN

ESTABLISHED by Grace, Nov. 10, 1910, for five years as from Oct. 1, 1910. [This lapsed on the appointment of the holder to the Elrington and Bosworth Professorship of Anglo-Saxon in 1912.]

1910[-12] Hector Munro Chadwick, M.A., Fellow of Clare. Elrington and Bosworth Professor of Anglo-Saxon, 1912.

* * Lists of the holders of University Lectureships since 1910 will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar, where an account of Lectureships established after 1910 is also given.

University Teachers

CERTAIN Syndicates and Boards have been authorised from time to time to nominate to the Senate or themselves to appoint lecturers and supervisors who, although not University Lecturers in the sense referred to in the preceding section, have the status of University Teachers. University Teachers appointed by Grace of the Senate, or by a Board of Studies, or by the Foreign Service Students Committee, have the privilege (provided that they are resident in the University) of borrowing books from the University Library.

TEACHERS TRAINING SYNDICATE

By Grace of April 3, 1879, the Teachers Training Syndicate was appointed to organize courses of lectures on the Theory, History, and Practice of Education, and to provide examinations in those subjects upon the results of which certificates of proficiency could be awarded. The Lecturers were to be appointed annually by the Syndicate, subject to confirmation by Grace of the Senate. Under this arrangement continuous courses were provided in the Theory and History of Education, but teaching in the Practice of Education took the form of short courses or separate lectures from experienced schoolmasters. The holders of the more permanent appointments were as follows:

Theory of Education

- 1880-8 James Ward, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Sc.D. 1887. Professor of Mental Philosophy and Logic, 1897.
1888 James Sully<sup>1</sup>, M.A. (Lond.). LL.D.
1889-90 Herbert Courthope Bowen, M.A., Corpus.
1891 James Sully<sup>1</sup>, again.
1893-8 William Ernest Johnson, M.A., King's. Fellow of King's, 1902. Sidgwick Lecturer in Moral Science, 1902.

History of Education

- 1880 Oscar Browning, M.A., Fellow of King's. University Lecturer in History 1883.
1881 Robert Hebert Quick, M.A., Trinity.
1884 Herbert Courthope Bowen, M.A., Corpus.
1885-95 James Bass Mullinger, M.A., St John's. University Lecturer in History 1894. Litt.D. 1912.
1895-8 Herbert Courthope Bowen, again.

Since 1898 the subject of the Theory, History, and Practice of Education has been dealt with by one Lecturer.

1898 Samuel Sigmund Fechheimer Fletcher, Ph.D. (Jena), B.A. (Lond.) M.A., King's, 1901.

BOARD OF INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE STUDIES

Teachers of Hindustani, Hindi, and Telegu were already being employed by the University in 1883, when the new Statutes were beginning to come into operation; and by Grace of May 10, 1883, the Board of Indian Civil Service Studies was constituted to superintend the work of Indian Civil Service Candidates resident at Cambridge. By Grace of June 4, 1891, a scheme was approved under which, with Government assistance, Teachers of Hindustani, Bengali, Tamil, Marathi, Burmese, Sanskrit, Persian, and Indian History were to be permanently maintained for the instruction of Selected Candidates; and teaching in other subjects has also been provided from time to time as necessity required. By Grace of March 12, 1896, the Board was also authorised to supervise the training of Student Interpreters sent by the Foreign Office from time to time to pursue their studies in the University; but in 1905 (see p. 134) this was transferred to the Foreign Service Students Committee.

By Grace of March 11, 1897, the Board of Indian Civil Service Studies was constituted a Special Board of Studies under the provisions of Statute B, Chapter v, § 3, with power to appoint University Teachers. These University Teachers are appointed by the Board, subject to the consent of the Vice-Chancellor.

In the following lists the names of all the more permanent teachers employed by the Board of Indian Civil Service Studies or the Foreign Service Students Committee are given, those appointed 'University Teachers' in or after 1897 being so described.

Law

1889-94 William Warwick Buckland, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Regius Professor of Civil Law, 1914.

Indian Law

1884-93 Sir Roland Knyvet Wilson, Bart., M.A., LL.M., Fellow of King's, Reader in Indian Law, 1878.

1892-5 Francis Brandt.

1895-1907 Sir Raymond West, K.C.I.E. M.A., Downing, 1897. University Teacher, 1897. Reader in Indian Law, 1901.

1907[-13] Sir Edward Townshend Cundy, C.S.I., M.A., Caius. University Teacher.

Indian History

1885-6 Arthur Reed Ropes, B.A., Fellow of King's. M.A. 1885.

1885-92 Joseph Robson Tanner, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1886. Fellow of St John's, 1886. Litt.D. 1905.

- 1892-5 Henry Morse Stephens<sup>1</sup>, M.A. (Oxf.).
 1895 Gerald Patrick Moriarty<sup>2</sup>, M.A. (Oxf.). M.A., Pembroke, 1897. University Teacher, 1897.

Political Economy

- 1884-93 John Neville Keynes, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke. Sc.D. 1891. Registry, 1910.

Tamil

- 1883-90 Albert Henry Arden, M.A., Christ's.
 1891-5 Francis Brandt.
 1895 Joseph Light Wyatt. University Teacher, 1897. M.A., Christ's, 1899.

Hindustani

- 1883[-1912] Lieutenant-Colonel Woodford Wright Sherlock. M.A. 1897. University Teacher, 1897.

Bengali

- 1883-8 James Fuller Blumhardt<sup>3</sup>, M.A. (Lond.).
 1888-1907 Robert Mason Towers, M.A. (Dubl.). M.A. (incorp.), Caius, 1889. University Teacher, 1897.
 1907 James Drummond Anderson. M.A., Caius, 1907. University Teacher.

Persian

- 1883-8 Charles Edward Wilson<sup>4</sup>, M.A. (Lond.).
 1888-1902 Edward Granville Browne, M.A., M.B., Fellow of Pembroke. University Lecturer in Persian, 1888. Sir Thomas Adams's Professor of Arabic, 1902.
 1902-4 Reynold Alleyne Nicholson, M.A., Fellow of Trinity, University Lecturer in Persian. Litt.D. 1909.
 1904-6 Hájji Mirzá 'Abdu' Husayn Khan. University Teacher.

Burmese

- 1883-5 Major-General R. D. Ardagh.
 1885-92 — St John
 1892-5 Taw Sein Ko.
 1895-1909 David Aldridge. University Teacher, 1897. M.A. 1899.
 1909 Louis Allan Goss. University Teacher. M.A. 1913.

Marathi

- 1883-4 James Fuller Blumhardt<sup>3</sup>, M.A. (Lond.).
 1884-1902 A. H. Frost. University Teacher, 1897.
 1902-7 Syed Ali Bilgrami, B.A., LL.B. (Calcutta). University Teacher.
 1907-10 Sir Edward Townshend Candy, C.S.I., M.A., Caius. University Teacher.
 1910 William Doderet. M.A., St John's, 1914. University Teacher.

Sanskrit

- 1886-9 Robert Alexander Neil, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke. University Lecturer in Sanskrit, 1883.
 1892-1901 The same again.
 1902 (only) Cecil Bendall, M.A., Fellow of Caius. University Lecturer in Sanskrit, 1901. Professor of Sanskrit, 1903.
 1903 William Henry Denham Rouse, Litt.D., formerly Fellow of Christ's.

Russian

- 1896-9 Ivan Nestor Schnurman, Christ's.
 1902-6 Alexander Porter Goudy, M.A. Salomons Lecturer in Russian, 1900-5. University Lecturer in Russian, 1905.

Turkish

- 1902-6 Halil Hálid Efendi. M.A., Pembroke, 1902. University Teacher.
 1903-4 Shaykh Hasan Tawfiq. University Lecturer in Arabic, 1903.

Arabic

- 1904-6 Shaykh Muhammad 'Asal. B.A., Pembroke, 1910. University Teacher.

Chinese

- 1898-1906 Herbert Allen Giles, M.A., Trinity, Professor of Chinese.

BOARD OF MILITARY STUDIES

A Board of Military Studies was established by Grace of March 5, 1904, with power to arrange for the registration, supervision, and instruction of members of the University wishing to be candidates for commissions in the Army or the Auxiliary Forces, and to recognise such teachers as they deem desirable in the interests of Military Education. [The first formal appointments under these powers were made in 1912 and 1913.]

FOREIGN SERVICE STUDENTS COMMITTEE

The Foreign Service Students Committee was established by Grace of June 15, 1905, to make arrangements for the instruction and general supervision of the Student Interpreters sent from time to time to the University by the Foreign Office and of Selected Candidates for the Egyptian and Sudan Civil Service, and to promote in the University the study of Living Oriental Languages. The teachers of these languages may, on the recommendation of the Committee, with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor in each case, have the title, status, and privileges of University Teachers.

Arabic: 1906[-11] Shaykh Muhammad 'Asal. B.A., Pembroke, 1910. M.A. 1911. University Teacher.

Persian: 1906 (only) Hájji Mirzá 'Abdu'l Husayn Khan. University Teacher.
 1907-10 Shaykh Hassan. University Teacher, 1907.

Russian: 1906 Alexander Porter Goudy, M.A. Salomons Lecturer in Russian, 1900-5. University Lecturer in Russian, 1905.

Turkish: 1906[-11] Halil Hálid Efendi, M.A., Pembroke. University Teacher.

A Teacher of Vaccination in the University is also appointed by Grace. The first formal appointment was made by Grace of Feb. 27, 1890, but the office lapsed on the death of the first holder in 1900. It was, however, revived by Grace of Dec. 4, 1902.

- 1890-1900 Robert Cory, M.A., M.D., Pembroke.
 1902 Frederick Deighton, M.A., M.B., Peterhouse.

* * * Lists of the University Teachers appointed since 1910 will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar, where an account of Teacherships established after 1910 is also given.

University Demonstrators

THE University Accounts for the year 1883 shew that eight Demonstratorships were at that time already in existence with stipends charged upon the University Chest: a Demonstrator in Human Anatomy, two Demonstrators in Chemistry, two in Comparative Anatomy, two in Experimental Physics, and a Demonstrator of Mechanism. By a Report of the General Board of Studies (then recently constituted under the new Statutes), which was approved by Grace of the Senate, Dec. 6, 1883, provision was made for the appointment of two Assistant Demonstrators in Physics, one in Mineralogy, one in Botany, a Senior and a Junior Demonstrator in Physiology, and a Demonstrator in Geology. Since then the number of these appointments has been largely increased.

The opportunity was also taken to define the position and tenure of Demonstrators. It was provided that each Demonstrator receiving his stipend or any part of it from the University should be appointed by the Professor of the subject with which his Demonstratorship is connected, with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, and that he should be under the general direction of the Professor, being removable by him with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor. By Grace of June 7, 1894, it was further provided that each appointment should be for a limited time, to be fixed by the Professor at his discretion on making the appointment, not exceeding five years, and that on a vacancy in the Professorship all Demonstrators appointed by the previous holder of the Professorship should vacate their offices in the Department within a period of three months after the appointment of the new Professor.

The duty of the Demonstrators is to assist the Professors in giving catechetical or class instruction to students and in superintending the practical work of students in the Laboratories or Museums.

No official list of Demonstrators appears in the University Reporter until April, 1885. There were then fourteen appointments; in April, 1910, there were thirty-two.

HUMAN ANATOMY

A Demonstratorship in Anatomy, established by Grace of Feb. 8, 1866, was already in existence in 1883, when the new Statutes were coming into operation. By Grace of Nov. 8, 1888, this office was abolished, and one Senior Demonstratorship in Anatomy was created with a stipend of £100 a year, and two Junior Demonstratorships with stipends of £50 a year each: these stipends remain unaltered at the present time (1915). By Grace of Jan. 29, 1903, two Additional Demonstrators were appointed without stipend from the University.

Demonstrators

- 1868 Henry Season Wilson. M.A. 1872.
 1876 Charles Creighton, King's. M.A. 1880.
 1878 Bushell Anningson, M.D., Caius. University Lecturer in Medical Jurisprudence, 1884.
 1882-8 Alex Hill, M.A., M.B., Fellow of Downing. M.D. 1886. University Lecturer in Human Anatomy, 1888. Master of Downing, 1888-1907.

Senior Demonstrators

- 1888 Edward Henry Douty, M.A., King's. M.D. 1898. University Lecturer in Midwifery, 1894.
 1893 William Stanley Melsome, M.A., B.C., Fellow of Queens'. M.D. 1894.
 1896 Edward Barclay-Smith<sup>1</sup>, M.A., M.D., King's. University Lecturer in Human Anatomy, 1907.
 1907 Wynfrid Laurence Henry Duckworth, M.A., M.D., Sc.D., Fellow of Jesus. University Lecturer in Physical Anthropology, 1899.

Junior Demonstrators

- 1888-92 William Stanley Melsome, B.A., Fellow of Queens'. M.A. 1890; M.D. 1894.
 1888-92 Robert Williams Michell, B.A., Caius. M.A. 1889; M.D. 1900.
 1892-6 Edward Barclay-Smith<sup>1</sup>, M.A., M.B., B.C., Downing. M.D. 1893. Post King's. University Lecturer in Human Anatomy, 1907.
 1893-1900 Hubert Higgins, B.A., King's. M.A. 1901.
 1897-1900 Frederic Claude Kempson, B.A., M.B., Caius. M.A. 1911.
 1900-5 Grafton Elliot Smith, B.A., Fellow of St John's. M.A. 1903.
 1900[-14] George Frederick Rogers, M.A., M.D., Caius.
 1908 Frederic Claude Kempson, B.A., M.B., Caius. M.A. 1911.

Additional Demonstrators

- 1902[-12] Thomas Manners-Smith, M.A., M.B., B.C., Downing.
 1903-6 Henry William Marrett Tims<sup>2</sup>, M.D. (Edin.), B.A., King's. M.A. 1906.
 1906-8 Wynfrid Laurence Henry Duckworth, M.D., Sc.D., Fellow of Jesus. University Lecturer in Physical Anthropology, 1899.
 1908[-14] Douglas Gavin Reid, M.B. (Edin.). B.A., Trinity, 1910; M.A. 1914.

CHEMISTRY

A Demonstrator of Chemistry was first appointed under the authority of a Grace of Feb. 9, 1871. An Additional Demonstratorship was established by Grace of Nov. 1, 1878, and a second Additional Demonstratorship by Grace of June 17, 1909. The present stipends (1915) of the two former are £125 and £100 respectively; the stipend of the last is paid from the Chemical Laboratory Fund, but the holder of the office is subject to the General Regulations for Demonstrators (see p. 135).

Demonstrators

- 1871 John Wale Hicks, M.A., Fellow of Sidney. Bishop of Bloemfontein, 1892. D.D. 1892.
 1877[-1915] William James Sell, M.A., Christ's. University Lecturer in Chemistry, 1904. Sc.D. 1906.

Additional Demonstrators

- 1878 Henry John Horstman Fenton, M.A., Christ's. University Lecturer in Chemistry, 1904. Sc.D. 1906.
 1909[-14] Frederick William Dootson, M.A., Trinity Hall.

COMPARATIVE ANATOMY

The Demonstratorship of Comparative Anatomy was established by Grace of March 13, 1873. Present stipend (1915) £100.

- 1873 Thomas William Bridge<sup>1</sup>, B.A., Trinity. M.A. 1880. Sc.D. 1896.
 1876 Arthur Milnes Marshall, B.A., St John's. Fellow of St John's, 1877. M.A. 1878. M.D. 1882.
 1877 Thomas William Bridge<sup>1</sup>, again.
 1880 Alfred Cort Haddon<sup>2</sup>, B.A., Christ's. M.A. 1882. Sc.D. 1897. University Lecturer in Ethnology, 1900. Fellow of Christ's, 1901. Reader in Ethnology, 1909.
 1881 Joseph Jackson Lister, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1883. Fellow of St John's, 1899.
 1882 William Hay Caldwell, B.A., Caius. Fellow of Caius, 1883. M.A. 1884.
 1883 Sidney Frederic Harner<sup>3</sup>, B.A., King's. Fellow of King's, 1886. M.A. 1887. Superintendent of the Museum of Zoology, 1892. Sc.D. 1898.
 1884 Walter Frank Raphael Weldon<sup>4</sup>, B.A., Fellow of St John's. M.A. 1885. University Lecturer in Zoology, 1884.
 1884 Sidney Frederic Harner<sup>3</sup>, again.
 1886 Arthur Everett Shipley, B.A., Christ's. Fellow of Christ's, 1887. M.A. 1888. University Lecturer in Zoology, 1894. Reader in Zoology, 1908. Master of Christ's, 1910. Sc.D. 1911.
 1887 Montague Arthur Fenton, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1887.
 1887 Arthur Everett Shipley, again.
 1894 Joseph Jackson Lister, again.
 1902 Reginald Crundall Punnett, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Superintendent of the Museum of Zoology, 1909. Professor of Biology, 1910-12. Arthur Balfour Professor of Genetics, 1912.
 1904 Joseph Jackson Lister, again.
 1908[-13] Frank Armitage Potts, M.A., Fellow of Trinity Hall.

EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICS

A Demonstratorship of Experimental Physics was established by Grace of March 12, 1874, and a second Demonstratorship by Grace of March 24, 1881: present stipends (1915) £100 each. By Grace of Dec. 18, 1890, an Additional Demonstratorship was established without stipend from the University, but the holder was to be subject to the General Regulations for Demonstrators (see p. 135).

By Grace of December 6, 1883, two Assistant Demonstratorships were created: present stipends (1915) £60 each.

- 1874-80 William Garnett<sup>1</sup>, B.A., Fellow of St John's. M.A. 1876.
 1880-91 Richard Tetley Glazebrook<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Assistant Director of the Cavendish Laboratory, 1891.
 1880-7 [Sir] William Napier Shaw<sup>3</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel. University Lecturer in Experimental Physics, 1887. Assistant Director of the Cavendish Laboratory, 1898. Sc.D. 1902. Knighted, 1915.
 1887-90 Hugh Frank Newall, M.A., Trinity. Fellow of Trinity, 1909. Professor of Astrophysics, 1909.
 1891-1900 Lionel Robert Wilberforce<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Trinity. University Lecturer in Experimental Physics, 1900.
 1891 George Frederick Charles Searle, M.A., Peterhouse. University Lecturer in Experimental Physics, 1900. Fellow of Peterhouse, 1911. Sc.D. 1912.
 1891-1904 Sidney Skinner<sup>5</sup>, M.A., Christ's.
 1900 Charles Thomson Rees Wilson, M.A., Fellow of Sidney. University Lecturer in Experimental Physics, 1901.
 1904-8 Penry Vaughan Bevan<sup>6</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Sc.D. 1911.
 1909-10 Alexander Wood, B.A., Fellow of Emmanuel. M.A. 1909.

Assistant Demonstrators

- 1884-7 James Henry Randell, B.A., Fellow of Pembroke. M.A. 1885.
 1884-5 James Cannan McConnel, B.A., Clare. M.A. 1886.
 1885-6 Richard Threlfall<sup>7</sup>, B.A., Caius. M.A. 1888.
 1886-7 Hugh Frank Newall, M.A., Trinity. Fellow of Trinity, 1909. Professor of Astrophysics, 1909.
 1887-90 Lionel Robert Wilberforce<sup>4</sup>, M.A., Trinity. University Lecturer in Experimental Physics, 1900.
 1887-8 Hugh Longbourne Callendar<sup>8</sup>, B.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.A. 1889.
 1888-1906 Thomas Cecil Fitzpatrick, B.A., Fellow of Christ's. M.A. 1889. President of Queens', 1906.
 1890-2 Reginald Sorré Cole, B.A., Emmanuel. M.A. 1892.
 1892 (only) Cyril Ernest Ashford<sup>9</sup>, B.A., Trinity. M.A. 1893.
 1892-4 William Cecil Dampier Whetham, B.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.A. 1893.
 1894-6 John Walton Capstick, B.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.A. 1895.
 1896-9 Percy Elliott Bateman, B.A., Fellow of Jesus. M.A. 1897.
 1899-1900 Rudolf Gustav Karl Lempfert<sup>10</sup>, B.A., Emmanuel. M.A. 1901.
 1900-1 John Sealy Edward Townsend<sup>11</sup>, B.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.A. 1903.
 1901-4 Penry Vaughan Bevan<sup>6</sup>, B.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.A. 1903. Sc.D. 1911.
 1904-9 Craufurd Chittock, B.A., Trinity. M.A. 1908.
 1907[-12] Thomas George Bedford, M.A., Sidney.
 1909[-11] Geoffrey Ingram Taylor, B.A., Trinity. Fellow of Trinity, 1910. M.A. 1912.

MECHANISM

A Demonstratorship of Mechanism and Applied Mechanics was established by Grace of Dec 2, 1880, but in 1884 there were three Demonstrators appointed, although only one of these held an office established by Grace. A second Demonstratorship was established by Grace of March 12, 1891. By Grace of June 11, 1903, it was provided that three Demonstrators be appointed, and in 1908 the title of Senior Demonstrator was assigned to one of them. Present stipends (1915): Senior, £100; the other two, £50 each.

- 1884-7 Edward Cecil Ames, B.A. M.A. 1886.
 1884-9 Baldwin Harry Bent. B.A., Emmanuel, 1888. M.A. 1896.
 1884-5 Jestyn Hume Nicholl, B.A., Trinity.
 1885-90 Charles Dixon.
 1887-90 E. C. Dowson.
 1889-92 John Thomas Nicolson<sup>1</sup>, B.Sc. (Edin.).
 1891-6 William Ernest Dalby<sup>2</sup>, B.Sc. (Lond.). M.A. 1894.
 1891-1903 Charles George Lamb, B.Sc. (Lond.). M.A., Clare, 1894. University Lecturer in Electrical Engineering, 1903.
 1896-7 Stanley Dunkerley, M.Sc. (Vict.).
 1897-1903 James Bennet Peace, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel. University Lecturer in Mechanical Engineering, 1903-8. University Printer, 1916.
 1903-8 Charles Edward Inglis, M.A., Fellow of King's. University Lecturer in Mechanical Engineering, 1908.
 1903 Austin Henry Peake, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1905. Senior Demonstrator, 1908.
 1908 Joseph Whittington Landon, M.A., Sidney, Junior Demonstrator.
 1908 Talbot Peel, M.A., Magdalene, Junior Demonstrator. Fellow of Magdalene, 1909.

BOTANY

A Demonstratorship in Botany was established by Grace of Dec. 6, 1883: present stipend from the University (1915) £100. By Grace of June 7, 1894, an Additional Demonstratorship was established without stipend from the University, but the holder was to be subject to the General Regulations for Demonstrators (see p. 135). The holders of these offices are now known as the Senior and Junior Demonstrator in Botany.

- 1884-8 Walter Gardiner, B.A., Clare. M.A. 1885. Fellow of Clare, 1885. Sc.D. 1905. University Lecturer in Botany, 1888-97.
 1889-91 Charles Alfred Barber, B.A., Christ's. M.A. 1892; Sc.D. 1908.
 1891-7 Frederick Frost Blackman, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1895. Fellow of St John's, 1895. University Lecturer in Botany, 1897-1904. Reader in Botany, 1904.
 1895-8 William George Pharoe Ellis, M.A., St Catharine's, Junior Demonstrator. M.D. 1906.
 1898-1900 Rowland Harry Biffen, B.A., Caius (formerly Emmanuel). M.A. 1902. Professor of Agricultural Botany, 1908. Fellow of St Catharine's, 1909.
 1899-1905 Arthur William Hill<sup>3</sup>, B.A., King's. M.A. 1901. Fellow of King's, 1901. University Lecturer in Botany, 1904-6.
 1900-4 Laurence Lewton-Brain<sup>4</sup>, B.A., St John's, Junior Demonstrator.
 1902-7 Reginald Philip Gregory, B.A., St John's. Fellow of St John's, 1904. M.A. 1905. Senior Demonstrator, 1905. University Lecturer in Botany, 1907.
 1905 Frederick Tom Brooks, B.A., Emmanuel. M.A. 1909. Senior Demonstrator, 1909.
 1907-9 Albert Malins Smith, B.A., Emmanuel, Senior Demonstrator. M.A. 1908.
 1909-[11] David Thoday, M.A., Trinity, Junior Demonstrator.

GEOLOGY

Established by Grace of Dec. 6, 1883, with a stipend of £100 a year. The appointment of an Additional Demonstrator in

Geology was also authorised by Grace of March 5, 1910, he being subject to the General Regulations for Demonstrators (see p. 135) and paid from the funds of the Geological Department.

From 1894 until 1907 the Demonstrator in Geology was frequently described in official lists as the Demonstrator in Petrology.

Demonstrator

1883 Alfred Harker, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1885. Fellow of St John's, 1885. University Lecturer in Petrology, 1904.

Additional Demonstrator

1910 Robert Heron Rastall, M.A., Fellow of Christ's.

MINERALOGY

Established by Grace of Dec. 6, 1883. The Demonstrator in Mineralogy is also required to act as Assistant Curator of the Museum. The stipend of the present Demonstrator is £150.

1883 Richard Harrison Solly. M.A., Downing, 1888.

1895 Arthur Hutchinson, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke.

PHYSIOLOGY

By Grace of Dec. 6, 1883, a Senior Demonstratorship in Physiology was established with a stipend of £200 a year, and a Junior Demonstratorship towards the stipend of which the University contributed £50 a year. An Additional Demonstrator was appointed under the authority of a Grace of Dec. 18, 1890, and a second Additional Demonstrator under the authority of a Grace of May 23, 1907, both without stipend from the University but subject to the General Regulations for Demonstrators (see p. 135).

Senior Demonstrators

1883 Arthur Sheridan Lea, M.A., Trinity. University Lecturer in Physiology, 1883-96. Fellow of Caius, 1885. Sc.D. 1886.

1886 Joseph Reynolds Green, B.A., Trinity. M.A. 1888; Sc.D. 1894. Fellow of Downing, 1902.

1887 Lewis Erle Shore, B.A., M.B., B.C., St John's. M.A. 1889. Fellow of St John's, 1890. M.D. 1891. University Lecturer in Physiology, 1896.

1896 William Bate Hardy, M.A., Fellow of Caius. University Lecturer in Physiology, 1912.

1903 Walter Morley Fletcher, M.A., M.B., Fellow of Trinity. M.D. 1908; Sc.D. 1914.

1905 Ivor Lloyd Tuckett, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.D. 1910.

1907 Joseph Barcroft, M.A., Fellow of King's.

- 1883 D'Arcy Wentworth Thompson<sup>1</sup>, B.A., Trinity. M.A. 1893; Litt.D. 1912.
 1886 Humphry Davy Rolleston, B.A., St John's. Fellow of St John's, 1889.
     M.A. 1890; M.D. 1892.
 1887 Hugh Edward Wingfield, B.A., Caius. M.D. 1908.
 1889 William Bate Hardy, B.A., Caius. M.A. 1892. Fellow of Caius, 1892.
     University Lecturer in Physiology, 1912.
 1896 Hugh Kerr Anderson, M.A., M.B., B.C., Fellow of Caius. M.D. 1898.
     University Lecturer in Physiology, 1903. Master of Caius, 1912.
 1904 Joseph Barcroft, M.A., Fellow of King's.
 1907 Sydney William Cole, M.A., Trinity.

Additional Demonstrators

- 1894 Hugh Kerr Anderson, M.A., M.B., B.C., Fellow of Caius. M.D. 1898.
     University Lecturer in Physiology, 1903. Master of Caius, 1912.
 1896 Alfred Eichholz, M.A., M.B., B.C., Fellow of Emmanuel. M.D. 1898.
 1899 Ivor Lloyd Tuckett, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.D. 1910.
 1904 Sydney William Cole, M.A., Trinity.
 1905 Ivor Lloyd Tuckett, again.
 1905 Sydney William Cole, again.
 1907-10 Victor James Woolley, M.A., Fellow of King's. M.D. 1912.
 1907 Keith Lucas, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Sc.D. 1911.
 1909-[12] Vernon Henry Mottram, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

ANIMAL MORPHOLOGY

Established by Grace of June 12, 1884, with a stipend of £150 a year. The Demonstrator was at first appointed by 'the Senior Lecturer in Animal Morphology' with the consent of the Special Board for Biology and Geology, but by Grace of March 7, 1908, his appointment was transferred to the Professor of Zoology and Comparative Anatomy acting with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, and he was placed under the General Regulations for Demonstrators (see p. 135).

- 1886 Walter Heape. Hon. M.A. 1886. Trinity.
 1886 Sidney Frederic Harmer<sup>2</sup>, B.A., Fellow of King's. M.A. 1887. Superintendent of the Museum of Zoology, 1892. Sc.D. 1898.
 1892 Joseph Jackson Lister, M.A., St John's. Fellow of St John's, 1899.
 1893 Ernest William MacBride<sup>3</sup>, B.A., Fellow of St John's. M.A. 1895.
 1897 John Graham Kerr<sup>4</sup>, B.A., Christ's. Fellow of Christ's, 1898. M.A. 1899.
 1902 John Stanley Gardiner, M.A., Fellow of Caius. University Lecturer in Zoology, 1909. Professor of Zoology and Comparative Anatomy, 1909.
 1908 Reginald Crundall Punnett, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Superintendent of the Museum of Zoology, 1909. Professor of Biology, 1910-12. Arthur Balfour Professor of Genetics, 1912.
 1909 Lancelot Alexander Borradaile, M.A., Selwyn. University Lecturer in Zoology, 1910. Fellow of Selwyn, 1913.
 1910-[14] Clive Forster Cooper, M.A., Trinity. Superintendent of the Museum of Zoology, 1915.

PATHOLOGY

Established by Grace of June 9, 1887, with a stipend of £100 a year. The appointment of the Demonstrator terminates with the tenure of office of the Professor of Pathology.

- 1886 Joseph Griffiths. M.A. King's, 1890. Reader in Surgery, 1898. M.C. 1905.
 1887 [Sir] Almroth Edward Wright, M.D. (Dubl.), Trinity. B.A. 1888. Knighted, 1906.
 1887 Humphry Davy Rolleston, B.A., M.B., B.C., St John's. Fellow of St John's, 1889. M.A. 1890. M.D. 1892.
 1888 John George Adami<sup>1</sup>, M.A., Christ's. Fellow of Jesus, 1891. M.D. 1892.
 1890 Ernest Lloyd Jones, B.A., M.B., B.C., Downing. M.D. 1892.
 1893 Louis Cobbett, M.A., M.B., Trinity. M.D. 1899. University Lecturer in Pathology, 1907.
 1894 James Lorrain Smith<sup>2</sup>, M.D. (Edin.), Caius.
 1895 Walter Sydney Lazarus-Barlow<sup>3</sup>, M.D., Downing.
 1897 Thomas Strangeways-Pigg, M.A., St John's, 1900. Post Strangeways. Huddersfield Lecturer in Special Pathology, 1905.

PALAEOBOTANY

Established by Grace of May 14, 1891. The stipend of the present Demonstrator is £50.

- 1892 Henry Woods, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1894. University Lecturer in Palaeozoology, 1899.
 1899 Edward Alexander Newell Arber, B.A., Trinity. M.A. 1902; Sc.D. 1912.

PALAEOZOOLOGY

Established by Grace of Feb. 2, 1893, without stipend from the University. Suppressed by Grace of Dec. 2, 1899, on the establishment of a University Lectureship in Palaeozoology (see p. 124).

- 1894-9 Henry Woods, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1894. University Lecturer in Palaeozoology, 1899.

SURGERY

Established by Grace of Dec. 5, 1901, without stipend from the University. The office terminated with the tenure of the Reader in Surgery in 1903 (see p. 114), but was revived by Grace of June 21, 1904. Stipend, £50.

- 1901-3 Henry Buckley Roderick, M.A., M.B., B.C., Emmanuel. M.D. 1902.
 1904 The same.

EXPERIMENTAL PSYCHOLOGY

Established by Grace of June 21, 1904, to assist the Professor of Mental Philosophy and Logic. The Demonstrator receives no stipend from the University, but is subject to the General Regulations for Demonstrators (see p. 135).

1904 Charles Samuel Myers<sup>1</sup>, M.A., M.D., Caius. University Lecturer in Experimental Psychology, 1907. Sc.D. 1910.
1909[–11] Edmund Oliver Lewis, B.A., St John's.

PETROLOGY

Established by Grace of Dec. 5, 1907, without stipend from the University, the Demonstrator being subject, however, to the General Regulations for Demonstrators (p. 135). No appointment under this Grace was made until 1910.

1910[–14] William George Fearnside<sup>2</sup>, M.A., Fellow of Sidney.

*.* Lists of the holders of Demonstratorships since 1910 will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar, where an account of Demonstratorships established after 1910 is also given.

---

Assistants to Professors

By Grace of June 7, 1894, the appointments of Assistants to Professors were brought under the General Regulations for Demonstrators given on p. 135 above.

CHEMISTRY

The Assistant to the Professor of Chemistry was formerly appointed by the Museums and Lecture Rooms Syndicate; but by Grace of Feb. 4, 1892, new Regulations for the office were approved, providing that he should be appointed by the Professor of Chemistry with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor and be removable in like manner, and that his tenure of office should cease with the tenure of office of the Professor. His duty is to assist the Professor in the preparation of his lectures, in research, and in the management and care of the Chemical Laboratory, and he is under the general direction of the Professor. Present stipend (1915), £100.

1865 William James Sell, M.A., Christ's. University Lecturer in Chemistry, 1904. Sc.D. 1906.

1877 Henry Robinson, B.A. M.A., Downing, 1885.

1893 Harry Brownsword, M.A., Downing.

1893 John Edward Purvis, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1896. Post Corpus. University Lecturer in Chemistry and Physics in their Application to Hygiene and Preventive Medicine, 1909.

1909 John Read, Ph.D. (Zürich). M.A., Emmanuel, 1913.

NATURAL PHILOSOPHY

A Demonstrator is appointed to assist the Jacksonian Professor of Natural Philosophy in giving catechetical or class instruction to students, and in superintending the practical work of students in the Laboratory; he is under the general direction of the Professor, and his tenure of office ceases with that of the Jacksonian Professor. He was originally appointed by the Museums and Lecture Rooms Syndicate, but by Grace of Feb. 4, 1892, it was provided that he should be appointed by the Jacksonian Professor with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, and be removable in like manner. Present stipend (1915), £100.

- 1875 Alexander Scott<sup>1</sup>. B.A., Trinity, 1879. M.A. 1882. Sc.D. 1907.
 1885 Siegfried Ruhemann, Ph.D. (Berlin). M.A., Caius, 1888. University Lecturer in Organic Chemistry, 1891.
 1892 Alexander Scott<sup>1</sup>, again.
 1896 William Thomas Newton Spivey, M.A., Trinity.
 1901[–12] Humphrey Owen Jones, B.A., Fellow of Clare. M.A. 1903.

GEOLOGY

The office of Assistant to the Woodwardian Professor of Geology was established by Grace of March 7, 1878, with a stipend of £200 a year with the proviso that the Assistant appointed should not be permitted to take private pupils. He is appointed by the Woodwardian Professor with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, and is removable by the same authority. His duty is to assist the Professor in the arrangement and care of the Geological Collections, to give such instruction and demonstrations as may be required, and to assist students making use of the Museum: he is under the general direction of the Professor.

- 1878 Edward Bernard Tawney. M.A., Trinity, 1880.
 1883 Thomas Roberts, B.A., St John's. M.A. 1886.
 1892 Frederick Richard Cowper Reed, B.A., Trinity. M.A. 1895; Sc.D. 1914.

SURGERY

The office of Assistant to the Professor of Surgery was established by Grace of May 24, 1888, the stipend being provided by Professor Sir George Humphry. It came to an end when the Professorship was suspended in 1896 (see p. 106), but the duties of the Professorship were discharged by Dr Griffiths, on the authority of a Special-Grace, until the establishment of a Readership in Surgery in 1898.

- 1888 Joseph Griffiths. M.A., King's, 1890. Reader in Surgery, 1898. M.C. 1905.

MEDICINE

The office of Assistant to the Downing Professor of Medicine was established by Grace of May 24, 1894, without stipend from the University. The Assistant is appointed by the Professor with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, and is removable by the same authority. The office terminates with the tenure of office of the present Downing Professor of Medicine. The duty of the holder is to assist the Professor in the preparation of his lectures on Pharmacology and Therapeutics, in carrying on pharmacological researches, and in the management and care of his Laboratory, and to give to students such practical instruction and demonstrations in Pharmacology as may be required: he is under the general direction of the Professor.

1894 Charles Robertshaw Marshall, M.B., Ch.B. (Vict.). M.A. 1897; post Downing.

1899 Ivor Lloyd Tuckett, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.D. 1910.

BIOLOGY

The office of Assistant to the Quick Professor of Biology was established by Grace of Dec. 17, 1908, without stipend from the University. The Assistant is appointed by the Professor, with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, for a period not exceeding the tenure of the Professorship (see p. 108), but he is eligible for reappointment under similar conditions. He is at any time removable by the Professor, with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor; and the office terminates upon the appointment of a successor to the present Professor. His duty is to assist the Professor in the work of the Laboratory.

1909 Harold Benjamin Fantham<sup>2</sup>, Christ's. B.A. 1910. M.A. 1915.

1910[-12] Cyril Strickland, B.A., Caius. M.A., B.C. 1911.

* * Lists of the holders of these appointments after 1910 will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar.

SIR ROBERT REDE'S LECTURER

THE endowment was left to the University in 1524 by SIR ROBERT REDE, Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas 1506-19. He had been a member of Buckingham College, the predecessor of Magdalene, and afterwards a Fellow of King's Hall.

Sir Robert Rede's executors purchased of the abbot and convent of Waltham Holy Cross an annuity of 20 marks, to be paid to the Master and Fellows of Jesus College, who bound themselves in their turn to pay £4 to each of three persons who should read lectures in the Schools on Humanity, Logic, and Philosophy. These were in all probability the 'ordinary lecturers' already in existence to whom Sir Robert Rede was the first to give a fixed stipend. The lectures were to be called 'free lectures,' and 'shalbe for euer read franck and free to all manner' of schollers of the said Vniversitie hearing or bounde to hear the same.' The lecturers 'in the midst of euery terme, when the scholars shalbe assembled together most in number by their estimacion, shall say, and cause the same scholars to say, with an audible voyce openly, the Psalme of De profundis, with the orisons and collects belonging thereto, and after saye: Anima Roberti Rede militis defuncti nuper capitalis Justiciarii Domini regis de communi Banco fundatoris hujus Lecture, et anima Domine Margarete consortes sue, et anime omnium fidelium defunctorum per Dei misericordiam in pace requiescant. Amen.' There was also yearly to be kept 'a solempne Anniversarie' on January 20 in Great St Mary's Church 'for the sowles of the said Sir Robert Rede, and dame Margarette his wyffe, and the sowles of their fathers and mothers, children, and all Christian sowles, in this manner following, that is to say, in the day before the said obite at afternoone a solempne Dirige by note, and on the morrow next following a solempne Masse of Requiem by note, with lights and other exequies and solempnities thereto accustomed.' The Vice-Chancellor, or in his absence 'some other honorable Doctor in Divinity of the said Vniversitie,' was to 'minister and doe the observaunces,' and 'to have for his labor therein sixteen pence.' One of the Proctors was to read the Statutes of the Foundation 'in the middle Ile of the said Church afore the congregation there present,' and 'he to have for his labor twelve pence of lawfull money, and the other Proctor in like manner other twelve pence, and the three Bedells eighteen pence, that is to say, for euery of them six pence, and the bellringer for ringing to the Dirige and Masse four pence, and to the Master of Jhesus Colledge...twelve pence, whereof the said Master...shall offer at the Masse four pence, and for waxe sixpence.' All doctors and students were required to attend the anniversary, and there to 'sing or say for the sowle of the said Sir Robert Rede and other the sowles aforesaid, Placebo and Dirige with the Psalms, collects and orisons and other exequies thereto accustomed.'

As the Lecturers on Sir Robert Rede's Foundation were usually appointed on St Barnabas Day (June 11) they were commonly known as 'the Barnaby Lecturers.' In 1857 the Council of the Senate reported that 'for many years past no duties whatever have been discharged' by any of these Lecturers, and the outcome of this was a new Statute approved by the Queen in Council, April 6, 1858, directing that in future only one Reader should be appointed to deliver one lecture in term time every year, who should receive the stipends of all the three Readers or Lecturers heretofore appointed. The income of the Trust in 1914 was £9. 9s. 0d.

The Lecturer is appointed annually by the Vice-Chancellor before the end of the Michaelmas Term, and is required during his year of office to deliver one lecture in full Term at a time and place to be fixed by the Vice-Chancellor. This is now usually in the Easter Term.

LECTURES IN PASTORAL THEOLOGY

THROUGH the liberality of the late Charles Anthony Swainson, D.D., Master of Christ's College and Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, a course of Lectures in Pastoral Theology was provided in the year 1883. In subsequent years the Financial Board has placed at the disposal of the Special Board for Divinity a sum of money for providing a similar course of lectures, though in the year 1893 the expense was defrayed by an anonymous private donor. The Lecturer is appointed by the Special Board.

- 1883 William Walsham How, D.D., Wadham College, Oxford, Bishop of Bedford. Bishop of Wakefield, 1888.
 1884 John Pilkington Norris, D.D., formerly Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, Archdeacon of Bristol.
 1885 John Gott, D.D., Brasenose College, Oxford. Dean of Worcester, 1886; Bishop of Truro, 1891.

SANDARS READERSHIP IN BIBLIOGRAPHY

SAMUEL SANDARS, M.A., of Trinity College, who died in 1894, left by his Will the sum of £2000 for the endowment of a Readership in Bibliography. The bequest was accepted by Grace of the Senate, November 22, 1894. The duty of the Reader is to give one or more lectures annually (or, if the electors shall so determine, biennially) during term upon 'Bibliography, Palaeography, Typography, Bookbinding, Book Illustration, the science of Books and Manuscripts, and the Arts relating thereto.' The Reader is elected by the Vice-Chancellor, the Master of Trinity College, Cambridge, when not holding the office of Vice-Chancellor, and the other persons for the time being composing the University Library Syndicate. The income of the Bequest in 1914 was about £50.

- 1895 Sir Edward Maunde Thompson, K.C.B., D.C.L., University College, Oxford, Director and Principal Librarian of the British Museum.

GILBEY LECTURESHIP IN THE HISTORY AND ECONOMICS OF AGRICULTURE

SIR WALTER GILBEY, President of the Royal Agricultural Society, offered in May, 1896, to place in the hands of Trustees a sufficient sum to give an honorarium of £25 per annum for a period of twenty-one years to a Lecturer on Agricultural History and Economics. This offer was accepted by Grace of the Senate, June 18, 1896. The Lecturer is appointed by the Managing Syndicate for the Examinations in the Science and Practice of Agriculture, in consultation with the President for the time being of the Royal Agricultural Society, the appointment being for not more than three years at a time and subject to confirmation by Grace of the Senate. It is the duty of the Lecturer to lecture in each academical year on some subject connected with the History and Economics of Agriculture.

The Gilbey Lectureship ceases at the end of twenty-one years from the appointment of the first Lecturer, unless in the meantime the Senate shall have otherwise determined.

1897 [Sir] Ernest Clarke, Hon. M.A., St John's, Secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society. Re-elected, 1900. Knighted, 1898.

1901 H. Herbert Smith.

1904 Joseph Shield Nicholson<sup>1</sup>, Sc.D., Trinity.

1907 Major Patrick George Craigie, C.B., St Catharine's.

1910 Frank Rayner Salter, B.A., Magdalene. Fellow of Magdalene, 1910. M.A. 1912.

LECTURESHIP IN THE HAUSA LANGUAGE

IN May, 1896, the sum of £100 per annum for three years was offered by the Executive Committee of the Hausa Association for the endowment of a Lectureship in the Hausa Language. The offer was accepted, and Regulations were sanctioned by Grace of the Senate, June 18, 1896. The Lectureship was continued for three years by Grace of the Senate, Dec. 14, 1889, and Dec. 18, 1902, and again by Grace of the Senate, Jan. 30, 1906, for one year. The Lectureship then lapsed.

1897-1906 Charles Henry Robinson, M.A., Trinity.

CAYLEY AND STOKES LECTURESHIPS IN MATHEMATICS<sup>2</sup>

IN 1903 a sum of £2000, in five equal annual instalments, was offered anonymously to the University for the augmentation of the stipends of two of the University Lecturers in Mathematics, in order to enable them to devote their time more fully to study and research in Mathematical Science. The General Board of Studies was therefore authorised to appoint for five years from Michaelmas 1903 to Michaelmas 1908 a Cayley Lecturer in Mathematics and a Stokes Lecturer in Mathematics, the appointments being subject to confirmation by the Special Board for Mathematics. The Lectureships were to be connected with that

Board, and to be tenable with a University Lectureship in Mathematics, or with a College Lectureship, or with both. The duty of the Lecturers was 'to apply themselves by study and research to the advancement of mathematical science,' and each Lecturer was required to deliver in all not less than two courses of lectures open to the University in each year. The stipend attached to each Lectureship was £200 a year.

In 1905 Dr Ludwig Mond, F.R.S., added £1750 to the Fund for the maintenance of these Lectureships, and subsequently Professor Larmor and the representatives of the late Sir George Gabriel Stokes gave £100 towards the endowment of the Stokes Lectureship. This made it possible for the University to continue the Lectureships for a further period of five years from Michaelmas, 1908. [By Grace of 6 June 1913, the Cayley Lectureship was continued for another period of five years, the Stokes Lectureship being allowed to lapse.]

Cayley Lecturer

1903[-14] Henry Frederick Baker, Sc.D., Fellow of St John's, Lowndean Professor of Astronomy, 1914.

Stokes Lecturers

1903 Ernest William Hobson, Sc.D., Fellow of Christ's. Sadleirian Professor of Pure Mathematics, 1910.

1910[-12] James Hopwood Jeans, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

LESLIE STEPHEN LECTURESHIP

THE sum of £630, contributed by the friends of the late SIR LESLIE STEPHEN, K.C.B., Hon. Litt.D., sometime Fellow of Trinity Hall, for the endowment of a Lectureship in Literature, was accepted by Grace, 27 April 1905, and the following Regulations were approved:—

1. That a Lectureship be established in the University to be called the Leslie Stephen Lectureship.

2. That the Lecturer be appointed in the Michaelmas Term of 1906 and in the Michaelmas Term of every second year thereafter by the Vice-Chancellor, the Master of Trinity Hall, the Knightbridge Professor of Moral Philosophy, and the Regius Professor of Modern History, save that when the Master of Trinity Hall shall happen to be Vice-Chancellor his place, as Master of Trinity Hall, shall be taken by the Master of Trinity College.

3. That it be the duty of the Lecturer to deliver one lecture on some day in full term in the Academic year in which he has been appointed, the place of delivery being the Senate House or some other University Building or Trinity Hall.

4. That the lecture be on some literary subject, including therein Criticism, Biography, and Ethics.

5. That, subject to regulation 3, the date of the lecture and the place of its delivery be fixed by the Vice-Chancellor.

6. That the Lecturer receive as his stipend the net income of the endowment fund for the civil year in which he was appointed and the next preceding civil year. [The income of the Fund is about £20.]

7. These regulations shall be subject to alteration by Grace of the Senate at any time after 1 January 1935 provided that the name of Leslie Stephen be always connected with the foundation and that the income arising therefrom be appropriated to some academical object of a Literary character.

1907 [Sir] Walter Alexander Raleigh, M.A., formerly Fellow of King's, Professor of English Literature at the University of Oxford. Knighted, 1911.

1909 Andrew Cecil Bradley, Litt.D., formerly Fellow of Balliol College, Oxford. Professor of Poetry at Oxford, 1901-1906.

1910 William Paton Ker, M.A., Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, Professor of English Literature at University College, London.

NORMAN MACCOLL LECTURESHIP

A BEQUEST by the late NORMAN MACCOLL, M.A., of Downing College, of the sum of £500, for the provision of lectures on the language or literature of Spain or Portugal, was accepted by the University by Grace of 2 Feb. 1905, and Regulations for the Lectureship, submitted by the General Board of Studies, were approved by Grace, 25 May 1905. These provided that in the year 1908 and every fourth year thereafter a Norman Maccoll Lecturer be appointed by the Senate on the nomination of the Special Board for Medieval and Modern Languages, the appointment being made in the Easter Term on each occasion; and that it be the duty of the Lecturer to deliver in the University during the academical year following his appointment a course of not fewer than five public lectures on the language or literature of Spain or Portugal. The annual income of the Fund is about £15.

1908 James Fitzmaurice-Kelly, F.B.A., Gilmour Professor of the Spanish Language and Literature at the University of Liverpool.

* * Lists of the holders of these appointments since 1910 will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar.

<sup>1</sup> In consequence of the illness of Dr Bradley, the Leslie Stephen Lecture for 1909 was not delivered, but an additional Lecture was given in its place in 1910.

University Preachers

SERMONS IN THE UNIVERSITY CHURCH

THE custom of preaching in Great St Mary's before the University is very ancient and is recognized in the earliest University Statutes of c. 1300.

The number of public sermons preached before the University on stated occasions was at one time larger than it is now. At the beginning of the 19th century<sup>1</sup> there were two sermons in St Mary's on Michaelmas Day; sermons ad Clerum<sup>2</sup> preached by the Divinity Professors on the day before the beginning of each term; and a sermon ad Clerum on May 8 ad commendationem Regis Henrici Septimi (see p. 163). There was also a sermon on the day of the King's Accession, and the historic commemorations of Gunpowder Plot (November 5), the death of King Charles the Martyr (January 30), and the Restoration of King Charles the Second (May 29). These have since been discontinued, but a special sermon is still preached on Commencement Sunday (formerly the Sunday immediately preceding the first Tuesday in July, but now the Sunday before the last Congregation in June); at the Commemoration of Benefactors on the Sunday after All Saints' Day; and on Lady Day in King's College Chapel by a member of that Society. The Ramsden Sermon (see p. 162), founded in 1848, is now preached on Whitsunday. Further, although the Vice-Chancellor no longer 'presents each of the Judges with twelve pairs of gloves,' the customary Assize Sermons are still preached in the University Church.

The Vice-Chancellor appoints the preacher of the Ramsden Sermon, the preacher for the afternoon of Commencement Sunday, the preachers for the Assizes, and for extraordinary Fasts and Thanksgivings.

The Statutes now require that sermons shall be preached in the University Church every Sunday during Term; also on Christmas Day, Good Friday, Easter Day, and Ascension Day, and on such other days as may be appointed by the Chancellor or by Grace of the Senate. The University may require members of the Senate who are in Holy Orders to preach according to regulations made from time to time for that purpose. Select Preachers are accordingly appointed yearly for the Sunday afternoons from the beginning of Michaelmas Term to the end of Easter Term, for the afternoons of Christmas Day, Good Friday, and Ascension Day, and for such Sundays, if any, in the Long Vacation and such other days as may be appointed by the Vice-Chancellor, after consultation with the Select Preachers' Syndicate.

The Select Preachers are appointed by a Syndicate consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Regius, the Lady Margaret's, the Norrisian, the Hulsean, and the Ely Professors of Divinity, the two Proctors, and four members of the Senate elected by Grace, who in every year before the end of the Easter Term assign the days for preaching the Hulsean Lectures, and appoint the Select Preachers, for the next academical year; the days on which each Select Preacher is to preach being also determined by the Syndics. If any Select Preacher be prevented from preaching on the days assigned to him, the Syndics appoint another preacher in his place.

Of the said four members of the Senate, one retires by rotation on the 31st of December in every year, and his place is supplied by another elected at a Congregation before the end of full term in the preceding Michaelmas Term, the retiring member not being re-eligible at that election except by a Special Grace.

For every sermon the Select Preacher is paid a fee of three guineas out of the Common Chest.

The Order of Proceedings for University Sermons is as follows:

The Vice-Chancellor's Procession forms in the Senate House at 2.10 P.M.<sup>1</sup>

The Preacher wears cassock, bands, black gown, and hood. If a Doctor, he wears the scarlet gown instead of the black gown on Christmas Day, Easter Day, Ascension Day, Whitsunday, Trinity Sunday, All Saints' Day, and the First Sunday in November (Commemoration of Benefactors). If a Bishop he wears Episcopal Robes.

The Service begins with a Hymn, and this is followed by the Bidding Prayer, which may be regarded as having first reached what was substantially its present form on the occasion of the Sermon preached by Dr Perne before Queen Elizabeth on the occasion of the Royal visit to the University in August, 1564<sup>2</sup>.

Let us pray for Christ's holy Catholic Church, particularly that pure and reformed part of it established in this kingdom:

for all Christian Sovereigns, Princes, and Governors, especially His most excellent Majesty our Sovereign Lord, GEORGE, by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India, over all persons and in all causes within his dominions supreme:

<sup>1</sup> From the beginning of the Michaelmas Term, 1913, the hour has been 2.25,—the Service now beginning at 2.30 instead of 2.15.

for our Gracious Queen MARY, ALEXANDRA the Queen Mother, EDWARD Prince of Wales, and all the Royal Family :

for the Lords of his Majesty's most honourable Privy Council :

for the great Council of the Nation <sup>1</sup>now assembled in Parliament ; for all the Nobility, Magistrates<sup>2</sup>, and Gentry of the Realm :

for the Ministers and Dispensers of God's Holy Word and Sacraments, whether they be the Archbishops, particularly Randall, Lord Archbishop of this Province, or Bishops, particularly Frederick Henry, Lord Bishop of this Diocese, or the inferior Clergy, the Priests and Deacons ; that all these in their several stations may serve truly and faithfully to the honour of God and the welfare of His people, always remembering that strict and solemn account which they must give before the judgement seat of Christ<sup>3</sup>.

And, that there never may be wanting a supply of persons duly qualified to serve God both in Church and State, let us pray for a blessing on all Seminaries of sound Learning and Religious Education, especially the Universities of this Land ; and herein for The Right Honourable JOHN WILLIAM, Baron Rayleigh, <sup>4</sup>our Chancellor ; for the Right Worshipful the Vice-Chancellor ; for the Reverend and Learned the Professors, Proctors, and all that bear office in this <sup>5</sup>our Body ; for all particular Colleges ; and, as in private duty bound, <sup>6</sup>I desire your prayers for the <sup>7</sup>ancient and religious foundation of ..... College ; for the <sup>8</sup>Reverend and Learned the Master, the Fellows, Scholars, and all the Students in the same<sup>9</sup>.

Pray we likewise for the Civil Incorporation of this Town ; for the Worshipful the Mayor, the Aldermen, and all that bear office in that Body.

Lastly, let us pray for all the Commons of the Realm ; that they may live in the true faith and fear of God, in dutiful allegiance to the King, in sincere and conscientious communion with the Established Church, and in brotherly love and Christian charity one towards another.

And, as we pray unto God for future mercies, so let us praise his most holy Name for those we have already received ; for our Creation, Preservation, and all the blessings of this life ; but above all, for our redemption through Christ Jesus ; for the means of grace afforded us here, and for the hope of glory hereafter.

These prayers and praises let us humbly offer up to the Throne of Heaven, in the words which Christ himself hath taught us :

Our Father, which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy Name, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread ; And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us ; And lead us not into temptation, But deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, The power, and the glory, For ever and ever. Amen.

Then follows the Sermon, and this ended, the Preacher gives the Ascription, followed immediately by the Benediction.

<sup>3</sup> In the version of the Bidding Prayer which will be within the recollection of older members of the University, this clause ran, more rhythmically : 'always remembering that strict and solemn account which they must one day give before the judgement seat of Christ.'

<sup>9</sup> On the outbreak of war in August 1914, the following words were added here : And especially for all those sons of this University who have gone forth to serve their King and Country by sea and land in the present war.

The galleries at Great St Mary's Church, and a portion of the seats in the nave, are assigned to persons in statu pupillari at all University Services.

THE LADY MARGARET'S PREACHER

THE Preachership was founded in 1504 by the LADY MARGARET, mother of King Henry VII, and is endowed with a stipend of about £8 charged on the land revenues of the Crown. A Statute approved by Queen Victoria in Council, April 6, 1858, directs that the Preacher be appointed by the Vice-Chancellor and hold office for one year; and that he preach one sermon in the University Church at the Commemoration of Benefactors [q.v.] in place of the six sermons a year prescribed by the deed of foundation.

By Grace of the Senate, May 6, 1858, the appointment is to be made in the Easter Term, and the Preacher is to hold office till the first of May in the following year. Any member of the Senate who is in Holy Orders may be appointed.

[An asterisk prefixed to a College indicates that the preacher was a Fellow of that College.]

HULSEAN LECTURER OR CHRISTIAN PREACHER

THE original Will of JOHN HULSE, B.A., of St John's College, dated July 21, 1777, provides for the appointment of some 'learned and ingenious clergyman' to preach twenty sermons a year. The testator died in 1790, but the first Hulsean Lecturer was not appointed until 1819. In 1830 the Court of Chancery reduced the number of lectures to eight, and in 1860, by a new Statute approved by the Queen in Council, they were further reduced to four and other modifications were made in the conditions of the office.

The election now takes place on some day in February, not later than the twentieth. Candidates must be thirty years of age or upwards, in Holy Orders, and Masters of Arts or of some higher degree in the University of Cambridge. The Lecturer holds office for one year only, but is capable of re-election after an interval of five years. The duty of the Lecturer is to preach during his year of office not less than four sermons, in which he is to shew the evidence for Revealed Religion or to explain some of the most difficult texts or obscure parts of Holy Scripture—or both, but he is not required to print or publish them. The time of delivery is to be prescribed by the University; and, if the duties be not discharged by the person appointed, his salary is to be divided amongst the six senior Fellows of St John's College. The electors are the Vice-Chancellor, the Master of Trinity, the Master of St John's, and the Lady Margaret's, Regius, Norrisian, and Hulsean Professors of Divinity, the Vice-Chancellor having a casting vote; and, if either the Master of Trinity or the Master of St John's be Vice-Chancellor, his place is to be supplied by the Regius Professor of Greek. Annual stipend, one-tenth of the net income from Mr Hulse's benefaction. [In 1914 this was £63.]

[An asterisk prefixed to a College indicates that the Lecturer was a Fellow of that College.]

RAMSDEN SERMON

MRS CHARLOTTE RAMSDEN, of Bath, having at the suggestion of James Heywood Markland, F.R.S., formerly Treasurer of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, proposed "to provide by an adequate endowment (viz. by an investment in the Consolidated Fund of a sum which shall produce Five Guineas per annum) for an Annual Sermon at St Mary's Church, before the University of Cambridge, to be delivered on such Sunday of full Term and by such Preacher as the Vice-Chancellor for the time being shall appoint, upon the subject of 'Church Extension over the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Empire'," the proposal was accepted by the Senate on Feb. 9, 1848. The day appointed for the Ramsden Sermon is now Whitsunday.

COMMEMORATION OF BENEFACTORS

THE earliest Commemorations were those of particular persons on whose behalf special endowments were provided. Thus, at least as early as 1276 the University held certain properties the rents of which were applied to the maintenance of chaplains to pray for the soul of Roger de Heydon, the founder of the trust<sup>1</sup>. A similar and more durable foundation is that of the Thornton chaplaincy, established a little later to celebrate divine service for the soul of Nigel de Thornton<sup>2</sup>. A later instance of a somewhat different kind is the indenture of Nov. 20, 1504, by which the University undertook, in consideration of a sum of £10 to be paid yearly at Michaelmas by the Abbot, Prior, and Convent of St Peter at Westminster, to 'hold and kepe a solempne anniuersarie' on February 11<sup>3</sup> in Great St Mary's Church, 'for the good and prosperous estate of the...kyng oure Souerayne lord duryng his lif, and for the prosperite of this his Realme; And for the soule of the right excellent Pryncesse Elizabeth late Quene of Englund his wif, and for the soules of their children and issue, and for the soules of the right excellent Prynce Edmond, late Erle of Richemond, fader to oure said Souerayne lord the kyng, and of all the other Progenitours and Auncestours of the same kyng our Soverayne Lord, and for the soule of the right excellent Pryncesse Margaret Countesse of Richmond and Derby, moder to oure said Souerayne lord the kyng after hir decease; And after the decease of the said kyng oure Soverayne lord, then and from thensforth as long as the World shall endure, to hold and kepe the said Anniuersarie yerely...'<sup>1</sup>

The effect of the Reformation was to abolish these various obits and exequies as superstitious and to substitute a more general Commemoration of Benefactors. Such a form had already been in use before the Reformation, in the Missa pro Benefactoribus, copied into Stokes's Book at the Registry. This was mostly compiled in the reign of Henry VII, probably soon after 1499, but some of the material is older. As would naturally be the case at this date, the medieval practice of praying for the souls of the dead is retained—Rogemus igitur ipsum qui omnium bonorum est retributor et remunerator pro omnibus benefactoribus istius universitatis et promotoribus, specialiter pro anima... item pro anima.... The long list of donors here given<sup>2</sup> includes many names which are not now commemorated, among them a predecessor of the Lady Margaret, Domina Maria Retforde, and 'Ricardus Mountfycher,' who may probably be identified with Richard de Montfichet, one of the twenty-five Barons elected to enforce the observance of Magna Carta. The list is also notable for the number of Bedells whose names it contains. These were for the most part rich men, and their benefactions are quite a feature of University history. The nature of these early benefactions is not as a rule specified, but many of them must have taken the form of the endowment of 'Chests' (see p. 16) from which loans could be made for the benefit of poor students. This form of benefaction was closely associated with the custom of prayers for the dead, as not only did the University celebrate a mass once a year for the soul of the pious founder, but every borrower from the Chest was required to say certain paters and aves for the repose of the donor's soul<sup>3</sup>.

On February 11, 1640, when John Cosin, afterwards Bishop of Durham, was Vice-Chancellor, a Grace of the Senate was passed appointing a Syndicate to consult the archives and to draw up a scheme for a solemn Commemoration of Benefactors to be held on the Sunday next before the third of November in every year<sup>4</sup>. A revised Form of Service for this occasion was adopted by Grace of 3 July 1668<sup>5</sup>.

The Statutes of 1882 require a Commemoration of Benefactors to be held in the University Church at such time and in such manner as the University may prescribe by Grace. The latest revision of the Service as a whole is that adopted by Grace of June 5, 1873, but since then the day of Commemoration has been altered to the first Sunday in November (Gr. 1 June 1882) and the time of the Service has been changed to the afternoon (Gr. 14 October 1886). A revised List of Benefactors to be read at the Service was approved by Grace of June 4, 1891, [and a further revision of the List was approved by Grace of June 12, 1914. This restored certain names of Benefactors of ancient date, e.g. those of Stephen de Segrave, Chancellor of the University early in the fourteenth century, and Sir Richard de Whittington, who were commemorated in medieval times; and removed the name of Sigebert, King of the East Angles, on the ground that the connexion of his School with the beginnings of the University was too dubious to justify the reference to him in the form hitherto adopted. In order to shorten the time taken in reading the List, it was provided that the titles of the Benefactors, their degrees, the Colleges to which they belonged, and other descriptions of them, should for the most part not be read, and this was indicated to the Preacher in the official form by the use of italics. The dates of the several Benefactions, and short descriptions of them, were added in the margin. In the form as printed below the italics are not used, as they are a direction to the Preacher only, and somewhat interfere with the literary effect of the Service; the marginal notes are also omitted, the necessary dates and descriptions being given more fully in footnotes.]

In its present form the Service consists of versicles and responses, Psalms cxlviii, cxlix, and cl, the lesson from Ecclesiasticus, xlv to v. 16, 'Let us now praise famous men,' and a sermon, ending with the Te Deum, the Salutation, a Collect, and the Benediction. Immediately after the Sermon the Preacher reads the 'Form of Commemoration,' as follows:

AND NOW, according to our bounden duty and in obedience to the Statutes of the University, let us thankfully commemorate before Almighty God all our pious Founders and Benefactors by whose noble liberality the glory of God hath been advanced, Christian Religion and good learning propagated, and this our mother University endowed with special benefits and enlarged with manifold and singular privileges

Among whom in the forefront stand the Kings and Princes of this realm, through whose protection and encouragement the study of learning grew and prevailed<sup>1</sup>. Growing up from small beginnings whereof there is no clear record, our University was notably encouraged by King HENRY the THIRD, who by Letters Patent conferred upon us many privileges and immunities, which have been confirmed and increased by later Sovereigns and by Parliament. More especially, Queen ELIZABETH, besides divers other provisions for our better maintenance and welfare, gave us the Statutes by which we were governed until 1858, when new Statutes were confirmed by Queen VICTORIA.

But, in addition to these public marks of favour and protection, we are bound most gratefully to commemorate those acts of personal munificence which we have received at the hands of divers Sovereigns of this realm:

Queen ELEANOR, wife of King EDWARD THE FIRST, gave us fifty marks for the use of poor Scholars.

King RICHARD THE THIRD, and, after him,

King HENRY THE SEVENTH, by their liberality greatly promoted the building of this sacred place wherein we are now met.

King HENRY THE EIGHTH, Founder of Trinity College, established the five Regius Professorships of Divinity, Law, Physic, and the Greek and Hebrew Languages.

King JAMES THE FIRST granted the rectories of Somersham and Terrington as an endowment to the Regius and Lady Margaret's Professorships of Divinity respectively.

King GEORGE THE FIRST purchased and presented to the University the entire library of JOHN MOORE<sup>1</sup>, BISHOP OF ELY, formerly Fellow of Clare College, and further gave a sum of two thousand pounds to provide for its suitable reception. He likewise instituted the Lord Almoner's Readership in Arabic and a Professorship for the encouragement of the study of Modern History and Modern Languages.

King GEORGE THE SECOND, from a like affection to the well-being of the University, gave us a sum of two thousand pounds for public uses, and by the example of his munificence gave great assistance towards the building of the Senate-House.

Next to these Royal Benefactors we must commemorate the names of those who have provided endowment for the study and encouragement of the various branches of learning. First among these stands the religious LADY MARGARET, mother of King HENRY THE SEVENTH, COUNTESS OF RICHMOND AND DERBY, Foundress of the two Colleges of Christ's and St John's, who in 1502 established and endowed our earliest Professorship, the Lady Margaret's Readership in Divinity, and also, two years afterwards, settled an annual stipend upon a public Preacher. For other Professorships and similar endowments we are indebted to the following primary Benefactors:

Sir ROBERT REDE<sup>2</sup>, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, sometime Fellow of King's Hall;

Sir THOMAS ADAMS<sup>3</sup>, Alderman of London;

HENRY LUCAS<sup>4</sup>, of St John's College, sometime one of the Representatives in Parliament for this University;

JOHN KNIGHTBRIDGE<sup>5</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Fellow of Peterhouse;

<sup>1</sup> John Moore (1646–1714), Fellow of Clare, Bishop of Norwich, 1691, and of Ely, 1707–14, collected a library which was famous throughout Europe. At his death he possessed nearly 20,000 books and 1,790 manuscripts, and Dibdin calls him 'the father of black-letter collectors in this country.' The library was bought by the King for six thousand guineas and was given to the University by the advice of Lord Townshend (1715).

<sup>3</sup> Sir Thomas Adams (1586–1667), educated at Cambridge, was Master of the Drapers Company, 1639, and Lord Mayor of London, 1645. He was made a knight and afterwards a baronet at the Restoration. He founded in 1632 the Professorship of Arabic which bears his name.

<sup>4</sup> Founder of the Lucasian Professorship of Mathematics (1663). He also gave a small collection of mathematical books to the University Library. He died in 1663.

<sup>5</sup> Founder of the Knightbridge Professorship of Moral Philosophy (1683). He took the B.A. Degree in 1642 as a member of Wadham College, Oxford, but migrated to Cambridge 3 May 1645, and five days later was admitted to a Fellowship at Peterhouse. He died in 1677.

- Dame MARY SADLEIR<sup>1</sup>, of Kimpson, in Hampshire;
 THOMAS PLUME<sup>2</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Archdeacon of Rochester, formerly of Christ's College;
 JOHN WOODWARD<sup>3</sup>, Doctor of Physic, of Pembroke College;
 THOMAS LOWNDES<sup>4</sup>, of Overton, in Cheshire;
 JOHN NORRIS<sup>5</sup>, of Witton, in Norfolk, formerly Fellow-Commoner of Trinity College;
 RICHARD JACKSON<sup>6</sup>, of Tarrington, in Herefordshire, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
 JOHN HULSE<sup>7</sup>, of Elworth, in Cheshire, formerly of St John's College;
 CHARLOTTE RAMSDEN<sup>8</sup>, of Bath;
 JOHN DISNEY<sup>9</sup>, of the Hyde, near Ingatestone, Fellow-Commoner of Peterhouse;
 WILLIAM WHEWELL<sup>10</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Master of Trinity College;
 FELIX SLADE<sup>11</sup>, of Halsteads, in Yorkshire;
 JOSEPH BOSWORTH<sup>12</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, formerly Rawlinsonian
 Professor of Anglo-Saxon in the University of Oxford;
 Sir GEORGE DOWNING<sup>13</sup>, Baronet, of Gamlingay, in this County;
 BENJAMIN HALL KENNEDY<sup>14</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, formerly Regius
 Professor of Greek, sometime Fellow of St John's College;
 SAMUEL SANDARS<sup>15</sup>, of Trinity College;
 NORMAN MACCOLL<sup>16</sup>, sometime Fellow of Downing College.

To the bountiful provision thus made, and augmented in many cases by later Benefactions, this University stands indebted for the endowment of no fewer than twenty-five of the existing Professorships and Lectureships. These Founders, out of their affection for the cause of liberal and Christian education, have supplied means for the instruction of our students. Others again have furnished encouragements to study and rewards of proficiency by the endowment of

<sup>2</sup> Thomas Plume (1630—1704) was the founder of the Plumian Professorship of Astronomy (1704). He was educated at Chelmsford Grammar School, and afterwards entered at Christ's, taking the B.A. Degree in 1650. Pepys and Evelyn, who attended his church at Greenwich on Sundays between 1665 and 1669, commend his 'excellent preaching' and 'very good sermons.'

<sup>3</sup> John Woodward (1665—1728) was Professor of Physic in Gresham College, 1692, and F.R.S. 1693. In 1695 he was admitted to the Degree of M.D. at Cambridge and became a member of Pembroke Hall. He bequeathed to the University (1727) land of the yearly value of £150, £100 of which was to be used for the maintenance of a Lectureship, now the Woodwardian Professorship of Geology (founded 1728), and his collection of fossils which formed the nucleus of a Geological Museum.

<sup>10</sup> Dr Whewell (1794—1866) established in the University (1867) by will the Whewell Professorship and Scholarships in International Law, maintained from the rents of Whewell's Court at Trinity, which was built at his expense. During his life he had also given (1832) his mineralogical books and collections.

<sup>11</sup> Felix Slade (1790—1868) left £35,000 by will for the endowment of Professorships for promoting the study of the Fine Arts at Oxford and Cambridge and at University College, London, with an additional endowment to the last of six Art Scholarships. He also left valuable collections to the British Museum. The Cambridge Professorship was founded in 1839.

<sup>12</sup> See the Erlington and Bosworth Professorship of Anglo-Saxon (p. 104). Bosworth (1789—1876) was educated at Repton and the University of Aberdeen, but he afterwards became a member of Trinity.

numerous Studentships, Scholarships, and Prizes. At the head of these last, stands the name of JOHN Lord CRAVEN<sup>1</sup>, who in 1648 founded those Scholarships which have inseparably connected his name with the study of the Classical literature of Greece and Rome in this country. Among those who have followed this notable example and have promoted the study of various branches of learning and science, we are particularly bound here to commemorate the following founders of Benefactions which for the most part bear their names :

WILLIAM WORTS<sup>2</sup>, of Landbeach, in this County, formerly of St Catharine's College;

WILLIAM BATTIE<sup>4</sup>, Doctor of Physic, sometime Fellow of King's College;

ROBERT SMITH<sup>5</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Master of Trinity College;

SIR WILLIAM BROWNE<sup>6</sup>, Doctor of Physic, formerly of Peterhouse;

JOHN NORRIS and JOHN HULSE, before mentioned;

JONATHAN DAVIES<sup>7</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Provost of Eton, sometime Fellow of King's College;

WILLIAM BELL<sup>8</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, sometime Fellow of Magdalene College;

JOHN CROSSE<sup>9</sup>, Vicar of Bradford;

ROBERT TYRWHITT<sup>10</sup>, sometime Fellow of Jesus College;

RICHARD BURNEY<sup>11</sup>, of Christ's College;

JOHN BARNES, in memory of his brother, THOMAS BARNES<sup>12</sup>, of Pembroke College;

WILLIAM WHEWELL, before mentioned;

JOHN ABBOTT<sup>13</sup>, of Halifax;

JAMES AMIRAUX JEREMIE<sup>14</sup>, Dean of Lincoln, sometime Regius Professor of Divinity and Fellow of Trinity College; .

<sup>2</sup> B.A. 1608. He left his estate in trust to pay £30 yearly to Charity Schools in Cambridge: to build galleries in Great St Mary's for the use of Bachelors and Undergraduates; to build a causeway from Emmanuel to the Hills; and to pay £100 a year to each of two Bachelors who are to travel in foreign countries and send home reports of what they observe (see p. 262). The residue was left to the University Library.

<sup>5</sup> Robert Smith (1689—1768) was educated at Leicester Grammar School. He was Plumian Professor of Astronomy, 1716; F.R.S. 1718; and succeeded Bentley as Master of Trinity, 1742. Besides large benefactions to Trinity, he left £3500 to the University to augment the salary of the Plumian Professor and to establish the Smith's Prizes.

<sup>7</sup> Jonathan Davies (1736—1809) was educated at Eton, and was at first an assistant master and afterwards Headmaster. He was a Canon of Windsor, 1781—91, and Provost of Eton, 1791—1809. Besides benefactions to Eton and King's, he left £1000 to the University to found the classical scholarship which bears his name.

<sup>8</sup> William Bell (1731—1816), 8th Wrangler, 1753, Prebendary of Westminster and Treasurer of St Paul's Cathedral, transferred to the University in 1810 £15,200 to found Scholarships for the sons or orphans of clergy of the Church of England.

<sup>9</sup> John Crosse (1739—1816), Vicar of Bradford, graduated in 1768 from St Edmund's Hall, Oxford, and incorporated B.A. as a member of King's in 1776. He bequeathed £2000 to the University to found the Crosse Theological Scholarships.

<sup>10</sup> Robert Tyrwhitt (1735—1817) was the brother of Thomas Tyrwhitt, Clerk of the House of Commons, the critic who exposed the forgeries of Chatterton. He left £4000 to the University to found Hebrew Scholarships.

<sup>11</sup> In 1845 Richard Burney, a nephew of Madame D'Arblay, gave the University £3500 to establish an annual Prize for an English essay. He was born in India and lived for some time there; and had already given in 1842 the model of the Taj Mahal, now in the Fitzwilliam Museum.

<sup>12</sup> Thomas Barnes (1785—1841), a member of the literary circle to which Hunt, Lamb, and Hazlitt belonged, was Editor of the Times from 1817 until his death. His brother's gift of £2000 did not become operative until 1867, when the first Barnes Scholar was elected.

 JOHN STEWART<sup>2</sup>, of Rannoch;
 JOSEPH BARBER LIGHTFOOT<sup>3</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Bishop of Durham, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
 JOHN LUCAS WALKER<sup>4</sup>, of Trinity College;
 JOHN NOBLE<sup>5</sup>, of Henley on Thames;
 AUGUSTUS ARTHUR VANSITTART<sup>6</sup>, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
 JOSEPH GEDGE<sup>7</sup>, of Gonville and Caius College;
 ASHLEY WILLIAM GRAHAM ALLEN<sup>8</sup>, of Trinity College, in memory of his grandfather, JOSEPH ALLEN, D.D., Bishop of Ely;
 HENRY TYSON<sup>9</sup>, of Kendal;
 MARGARET PEARSON, of Penrith, in memory of her brother ROBERT HARKNESS<sup>10</sup>, of St John's College;
 REBECCA FLOWER SQUIRE<sup>11</sup>, of Stoke Newington;
 THOMAS WILTSHIRE<sup>12</sup>, Honorary Doctor of Science, of Trinity College;
 FRANK McCLEAN<sup>13</sup>, of Trinity College;
 GORDON TAYLOR BENTINCK WIGAN<sup>14</sup>, of Trinity College;
 FREDERICK JAMES QUICK<sup>15</sup>, of Trinity Hall;
 ROBERT PEARSON BRERETON<sup>16</sup>, of Jesus College;
 CHARLES JAMES OLDHAM<sup>17</sup>, of Brighton;
 CONSTANCE EMILY WARR, of Kensington, in memory of her husband,
 GEORGE CHARLES WINTER WARR<sup>18</sup>, of Trinity College.

Besides these we would gratefully record the Scholarships, Prizes, and other Endowments for the advancement of learning which have been established from time to time, since the year 1800, to preserve among us the memory of those who have left us examples of excellence in their several kinds, namely:

<sup>1</sup> Edmund Yorke, who died in 1871, left about £3900 to the Masters of Trinity and Magdalene in trust for the establishment of Prizes for an Essay on the Law of Primogeniture; but the terms of the bequest were modified with the consent of the Court of Chancery, and the Yorke Prize was established in 1875.

<sup>3</sup> The Lightfoot Scholarships in Ecclesiastical History were established and the regulations for them drawn up by Dr Lightfoot in 1870. He also devised by will part of his library to the Divinity School.

<sup>4</sup> John Lucas Walker, LL.B. 1867, left £10,000 to his friend Sir Richard Webster, then Attorney-General, and afterwards Lord Alverstone and Lord Chief Justice of England, in trust for the promotion of scientific and literary research. Sir Richard Webster decided to use it to establish in 1887 a Fund and Studentship for the furtherance of original research in Pathology.

<sup>5</sup> Founded the Winchester Reading Prizes anonymously in 1867. His name was not made public until 1888.

<sup>6</sup> B.A. 1847. Founded in 1865 a Prize in honour of Adam Sedgwick; gave in 1864 and in 1876 oil-paintings to the Fitzwilliam Museum; and presented in 1878 to the Museum of Geology the collection of fossils formed by Dr King.

<sup>7</sup> M.B. 1869. He was medical officer to Sir Samuel Baker's Egyptian Expedition, and died at Khartoum, 1870, bequeathing £1000 to the University for the establishment of the Gedge Prize for Physiology (1897).

<sup>8</sup> B.A. 1830. Died July 1, 1893. He bequeathed £10,000 to the University, and the Allen Scholarships were established in 1898. Dr Joseph Allen was Bishop of Bristol, 1834-6, and Bishop of Ely, 1836-45.

<sup>10</sup> Robert Harkness (1816-1878) was Professor of Geology at Queen's College, Cork, 1853-78; F.R.S. 1856. The Harkness Scholarships were established in 1885.

<sup>12</sup> B.A. 1850. Presented to the University in 1900 £200 to found a Prize for the encouragement of Geology and Mineralogy. He had already given in 1895 a collection of fossils to the Museum of Geology, and in 1897 a collection of minerals to the Mineralogical Museum.

<sup>13</sup> B.A. 1859. Gave £12,000 to the University in 1890 for the endowment of Studentships in memory of Sir Isaac Newton (see p. 279). In 1904 bequeathed manuscripts, early printed books, and objects of art to the Fitzwilliam Museum (see p. 227).

<sup>14</sup> B.A. 1873. Bequeathed 9000*l.* for promoting scientific education or research. This was transferred to the University in 1904 and the Gordon Wigan Fund (see p. 284) was established in 1905.

<sup>15</sup> B.A. 1859. He bequeathed his residuary estate to the University to form the Frederick James Quick Fund, for the promotion of study and research in vegetable and animal biology, from which the Quick Professorship of Biology was established in 1906.

<sup>16</sup> B.A. 1871. He bequeathed the funds from which the Brereton Readership in Classical Archaeology (see p. 115) was established.

<sup>17</sup> Bequeathed £5000 to the University from which the Oldham Scholarships (see p. 285) were founded in 1907.

- SIR ISAAC NEWTON<sup>1</sup>, Lucasian Professor of Mathematics, Representative in Parliament for this University, Fellow of Trinity College;
- WILLIAM PITT<sup>2</sup>, for many years Prime Minister of the Crown, and Representative in Parliament for this University, formerly of Pembroke College;
- RICHARD PORSON<sup>3</sup>, Regius Professor of Greek, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
- GEORGE WADDINGTON<sup>4</sup>, Dean of Durham, and his brother HORATIO WADDINGTON<sup>4</sup>, both formerly Fellows of Trinity College and University Scholars;
- SIR PEREGRINE MITTLAND<sup>5</sup>, sometime Commander-in-Chief of the British Forces in Southern India;
- CHARLES WEBB LE BAS<sup>6</sup>, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
- WILLIAM CARUS<sup>7</sup>, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
- JAMES SCHOLEFIELD<sup>8</sup>, Regius Professor of Greek, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
- JULIUS CHARLES HARE<sup>9</sup>, Archdeacon of Lewes, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
- ADAM SEDGWICK<sup>10</sup>, Woodwardian Professor of Geology, Fellow of Trinity College;
- ROBERT WILSON EVANS<sup>11</sup>, Archdeacon of Westmorland, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
- WILLIAM HARNESS<sup>12</sup>, formerly of Christ's College;

1 See the Isaac Newton Studentships (p. 279). Sir Isaac Newton himself gave £30 to the Fund for building the Senate House (1719–34), and in 1888 the Earl of Portsmouth presented to the University a collection of his manuscripts.

2 In 1806 a committee of resident members of the Senate was appointed to collect subscriptions for the statue of William Pitt by Nollekens now in the Senate House, and as the amount subscribed was considerably in excess of that required, it was decided to found the Pitt Scholarship (see p. 264) with the remainder, which was augmented by a gift of £500 from the London Pitt Club. In 1824 the surplus of another subscription for a statue to be placed in Hanover Square was assigned by the subscribers to 'the erection of a handsome and appropriate building at Cambridge connected with the University Press; such building to bear the name of Mr Pitt.' The sum contributed was £9000.

3 In 1792, when Porson's Fellowship at Trinity expired, nearly £2000 was collected to purchase an annuity for him, but he declined to accept more than the interest on this sum, and at his death in 1808 part of it was applied to the engraving by William Sharp of the portrait of Porson by Hoppner, now in the University Library; to the monument of Porson in Trinity Chapel; and to the foundation of the Porson Prize in 1816 (see p. 316). The residue was allowed to accumulate and was eventually employed to found the Porson Scholarship in 1855 (see p. 271).

4 In 1870 Miss Anne Waddington and Miss Clara Waddington gave £3000 to found a Classical Scholarship in memory of their brothers, George Waddington, B.A. 1815, Dean of Durham, 1840–69, and Horatio Waddington, B.A. 1820, Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department.

5 Sir Peregrine Maitland (1777–1854) commanded the first Brigade of Guards at Waterloo. He was Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada, 1818–28; and of Nova Scotia, 1829–34; commander-in-chief of the Madras army, 1836–8; and Governor at the Cape, 1843–6. The Prize bearing his name was founded in 1844 by subscribers to commemorate his action in resigning his Indian command 'rather than countenance the participation of the troops in idolatrous ceremonies.'

6 Charles Webb Le Bas (1779–1861) was Mathematical Professor and Dean of the East India College, Haileybury, 1813–37, and Principal, 1837–43. The Le Bas Prize was established in 1848 by members of the Indian Civil Service who had been students under him.

7 In 1832 several friends of the Rev. William Carus, M.A. (B.A. 1827), Canon of Winchester, desirous of testifying their regard for him, raised a Fund of £500 to found Prizes for the encouragement of the accurate study of the Greek Testament. In 1833 Mr Carus himself offered a further £500 in augmentation of the Fund, and in 1894 an anonymous donor gave £100 'as a thank-offering for the instruction received by him, while an undergraduate, from the late Canon Carus, especially in his Sunday evening addresses in the room over Trinity Gate.'

8 James Scholefield was Regius Professor of Greek from 1825 till his death in 1833. In the following year it was decided to establish a memorial to him, and the Greek Testament and Septuagint Prize which bears his name was founded in 1866.

9 The Hare Prize was founded in 1861 by some friends of Archdeacon Hare (1795–1856) 'to testify their admiration for his character, and the high sense they entertain of his services to learning and religion.' His collection of Italian oil-paintings was offered to the University by his widow in 1855, and is now in the Fitzwilliam Museum.

10 Professor Adam Sedgwick (1785–1873) is now commemorated in Cambridge by the Sedgwick Prize (p. 327), founded in 1865 by the late Mr VanSittart; by the Sedgwick Museum of Geology (p. 243), completed in 1903; and by a bronze statue by Onslow Ford, R.A., to the cost of which the late Professor Selwyn gave £500.

11 The Evans Prize was founded in 1869 by some friends of Archdeacon Evans (1780–1866). He was appointed Classical Tutor of Trinity in 1814 and resided until 1836.

12 The Harness Prize for an essay upon some subject connected with Shakespearean literature was founded by subscribers in 1871 as a memorial to the Rev. William Harness (1790–1869), the editor of Shakespeare, Massinger, and Ford. He was a friend and correspondent of Lord Byron.

- JOHN KAYE<sup>1</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Bishop of Lincoln, sometime Master of Christ's College;
 GEORGE LONG<sup>2</sup>, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
 GEORGE WILLIAMS<sup>3</sup>, sometime Fellow of King's College;
 CONNOP THIRLWALL<sup>4</sup>, Bishop of St David's, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
 ALBERT<sup>5</sup>, Prince Consort, Chancellor of the University;
 JAMES CLERK MAXWELL<sup>6</sup>, Professor of Experimental Physics, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
 FRANCIS MAITLAND BALFOUR<sup>7</sup>, Professor of Animal Morphology, Fellow of Trinity College;
 GUY LUSHINGTON PRENDERGAST<sup>8</sup>, formerly of Trinity College;
 JOHN COUCH ADAMS<sup>9</sup>, Lowndean Professor of Astronomy and Geometry, sometime Fellow of St John's College, and afterwards Fellow of Pembroke College;
 FENTON JOHN ANTHONY HORT<sup>10</sup>, Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, sometime Fellow of Trinity College, and afterwards Fellow of Emmanuel College;
 Sir JOHN ROBERT SEELEY<sup>11</sup>, Regius Professor of Modern History, sometime Fellow of Christ's College, and afterwards Fellow of Gonville and Caius College;

1 John Kaye (1783—1853), Master of Christ's, 1814—30; Regius Professor of Divinity, 1816—27; Bishop of Bristol, 1820—7; Bishop of Lincoln, 1827—53; is commemorated in the University by a Prize bearing his name (see p. 327) founded in 1861 from the surplus of a Fund originally raised to erect a monument to him in Lincoln Cathedral.

2 George Long (1800—1879) was bracketed Craven Scholar in 1821 with Lord Macaulay and Henry Malden, Professor of Greek at University College, London, 1831—76, and gained a Trinity Fellowship over their heads. He was one of the founders in 1830 of the Royal Geographical Society, and both as a teacher and writer exercised much influence upon English classical scholarship; and his two 'Discourses on Roman Law,' published in 1847, greatly contributed to the revival of the study of that subject. After his death some of his pupils and friends raised a fund of £500 to establish in 1881 a Prize for Roman Law and Jurisprudence as a memorial of him.

3 George Williams (1814—1878), B.D. 1840, was Dean of King's, 1846—50, and Vice-Provost, 1854—7; he was Vicar of Ringwood from 1869 until his death. His friends collected £300 to found the George Williams Prize (see p. 334) in his memory; a bronze tablet, with a portrait bust in relief, designed by W. Burgess, R.A., was also placed in one of the side-chapels at King's.

4 Connop Thirlwall (1797—1875) was Junior Dean and Junior Bursar of Trinity between 1827 and 1832, and in 1832 he was appointed Assistant Tutor on Whewell's side, but after holding that office for two years he was required to resign in consequence of his 'Letter on the Admission of Dissenters to Academic Degrees,' published in reply to Dr Thomas Turton's 'Thoughts on the admission of Persons, without regard to their Religious Opinions, to certain Degrees in the Universities of England.' Not long after Lord Brougham offered him the living of Kirby Underdale, and it was there that he completed his History of Greece, the first volume of which had been written in Cambridge. He was appointed to the Bishopric of St David's by Lord Melbourne in 1840, and held it until 1874. He died at Bath in 1875 and was buried in Westminster Abbey in the same grave with Grote. In 1884 the Thirlwall Prize (see p. 336) was instituted in his memory.

5 The Prince Consort Prize (see p. 335) was founded in 1883 from the surplus of the Cambridge Memorial Fund, amounting to nearly £1800 left after providing for the statue by Foley now in the Entrance Hall of the Fitzwilliam Museum. In 1849 the Prince Consort presented to the University a portrait of himself by Saye, and in 1854 he established the Chancellor's Medal for Legal Studies (see p. 325).

6 See p. 103, note 4. In 1890 the Clerk Maxwell Scholarship (see p. 279) was founded in accordance with the will of Mrs Clerk Maxwell, who also bequeathed to the Cavendish Laboratory all her husband's scientific books.

7 The Balfour Fund and Studentship (see p. 275) were established in 1883 in recognition of the value of the scientific work and teaching done by Francis Maitland Balfour (B.A. 1874), who lost his life in the Alps, 19 July 1882 (see p. 105, note 2). His family gave his scientific library to the University for the use of the Morphological Laboratory, and presented a number of works on general science to the Philosophical Library.

8 The Prendergast Greek Studentship (see p. 278) was founded in 1888 by Mrs Prendergast to commemorate her husband, Colonel Prendergast, who had kept ten terms at Trinity and had 'there acquired his great love for literature in general and for Greek literature in particular.' Colonel Prendergast matriculated 13 November 1824, but did not proceed to a degree.

9 See p. 92, note 4. The Adams Prize was founded in 1848 by members of St John's College 'in testimony of their sense of the honour he has conferred on his College and the University by having been the first among the Mathematicians of Europe to determine from the perturbations the unknown place of a disturbing Planet exterior to Uranus.'

10 See p. 74, note 2. The Hort Memorial Fund for the promotion of Biblical and Patristic research was established by subscription in 1894.

11 Sir John Seeley died 13 January 1895, and in the following June a meeting was held in the Senate House to promote a memorial of him. This took the form of a bronze medal for History (see p. 339), the gift to the University of a replica of a portrait by Frau Ewald of Berlin, and an endowment for the Seeley Memorial Library (see p. 256).

WILLIAM EWART GLADSTONE<sup>1</sup>, Honorary Doctor of Law, for many years Prime Minister of the Crown;
 HENRY SIDGWICK<sup>2</sup>, Doctor of Letters, Fellow of Trinity College, sometime Knightbridge Professor of Moral Philosophy;
 RAYMOND JOHN HORTON-SMITH<sup>3</sup>, of St John's College;
 JOHN HOPKINSON<sup>4</sup>, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;
 JOHN EMERICH EDWARD BARON ACTON<sup>5</sup>, Honorary Doctor of Law, Regius Professor of Modern History, Honorary Fellow of Trinity College;
 JOHN STEBBY WINBOLT<sup>6</sup>, of Trinity College;
 Sir LESLIE STEPHEN<sup>7</sup>, Honorary Doctor of Letters, sometime Fellow of Trinity Hall;
 Sir RICHARD CLAVERHOUSE JEBB<sup>8</sup>, Doctor of Letters, Regius Professor of Greek, Representative in Parliament for this University, Fellow of Trinity College.

Furthermore, JOHN CRANE<sup>9</sup>, Master of Arts, an Apothecary in this town, besides bequeathing his dwelling house for the use of the Regius Professor of Physic, left a considerable estate for the relief of sick and poor Scholars.

A pension fund for the benefit of Members of the University and their families was founded by HENRY LATHAM<sup>10</sup>, Master of Trinity Hall.

The Benefactors to the various institutions of the University, the Library, the Press, the Museums, the Botanic Garden, and the Observatory, are far too numerous to be all recited here. Their names and benefactions are recorded in the registers of the several institutions, as a lasting memorial of their liberality and a testimony of our gratitude. We are bound nevertheless on this occasion to commemorate severally the principal Founders and most notable Benefactors.

The LIBRARY had its first beginning in a collection of books bequeathed by RICHARD HOME, Licentiate of Laws, Master of King's Hall, in 1424. Large additions were made by gift and bequest from various sources in later years, pre-eminently by the munificence of <sup>1</sup> The Committee of the Liberal Memorial to Mr Gladstone established Gladstone Memorial Prizes, to be given in books, at certain Universities for proficiency in History, Political Science, and Economics. The Cambridge Prize was founded in 1901.

<sup>2</sup> See p. 84, note 10. In 1901 some of Professor Sidgwick's friends and colleagues subscribed £2450 for a memorial of him, and this took the form of a University Lectureship in Moral Science (see p. 126). Professor Sidgwick was during his lifetime a generous benefactor to the University. In addition to gifts which were anonymous, in 1899 he gave £1500 towards a new Physiological Laboratory, and in 1896 he undertook to contribute £200 a year towards the stipend attached to the proposed Professorship of Mental Philosophy and Logic.

<sup>3</sup> In 1900 a Prize for the encouragement of Medicine and Pathology (see p. 339) was founded by Mr Richard Horton-Smith, M.A., K.C., late Fellow of St John's, in memory of his third son, who after a distinguished career in the University and at St Thomas's Hospital, died 8 October, 1899, in the twenty-seventh year of his age.

<sup>4</sup> In 1898 Mrs Hopkinson and her surviving son and daughter—the former now Professor of Mechanism in the University—gave £5000 towards an extension of the Engineering Laboratory, as a memorial to her husband, John Hopkinson, and her son, John Gustave Hopkinson, who were killed in the Alps in August 1898.

<sup>5</sup> Immediately after Lord Acton's death in 1902, his valuable historical library at Aldenham, containing over 59,000 volumes, was bought by Mr Andrew Carnegie, and was presented by him to Mr John Morley (now Viscount Morley). In 1903 Lord Morley gave it to the University.

<sup>6</sup> B.A., 1864; M.A., 1867. Founder of the Winbolt Prize (see p. 341). He was engineer to the Great Eastern Railway.

<sup>9</sup> See p. 261. In addition to these bequests, John Crane (1572–1692) left to the University and Town £100 'to be lent freely to two honest men . . . to buy provision of seafish or fowle the better to serve the Universitie and Towne'; Fuller adds that Crane had 'observed much sickness occasioned by unwholesome food in that kind.' The house in Market Street is now leased to Messrs W. Eaden Lilley & Co. In accordance with his will Crane is 'decently buried in Great St Maryes Church in Cambridg.'

THOMAS ROTHERHAM<sup>1</sup>, Archbishop of York, and Master of Pembroke College, sometime Fellow of King's College, and Chancellor both of England and of this University;

WILLIAM WORDS<sup>2</sup>, of Landbeach, formerly of St Catharine's College, who, after certain specified benefactions to the University, bequeathed the residue of his property for the use of the Library; and

King GEORGE the FIRST<sup>3</sup>, before mentioned.

Of other chief Benefactors, we are bound more particularly here to mention the following:

WALTER CROME<sup>4</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, formerly Fellow of Gonville College;

ANDREW PERNE<sup>5</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Dean of Ely and Master of Peterhouse, sometime Fellow of Queens' College;

THOMAS LORKIN<sup>6</sup>, Regius Professor of Physic, sometime Fellow of Queens' College, and afterwards Fellow of Peterhouse;

JOHN SELDEN<sup>7</sup>, Representative in Parliament for the University of Oxford;

RICHARD HOLDSWORTH<sup>8</sup>, Lady Margaret's Reader in Divinity, Dean of Worcester and Master of Emmanuel College, sometime Fellow of St John's College;

HENRY LUCAS<sup>9</sup>, before mentioned;

TOBIAS RUSTAT<sup>10</sup>, formerly of Jesus College;

JOHN HACKET<sup>11</sup>, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, sometime Fellow of Trinity College;

JOHN LOUIS BURCKHARDT<sup>12</sup>, of Lausanne, who, before his travels in the East, was for some time resident in this University;

JOHN MANISTRE<sup>13</sup>, sometime Fellow of King's College;

1 See p. 18. Thomas Rotherham (1423—1500) built the east side of the Schools quadrangle and gave two hundred volumes to the Library on its first floor. He was also a benefactor to Oxford, and especially to Lincoln College.

2 See p. 168, note 2.

3 See p. 166.

4 On the Feast of St Hugh, November 17, 1444, Dr Walter Crome presented to the University a collection of books for the recently founded Library.

5 See p. 23. Andrew Perne (1519?—1589) was for many years engaged in strenuous and successful endeavours to obtain donations to the University Library, and on his death he left to it a number of books, with 40*l.* yearly to augment the stipend of a learned scholar for the safe keeping of the books there (Cooper, Athen. Cantab. ii. 47).

6 See p. 73, note 14. Thomas Lorkin (1528?—1591) gave to the University 'all his physic books, or that appertained to physic, to be kept in the University Library in a great cupboard locked' (ib. ii. 102). He also directed that a sermon should be preached for him yearly in Cambridge and that 6*s.* 8*d.* should be paid to the preacher. He is buried at Great St Mary's.

7 The greater part of the library of John Selden (1584—1654), the famous jurist, went to the Bodleian, but in 1648 the House of Commons voted £500 to purchase for the University a collection of Hebrew books which had formerly belonged to an Italian Rabbi, Isaac Pragi, and Selden was one of the members engaged in the transaction. This collection was the foundation of our Hebrew library.

8 See p. 73, note 7. Richard Holdsworth (1580—1649) left a large and valuable library of more than 10,000 volumes. There was for a time a dispute between the University and Emmanuel with regard to it, but eventually the University paid the College £220 and acquired it.

9 See p. 166, note 4. He gave to the University a small collection of mathematical books.

10 Tobias Rustat (1606?—1694), in addition to a gift to the Library of St John's, a benefaction to St John's, Oxford, for the encouragement of 'the most indigent Fellows or Scholars, and the benefaction to Jesus College which bears his name, gave in 1667 £1000 to be spent in buying 'the choicest and most useful books for the public library' of the University. In the deed of gift he indicates his motive in the following terms:—'I, Tobias Rustatt, Yeoman of the Robes to his most Sacred Majesty King Charles the Second, being really sensible of the Infinite goodness of God by whose especial favour and blessing upon mee (in his Majesties my most gracious Masters miraculous restauration) I have obtained a comfortable estate, and calling to minde that an obligacion lies upon me, to be therefore truly thankfull to the divine majestie I have resolved to expresse the same in freely giving some part of what I have received towards the advancement of the true Religion now established in this Realme, good learning and the honour of God.'

11 John Hacket (1592—1670), who restored Lichfield Cathedral after the Interregnum, gave £1200 to Trinity for the benefit of the College Library, and bequeathed all his books to the University Library.

12 John Louis Burckhardt (1784—1817), the famous traveller, spent six weeks in Cambridge in 1809, attending lectures on Chemistry, Astronomy, and Medicine, studying Arabic, and 'inuring himself to hardship by making long walks bareheaded, sleeping on the ground, and living on vegetables' (D.N.B.). He bequeathed to the University his valuable collection of Oriental manuscripts, because he there received his earliest lessons in Arabic. He successfully accomplished the pilgrimage to Mecca in disguise.

13 John Manistre (B.A. 1769), who died in 1829, bequeathed £500 on trust for the purchase of books, 'in aid and augmentation of' the University Library.

HENRY BRADSHAW<sup>1</sup>, Librarian of the University, Fellow of King's College;

SIR THOMAS FRANCIS WADE<sup>2</sup>, Honorary Doctor of Letters, first Professor of Chinese, Fellow of King's College;

CHARLES TAYLOR<sup>3</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Master of St John's College.

The building of the SCHOOLS and LIBRARY has been carried on through more than five hundred years partly at the cost of the University, and also by aid of the contributions of a long series of Benefactors, whose names, so far as they have come down to us, are recorded on tables preserved in the Library. Foremost among them we must ever gratefully remember these following, each more especially in connexion with one portion of the Building:

SIR WILLIAM THORPE<sup>4</sup>, Chief Justice of the King's Bench;

SIR JOHN FASTOLF<sup>5</sup>, Knight of the Garter;

THOMAS ROTHERHAM<sup>6</sup>, Archbishop of York, before mentioned;

THOMAS HALFORD<sup>7</sup>, of Jesus College;

EDWARD GREY HANCOCK<sup>8</sup>, sometime Fellow of St John's College.

The DIVINITY SCHOOL, which was completed in 1879, is due to the munificence of WILLIAM SELWYN<sup>9</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, during twenty years Lady Margaret's Reader in Divinity, sometime Fellow of St John's College. The Library of this School has been largely increased by the bequest of JOSEPH BARBER LIGHTFOOT<sup>10</sup>, Bishop of Durham, before mentioned.

REBECCA FLOWER SQUIRE<sup>11</sup>, before mentioned, left money for the erection of a LAW LIBRARY, the purchase of books, and other kindred purposes. This Library was enriched by a Fund, for the purchase and binding of foreign books, established in memory of CHARLES HENRY MONRO, Fellow of Gonville and Caius College.

The PRESS stands indebted both to the munificence and to the exertions, on its behalf, of CHARLES SEYMOUR, Duke of SOMERSET<sup>12</sup>, upwards of sixty years Chancellor of the University, who was greatly instrumental in re-establishing and restoring it in 1696.

<sup>4</sup> Sir William Thorpe was appointed Chief Justice of the King's Bench, 1346, but in 1350 he was sentenced to imprisonment and forfeiture for bribery. He was pardoned in 1351, and was made second Baron of the Exchequer in the following year. He was the brother and heir of Sir Robert Thorpe (see p. 210). His executors built the old Divinity School, now part of the Library, 'with a Chapel for the souls of the aforesaid William and Grace his wife,' and in 1388 they made an agreement with the University for a Service of Commemoration for them on May 6 and Nov. 19 in each year.

<sup>5</sup> Sir John Fastolf (1378?–1439) contributed towards the building of the Philosophy Schools; he was also one of the early benefactors of Magdalen College, Oxford. John Paston, the author of the greater part of the Paston Letters, was his neighbour and intimate friend, and Fastolf's life in Norfolk is fully described in the Letters.

<sup>7</sup> In 1842 Thomas Halford (B.A. 1810) invested £2000 in the names of three trustees, to be applied to the completion of the Library. This was transferred to the University in 1851; it then amounted to £2647. Mr Halford also gave, in 1855, some pictures to the Fitzwilliam Museum.

<sup>8</sup> Edward Grey Hancock (B.A. 1855) bequeathed to the University his residuary estate, amounting to nearly £12,000, with no special restrictions as to the way in which it should be employed. In 1886 it was decided to apply it to the erection of the Hancock Building of the University Library, 1887–90.

<sup>9</sup> Soon after his election to the Lady Margaret's Professorship of Divinity in 1855, Professor Selwyn announced his intention of paying £700 a year to the University to augment the salary of the then Norrisian Professor, the Rev. Harold Browne. In 1864, Professor Browne having been made Bishop of Ely, the annual benefaction was devoted to a fund for the building of a Divinity School. This was begun in 1877 and completed in 1879, when it was found that Professor Selwyn's benefaction had been sufficient to defray nearly the whole cost of the building exclusive of the Literary Lecture Rooms. He also gave £500 towards the cost of the bronze statue of Professor Sedgwick by Onslow Ford, R.A., (see p. 170, note 10).

<sup>12</sup> The Duke of Somerset (1602–1748) also gave £500 to the fund for building the Senate House, 1719–34. A statue of him by Rysbrack was presented to the University in 1756 by his daughters, Frances, Marchioness of Granby, and Charlotte, Lady Guernsey.

The MUSEUMS in which our various collections of scientific objects are preserved, though some of them commenced at the cost of the University itself, yet in several instances owe their origin and fuller development to the devotedness and generosity of those whose names we specially recite on this occasion.

Our earliest MUSEUM, that of GEOLOGY, took its rise with the collection of English fossil remains bequeathed by JOHN WOODWARD<sup>1</sup>, before mentioned, Founder of the Geological Professorship, in 1728. It was developed and largely increased by the untiring and devoted labours of ADAM SEDGWICK<sup>2</sup>, Fellow of Trinity College, and for fifty-five years Woodwardian Professor.

The BOTANICAL LIBRARY and HERBARIUM were founded by the liberality of JOHN MARTYN<sup>3</sup>, of Emanuel College, Professor of Botany from 1732 to 1761; and were largely augmented by CHARLES CARDALE BABINGTON<sup>4</sup>, sometime Fellow of St John's College, Professor of Botany from 1861 to 1895.

The BOTANICAL MUSEUM was founded by JOHN STEVENS HENSLOW<sup>5</sup>, of St John's College, Professor of Botany from 1825 to 1861.

The ANATOMICAL MUSEUM had its beginning in a collection presented to the University in 1804 by Sir ISAAC PENNINGTON<sup>6</sup>, Regius Professor of Physic, formerly Fellow of St John's College.

The MUSEUMS of ZOOLOGY and COMPARATIVE ANATOMY were in great measure formed by the exertions and the gifts of WILLIAM CLARK<sup>7</sup>, Doctor of Physic, sometime Fellow of Trinity College, and Professor of Anatomy from 1817 to 1866.

Among other Benefactors who have enriched these Museums we would mention ROBERT MACANDREW<sup>8</sup>, who gave a collection of Shells, and an illustrative Library; HENRY BOWMAN BRADY<sup>9</sup>, who gave a collection of Foraminifera; GEORGE ROBERT CROTCH<sup>10</sup>, of St John's College, who gave a collection of Insects, and established a fund for the purchase of books; CATHARINE STRICKLAND, who gave an Ornithological collection, and FRANCES STRICKLAND, who founded a Curatorship for the same<sup>11</sup>; and ALFRED NEWTON<sup>12</sup>, Professor of Zoology and Comparative Anatomy, Master of Arts, Fellow of Magdalene College, whose benefactions included his Natural History Collections and Library.

<sup>1</sup> See p. 167, note 3. He bequeathed to the University two cabinets of English fossils, and two other cabinets of his containing English and foreign fossils were purchased in 1729.

<sup>4</sup> See p. 90, note 8. Professor Babington, who died in 1895, bequeathed his collections and part of his library to the University.

<sup>6</sup> See p. 86. Sir Isaac Pennington (1745–1817) gave to the University a small but choice anatomical collection formed by Thomas Lawrence (1711–1783), Reader in Anatomy in the University of Oxford. He was also a generous benefactor to his own College.

<sup>8</sup> The bequest was accepted by the University in 1873.

<sup>9</sup> Henry Bowman Brady (1835–1891) was the leading authority of his time on the Foraminifera, and his Report on the Foraminifera collected by H.M.S. Challenger (London, 1884) is still a principal authority on them. In 1891 he bequeathed to the University a collection of weapons, implements, and ornaments from the South Sea Islands.

<sup>10</sup> George Robert Crotch (B.A. 1864), by will dated 22 June 1872, bequeathed his collections of insects and books to the Museum of Zoology, and made provision for the eventual establishment out of his residuary estate of a fund for the purchase of books or specimens.

<sup>11</sup> In 1867 the collection of bird skins, made by Hugh Edwin Strickland (1811–1883), Deputy Reader in Geology in the University of Oxford, was presented to the University by his widow; and in 1874 the Curatorship was endowed by his sister. Mr Strickland was a grandson of Edmund Cartwright, D.D., the inventor of the power-loom. He graduated in 1832 from Oriel College, Oxford, after attending Buckland's lectures on Geology. In 1853 he was killed by a train while examining a railway cutting at Clarbrough.

The CAVENDISH LABORATORY was given to the University and provided with the necessary equipment for physical research by WILLIAM, seventh Duke of DEVONSHIRE<sup>4</sup>, for thirty years Chancellor of the University.

For the BOTANIC GARDEN the University was indebted in the first instance, in 1762, to the liberality of RICHARD WALKER<sup>5</sup>, Doctor of Divinity, Professor of Casuistry, and Fellow of Trinity College; and among the many contributions to its improvement, we are bound to commemorate the endowments it has received from

For the FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM we are indebted to the princely bequest of RICHARD, Viscount FITZWILLIAM<sup>8</sup>, formerly of Trinity Hall, who, in 1816, gave by will to the University his magnificent collection of Pictures, Engravings, and Books, together with a sum of one hundred thousand pounds, the interest to be employed primarily in the erection of a building to contain the Collection and in defraying the expenses of its maintenance.

<sup>2</sup> The collection of shells and minerals formed by Henry James Brooke (1771—1857), was presented to the University in 1857 by his son, Charles Brooke, M.A.

<sup>3</sup> Thomas Wiltshire (B.A. 1830), Professor of Geology and Mineralogy in King's College, London, 1881—96, gave £200 in 1900 to found the Wiltshire Prize (see p. 340). He had already given in 1895 a collection of fossils and in 1897 a collection of minerals and some scientific books.

<sup>5</sup> Richard Walker (1679—1764), Vice-Master of Trinity, conveyed to the University in 1762 certain lands and garden grounds 'as a public Botanic Garden for the use and benefit of the said University,' and drew up rules 'for the better regulating, ordering, and governing of the said Botanic Garden,' and in 1764 he secured to the University an annuity of £50 to be spent on the further improvement of the Garden (see p. 214). He was also a benefactor to Trinity.

<sup>6</sup> Lord Maynard, who died in 1775, bequeathed £500 'for or towards erecting or beautifying any public building or buildings for the University of Cambridge but shall not be begun at the time of my decease, or for the use of the Public Physic Garden there.' This was eventually applied in 1807 to the last named purpose, when the bequest with accumulations amounted to £2163.

<sup>7</sup> Edward Betham (1707—1783) gave £2000 in 1783 for the 'better support and maintenance' of the Botanic Garden, but he specially appropriated the income of the benefaction 'towards defraying the expense of Laborers to be employed in the said Botanic Garden.' He was also a benefactor to Eton.

<sup>9</sup> In 1844 the University received under the will of Daniel Mesman 281 pictures and drawings, the testator's brother, the Rev. Charles Mesman, having surrendered his life interest in the collection. Five additional pictures were subsequently bequeathed by Charles Mesman to the University.

<sup>13</sup> Richard Edward Kerrich (B.A. 1822), who died in 1872, bequeathed his collections to the University, 'to form an addition to the Fitzwilliam Collection,' together with £1000 for the purpose of 'keeping them in proper repair and condition.' As it was impossible to provide for the whole collection in the Museum the bequest was renounced by the University, on the understanding that a selection should be made of the pictures, books, and prints.

<sup>14</sup> In 1880 Mr Pendlebury presented 100 volumes of printed music to the Museum, and in each of the nine years following continued to present the same number. After that period he made yearly gifts of varying numbers of volumes until his death in 1902.

The MUSEUM OF ARCHAEOLOGY AND OF ETHNOLOGY, established in 1883 by the gift of the collections belonging to the CAMBRIDGE ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY, has been notably increased by many later gifts, among which may be mentioned the collection presented in 1884 by Sir ARTHUR HAMILTON GORDON (Baron STANMORE), of Trinity College, and that bequeathed in 1891 by WALTER K. FOSTER.

Of the Benefactors to the OBSERVATORY, the following especially deserve a place in this public commemoration:

HUGH PERCY, Duke of NORTHUMBERLAND<sup>1</sup>, High Steward and afterwards Chancellor of the University;

RICHARD SHEEPSHANKS<sup>2</sup>, sometime Fellow of Trinity College, and his sister

ANNE SHEEPSHANKS;

ROBERT STIRLING NEWALL<sup>3</sup>, of Ferndene, Gateshead;

FRANK McLEAN<sup>4</sup>, before mentioned;

by whose gifts the usefulness of the Observatory has been largely increased, and the interests of astronomical science promoted amongst us.

To the names already recited must be added those of

HUGH DE BALSHAM<sup>5</sup>, Bishop of Ely, Founder of Peterhouse, the most ancient of our present Colleges;

SIMON DE MONTACUTE<sup>6</sup>, Bishop of Ely;

ANDREW DE GISELHAM<sup>7</sup>,

GILBERT DE SEGRAVE<sup>8</sup>,

STEPHEN DE SEGRAVE<sup>9</sup>,

RICHARD DE BADEW<sup>10</sup>, Founder of University Hall, now Clare College,

RICHARD DE LYNG<sup>11</sup>,

all five Chancellors of the University;

SIR RICHARD WHITTINGTON<sup>12</sup>, thrice Lord Mayor of London;

JOHN FISHER<sup>13</sup>, Bishop of Rochester, adviser of the Lady Margaret, and for thirty years Chancellor of the University;

NIGEL DE THORNTON<sup>14</sup>, Doctor of Physic;

JOHN MERE<sup>15</sup>, Fellow of King's College, one of the Esquire Bedells and Registry of the University;

1 The third Duke of Northumberland (1785—1847) presented to the University in 1835 'a large telescope of 11½ inch aperture constructed by M. Cauchain of Paris,' and defrayed the cost of mounting, and of erecting a building to contain it. He also gave, in 1842, the bronze copy of the Warwick vase now in the centre of Senate House Yard.

2 Richard Sheepshanks (1794—1855) was born at Leeds and educated at Richmond School, Yorkshire, and at Cambridge formed with Whewell, Seidgwick, Thirlwall, and others, the brilliant group known as the 'Northern Lights.' He was elected to a fellowship at Trinity in 1817, which he retained until his death. His life was devoted to scientific pursuits, chiefly astronomical, and especially to the active promotion of the building of the Cambridge Observatory. In 1858 his sister and sole heiress, out of regard to his memory, gave £10,000 to be held by Trinity on trust for the establishment of an astronomical Exhibition in the College and to benefit the Observatory. In 1863 Miss Sheepshanks gave a further £2000 to the Observatory 'with special preference for its employment in the purchase of one or more large instruments.'

3 Robert Stirling Newall (1812—1889), gave to the University in 1889, shortly before his death, the large refracting telescope which he had erected in his grounds at Gateshead, with its dome and other appliances, for employment in the study of Stellar Physics.

4 See p. 169, note 13, and p. 176.

5 Bishop of Ely, 1257—86. 'It is in the services rendered by this prelate to the University of Cambridge... where he laid the foundations of a system of academical life which has, in substance, endured for six centuries, that his title to fame consists' (D.N.B.).

6 Bishop of Ely, 1337—45. He gave statutes to Peterhouse in or about 1338.

7 See p. 15.

8 See p. 19.

9 See p. 15.

10 See p. 16. As Chancellor (1325) Richard de Badew was noted for his zeal in the promotion of learning. It was during his term of office that he purchased two tenements in Milne Street, the property of Nigel de Thornton, a Cambridge physician, and built there 'a small College, by the name of University Hall.' Sixteen years after the Hall was accidentally burnt down, but it was rebuilt and endowed by Elizabeth de Clare and re-named Clare Hall.

11 Or Richard de Harling: see p. 16.

12 Sir Richard Whittington (d. 1423) was Lord Mayor of London in 1397—8, 1406—7, and 1419—20. The legend associated with his name 'is not known to have been narrated before 1605' (D.N.B.).

13 See p. 18.

14 A portion of the site of what is now the University Library was given by him to the University before 1278.

15 See Mere's Commemoration, p. 178.

MATTHEW PARKER<sup>1</sup>, Archbishop of CANTERBURY, sometime Master of Corpus Christi College;

ROBERT HARE<sup>2</sup>, formerly of Gonville and Caius College;

HENRY SIDGWICK<sup>3</sup>, before mentioned;

SPENCER COMPTON CAVENDISH<sup>4</sup>, Duke of Devonshire, Master of Arts, Honorary Doctor of Law, of Trinity College, for sixteen years Chancellor of the University.

Among the Benefactions received by us in recent years, we further commemorate the following, namely:

The Professorship of English Literature founded<sup>5</sup> in memory of His late Majesty KING EDWARD THE SEVENTH, of Trinity College.

The Lectureship in Physical Chemistry founded in memory of HUMPHREY OWEN JONES<sup>6</sup>, Fellow of Clare College;

The Studentships in Physiology, and in Ethnology, founded in memory of Sir MICHAEL FOSTER<sup>7</sup>, of Trinity College, Professor of Physiology, and of ANTHONY WILKIN<sup>8</sup>, of King's College, and that in Botany founded by FRANCIS GRAY SMART<sup>9</sup>, before mentioned;

The gifts<sup>10</sup> of MARY HICHENS FOSTER and E. BIRD FOSTER made in memory of WALTER K. FOSTER for the building of the New Museum of Archaeology and of Ethnology and the bequest<sup>11</sup> of £5000 for the same purpose made by JAMES BRUYN ANDREWS.

The bequest made to the Library by JOHN WILLIS CLARK<sup>12</sup>, Registrar of the University, sometime Fellow of Trinity College, of his collection of books and pamphlets illustrating the history of the University.

The Fund for Historical Research established in memory of FREDERIC WILLIAM MAITLAND<sup>13</sup>, Doctor of Law, Downing Professor of the Laws of England, formerly of Trinity College;

The Exhibition in Sanskrit founded by CECIL BENDALL<sup>14</sup>, Professor of Sanskrit, sometime Fellow of Gonville and Caius College;

The bequest of CHARLES BRINSLEY MARLAY<sup>15</sup>, of Trinity College, to the Fitzwilliam Museum, including the whole of his art collections and the sum of £80,000.

The gift made by JOHN ROBINSON McCLEAN<sup>16</sup>, of Trinity College, to the Fitzwilliam Museum of his entire collection of ancient Greek coins.

These are our FOUNDERS and principal BENEFACTORS whose names we have thus publicly recited, to the service and glory of God, to the perpetuating of their memory, and to the testifying of our own thankfulness. It now remains that we bless and praise Almighty God for them all.

1 Matthew Parker (1504—1575), the princely benefactor of Corpus, gave land to the University in 1574 to provide a new street leading directly from the Schools to Great St Mary's Church. He called it 'University Street,' but 'the usual perversity of the public changed the name to Regent Walk.' He also presented to the Library 25 manuscripts and 25 volumes printed on parchment, all provided with chains, together with 50 volumes of commentators on the Old and New Testament. His portrait was presented to the University by his eldest son, John Parker, in 1580, and hangs in the Library.

2 Robert Hare (d. 1811), the antiquary, gave to the University in 1590 three sets of volumes into which he had caused to be transcribed from the public archives and other sources a long series of documents relating to the history, rights, and privileges of the University and Town of Cambridge. 'Hare's noble collections afford historical materials of the highest value' (D.N.B.). He also gave two volumes of similar collections to the University of Oxford, presented manuscripts and books to Caius and Trinity Hall, and gave Trinity Hall £600 in augmentation of a fund for repairing highways in or near Cambridge. It is supposed that he was also a benefactor to Great St Mary's, as his arms are over the south door.

MERE'S COMMEMORATION

Founded in 1559 by the Executors of JOHN MERE, M.A., Fellow of King's. He was one of the Esquire Bedells, and Registry of the University from 1543 until his death in 1558. He was the author of three curious Diaries, which have been printed in Lamb's Corpus Documents and Grace-Book A.

By the original deed of foundation the Vice-Chancellor is required to 'preach or cause to be preched one englishe sermon yerelye with in the churche of S. Benettes ever vpon the Wedens-daye in the weeke of Easter, to be ronge ther vnto at ix of the clocke bye the bellman of th' vniuersitie, which shall the daye before also signifye the same with his bell thoroughe the town as the manner ys.' The preacher, who was to have 'iijs iiij<sup>d</sup>' 'for his paynes,' was 'in parte or in the hoole' to 'spend his matter' either 'in exciting the auditorye to the diligent and reverent hearing and reding of the scripture,' or in inculcating the duty of obedience, including that 'of pupilles to their tutours,' with 'some Lesson for magistrates maisters and tutours for the well ordering of their subjectes servantes and pupilles, either to exhort them to the releaving of the poore, in teaching agayn the poore their dutye in their behaviour, either shall exhorte them to the daylye preparation of deathe and not to fear death otherwise then scripture doth allow.' 'At which sermon the vice chancellour not making the sermon to haue vj<sup>d</sup>, the ij proctours either of them iiij<sup>d</sup>, the ij taxers either of them iiij<sup>d</sup>, the orator iiij<sup>d</sup>, the ij scrutators either of them iiij<sup>d</sup>, the curate of the churche iiij<sup>d</sup>, the iiij bedilles etche of them iiij<sup>d</sup>, the bell ringer iiij<sup>d</sup>, the parishe clarke ij<sup>d</sup>, the Castell Tolbothe and spittle howse iijs at the discretion of the vicechancellour,' and 'ijs yerelye' to 'the chapleyn of the vniversitie.'

The sermon is now preached in St Bene't's Church on Wednesday in Easter week by the Vice-Chancellor or a preacher appointed by him.

University Ceremonies

SCATTERED throughout the Statutes of the University of Cambridge are numerous allusions to the old academical ceremonies. These may be seen in 'Documents relating to the University and Colleges of Cambridge,' printed in 1852 by the Royal Commissioners from the Proctors' Books written in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. In the first volume may be read the Statutes issued by Queen Elizabeth in 1570. The late Dean Peacock published in 1841 elaborate 'Observations on the Statutes,' with learned and detailed notes on the old ceremonies of the University. To these he added in two Appendices the Bedell's Books of Matthew Stokes and of John Buck, taken from Cole's MSS in the British Museum. The first gives a most interesting picture of the customs and ceremonies of the University before the Reformation, when the ancient statutes above referred to were in force; the second furnishes a very minute account of them immediately after the Reformation. The Ceremonies of Adam Wall, originally published in 1789 and re-edited by Gunning in 1828, contain full directions for a number of proceedings which are now obsolete. Some of the early Calendars also, especially that of the year 1802, contain many curious details as to University ceremonies. Some of these descriptions are taken from Jebb's Works (1772-87), II. 284-300. Christopher Wordsworth, M.A., has given a fund of information in his volume on 'University Life and Studies in England during the 18th century,' and his book entitled 'Scholae Academicæ.' To the "Fasciculus Joanni Willis Clark dicatus," the present Public Orator contributed a commentary on an annotated reprint of the celebrated Latin oration, in which the significance of certain ancient ceremonies connected with admission to the degree of doctor was expounded by Bentley at the Cambridge Commencement of 1725.

An account of the Acts, Opponencies, and other ceremonies which are associated with the history of the Tripos, is given below (p. 348), but there are other formal University proceedings which were in full vigour at the beginning of the nineteenth century and have since disappeared.

The election of Scrutators took place at the same time as that of the Proctors, at ten in the morning on October 10<sup>1</sup>; and the Taxors were chosen in the afternoon of the same day<sup>2</sup>. In accordance with the decree which established the cycle of Proctors, the Colleges presented two persons to be Taxors in the year following that in which they presented to the Proctorship, and the Regents were bound to elect those presented by the Colleges unless for sufficient cause to be proved before the Vice-Chancellor and a majority of the Heads. They might be chosen either from the Regents or the Non-Regents, but by their office they were Regents during the year. If the office of Taxor became vacant during the year, the appointment, as in the case of the Proctors, fell to Trinity Hall. Immediately after their election, the Taxors appointed 'each of them a person to be Warden, whose business it is to ascertain the price of wheat in the Cambridge market.'<sup>3</sup> The Taxors were officials of some dignity, for their place in processions was next to that of the Proctors, they had special seats in Great St Mary's 'at the upper end of the south side of the pit, opposite to the Proctors' seats,' and 'in strictness they should wear their white hoods squared at Church.'<sup>4</sup> The election of the Caput took place on October 12<sup>5</sup>, when the Vice-Chancellor, the Heads of Colleges, the Proctors and Scrutators, and the Doctors of Divinity, Law, and Physic, met in the Senate House at one in the afternoon. The Vice-Chancellor wrote the names of five persons—a Doctor of Divinity, a Doctor of Laws, a Doctor of Physic, a Non-Regent Master, and a Regent Master—on a paper prepared by the Registrary; and both the Proctors did the same. Out of the persons so nominated five were selected (one of each degree) by the votes of all those present except the Proctors, who were not entitled to vote.

Magna Congregatio, 'commonly called the Black Assembly,'<sup>6</sup> was held in the Chancel of Great St Mary's at ten in the morning upon the Friday immediately preceding the Feast of St Simon and St Jude. It was attended by the Mayor, two Aldermen, four Burgesses, and two inhabitants of every parish, to whom the Senior Proctor proceeded to administer a series of oaths—the Aldermen swearing that they would 'diligently assist and faithfully counsel' the Mayor and Bailiffs, 'for peace both of the University and the Town to be kept, and to search evil doers, and troublers of peace, and vagabonds of the night, and receivers of thieves and evil doers'; the four Burgesses taking a similarly worded oath with the addition of 'fidelity towards our Sovereign Lord the King's Majesty'; and the 'two of every parish' undertaking 'every fortnight to make diligent and faithful search for all suspected persons lying within' the parish, and 'to present every such, so tarrying for three nights, to the Vice-Chancellor and the Mayor.' The Mayor and Bailiffs themselves had already taken the oath of office before the Vice-Chancellor on Michaelmas Day at the Town Hall, immediately after the morning sermon in Great St Mary's, swearing to 'observe and keep' the 'liberties and customs' of the University, 'as concerning the keeping of the peace, and also the assize of bread, and ale, and other victuals,' and that they would not 'unduly, nor of malice, impugn the other liberties and due customs' of the University<sup>1</sup>. There are two curious pictures illustrating these ceremonies in the collection of charters and documents relating to the University presented by Robert Hare (1590) and preserved at the Registry.

On the second Saturday after October 10 came the proclamation of the markets. 'The Proctors give notice of it, a few days before the day of proclaiming, to the Vice-Chancellor, the Heads of Colleges, the Doctors, the Commissary, the Taxors, and the Registry. The whole company meet at the Senate-House, at eleven o'clock. The Proctors come with their hoods squared, attended by their servants. The School-Keeper provides wine and cakes, by order of the Proctors. After staying a short time, they go to the two Markets (first Peas Hill) where the Proclamation is read by the Registry, and repeated by the Yeoman Bedell. During the reading of the Proclamation, the company sit in one of the adjacent houses.'<sup>2</sup>

The date of the sealing of weights and measures<sup>3</sup> was fixed by the Taxors and the Registry, but it appears to have been soon after Easter. The sealing was usually held in the Law Schools, notice of it being given by a proclamation, prepared by the Registry, signed by the Vice-Chancellor, and read by the Yeoman Bedell 'in the several parts of the Town' and also in Barnwell and Chesterton. On the first day weights, wine measures, and yard-wands were tried, the good ones being sealed with a stamp provided by the Senior Taxor bearing the initial letter of each Taxor's surname, and those which were found deficient being broken with 'a hammer, a wedge, and adze.' On the second day the 'ale and milk measures, bushels, pecks, half-pecks, and quarterns' were similarly tried, the Taxor's servants measuring 'the wet measures' and the 'University Gager' the dry. The Registry attended on both days to record the weights and measures of each person, 'distinguishing the large from the small ones, and noting the sums due.' The Yeoman Bedell received 5s. for each day's attendance, each of the Taxor's servants 1s. 6d., and the Gager 2s. 6d. Soon after the sealing the University also held a Court Leet under the presidency of the Deputy High Steward to assess fines and receive presentments, but Gunning remarks 'the presentments have of late years been confined to unsealed wine measures and gaming places.' After the Court the Deputy High Steward was entertained at dinner by the Taxors and he was also entitled to a fee of £4 from the Vice-Chancellor. The fines were always paid 'at a Tavern,' and 'each person is usually offered a glass of wine.'

The nomination of the Barnaby Lecturers<sup>1</sup> (see p. 148) appointed under Sir Robert Rede's will, took place on June 10 at nine in the morning, the Senior Proctor nominating 'two for the Mathematical Lecture, the Junior Proctor two for the Philosophical, the Senior Scrutator two for the Rhetorical, and the Junior Scrutator two for the Logical,' each placing that person's name first whom he desired to have appointed. The Heads of Colleges then 'prick according to Juniority,' accepting as a rule all the nominees of the Proctors and Scrutators. The persons thus duly nominati et punctis notati were then submitted to a Congregation held at ten in the morning of June 11 or 12, and one of each pair was chosen by vote. The Mathematical Lecturer was paid by the Vice-Chancellor and the other three by the Bursar of Jesus.

Some interesting details survive in Gunning's Ceremonies<sup>2</sup> concerning the proclamation of fairs by the University. On June 23 the Vice-Chancellor, with 'Noblemen and Doctors, if any of them choose to attend,' Proctors, Commissary, Taxors and Registry met in the Senate House at eleven in the morning, a provision of cakes and wine being made by the School-Keeper 'by desire of the Proctors.' The Doctors were in scarlet. 'When they have stayed a little time, they go in coaches ordered by the Proctors, to proclaim the Fair.' The proclamation was read by the Registry and repeated by the Yeoman Bedell, first in the middle of Barnwell, and a second time on Midsummer Green, in the Fair. The proclamation of Sturbridge Fair on September 18, was similarly made, the University proclaiming before the Town when the date of the year was an uneven number, and after it in the even years; but after the proclamation 'the Proctors treat the Company with oysters at the tiled booth,' the Taxors finding 'the bread, beer, and butter for the oysters.' These fairs are still proclaimed by the Mayor and Corporation but proclamation by the University is now discontinued. The Proctors' entertainments were abolished in 1842.

Of University Ceremonies which have survived, the most important are those connected with admission to Degrees. The simpler modern procedure for admission to the B.A. Degree differs widely in detail from the more elaborate procedure of Gunning's day, but the underlying principles are the same and the variations are easily intelligible. A Book is subscribed, the supplicants come before the Senate, presentation is by the Father of the College, and admission is by the Vice-Chancellor; but in Gunning's day the approval of two Houses had to be obtained, certain oaths were taken, and some of the privileges of the Nobility were still retained.

The Order of Procedure at the Admission of the Questionists (see p. 349), as it was in 1828, is thus described by Gunning<sup>1</sup>:—

On the Saturday in the Examination week there is a Congregation at ten o'clock. A Bedell calls up the Houses, and the Senior Moderator makes his speech, standing on the left-hand of the Vice-Chancellor, who sits in the lower chair. The Junior Proctor delivers the paper of Seniority to the Vice-Chancellor, subscribed thus: Examinati et approbati a nobis. This paper is signed by the Proctors, the Moderators, and the other Examiners.

The Caput is called, for passing the Supplicats of the Questionists<sup>2</sup>. The name of each College is to be written on every Supplicat, which must be signed by the Lecturer<sup>3</sup>. A Certificate is also given to the Caput, signed and sealed by the Master of each College or his Representative, shewing that each Questionist in his College has kept his full number of Terms<sup>4</sup>: but if any one have not kept the requisite number, the deficiency must be mentioned in the Supplicat, and a Certificate explaining the cause is delivered to the Caput by the Lecturer. He also delivers a Certificate of his having passed the Previous Examination<sup>5</sup>....

'...The Registry brings the Subscription-book to the Caput, and shews that each Questionist has subscribed the proper form. The Vice-Chancellor then reads the Supplicats to the Caput, and on those that are admitted he writes Ad. He then gives the Supplicats to one of the Bedells, who takes them into the Non-Regent House to be read by the Scrutators. The Senior Scrutator reads one quite through, and then says Idem Supplicat A.B.C.D. &c. If no one be objected to, he walks and says omnes placent: but if an objection be taken to any one, the votes must be regularly taken with respect to him; and unless there be a majority in his favor, the Scrutator says A.B. non placet; reliqui placent....The Bedell then takes the Supplicats to the Regent House, where the Senior Proctor reads them in the same manner as the Senior Scrutator has done in the Non-Regent House. If they be approved, the Proctors walk, and the Senior says, Placeat omnes; placeat vobis ut intrent. If any one be objected to, the Senior Proctor must take the votes in the Regent House in the same manner as the Senior Scrutator has done in the Non-Regent House, and if the Non-placets be equal to or greater than the Placets, he says, A.B. non placet; reliqui placent. The Supplicats are then delivered to the Registry, who writes on them, Lect. et Concess. die Jan.—

In the mean time the Questionists put on their hoods over their Undergraduates' gowns; and the School-keeper gives to each of them a printed Copy of the Oath he is to take at his Admission.

The Vice-Chancellor takes the chair, and a Bedell having desired the respective Fathers to be in readiness with their Sons, precedes the Father of the Senior Wrangler (the rest of the Fathers following with their Sons) to the Vice-Chancellor. The Father of the Senior Wrangler, taking his right hand, presents him in these words:

Dignissime Domine, Domine Pro-Cancellarie, et tota Universitas; prae-

<sup>2</sup> Gunning notes that in consequence of the increased number of candidates the practice had already begun of the Caput and the Registry meeting on the previous day to examine the Certificates of Terms.

<sup>4</sup> 'The major part of twelve Terms' had to be kept, with the exception of the Term in which the candidate was admitted and that in which he took his Degree.

<sup>5</sup> The Previous Examination was established in 1822, and was first held in 1824.

sento vobis hunc Juvenem, quem scio, tam moribus quam doctrinâ, esse idoneum ad respondendum quaestioni: idque tibi fide meâ praesto, totique Academiae.

The Senior Wrangler then takes the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy<sup>1</sup>; and the Senior Proctor (with his Brother standing by him) reads to him the following Oath:

Jurabis, quod nihil ex iis omnibus sciens volens praetermisisti, quae per leges aut probatas consuetudines hujus Academiae ad hunc Gradum quem ambis adipiscendum, aut peragenda aut persolvenda requiruntur; nisi quatenus per Gratiam ab Academia concessam tecum dispensatum fuerit.

Jurabis etiam, quod Cancellario et Procellario nostro comiter obtemperabis: et quod Statuta nostra, Ordinationes, et Consuetudines approbatas observabis.

Denique jurabis, quod compositionem inter Academiam et Collegium Regale factam sciens volens non violabis: in haec autem verba jurabis, secundum tenorem Senatusconsulti in cautelam jurantium facti.

Ita te Deus adjuret, et Sancta Dei Evangelia.

He then kneels down before the Vice-Chancellor, who, taking his hands between his own, admits him in the following words:—

Auctoritate mihi commissâ, admitto te ad respondendum quaestioni: in nomine Patris, et Filii, et Spiritus Sancti.

The Father of King's College next presents his Sons: then the Questionists of Trinity and St John's are presented; and after them the Questionists of the other Colleges, according to the Seniority of their respective Fathers. Four or five are usually presented at a time. As they are presented, they are directed by one of the Bedells to the South side of the Senate-House.

When all have been presented, the Senior Proctor administers to them (four or five at a time) the same Oaths which have been taken by the Senior Wrangler, in the following words:—

Eadem Juramenta quae praestitit A.B. in suâ Personâ, vos quoque praestabitis in vestris Personis:

Ita vos Deus adjuret, et Sancta Dei Evangelia.

When all have been sworn, they are admitted by the Vice-Chancellor in the same manner as the Senior Wrangler has been admitted. They are sworn and admitted in the order in which their names are placed in the Lists signed by the Proctor and Examiners.

When the Admissions are concluded, the Vice-Chancellor dissolves the Congregation.

The admission by the Vice-Chancellor ad respondendum quaestioni, instead of, as now, ad titulum Baccalaurei in Artibus designati, was a relic of the old Quadragesimal exercises (see p. 349) which took place after the Degree had been conferred. By the 18th century these had become merely formal. The Proctor usually asked some question such as Quid est nomen? to which the answer usually expected was Nescio. Sometimes puns were made upon the names of the candidates, as when Joshua King, of Queens', Senior Wrangler in 1819, was asked, Quid est Rex? to which he promptly replied, Socius Reginalis. This witty reply passed muster, but another candidate who, when asked in the Senate House Examination itself to give a definition of Happiness, replied, 'an exemption from Payne,' that being the name of an examiner, was plucked 'for want of discrimination in time and place.'<sup>1</sup> In Gunning's time the questions were asked in the Sophs' School by the respective Fathers of the Colleges, immediately after admission to the Degree.

A Fellow of King's was not required to present a certificate of terms or of having been examined, and the Grace admitting him was not presented to the Caput, but was merely shewn to the Vice-Chancellor, and read in the Regent House only<sup>2</sup>. Noblemen were not exempted from examination, but they had the privilege of being examined after they had kept nine terms from admission to the University, the first and last excepted, instead of twelve terms, the first and last excepted, as was required in the case of Commoners. The Nobleman was then entitled to the Degree of Master of Arts. He had the privilege of being presented by the Public Orator, and the Vice-Chancellor admitted him standing instead of kneeling<sup>3</sup>.

The separate presentation and admission of the Senior Wrangler continued until the abolition of the Order of Merit after the Tripos of 1909<sup>4</sup>, the Wranglers, and those whose names had appeared in the First Class of any Tripos being admitted at the morning Congregation by Triposes in the order of the List, and the rest in the afternoon in alphabetical order by Colleges. [The present system, by which candidates from King's, Trinity, St John's, Peterhouse, Clare, and Pembroke are admitted in the morning, and all other candidates in the afternoon, was adopted in 1911.]

The ceremonies of the 'creation' of Masters and Doctors on Commencement Day, by which the Degree was 'made perfect,' now a mere reading of names, was in Gunning's time<sup>5</sup> a proceeding of considerable solemnity<sup>6</sup>. The creation of Masters was by the Senior Proctor. The creation of Doctors in each faculty was effected by the Regius Professors of Divinity, Law, and Physic respectively, who made speeches and presented their 'sons' with a book—that delivered by the Professor of Divinity being the Greek Testament, by the Professor of Law the Institutes of Justinian, and by the Professor of Physic the Aphorisms of Hippocrates. This was a survival from the time when the conferring of the insignia doctoralia—the cap, the book, the ring, the chair, and the kiss—were regarded as essential to the validity of the Doctor's Degree<sup>7</sup>. These all occur in the record of the Cambridge ceremony to be found in the manuscript book drawn up by Matthew Stokes, Fellow of King's, and successively Esquire Bedell and Registrary, in 1574, and are again referred to in the 'Book relating to the Ceremonials of the University' compiled in 1665 by John Buck, Esquire Bedell<sup>1</sup>. In 1702 it appears from the Diary of Franz Burman that the cap, book, and ring had survived<sup>2</sup>, and the present Public Orator records<sup>3</sup> the fact that in 1858 he saw the gold ring actually used at the conferring of a Degree. This must have been the last occasion on which it was used, for from 1859 commencing Doctors and Masters were excused attendance at Creation and without personal attendance the ancient ceremony of the ring was impossible. Among the insignia of the Vice-Chancellor's office there are two signet rings. The larger one bears the arms of the University; the smaller,—which may have been the ring used in Creation—represents Minerva with helmet, shield, and spear, with the motto Si perdam pereo, and on the inner side My only rest<sup>4</sup>.

In the Universities of Scotland the cap is still used in conferring degrees, and at Oxford it is the custom for the Vice-Chancellor to touch the recipient of a degree on the head with a copy of the New Testament<sup>5</sup>.

As in the requirement of attendance at Creation, so in other parts of the older ceremonial, personal obligations are much more definitely laid upon the individual than is the case in modern procedure. For instance Inceptors in Arts, after the Congregation at which their Supplicats were passed, were at one time required to follow the Vice-Chancellor to his Lodge in Bachelors' gowns and hoods and ask leave to proceed; they also, at some time before the Congregation at which they were to be admitted, called upon the Caput 'and all Doctors and Regents.'<sup>6</sup> In the same way, between the two meetings of the Congregation on the eleventh of June at which the Barnaby Lecturers were chosen, candidates for the Degree of B.D. called on the Vice-Chancellor 'in the habit of a Non-Regent,' and afterwards on the Caput, the Heads of Colleges, and all the Doctors in Divinity<sup>7</sup>. Anyone applying for a Mandate Degree<sup>8</sup> was also expected to wait upon the Vice-Chancellor in person<sup>9</sup>. On Commencement Sunday<sup>10</sup> the incepting Doctors dined with the Vice-Chancellor to meet the

<sup>10</sup> The late Registrary in his Reminiscences recalls the earlier social importance of Commencement: 'On Commencement Sunday the whole academic world used to walk up and down' on Clare Hall Piece, the green space immediately to the west of the College, 'for half an hour after the University Sermon, and a very pretty sight it was, Mr Vice-Chancellor and all the Heads and Doctors in scarlet, and the ladies in their best frocks. In the days to which I allude personal attendance was required at "creation." ... It was a time of festivity in a quiet way, and much looked forward to as the last occasion when all the men of a given year had the chance of meeting each other' (Memoir of John Willis Clark, by Dr A. E. Shipley, p. 44).

three Regius Professors of Divinity, Law, and Physic, the Public Orator, and 'all Noblemen resident in the University'; and to the same dinner were invited the High Steward, the Commissary, the Representatives of the University, and 'all strangers of distinction who may happen to visit the University at this time.'<sup>1</sup>

Another ceremony which emphasized the strong corporate feeling of the University was the practice of declaring 'Non-Term' on account of the death of a resident member of the Senate. The cessation from Lectures and Disputations was originally from the death of a Regent or Non-Regent to the burial, but by a decree of 1619 the Non-Term was to continue for three days only. The Vice-Chancellor was 'waited upon by one of the College to which the deceased belonged, for the purpose of appointing the time for ringing St Mary's bell.'<sup>2</sup> The bell was usually rung for an hour on the night before the funeral. It was sometimes the case that Non-Term had to be deferred on account of University business, but this was done by Grace. Gunning notes<sup>3</sup> that 'on account of the extreme inconvenience to public business' the practice 'seems falling into disuse.'

A ceremony which has not thus fallen into disuse is the reading of the Litany on Ash Wednesday, which still continues in the form described by Gunning. 'The Vice-Chancellor, Doctors in Divinity in copes, and the Proctors in Congregation habit, meet in the vestry.... In this case the Proctors (or their Deputies) go into the Reader's desk; the Senior Proctor reads part of the Litany Service (viz. to the Lord's Prayer) and the Vice-Chancellor reads the rest of the Service.'<sup>4</sup>

The fees payable to the University for various degrees were at one time distributed according to a scale among various officials. Thus an ordinary Bachelor of Arts paid £3. 7s. 6d., which was assigned as follows<sup>5</sup>:—Pro-Cancellario, 4d.; Oratori, 1s. 6d.; Registrario, 1s.; Praesentatori, 4d.; Bibliothecario, 4d.; Pulsatori<sup>6</sup>, 3d.; Apparitori, 6d.; Ecclesiae B. Mariae, 4d.; pro Copia Juramenti, 2d.; Scrutatoribus, 8d.; Bedellis, 10s. 10d.; Moderatoribus, 9s.; Procuratoribus, 14s.; eorum servis, 4s.; Pro-Procuratoribus, 7s.; eorum servis, 2s.; Cistae Communi, 15s. 3d.

University Costume

In the early days of the University the question of academical dress was closely allied with that of clerical costume, and later with the problem of extravagance in ordinary dress. In the year 1343 great complaint was made against the clergy and the students in the Universities on account of their extravagance in dress and 'the gay and unclerical appearance of their garments.' 'Disdaining the tonsure, the distinctive mark of their order, they wore their hair either hanging down on their shoulders in an effeminate manner, or curled and powdered. . . they were attired in cloaks with furred edges, long hanging sleeves not covering their elbows, shoes chequered with red and green, and tippets of an unusual length.'<sup>7</sup> It was in order to deal with this that Archbishop Stratford issued a constitution, De habitu et honestate clericorum<sup>8</sup>, making every offender incapable of a degree until he had reformed his person and apparel, and a statute of Peterhouse required the Master and Scholars to adopt 'the clerical dress and tonsure.'<sup>9</sup>

But in addition to the clerical dress, it appears from the language of the Statutes that there was a distinctive academical dress<sup>10</sup>, and the condemnations of extravagance in dress issued from time to time by those in authority apply to this as well as to the ordinary attire out of which it originally grew. Thus in 1414 the University itself forbade 'every bachelor in any faculty to use in the schools, processions, or acts, a cloak, or fur, or facings of silk, satin, or other material of similar price or value, in his tabard, hood, or other scholastic habit, except lamb's wool or budge fur on his hood.'<sup>1</sup> They were also prohibited from using a 'bonnet, cap, coif, or other like ornament for the head, at their lectures or scholastic acts.'<sup>2</sup>

The same kind of sumptuary prohibition appears 150 years later, for about 1560 we find the University adopting minute regulations concerning the apparel of students:—'That no scholler doe weare any long lockes of Hayre uppon his heade, but that he be polled, notted, or rounded after the accustomed manner of the gravest Schollers of the Universitie under payne of 6s. 8d.'; 'gownes, first not to be of any Stuffe but cloth, secondly not to be faced with silke of playne Taffitoy untuffed, Sarcenet, Silke Grogram further than the collar and halfe yarde downe the brest, only M.A.'s, LL.B.'s, M.B.'s and upward, and no hoodes to be worne abroad in the towne to be lyned with sylke excepte for Doctors and S.T.B.'s being heads of houses and the orators, thirdly gownes not be to made of any other fashion but that commonly called the Priest's gowne, or else of the fashion of the playne Turkey gowne with the round falling cope and the Trunke gowne sleeves &c., not of any colour but black or London russet'; 'hattes no colour but black'; 'item, That no scholler shall weare any Barilled Hosen, any great Ruffs, and clocks with wings &c.'<sup>3</sup>

The Elizabethan Statutes of 1570 also contain definite regulations upon the subject of academical dress. 'No one who has been advanced to any degree in the University shall go forth from his College, except he be clad in a gown reaching down to his ankles and a hood befitting his degree, or at least having a sacerdotal distinction about his neck—a fine of six shillings and eightpence shall be imposed on any one who disobeys in this respect'<sup>4</sup>; and all graduates were required to wear 'the superior scholastic and squared cap,' and to avoid linen shirts and ruffles. The University Statutes are concerned almost entirely with graduates, the general discipline of the undergraduates being left to the Colleges, but there seems to be no doubt that in 1570 the undergraduate also wore a gown reaching to his ankles; but as the square cap was reserved for graduates and scholars he wore on his head a round cloth cap<sup>5</sup>. These regulations were not, however, always enforced, and in connexion with the opposition to the Statutes of 1570 we find the Masters of Colleges complaining in 1572 that 'none in all the University do more offend... than the two proctors, who should give best ensample.' These 'doe not only go verye disorderlie in Cambridge, waring for the most part their hates and continually verye unsemly ruffes at their hands, and greate Galligaskens<sup>1</sup> and Barreld hooeses stuffed with horse Tayles, with skabilonions<sup>1</sup> and knitt netherstockes too fine for schollers; but also most disguysedlie theie goo abroade wearinge such Apparell... in London... that a great sort of godly men and such as bear good will to the universitie are greatlie offended to se such unsemlye goinge of schollers, and especially of Proctors and ministers (through whose lewde ensample and behaviour the universitie is evill spokenn of and poor schollers lesse respected).'<sup>2</sup> In 1578 a decree made by Lord Burghley as Chancellor, the Vice-Chancellor, and Heads, forbade 'hoses of unsemely greatnes or disguised fashion,' 'excessyve ruffs,' and 'apparrell of velvet or silk,' and incidentally alluded to the cause which really explains the difficulties of the University in these matters. 'It is found at this tyme very necessary that some spedye remedy be provyded for the restoryng to the University the ancient modesty of the students, scollars, and all other that shall be accounted members of the same, which of late yeers hath greatly bene decayed and deminished by negligense and remissnes of the heads and governors in the privat colledges; but specially by suffryng of sondry yong men, being the children of gentilmen and men of welth, at ther comming to the same university to use very costly and disguised manner of Apparrell and other attyres, unsemly for students in any kynd of human lerning, and therby not only to be more chargeable to thier frends then is convenient, but by ther example to induce others of les habilitie to change and cast away ther modesty and honest frugallitie, to overcharging of ther frends.... So as if remedy be not speedely provyded, the Universety, which hath bene from the begynning a collection and society of a multitude of all sorts of ages, and professyng to godlines, modesty, vertew, and lerning, and a necessary storehouse to the realme of the same, shall become rather a storehouse for a staple of prodigall, wastfull, ryotous, unlerned, and insufficient persons...'<sup>3</sup> Four years later it was reported to Burghley that the excess in apparel 'doth not diminish but dayly increase,'<sup>4</sup> and in 1585 we find fresh regulations being made of a still more minute character<sup>5</sup>, while in 1587 Burghley complained of 'the great stipendes of Tutors,' through which came 'the greate excesse of apparell in fellowes of Colledges of late,' 'in wearinge of Satten Dublettes, silke and velvett overstockes, and facynge of gownes with velvett and satten to the grownde; and in great fine ruffs, contrarye to law and order.'<sup>1</sup> That the law was not left entirely a dead letter appears from the fact that in 1600 Dominus Henry Pepper of Corpus, having incautiously appeared at a play or interlude performed at the Black Bear Inn 'with an improper habit, having deformed long locks of unseemly sight, and great breaches, undecent for a graduate or scholar of orderly carriage,' was ordered to 'procure his hair to be cut or powled' and was then suspended from his Degree<sup>2</sup>.

The difficulties which had to be faced by the Elizabethan authorities in connexion with the dress of students at the Universities reappear in the 17th century in somewhat the same form. Orders of 1636 provide 'that no scholar or student do wear any long or excessive hair hanging over their foreheads or ears, nor any unseemly bands, nor use any other apparel but such as is conformable to their clerical or scholastical habit according to their several degrees, orders, and qualities'<sup>3</sup>; but a paper of complaints sent to Archbishop Laud in the same year and endorsed by him 'Certain Disorders in Cambridge to be considered of in my visitation' states that 'the Clericall Habit appointed for Students' is 'generally neglected unless it be in King's College only,' undergraduates wearing 'the new fashioned gowns of any colour whatsoever, blew or green, or red or mixt,' and their other garments 'light and gay,' with 'round rusti Caps... if they weare any at all,' while graduates and even priests emulated the younger students with 'fair Roses upon the Shoe, long frizled hairè upon the head, broad spread Bands upon the Shoulders, and long large Merchants Ruffs about the neck, with fayre feminine Cuffs at the wrist' in defiance of the Statutes of the University<sup>4</sup>.

Besides the problem of extravagance in dress, the University in the 16th and 17th centuries was involved in another question of costume which was an aspect of the religious controversy. The Puritans objected to the use of the surplice in College chapels as 'the white linen garment that the mass-priest wears in popish religion'<sup>5</sup> and therefore a note of Antichrist; and they also denounced the square cap as Romish in origin, and an invention which contravened the natural shape of the head, and was borrowed from the priests of Baal. In 1565, under the influence of Thomas Cartwright, afterwards Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, there were demonstrations at Trinity and St John's, and it was not until 1580 that Gabriel Harvey, writing from

Pembroke College to his friend Edmund Spenser the poet, reported that 'the ado about caps and surplices is at an end.'<sup>1</sup>

At the outbreak of the Civil War, however, the House of Commons passed a resolution 'That the statute made in the University of Cambridge which imposeth the Wearing of Surplices upon all Graduates and Students, under several Pains...ought not to be pressed,'<sup>2</sup> but this policy was reversed at the Restoration<sup>3</sup>.

Although after 1660 the sumptuary control of costume was less in evidence, the duty of authority in the matter was not entirely lost sight of, for in 1674 Charles II was scandalized by the length of the perukes worn by persons in Holy Orders, and commanded the Chancellor to cause the statutes concerning decency in apparel to be put in execution<sup>4</sup>. In the 18th century the regulation of academical costume brings it much nearer the practice of the present day. Orders passed by the Senate in 1750 provide that every person in statu pupillari 'shall wear cloaths of a grave colour' 'without lace, fringe or embroidery,' Bachelors of Arts being required to 'provide themselves with gowns made of prunello or princes stuff,' and the penalty for each offence against these ordinances was 'six shillings and eightpence.'<sup>5</sup> Noble-men were at the same time informed that their privilege of wearing hats in the University 'does not extend to wearing of them laced.' In 1769 a change was made with regard to the wearing of caps. The ordinary undergraduates had hitherto worn round caps or bonnets of black cloth lined with black silk or canvas, with a brim of black velvet for pensioners and of prunella or silk for sizars. They now petitioned the Duke of Grafton, who was about to be installed as Chancellor, for permission to adopt the square caps hitherto reserved for scholars and graduates, on the ground that they wished to attend the installation 'in a dress more decent and becoming.'<sup>6</sup> The Duke acceded to the request, and thus a change was quietly made 'which if it had happened in the days of Whitgift and Cartwright would have set the whole University in an uproar.'

That the control of costume from above lasted on into the 19th century appears from orders made by Trinity and St John's Colleges in 1812 'that students appearing in Hall or Chapel in pantaloons or trousers should be considered as absent.'<sup>7</sup>

Mutantque Rotunda Quadratis

Ye learn'd of every age and climate yield,
And to illustrious Cambridge quit the field.
What sage Professors never yet could teach,
Nor Archimedes, nor our Newton reach;
What ancients and what moderns vainly sought,

<sup>7</sup> Cooper, Annals, iv, 503. But cf. Gunning, Reminiscences, ii, 7, which suggests that as early as 1795 the Vice-Chancellor might walk abroad in the morning wearing pantaloons.

The present regulations with regard to the academical dress of graduates were adopted by Grace of the Senate, 13 June 1889, but they rest upon older custom. Doctors of Divinity, Law, and Physic had formerly three academic robes—a robe for University business, worn at Congregations, Disputations, etc.; a scarlet gown for festal occasions; and a black gown. The robe for University business is represented by the cope now worn by the Vice-Chancellor and by those who present candidates for a Doctor's Degree in any faculty. 'If the antiquary,' says Dr Rashdall<sup>1</sup>, 'wants to see a true medieval cappa he must go to Cambridge upon a degree-day. There he will find the presiding Vice-Chancellor and the Professors who present for degrees in the Superior Faculties arrayed in a garment which exactly resembles a fourteenth-century miniature of the Chancellor contained in the precious "Chancellor's book" of Oxford. It is a sleeveless scarlet cloak lined with minever, with a tippet and hood of the same material fastened thereto.' Its medieval counterpart may be seen in the marble monuments of the Doctors of Bologna<sup>2</sup>. The earliest reference to the scarlet gown contained in Cooper's Annals<sup>3</sup> is to a Grace of 1578 'for the better observance of the ancient custom of the University that doctors should on certain festival days appear in public in scarlet gowns.' This Grace imposes a penalty of 10s. on all Doctors who do not observe the custom on Christmas Day, Easter Day, Ascension Day, Whitsunday, Trinity Sunday, the Feasts of St Michael and All Saints, the Commencement, Midsummer Fair, Sturbridge Fair, and the day of the Queen's Accession. These are still the days observed<sup>4</sup>, with the exception of the two Fairs, Accession Day, and Michaelmas Day, and with the addition of the day appointed for the Commemoration of Benefactors. The same gown was in all probability common to all the Faculties except Music, the differences of Faculty being shewn by differences in the lining of the gown, with a further difference in the case of Divinity that the loops on the sleeves and back are of black cord instead of red. The black gowns for ordinary occasions are also distinguished, partly by cut and partly by the arrangement of the lace trimming. The M.A. hood is black, but in the days of two Houses the Non-Regents' hoods were lined with black and the Regents' with white silk. The Non-Regent's hood has now disappeared, although it was worn in College Chapel by Professor J. E. B. Mayor until his death.

The Doctor's velvet bonnet<sup>5</sup> was originally the ordinary head-

<sup>4</sup> Besides the Scarlet Days prescribed by Ordinance, there are certain other days, more especially the first day of General Admission in the Easter Term, and such days as may be fixed for the conferring of Honorary Degrees, on which scarlet is worn by order of the Vice-Chancellor.

<sup>5</sup> A print of Harraden's shews a D.D. wearing a square cap. This was the usual practice until about 30 years ago, when there was substituted for this what is technically known as the 'Bishop Andrewes cap.'

gear of a gentleman, and its use did not therefore arouse the violent controversy which raged round the square cap. Academic mourning is indicated by wide bands of mourning ribbon across the square cap from corner to corner, with a rosette of the same material at the point of intersection. In the case of mourning for the Chancellor or any Royal personage, bows of black ribbon, technically known as 'butterflies,' are worn upon the 'skull' of the cap, three in the middle, with two and one in the narrowing space on either side.

For the purposes of identification the costumes peculiar to the various Degrees may be described thus:

D.D. Robes and hood of scarlet cloth, both lined with silk shot with pink and violet; or black full-sleeved gown with scarf (or M.A. gown with scarf).

LL.D. Robes and hood of scarlet cloth, both lined with silk of a light cherry colour; or black gown with the sleeve sewn across below the arm-hole, 'wings' on the shoulders, and a 'flap collar' at the back.

M.D. Robes and hood of scarlet cloth, both lined with silk of a darker cherry colour; or black gown as for LL.D., but trimmed with 'Doctors' lace.'

Sc.D. Robes and hood of scarlet cloth, both lined with silk shot with pink and light blue; or M.A. gown with a single row of Doctors' lace placed horizontally above the arm-hole on the sleeve.

Litt.D. Robes and hood of scarlet cloth, both lined with scarlet silk the same colour as the gown; or M.A. gown with a single row of Doctor's lace placed vertically above the arm-hole on the sleeve.

Mus.D. Robes and hood of damasked cream-white silk, lined with satin of a dark cherry colour; or black gown as for M.D. but with a double row of Doctors' lace on the lower part of the collar.

M.A. and LL.M. Black silk or stuff gown, and black silk hood lined with white silk. The M.A. gown is also worn by Masters of Surgery (M.C.) and Masters of Music (Mus.M.).

B.D. Gown as for M.A., and black silk hood lined with black silk.

M.B. Black silk or stuff gown of the same shape as the scarlet M.D. gown, and hood of black silk lined with pink silk of the colour approved for the lining of the scarlet M.D. gown. There appears to be no authority for the pink loops and buttons sometimes worn on the sleeves of the M.B. gown.

Mus.B. Black gown, and hood of satin of the same colour as that used for lining the Mus.D. hood and lined in the same manner as the B.A. hood.

B.A., LL.B. Black gown, and black stuff hood lined with white rabbit fur<sup>1</sup>. The B.A. gown is also worn by Bachelors of Surgery (B.C.).

The gowns mentioned above all have strings; the undergraduate's gown is shorter and has no strings. Research Students wear the B.A. gown without strings.

In Cambridge, unlike Oxford, there are slight variations to distinguish members of different Colleges. These are of comparatively recent origin, dating from the first half of the last century<sup>1</sup>. Before that time all undergraduates wore a short plain black gown, as at Oxford. The variations now adopted are as follows:

PETERHOUSE. Plain black gown.

CLARE. Black gown with three broad velvet stripes on the sleeves, in imitation of the three cheverons gules upon the College arms.

PEMBROKE. Black gown, looped up at the forearm with button and edging.

GONVILLE AND CAIUS. Blue gown, with black velvet yoke and velvet on the foreparts of the sleeves.

TRINITY HALL. Plain black gown, with slit up the forearm seam, with button and loop inside.

CORPUS CHRISTI. Black gown with velvet facings.

KING'S. Black cloth gown.

QUEENS'. Plain black gown, as at Peterhouse.

ST CATHARINE'S. Black gown with eight pleats in the front.

JESUS. Black gown with six pleats on the forearm, and velvet up the forearm. The Rustat Scholars wear a black cloth gown, similar to that worn by undergraduates of King's.

CHRIST'S. Black gown with pleated robings on the fronts and across arm-holes.

ST JOHN'S. Black gown with four velvet narrow stripes on the sleeves, arranged 'cheveron-wise.'

MAGDALENE. Black gown, similar to Pembroke, but with a longer loop.

TRINITY. Blue gown, rather darker than at Caius, with black facings on the foreparts and sleeves.

EMMANUEL. Black gown with pleated robings as at Christ's, but on the fronts only.

SIDNEY SUSSEX. Black gown with pleated robings as at Christ's, but on the sleeves only and differently arranged. The Sidney robing is on either side of the sleeve opening and is pointed; the robing on the Christ's gown goes straight across.

DOWNING. Black gown with six pleats on the forearm and three buttons and edging.

SELWYN COLLEGE, on its foundation as a Public Hostel in 1882, adopted a black gown with blue facings down the foreparts—the reverse of Trinity.

NON-COLLEGIATE STUDENTS wear a black gown with a band of velvet 1½ inches wide on either side of the sleeve opening.

A special gown (black, with a violet button and loop on the forearm seam) was formerly worn by the Westminster Scholars at Trinity, and 'gowns of cloth with open sleeves, like the students of Christ Church Oxon' and square caps without tassels, to be supplied by the College, were prescribed by the Foundress for the Duchess of Somerset's Exhibitioners at St John's. Fellow-Commoners also wore an imposing garment with a large velvet collar and velvet robings, and decorated with lace—at Trinity silver and at other Colleges, gold—the Colleges being distinguished by variations in the arrangement of the lace. With this was worn a velvet cap with a tassel of gold or silver, according to the lace. A Nobleman Fellow-Commoner wore a tall hat instead of the velvet cap, but was also entitled to wear a special Nobleman's gown on state occasions. This was of bright blue material richly trimmed with gold lace, and with it was worn the Fellow-Commoner's velvet cap with a tassel of gold. At King's Noblemen and Fellow-Commoners wore a bishop's sleeved gown.

Some University officers still wear special official costumes. The voluminous blue robe of the Chancellor, with its elaborate decorations of gold lace, and its long train borne by a page of honour, is a familiar sight in the University; much more so the Vice-Chancellor's cope described above (p. 194). The Proctors had two costumes, the 'Congregation habit'—the ordinary hood worn over the cape of black silk known as the 'ruff'; and the 'ad clerum habit'—the squared hood without ruff. The Public Orator, when presenting for Degrees, if a Doctor in any Faculty, wears at his option either a cope, or on Scarlet Days the scarlet gown and hood and on other days the black gown and hood. The Registry wears in the Senate House the gown and hood of his Degree, as also the Esquire Bedells,<sup>1</sup> and the Praelectors of Colleges when presenting for Degrees. At Congregations all officials who take part in the ceremony keep their heads covered<sup>2</sup>.

In Gunning's time the University Marshal, who was then appointed by letters patent 'under the hand and seal of the Vice-Chancellor,'<sup>3</sup> wore on state occasions 'a purple coat, with a very large silver plate' on the left arm 'which was stamped with the University arms.'<sup>4</sup> The Proctors' men still wear heavy cloaks of 'blue beaver' with the collars decorated with gilt buttons and gold thread.

Persons presented to Degrees other than Honorary Degrees wear in the Senate House dark clothes, lawn white evening ties, and bands. Undergraduates being admitted to the Title of a Bachelor's Degree wear the undergraduate's gown and a Bachelor's hood; Bachelors being admitted to incept in any Faculty wear the Bachelor's gown and hood; Graduates of the University being admitted to the Title of a Degree (other than Honorary) wear the gown and hood of the Degree or one of the Degrees to 1 A Grace of 1493 allowed the Bedells to use in summer 'camlet' hoods of light woollen stuff, instead of those with fur lining at that time required during the rest of the year (Grace-Book B II, xxi and 67).

2 A print in Harraden's Costume of 1866 shews an Esquire Bedell wearing a tall hat instead of a cap.

which they have previously been admitted; all persons being admitted to Degrees or Titles of Degrees honoris causâ wear the gown of such Degree without a hood; and all persons being admitted to a full Degree (other than Honorary) wear the gown and hood of such Degree, with the exception of persons being admitted to the Degree of Doctor of Divinity, or Doctor of Divinity Designate, who wear the cope.

Members of the Senate presenting candidates for Degrees wear by custom 'dress of a dark hue.'

University Discipline

IN 1595 Dr Roger Goad, on entering upon the office of Vice-Chancellor, issued a 'brief' or abridgement of the statutes and orders which then regulated the conduct of students<sup>1</sup>. From this it appears that the 'hurtfull and unscholerlike exercise of Football' was prohibited, 'except within places severall to the Colledges, and that for them only that be of the same Colledges'; that 'Batchelors of Arts and Inferior Students' were to 'give place to their betters,' and 'that they do not presume to cover their Heads at Sermons or other publick meetings whatsoever, except such only as are priviledged by the Statutes, viz. Sonns of Noblemen and Heirs apparent of Knights'; that no 'Fellow or Scholer of any Degree being of any Colledge' was allowed to 'keep any Doggs either within Colledges or without'; that students were not allowed to 'walke upon the Market Hill or sitt upon the Stalls or other places thereabout, or make any stay at all in the said Market place or elsewhere within the Town longer then they shall have necessary cause, being appointed by their Tutors to dispatch some necessary business'; that they were not allowed to 'resort unto victualling Houses and Taverns, and especially upon Fryday or other fasting nights' without a Tutor's permission; and that they were not to carry guns or crossbows or to 'use or resort to Bull-bayting, Bear-bayting, Common bowling-places, Nine-hoals, or such like unlawfull games.' Fencing and dice had been prohibited by the Injunctions of 1549, as also cards, except at Christmas time<sup>2</sup>; and in 1571, when Whitgift was Vice-Chancellor, a curious decree, which Dr Peacock afterwards characterised as 'of savage and indecent severity,' had provided<sup>3</sup> that if any scholar 'should go into any river, pool, or other water in the county of Cambridge by day or night to swim or wash,' he should, if under the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, 'be sharply and severely whipped publicly in the Common Hall of the Colledge in which he dwelt,' in the presence of all the Fellows and undergraduates, and again on the following day in the Public Schools by one of the Proctors on behalf of the University; with expulsion to follow on a second offence. If he was a B.A.

3 Ib. p. 277.

he was to be fined 10s. and placed in the stocks for a whole day in the College Hall, with expulsion for the second offence; and if of a higher Degree he was to be 'severely punished at the judgment and discretion of the Master of his College, or in his absence of the President and one of the Deans.'

It should be noted that almost all the College Histories record instances of punishments in their several societies, as well as of more public University discipline. See, for instance, Dr Peile's investigation of the rumour, afterwards magnified by Samuel Johnson, of the treatment of John Milton, and his conclusion that 'the evidence is insufficient; though in itself there is nothing antecedently improbable in the flogging of an undergraduate, who was not yet adultus.'<sup>1</sup> The College Order Book of Corpus Christi College, under May 22nd, 1648, records: "Benton per Tutorem suum M<sup>ru</sup>m. Johnson virgis castigandus." This date, it will be noticed, is nearly a quarter of a century later than Dr Samuel Johnson's "last instance."

In connexion with the prohibition of games, one of the difficulties with which the authorities had to contend was the setting up by certain 'light and decaied persons' of 'showes of unlawfull, hurtfull, pernicious, and dishonest games'<sup>2</sup> in the neighbourhood of the University and more especially 'at Gog-Magog Hills'<sup>3</sup>; and in 1574 a special decree was directed against students frequenting such places<sup>4</sup>. The penalty provided was a fine of six-and-eightpence to be paid by the Tutor of the student so offending, 'and if the said Tutors shall refuse to pay the same, the goods of the said Tutors shall immediately be distressed and taken for the payment of the said mulcts.' The privileges of the University in this matter went beyond the control of its own members and extended to the total prohibition of certain unlawful pursuits within five miles of Cambridge. On Sunday, 22 April 1581<sup>5</sup>, the Vice-Chancellor sent a Proctor and one of the Bedells to inhibit a bear-baiting at Chesterton, and 'finding the beare at stake where he had been bayted in the sermon time,' commanded the 'Bereward' to 'cease from that disordered pastime' and accompany the Bedell into the presence of the Vice-Chancellor. The crowd, resenting this interference, 'violently shoved and thrust the Bedell upon the Beare' and the bearward refused to put in an appearance. The University thereupon complained to the Chancellor, Lord Burghley, who vindicated its privileges by committing the offenders to the Gatehouse in Westminster, where they remained until they made submission, expressing themselves as 'in hart verie sorie for the same our lewde demeanor and wilfull contempt.'

The privilege of inhibiting 'all manner of unprofitable or idle games' within five miles of the University was confirmed by James I by letter in 1604<sup>1</sup> and in a charter of 1605,<sup>2</sup> bull-baiting and bear-baiting being specially mentioned. Acting no doubt on this authority, when in 1620 'a famous Bull' arrived in Cambridge, and it was intended that it should be baited at Gogmagog Hills, 'where bowling, running, jumping, shooting, and wrestling were to be practised for a month or six weeks, under the designation of the Olympic games,' the Vice-Chancellor 'prevented the expected pastime.'<sup>3</sup> Later, in 1727, scholars were forbidden to join the disorderly assemblies upon Market Hill, drawn thither on Shrove Tuesday by the prospect of cock-fighting<sup>4</sup>.

Other things also were from time to time prohibited to students by the University. In 1607 a decree was issued against the keeping by students of greyhounds for coursing, 'to the destroying of the game and misspending their time'<sup>5</sup>; and in the same year a crusade began against 'excessive drinkings, foul drunkenness, and taking tobacco in taverns and shops,' 'to the dishonour of God, great scandal of the University at home and abroad, waste of expence besides hurt of body and mind, and evil example from those that profess learning and sobriety,'<sup>6</sup> and it was 'further enordered' that no student should 'take tobacco in St Mary's Church in the Commencement time, or in the Schools in the Lent Acts, or at any other time of exercise of learning in the said Schools, in any dining hall of Colleges, or at any other time and place of comedies or publick University tragedies, shews, or assemblies.' The penalties prescribed range from six shillings and eightpence up to 'disgrading' and expulsion in the case of graduates, while any offender who was 'non-graduate and adultus,' in addition to a fine could be 'made uncapable of his degree for one whole year when his time cometh'; 'and if any herein shall offend being non-adultus, then every such shall have correction in the Schools by the rod.' On the occasion of James I's visit to Cambridge in 1615, among a series of special regulations we find one providing 'that no Graduate, Scholler, or Student of this Universitie presume to resorte to any Inn, Taverne, Alehowse, or Tobacco-shop, at any tyme dureing the abode of his Majestie here; nor doe presume to take tobacco in St Marie's Church or in Trinity Colledge Hall, upon payne of finall expelling the Universitie.'<sup>7</sup>

With Dr Goad's regulations of 1595 and the subsequent additions, may be compared a series of orders and regulations passed by the Senate in 1750<sup>1</sup>. From these it appears that no person in statu pupillari was allowed to keep a horse, 'except it be for the sake of his health and with the express consent of his parents or guardians, given under their hands to the Master of the College to which he belongs'; any person in statu pupillari found at any 'coffee-house, tennis-court, cricket-ground, or other place of publick...entertainment,' between nine and twelve in the morning was to be fined 10s.; every person in statu pupillari who did not attend the University sermon was fined 6d. for each offence, 'unless he can make it appear that he was excused by the Master or one of the Deans of his College,' and to facilitate the collection of the fines each College had a special part of the galleries assigned to it, and its members were marked in by the sizars of the College to which they belonged. The germ of later regulations may also be found in the following provisions relating to persons in statu pupillari: that no tavern-keeper or coffee-house-keeper should trust any of them 'above the sum of twenty shillings' without the consent of his Tutor, or serve them with 'wine, punch, or any other strong liquor' after eleven o'clock at night; that they should not be 'suffered to go out of town on horseback or in any wheel carriage whatsoever without the express consent of his Tutor or the Master of the College'; and that every such person 'appearing with a gun or keeping or procuring other persons to keep sporting dogs for his use during his residence in the University' should be liable to a fine. No person was allowed to play at dice within the precincts of the University, nor at cards 'unless for small sums.'

The regulations of 1750 were supplemented from time to time during the next hundred years by further prohibitions, as new practices arose which were regarded as unseemly or reprehensible<sup>2</sup>. In 1752 the Vice-Chancellor and Heads issued a decree against carrying lighted torches in the streets, causing 'great terror and apprehensions that some parts of the Colleges or town may be fired thereby.'<sup>3</sup> In 1791, in consequence of a fatal duel between two undergraduates of Pembroke<sup>4</sup>, the Vice-Chancellor issued a notice prohibiting the shooting at marks with pistols, as 'an exercise which obviously tends to introduce and promote the dangerous and impious crime of Duelling'<sup>5</sup>; and in 1828 the authorities prohibited persons in statu pupillari from 'associating or holding communication with' a Bachelor of Arts of St John's, 'he having been convicted of being concerned in a gambling transaction with a person in statu pupillari, of having afterwards challenged such person to fight a duel, and subsequently upon his refusal to accept the challenge, of publicly and violently assaulting him.'<sup>1</sup> In 1798 scholars were forbidden to drive carriages, 'particularly in the streets, to the great danger of themselves and annoyance of others, and in violation of all good order and discipline'<sup>2</sup>; and in 1841 'tandems and four-in-hand carriages' were forbidden<sup>3</sup>, the general prohibition of driving carriages having apparently by that time fallen into disuse. In 1831, 1837, and 1838 townsmen were discommuned for 'suffering persons in statu pupillari to resort' to their houses 'for the purpose of playing at billiards'<sup>4</sup>; and in 1842 it was made an offence to 'be found resorting to or having any communication whatever with any professed teacher of the art of boxing, or be found attending any prize-fight.'<sup>5</sup> Later in the year pigeon-shooting came under the same ban<sup>6</sup>.

<sup>2</sup> A Grace of May 8. 1732, imposed penalties upon members of the University who stole bodies from churchyards or concealed them within the precincts of the University.

The hour fixed for the closing of the gates of the Colleges has varied. In 1675 they were to be shut at eight in the winter and nine in the summer, and the keys brought to the Master; but even then, we are told, 'some use the more benign interpretation, and call it eight till nine in winter and nine till ten in summer.'<sup>7</sup> In theory, although not always in practice, no one could be admitted after these hours; but by 1750 the rule had become less rigid, although students found out of College after eleven were fined 6s. 8d. for the first offence, 13s. 4d. for the second, 'publicly admonished' for the third, and expelled for the fourth<sup>8</sup>.

An account of modern University discipline will be found in the Student's Handbook.

In addition to its control over its own students, the University has also exercised in special spheres control over the proceedings of tradesmen in the Town of Cambridge. The price and quality of the provisions supplied to students was from early times regarded as an important University interest, and in 1382 Richard II by charter granted to the Chancellor and his successors the custody of the assize of bread, wine, and beer, the oversight of weights and measures, and 'power to inquire and take consunance of forestallers and regrators, and of putrid, corrupt, and unfit flesh and fish, in the town and suburbs, and to make due punishment thereupon.<sup>1</sup> These rights were recited and confirmed in Queen Elizabeth's charters of 1561 and 1589<sup>2</sup>.

The powers thus acquired were exercised mainly through the Taxors, officers common to all medieval Universities<sup>3</sup>. They ranked next after the Proctors<sup>4</sup>, and their primary function was to assess the rent of houses leased for University purposes or for the residence of scholars, but they also had the supervision of victuals and victuallers, of weights and measures, and the assize of bread and beer<sup>5</sup>. In 1542, in consequence of the poverty of the University at that time, the office was abolished and the duties were transferred to the Proctors<sup>6</sup>, but four years later it was revived<sup>7</sup>, and continued until 1855, when it came to an end owing to Sir John Patteson's award on the matters in dispute between the University and the Town<sup>8</sup>. The salaries of the Taxors were discontinued by Grace of the Senate in 1856<sup>9</sup>.

The exercise of these powers involved frequent interference with Cambridge trade. In 1533 the Proctors seized candles 'made of unlawful stuffe' and fined the merchant who sold them<sup>10</sup>. The University accounts for 1536-7 contain a charge of 10*d.* incurred by the Proctors for a night watch to prevent the carrying of candles out of the town<sup>11</sup>; and in 1629 we find the University fixing the price of candles and proceeding against certain chandlers in the Vice-Chancellor's Court for exceeding the price thus set<sup>12</sup>. In 1596 the Town complained that 'the Proctors deputie after nine of the clocke at night and divers with him holdinge naked swordes in their handes, entered into the howse and bed-chamber of Roger Fidlinge to search for flesh'<sup>13</sup>; and nearly 200 years afterwards, as late as 1784, the Taxors were still visiting the market to 'seize and destroy all unwholesome provisions.'<sup>14</sup> In 1550 the University was fixing the price of ale, and when the brewers 'stowghtly and contemptuously' refused to take it, the Vice-Chancellor committed them to prison<sup>15</sup>. The privilege of licensing all 'victuellers or Tipplers' within the liberties of the University was also most jealously preserved from all encroachments on the part of the Town<sup>16</sup>, and the keepers of unlicensed alehouses were fined<sup>17</sup>, the offender being in one case bound over 'never to vittell agayne.' The Vice-Chancellor also 'commanded his sign to be plucked down'<sup>18</sup>.

4 The Bidding Prayer recognises this. The Latin version printed in Nichols's Progresses and the English version of 1694-1702 both insert the Taxors next after the Proctors—the latter in a sentence which closely follows the familiar form: 'And herein for his Grace, Charles. Duke of Somerset, our Chancellor, the Reverend and learned the Professors, Mr Proctors, Mr Taxers, and all that bear office in this our Body' (Mullinger, ii. 629-30). See also p. 181 above.

The quality of the liquor was also supervised; in 1565 one Henry Hodgeson was cited by the Taxors before the Vice-Chancellor, and was fined for having exposed for sale 40 kilderkins of 'mustye beere.'<sup>1</sup> The issue of licences to sell wine was also in the hands of the University authorities<sup>2</sup>, who fixed the price<sup>3</sup>.

The dissatisfaction of the Town of Cambridge with this interference with their trade was accentuated by the large powers claimed by the University over Sturbridge Fair<sup>4</sup>. The nature of these is indicated by the terms of the proclamation used by the University about 1548 at the opening of the Fair<sup>5</sup>. They include control over quantities, quality, and prices of bread, beer, wine, fish, and flesh; over weights and measures; and over the size of 'bottels of hey,' faggots of wood, and sacks of charcoal. The chandlers also were to furnish 'good and lawfull candell' at a fixed price; and corn was only to be sold within fixed hours. There was, however, a controversy of long standing over the question what wares might be regarded as 'victual' and therefore subject to the jurisdiction of the Vice-Chancellor<sup>6</sup>, and this came to a head in 1534. The steps taken by the University to defend its privileges are described in the Grace-Books<sup>7</sup>. It was fortunate in securing the powerful aid of Thomas Cromwell, referred to as singularis patronus noster, to whom an annual stipend of forty shillings was assigned by Grace pro termino vitae suae naturalis<sup>8</sup>; and the controversy was ended in favour of the University by an 'angry and decisive letter' to the Corporation from King Henry VIII<sup>9</sup>. The Town recorded its disappointment in the words 'all is lost.'<sup>10</sup> The controversy still smouldered on, and after many years of fruitless negotiation the University and Town at length came to an agreement, embodied in the charters of 1589, as to their respective rights in Sturbridge Fair<sup>11</sup>. The Mayor who agreed to the terms of the new charters was regarded as having betrayed the Town, and 'shortlie after was putt [out] of his Aldermanshipp, and lived the remaynder of his life in great want and miserie, and hatefull to all the townesmen.'<sup>12</sup> Complaints were, however, still made of the exactions of the Proctors and 'Taskers.'<sup>13</sup> In 1596 the Vice-Chancellor and Heads, in a letter to Lord Burghley, referred to 'the froward affection of our unkinde neighbours the Townesmen' who are renewing the 'ould complaintes,'<sup>1</sup> and a formal answer to the charges was returned. As late as 1738 the University published an edict against schismatical congregations at Sturbridge Fair, and Pro-Proctors were appointed to see it executed—a measure due to a fear that the eccentric London preacher known as 'Orator Henley' would 'erect an oratory in the Fair.'<sup>2</sup> An account of the Fair as he saw it in 1789 is given by Gunning in his Reminiscences<sup>3</sup>. The powers of the University over markets and fairs were abolished by the Cambridge Award Act of 1856.

Four of the more important University privileges survived into later times—the right to prohibit entertainments, the control over weights and measures, the right to control ale-houses, and the Vice-Chancellor's power to license vintners.

As early as 1270 letters patent issued by Henry III at the request of the University had forbidden tournaments, tiltings, justings, or other warlike games in Cambridge or within five miles thereof<sup>4</sup>; and more than three centuries later, in 1604, James I, 'for the better maintenance, safety, and quietness' of the University and its students, 'and to remove, take away, and prevent all occasions that may tend either to the infecting of their bodies or minds, or to the withdrawing or alienating the younger sort from the courses of their studies there intended,' authorised the authorities of the University by royal letter<sup>5</sup> to prohibit 'all and all manner of unprofitable or idle games, plays, or exercises' within the radius of five miles, 'especially bull-baiting, bear-baiting, common plays, public shews, interludes, comedies and tragedies in the English tongue, games at loggets<sup>6</sup>, nine-holes, and all other sports and games whereby throngs, concourse, or multitudes are drawn together, or whereby the younger sort are or may be drawn or provoked to vain expence, loss of time, or corruption of manners.' These powers were confirmed by charter in 1605<sup>7</sup>, and in 1737 it was provided by statute<sup>8</sup> that 'all persons whatsoever who shall for gain in any playhouse, booth, or otherwise, exhibit any stage play, interlude, shew, opera, or other theatrical or dramatical performance, or act any part, or assist therein' within the radius 'shall be deemed rogues and vagabonds,' and the University authorities were empowered to sentence such offenders to a month's imprisonment with hard labour. This Act was repealed by the Theatres Act of 1843<sup>9</sup>, which placed the licensing of theatres in places beyond the limits of the Lord Chamberlain's jurisdiction in the hands of the Justices of the Peace, subject to the proviso with regard to Oxford and Cambridge that no licence should be in force within the precincts of either University or fourteen miles round it without the consent of the Vice-Chancellor<sup>1</sup>. The Acts of 1737 and 1843 related to theatrical performances only, but other entertainments were brought under the statute law by the Cambridge Award Act of 1856<sup>2</sup>, which provided that 'no occasional public exhibition or performance, whether strictly theatrical or not,' should take place within the Borough unless with the consent in writing of the Vice-Chancellor and the Mayor, except during the period of Midsummer Fair or in the Long Vacation. This exception was abolished by a clause in the Cambridge University and Corporation Act of 1894<sup>3</sup>, which at the same time made the consent of the Vice-Chancellor no longer necessary.

The control of the University over weights and measures, which was in full force in Gunning's time (see p. 182 above) was in substance transferred to the Borough Magistrates by the Cambridge Award Act of 1856, although power was reserved to the Vice-Chancellor to appoint Inspectors of Weights and Measures who should have 'concurrent power' with those appointed by the Town Council. The same Act abrogated the power of the Vice-Chancellor to grant Alehouse Licences within the Borough, although the right was reserved to him of making a complaint in writing against any licence, and the Justices were required to consider such a complaint in a special session and were authorised to revoke any alehouse licence so complained of after hearing the parties.

The Act of 1856 which abrogated the power of granting Alehouse Licences, expressly reserved the right to grant Wine Licences 'in the same manner as it is now exercised under ancient usage' and in accordance with the provisions of 10 Geo. II, c. 19, and 17 Geo. II, c. 40, although it prohibited the taking of money by the University for such licences. It appears from a passage in Cole's MSS referring to about 1745, that at that time there were four University Vintners, all members of the University, who sub-let the so-called University Taverns<sup>4</sup>. They paid £30 a year each for the privilege, and on a vacancy occurring in the office, the Heads nominated two persons, one of whom was elected by the Senate<sup>5</sup>. By Gunning's time the restriction to four vintners had disappeared and the number was now unlimited, licences being granted on application to the Vice-Chancellor. The power to grant Wine Licences is the last relic that still remains of the control formerly exercised by the University over the Market and the sale of provisions and liquors within the University precincts.

The University still retains the general power of 'discommuning'; the conditions under which it may be exercised are described in the University Calendar.

<sup>4</sup> Writing of Thomas Whitstons of St John's, he says: 'He was presented by the University some years since to the Licence of the Mitre Tavern, which he let to Mr Cancellor, whose widow now keeps it. But this being found by the University a bad practice and a sort of taxing ourselves, this year a Grace was passed in the Senate to oblige every one who takes one of the four licensed University Taverns to give a Bond to the University that they will keep it themselves' (MSS Cole ix. : B.M. ### THE UNIVERSITY CHURCH

FROM very early times the Church of St Mary the Great has been connected with the University<sup>1</sup>. Its religious services have been held there from a very remote period, and at a time when there were no University buildings the more important academic proceedings used to take place there. The first record of a Grace being passed at a Congregation held in the Church is in 1275<sup>2</sup>; and the great ceremony of Inception, on Commencement Day, which had a religious character and was preceded by the celebration of the mass, was held in Great St Mary's long after the building of the Arts Schools<sup>3</sup>.

The advowson belonged to the Crown, but in 1343 it was transferred to the Master and Fellows of King's Hall with the intention that it should serve them as a College Chapel<sup>4</sup>, and it subsequently passed with the other estates of King's Hall to Trinity, who now own the Rectory and appoint the incumbent.

The structure itself has undergone many vicissitudes. The earliest church was burnt down and many houses round it on 9 July 1290, and its successor was more than fifty years in building, for the high altar was not consecrated until March 15, 1346. In 1478 a new church was begun, towards which Henry VII contributed £40 and 100 oaks for the roof, and the Lady Margaret £20<sup>5</sup>; but part of the cost was borne by the University, the Proctors being for many years accustomed to ride about the country in order to solicit contributions. The building, without the tower, was completed in 1519, and the tower was finished in 1608, 'so that from the beginning to the ending thereof were no fewer than an hundred and thirty years.'<sup>1</sup> In 1545 some materials for it were provided from dissolved religious houses.

<sup>1</sup> The connexion of the University with St Bene't's Church is still older. As early as the year 1273 (see Hare, i. 23) reference is made to the ringing of the Bells of St Benedict's for academical purposes—summoning scholars 'to ye schooles, att such times as neede did require—as to acts, clearyngs, congregations, lecturs, disses, and such like.' Payments by the University authorities to the incumbent or churchwardens of St Bene't's are recorded as late as 1655.

<sup>3</sup> Ib. p. 355. In the 14th century the University Chest must have been kept there, for in 1381 the rebels under James de Grancestre went to St Mary's to break it open and burn the bulls, charters, and muniments which it contained (Cooper, Annals, i. 120).

The galleries for Bachelors of Arts and undergraduates were erected in 1739<sup>2</sup> from the Benefaction of Mr Worts (see p. 168); and in 1754 another gallery commonly called 'the throne'<sup>3</sup> was put up above the entrance to the chancel from a design by Mr James Burrough, Master of Caius, for the accommodation of the Heads of Houses, Noblemen, Doctors, and Professors. About the same time the floor of the nave was appropriated to the University and fitted with benches for Masters of Arts; this part of the church was known as 'the pit.' Another gallery for B.A.'s and undergraduates was built by the University at the west end of the church in 1819, but this and the throne were 'happily removed' in 1863<sup>4</sup>.

The windows were originally filled with stained glass, executed by James Nicholson, one of the artificers employed at King's College Chapel, but this was taken out in or soon after 1566. The first peal of bells was rung in 1595, and the chimes date from 1671. In March 1793 the old clock was taken down and the University agreed to put up another, striking the quarters 'changeable upon four bells.' Dr Jowett, the Regius Professor of Civil Law, was consulted, and after taking counsel with William Crotch, then a pupil of Dr Randall, the Professor of Music, he took a movement from the fifth bar of the opening symphony in Handel's 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,' and by a series of variations expanded it into the chimes now familiar in many parts of the world<sup>5</sup>. The present clock was renovated in 1892. The ringing of the 'Bedmakers' or 'Apprentices' Bell from 5.45 to 6 a.m. and the 'Curfew' from 9 to 9.15 p.m. may be traced to an order made by the vestry, 26 October 1663, that the great bell should be rung at 9 o'clock at night and at 5 in the morning.

THE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY<sup>6</sup>

THE buildings which now contain the University Library at one time included all the rooms required for the public life of the University, and it is only within recent memory that the gradual process of absorption by the Library has been completed.

<sup>3</sup> Also nicknamed 'Golgotha.' A print shewing this gallery, with the old high pulpit standing in front of it, will be found in Ackerman's History of Cambridge (1805).

A portion of the present site was given to the University shortly before 1278 by Nigel de Thornton, Doctor in Medicine, and this was subsequently increased: first by ground acquired in 1421 from Trinity Hall; next, by the purchase in 1432 of the 'garden of the Hostel of the Holy Cross,' usually called Crouched Hostel<sup>1</sup>; later, by the acquisition in 1459 of land from Corpus Christi College; and finally by the purchase in 1829 of the site of the Old Court of King's College for £12,000<sup>2</sup>.

The foundation of the building on the north side of what is now the East Court is said to have been laid by Sir Robert Thorpe, Master of Pembroke Hall, and afterwards Lord Chancellor of England, who died in 1372<sup>3</sup>. The date of the foundation is about 1359<sup>4</sup>. The work was stopped for some years for want of funds, but by about 1400 the building was completed by the aid of the executors of Sir William Thorpe, Sir Robert Thorpe's brother, who are described as having 'caused to be built Divinity Schools, together with a Chapel for the souls of the aforesaid William and Grace his wife.'<sup>5</sup> The 'New Chapel' as it was still sometimes called until the building of the present Senate House, was on the first floor. It afterwards became the 'Regent House,'<sup>6</sup> and Fuller describes the Regent and Non-Regent Houses as 'having something of chapel character and consecration in them, as wherein some University devotions were performed.'<sup>7</sup> The western side was undertaken next, and included the Canon Law School, with 'a Common Library' immediately above it, and to this Library, which had been completed about 1438, Dr Walter Crome presented an important benefaction of books on the Feast of St Hugh (17 November) 1444. The building of the south side was begun in 1458 and was intended to provide Schools of Philosophy and Civil Law, the existing Schools having fallen into 'irremediable decay and ruin'<sup>8</sup>; it was probably completed in 1470 or 1471. The room on the first floor of this building was also assigned to Library purposes; and the 'Common Library' above the Canon Law School came to be used in the early part of the 16th century for the 'Humanities' or Terence School. Lastly, 1470-3, the east side of the quadrangle was built by Thomas Rotherham, Bishop of Lincoln, and afterwards Archbishop of York, Chancellor both of the realm and of the University, the first floor being a Library for the reception of choice books; and after this period, although the assignment of Soc. Communications*, No. LIII (1909)).

<sup>6</sup> The 'Regent House' was divided into two parts, one for the meetings of the Regents and the other for the Non-Regents. The question how far it retained a 'chapel character' is fully discussed by Dr Stokes (p. 53). It is now the Catalogue Room.

the rooms to particular purposes was changed from time to time, no important structural alteration of the buildings took place until after 1715.

The occasion of the next development of the Library was George I's gift to the University in 1715 of the library of Dr John Moore, Bishop of Ely,—a collection which exceeded 30,000 volumes (see p. 166). An attempt was made to accommodate the 'King's books,' as they were called, by fitting up the original 'Common Library' on the first floor of the west side of the quadrangle, which was now being used as a Law School; and the space over the Porter's Lodge belonging to the Old Court of King's College was leased in order to provide better communication. But it was found that this provision was not nearly sufficient, and it was therefore decided in 1719 to build a new Senate House (see p. 213) in order that the Regent House might be added to the Library. The new Senate House was opened in 1730, but the business of dismantling and refitting the Regent House occupied nearly four years; the books were not actually moved in until 1734.

The present façade to the Library<sup>1</sup>, including the East Room, was built between 1754 and 1758, from a design by Stephen Wright, at a cost of £10,500, met mainly by private subscription, the list of subscribers being headed by King George II, who gave £3000. The more important subsequent additions are (1) Cockerell's Building, 1837-40, named after Charles Robert Cockerell, the architect; (2) Scott's Building, 1864-7, also named after the architect, George Gilbert Scott; (3) the Hancock Building, 1887-90, erected from a benefaction under the Will of the Reverend Edward Grey Hancock (B.A. 1855), formerly Fellow of St John's College, from the plans of John Loughborough Pearson, R.A. While the work was proceeding, Dr Charles Taylor, Master of St John's, gave the University £400, being his stipend as Vice-Chancellor for the academical year 1887-8, and this was expended on the statues in the external niches of the building. The oak cases in the Manuscript Room were given by Dr Cayley. When the site of the Old Court of King's was cleared in 1835, after its purchase by the University, the unfinished Gate of Entrance, dating from 1441-4, justly described as 'a venerable and beautiful specimen of Architecture,' was left untouched, together with portions of the walls of the rooms on the south and north of it. The opportunity was now taken to incorporate it in the new Hancock Building and to complete it according to the original design.

At the time when Cockerell's Building was begun in 1837, in addition to the Schools of Divinity, Arts, Physic, and Law, the buildings which now belong to the Library provided accommodation for Botanical, Geological, Mineralogical, and Zoological Museums<sup>1</sup>. The process of absorption has, however, gone on steadily and is now complete.

<sup>1</sup> When the old façade was pulled down in 1754, the arch, the carved spandrels, and the side-niches were purchased by Sir John Cotton and in 1758 were set up as the entrance to the courtyard of Madingley Hall, where they may still be seen (Willis and Clark, iii. 18).

The Library at present contains more than 800,000 volumes, including many early printed books and over 8000 manuscripts, as well as upwards of 100,000 maps. It has been enriched at different times by royal and private Benefactors, amongst whom, as donors of books, the names of William Loring (1415), John Croucher, Dr Richard Home (1424), Archbishop Rotherham (1480), Archbishop Parker (1574), Dr Andrew Perne (1589), Dr Richard Holdsworth (1649), Henry Lucas (1664), Bishop Hacket (1670), King George I (1715), Henry Bradshaw (1870-86), Sir Thomas Francis Wade (1886), Dr John Venn (1888), John Couch Adams (1892), Samuel Sandars (1894) and Viscount Morley of Blackburn (1902), may be mentioned as pre-eminently distinguished. The last-named presented to the University the valuable historical library of nearly 60,000 volumes collected by Lord Acton, late Regius Professor of Modern History.

The permanent sources of the increase of the Library are as follows:

1. The Copyright Act, under which it is entitled to receive on demand a copy of every book published in the United Kingdom.

2. The Rustat Fund, arising from an estate at Ovington in Norfolk. This estate was bought with £1000 given to the University in 1667 by Tobias Rustat, M.A. (see p. 173), Yeoman of the Robes to King Charles II, to be laid out in land, the rents to be applied in the purchase of choice books for the Library. The available annual income is now about £100.

3. William Worts, M.A., of St Catharine's College, ordered by his Will, in 1709, that the annual surplus of the rents and profits of his estate at Landbeach, in the county of Cambridge, after the discharge of the other outgoings (see p. 168), should be applied to the use of the Library. This surplus now amounts to about £700 a year.

4. In 1829, John Manistre, M.A., Fellow of King's College, bequeathed £5000 to purchase books. This sum has been invested, and produces the annual income of £140.

5. A portion of the Benefaction Fund has been invested to form an Endowment Fund, which at present produces an annual income of about £300. Of this about £80 is derived from a sum of £2733. 12s. 8d. being part of the Nobel Prize for Physics which was awarded to Lord Rayleigh (now Chancellor of the University) in the year 1904 and by him presented to the University.

<sup>1</sup> The Registry was also in these buildings from 1662 to 1836, when it was removed to the tower of the Pitt Press Building (see p. 224).

6. By Grace of the Senate (May 31, 1866) a portion of the quarterly payment made by all members of the University to the Chest was assigned to the support of the Library. The sum now allowed (1915) in normal years is £6000 a year.

7. By the Statutes of 1882 the Common University Fund is applicable to the Library; an annual grant of £1000 is now (1915) made to the Library from this source.

THE SENATE HOUSE

THE foundation of the present Senate House was laid 22 June 1722 by the Vice-Chancellor, Thomas Crosse, D.D., Master of Catharine Hall, 'with four stones: the first in honour of the King; the second of the Prince; the third of the Chancellor of the University; the fourth of the Benefactors.'<sup>1</sup> The work proceeded rapidly for the next three years, and by October 1725 the roof was completed, but the internal fittings were delayed, partly by want of funds and partly by opposition to the whole scheme arising within the University itself. The building was not opened until 6 July 1730, and the western end was not completed until 1768. The total cost, including the site, was £16,386. The architect was James Gibbs, but the general plan ultimately adopted appears to have been suggested by Mr (afterwards Sir) James Burrough, a Fellow and afterwards Master of Gonville and Caius College, who achieved distinction as an architect, and whose name tradition has especially connected with the Senate House. The design originally suggested by Gibbs included a second building, parallel to the Senate House, and exactly similar in size and appearance, on the site nearer King's. This would have provided for the Registry's and other offices on the ground-floor, and for a Printing House above.

The memorial statues originally in the Senate House were: King George I by Rysbrack, presented by Viscount Townshend, placed in the Senate House in 1739 and removed in 1884 to the Library; Charles, Duke of Somerset, Chancellor of the University, 1689-1748, the gift of his daughters, Frances, Marchioness of Granby, and Charlotte, Lady Guernsey, executed by the same sculptor, 1756; King George II, by Wilton, given by Thomas Holles Pelham, Duke of Newcastle, Chancellor of the University, 1746-68, placed in the Senate House in 1766 and removed in 1884 to the Library; and William Pitt, by Nollekens, placed in the

Senate House in 1812 by public subscription. The Senate House also at one time contained a statue of Academic Glory, executed at Florence by John Baratta in 1715, and bought by Peter Burrell, M.B., of St John's, at the sale of Cannons, the estate of the Duke of Chandos. It was presented by him to the University, probably in 1745, and three years later an unsuccessful attempt was made to eject it from the Senate House, on the ground that it resembled Queen Anne; it was removed to the Law School in 1807<sup>1</sup>, and eventually, in 1885, to the Fitzwilliam Museum.

THE BOTANIC GARDEN

IN 1762 RICHARD WALKER, D.D., Vice-Master of Trinity College, 'with a view to the reviving of' 'so useful as well as curious a branch of knowledge' as Botany, since 'nothing can be more conducive thereto than having a public Botanic Garden with proper Persons to take care of, govern, and conduct the same,' conveyed to the University part of the site of 'the Saint Austin Friary,' with other property which he had acquired two years before. In 1764 he also executed a bond securing to the University an annuity of £50 to be spent on 'the further improvement of the Botanic Garden.' In 1783 Edward Betham, M.A., formerly Fellow of King's, as 'a true Friend and well wisher to the Botanic Garden' gave £2000 upon trust for its improvement, and in 1807 a benefaction left in 1775 by Charles, Viscount Maynard, either for buildings or for the use of the 'Public Physic Garden,'<sup>2</sup> was assigned to the Garden. In 1831 an Act of Parliament was obtained authorising the removal of the Garden from its original site in Free School Lane, where some of the Museums and Laboratories now stand, to its present position on ground bought from Trinity Hall between Trumpington Street and the Hills Road; and in 1853 the Old Botanic Garden site was appropriated to the University. The handsome iron gates belonging to the Old Garden were removed from Pembroke Street to the entrance of the New Garden in 1909.

The Garden is controlled by a Syndicate consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Provost of King's, the Masters of Trinity and St John's, the Professors of Physic and Botany, and six members of the Senate elected by Grace. The rules for admission will be found in full in the University Calendar and in an abbreviated form in the Student's Handbook.

The Curator of the Botanic Garden is not permitted to take private pupils.

1898 Richard Irwin Lynch. Hon. M.A. 1906.

THE OBSERVATORY

THOMAS PLUME, D.D., of Christ's (B.A. 1649), Archdeacon of Rochester, the founder of the Plumian Professorship (see p. 86), also made the building of an Observatory one of the objects to which his estate was to be assigned. He died in 1704 and the first Plumian Professor, Roger Cotes, M.A., Fellow of Trinity, was not formally appointed until 1707; but it had already been decided on whom the office was to be conferred, and in 1706 the Master and Seniors of Trinity College resolved that he 'and all his successors after him, of what College or place soever they shall be, have the roomes and leads of the King's Gate...for a dwelling and observatory, soe long as the Trustees or Electors of the said Professorship shall think fit.'<sup>1</sup> The building, the cost of which was defrayed partly by subscription and partly by Trinity College, was begun soon after, and in a letter of 13 February 1710 Dr Bentley refers to 'the College Gate-house rais'd up and improv'd to a stately Astronomical Observatory, well stor'd with the best Instruments in Europe'<sup>2</sup>; but in its later stages the work went on very slowly for want of money, and it was not completed until 1739. In 1792 the Plumian Trustees, finding that the Professor 'had neither occupied the said rooms and leads, nor fulfilled the conditions, for at least 50 years,' and that 'the Observatory and the instruments belonging to it were, through disuse, neglect, and want of repairs so much dilapidated as to be entirely unfit for the purposes intended,'<sup>3</sup> relinquished their claim to it, and it was taken down in 1797. A view of the top of the Great Gate, taken in 1740 and shewing the Observatory, is reproduced in Willis and Clark's Architectural History of Cambridge<sup>4</sup>.

The present Observatory on the Madingley Road was erected in 1822-4, after the designs of John Clement Mead, at an expense of upwards of £18,000. About £6000 of this sum was contributed by subscriptions, and the remainder was granted from the University Chest.

In 1870 the present meridian circle made by Troughton and Simms was erected in place of the previous instrument made by Dolland and of the mural circle. The object glass of the telescope is an excellent one by Cooke, of 8 inches aperture. There are two divided circles of 3 feet diameter, each of them being read off by means of four micrometer microscopes. This instrument was procured by means of a grant from the Special Sheepshanks Fund mentioned below.

The transit clock is by Hardy. There are also two other clocks, one by Molyneux and Cope and one by Graham, with several smaller instruments, of which some have been purchased by the Plumian Professors according to the regulations of their foundation, and others have been bought by the University or have been presented to the Observatory by generous benefactors.

In 1835 a telescope of nearly twelve inches aperture and twenty feet focal length, made by M. Cauchoix of Paris, was presented to the Observatory by his Grace the Duke of Northumberland, Chancellor of the University. The equatorial mounting of the telescope was completed under the superintendence of George Biddell Airy, then Plumian Professor, and was erected in a dome twenty-seven feet in diameter.

In December 1858 the Representatives of the late Richard Sheepshanks, M.A., F.R.S., Fellow of Trinity College, gave £10,000 stock, 3 per cent. Consols, for the promotion of the science of Astronomy in the University. The annual proceeds of one-sixth part of this stock are to be applied every year to the maintenance of 'The Sheepshanks Astronomical Exhibition,' and the annual proceeds of the remaining five-sixths are to be applied to the following purposes, viz.: To the causing to be made the best possible observations and calculations for advancing the science of Astronomy (whether Physical or Gravitational or Mensurative), or the sciences of Terrestrial Magnetism and Meteorology, or other sciences usually pursued continuously in an Observatory; or to the erection of Buildings or procuring of Instruments proper for, and appropriated to, those Observations; or to the payment of actual observers and actual computers personally employed on the Observations and Calculations. The entire endowment is invested in the names of Trustees, who are the Master, Fellows, and Scholars of Trinity College; but the immediate expenditure of the sums annually available for the purpose above-mentioned is entrusted to the Observatory Syndicate.

In March 1863 a further sum of £2000 was transferred to the University by Anne Sheepshanks to be employed for the benefit of the Observatory, with special preference for its employment in the purchase of one or more large instruments or classes of instruments, if such should be required.

In 1889 Robert Stirling Newall, F.R.S., offered to the University his refracting telescope with a view to its being used for the development of Stellar Physics. This offer was accepted by the University and the instrument was erected at Cambridge in 1891 on a site to the S.W. of the Northumberland Dome, in a field purchased as an addition to the Observatory grounds. The instrument was the first of the large refractors of modern days; it has an aperture of 25 inches, and a focal length of 29½ feet. The discs for the object-glass were cast by Messrs Chance of Birmingham in 1862, and they were worked by Messrs T. Cooke and Sons of York. The mounting was made by the last-named firm, and was completed about the year 1871. The building is of iron, and has a hemispherical dome, with an internal diameter of 40 feet. The expense of removal of the telescope and iron building from Gateshead-on-Tyne and the re-erection at Cambridge was met by a contribution from the Trustees of the Sheepshanks Fund, and a gift from Professor Adams with the special view of purchasing additional land to improve the site.

In 1905 Frank McClean, M.A., F.R.S., of Trinity College, bequeathed a sum of £5000 for improving the instrumental equipment in connexion with the Newall Telescope. By appropriations from this fund, instruments have been provided for spectroscopic observations of the sun and are known as the McClean Solar Instruments. They consist of a double coelostat with mirrors 16 inches in diameter, an object glass of aperture 12 inches and of focal length about 60 feet, and a powerful spectrograph of Littrow form. They are erected in buildings adjoining the Newall Dome.

In 1898 a telescope was erected for photographic purposes. The object-glass is a triplet of  $12\frac{1}{2}$  inches aperture and  $19\frac{1}{4}$  feet focal length by Messrs Cooke and Sons. The novel form of coudé mounting is by Sir Howard Grubb, Dublin. The cost of this instrument and of the building which contains it was defrayed from the accumulations of the Sheepshanks bequest, and the instrument is accordingly known as the Sheepshanks Telescope.

In 1908 the Royal Society presented the equipment which had been placed by them in the hands of Sir William Huggins in 1871, and had been used and developed by him in his astrophysical researches. The equipment consists of (i) a refracting telescope (with an object glass 15 inches in diameter and 15 feet in focal length) to which is attached a spectroscope designed by Sir William Huggins for both visual and photographic work, and (ii) a Cassegrain reflecting telescope (with a mirror of speculum metal eighteen inches in diameter, and about seven feet in focal length) to which a spectroscope is attached with optical parts made of Iceland spar and quartz. These two telescopes were made and mounted on a single polar axis by Sir Howard Grubb of Dublin. They are erected in a new dome made by Cooke and Sons, on a site to the south of the Sheepshanks telescope, contiguous with the Astrophysical Building which was built in 1909.

In 1909 Major E. H. Hills, C.M.G., R.E., presented a valuable outfit of spectroscopic apparatus. It comprises amongst other instruments a powerful quartz spectroscope.

In 1911 Lady Huggins presented the large and valuable set of physical apparatus, including induction coils, air pumps, and spectroscopic apparatus, wherewith she and Sir William Huggins had carried on their physical researches.

In 1913, those instruments and appliances which had been used in the Astrophysical Department of the Observatory, namely, the Newall telescope, the McClean solar instruments, the Huggins telescopes and physical apparatus, and the Hills spectroscopic apparatus were included in the Solar Physics Observatory which was transferred to Cambridge in that year (see p. 219).

The Observatory Syndicate consists of the Vice-Chancellor, the Lucasian, Plumian, Lowndean, and Astrophysics Professors, and six other members of the Senate to be elected by Grace. Of these six two retire by rotation on Dec. 31 in every year, and their places are supplied by two other persons elected at a Congregation before the end of full term in the preceding Michaelmas Term. The Syndicate is empowered to order new instruments for the Observatory, to direct the requisite repairs of the buildings, and to audit the accounts. The Syndicate meets at the Observatory once at least in every Term, and annually, in the month of May, inspects all the instruments, etc., belonging to the Observatory, and afterwards makes a report to the Senate as well of the state of the Observatory as of the proceedings of the previous year.

The Director of the Observatory is appointed by the Observatory Syndicate with the approval of the Vice-Chancellor. He must reside at the Observatory during forty weeks in each year, provided that when his services are required in observations or scientific conferences elsewhere, the time so spent shall be accepted as equivalent to residence subject to the consent of the Vice-Chancellor.

These lists include some interesting names, especially among the Junior Assistants. Sir Charles Todd, James Glaisher, Lynn, and Criswick were afterwards well-known astronomers.

The office of Newall Observer was established in 1891 and has been held by H. F. Newall, M.A., Trinity. An Assistant in Astrophysics was appointed in 1906, but the office lapsed in 1913 when the Solar Physics Observatory was transferred to Cambridge.

1907 Bryan Cookson, M.A., Trinity.

1910 Frederick John Marrian Stratton, M.A., Fellow of Caius.

Selected Observations have been published from time to time (the expense having been defrayed by the Press Syndicate). Copies are distributed to the principal Observatories and Academies.

The Observatory is open to members of the University and their friends every weekday between twelve and one, and the Director usually gives notice in the University Reporter at the beginning of each Michaelmas and Lent Term that the Northumberland Telescope will be open to members of the University and their friends on fine and clear Saturday evenings during the ensuing full term, between the hours of 8 and 10.30 p.m.

THE SOLAR PHYSICS OBSERVATORY

By Grace of Dec. 7, 1911, the University accepted the charge of the Solar Physics Observatory, formerly at South Kensington, and buildings for this purpose were erected close to the older Observatory from the plans of Mr T. D. Atkinson. By Grace of April 25, 1913, the work of the Astrophysical Department was combined with that of the Solar Physics Observatory, and both are now carried on under the direction of the Professor of Astrophysics.

The principal instruments are the following:

The Newall telescope, the McClean solar instruments, the Huggins telescopes, the Hills spectroscopes (see pp. 216-17).

A spectroheliograph for the study of solar phenomena in monochromatic light.

A concave grating, mounted in Rowland's method.

A 36-inch reflector with a mirror (silver on glass), mounted equatorially.

An annual grant is made from the Treasury in support of the Solar Physics Observatory, subject to conditions laid down in a letter from the President of the Board of Education printed in full in the University Reporter, 14 November 1911, p. 236.

The Staff of the Solar Physics Observatory consists of a Director, an Assistant Director, an Observer in Meteorological Physics, four Assistant Observers, and two Attendants, one of them resident in the Solar Physics Building. The Professor of Astrophysics is ex officio Director of the Solar Physics Observatory, and is required to reside during forty weeks in each year, provided that when his services are required in observations or scientific conferences elsewhere in connexion with the work of the Observatory, the time so spent may be accepted as equivalent to residence, subject to the approval of the Vice-Chancellor. The duties of the staff consist principally in making and discussing such regular observations as are calculated to throw light upon the physical constitution of the sun, stars, and nebulae, and upon the interpretation of solar and stellar phenomena, especially in regard to search for possible correlation of solar and terrestrial changes, whether in respect of magnetic or meteorological phenomena. The Assistant Director and the other members of the staff are appointed by the Director with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, and may be removed in the same way. Each appointment is for a limited period not exceeding five years, at the discretion of the Director, but the members of the staff are eligible for reappointment for further periods. The Assistant Director and the Observer in Meteorological Physics may be required by the Director, with the approval of the Solar Physics Committee, to deliver such courses of lectures from time to time as may be found desirable and consistent with their other work in the Solar Physics Observatory.

THE UNIVERSITY PRESS

THE rights of the University in connexion with printing may be said to date from 1534, when Henry VIII by letters patent gave his royal license to the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars to assign and elect from time to time three stationers and printers or sellers of books residing within the University, to print all manner of books approved by the Chancellor and three Doctors<sup>1</sup>. The claim of the University to print led to disputes with the Stationers Company, who in 1583 seized the press and materials of Thomas Thomas, the University Printer, on the ground that he was infringing their privileges, but the Vice-Chancellor and Heads appealed to Lord Burghley, and by his good offices the rights of the University were confirmed in 1584<sup>2</sup>. In 1628 Charles I confirmed the privilege by charter<sup>3</sup> and in the following year an Order in Council gave the University, together with the King's Printers and the Stationers Company, the exclusive right of printing Bibles and Prayer books<sup>4</sup>. The sole right of printing Almanacs and 'Prognostications' had already been vested in the same parties<sup>4</sup>, and the privilege was leased to the Stationers Company, which paid the University over £500 a year; but in 1775 this monopoly was overthrown by a judicial decision which declared the printing of almanacs to be a common law right<sup>1</sup>. The privilege of printing Bibles and Prayer-books, however, still exists, and the University continues to receive compensation from the Government, in the form of an annuity, for the loss of the monopoly of almanacs.

The early Printers carried on their business in their own houses, and it was not until 1655 that the University obtained from Queens' College the lease of a site at the corner of Silver Street and Queens' Lane where the first Printing House was built<sup>2</sup>. In 1696, at the suggestion of the Duke of Somerset, who had been elected Chancellor in 1689, and through the exertions of Dr Richard Bentley, afterwards Master of Trinity, a new building was erected to the north of the old one, and new presses and type were obtained; the improvements being carried out by public subscription and a loan of £1000. The Grace appointing a Syndicate for the management of the Press was passed 21 January 1698. In 1716 the newer building was made over to the Professors of Anatomy and Chemistry and business was carried on in the older house, but this was found to be inconvenient, and in 1762 the acquisition of the present site began. The first step towards the erection of the present buildings may be dated from 1804<sup>3</sup>.

On the death of William Pitt, his friends and admirers opened a subscription for the purpose of erecting some memorial worthy of his fame. By means of the funds thus raised a marble statue of Mr Pitt, executed by Westmacott, was erected in Westminster Abbey; and a bronze statue of him, executed after a model by Chantrey, was placed in Hanover Square, London. A large sum still remained unexpended; and the Committee at whose disposal the funds were placed, desiring to employ the surplus in some mode that might contribute to the honour and usefulness of the University in which Mr Pitt had received his education, offered to erect a building which should form the front of the University Printing Offices, and be designated by the title PITT PRESS. This offer was accepted; and a large sum of money was expended by the University in purchasing the necessary site. The first stone of the New Building was laid in 1831 by the Marquis Camden, the Chairman of the before-mentioned Committee, attended by the Earl of Clarendon, the Earl of Harrowby, Lord Farnborough, and Henry Bankes, Esq., M.P., also members of that Committee. The building was completed in 1833. The architect, Edward Blore, had designed Sir Walter Scott's house at Abbotsford.

it should be observed that many of the Printers holding office before 1700 were not actually engaged in printing. It appears to have been sometimes the practice for the University to appoint graduate members holding other offices, such as Registrar or Esquire Bedell, in order to preserve the right to appoint three Printers, and these were paid a nominal salary of £5 a year. Meanwhile the working printer held his office on a different footing, as, for instance, John Hayes, who paid £100 a year to the University when his two colleagues were receiving £5 a year from it.

1 John Siberch, who printed several books at Cambridge in 1521 and 1522, may be regarded as the precursor of the University Printers, but the University could make no formal appointments until the issue of the letters patent in 1534. Nevertheless, Dr Caius calls him 'University Printer,' and one of his title pages has cum gratia et privilegio; it is therefore probable that he was at least under the protection of the University (see G. J. Gray, Earlier Cambridge Stationers, pp. 55 ff.).

2 These three were all in business in Cambridge before their appointment as Printers.

3 Educated at Eton; Fellow of King's, 1574–81. His successor described him as a companion 'of the... printers of the true kind and best omen' who thought 'that it was men of learning, thoroughly imbued with academic studies, who should give themselves to cultivating and rightly applying that illustrious benefit sent down from Heaven and given to aid mankind and perpetuate the arts.' Thomas's printing office was in the Regent Walk, which was immediately opposite the West door of Great St Mary's Church, and it is in the Church that he lies buried.

4 Legate was the first who used (from 1603 onward) the impression of the Alma Mater Cantabrigiae with the motto Hinc lucem et pocula sacra round it. He hired a house in Regent Walk for his printing office and in 1609 was elected a Churchwarden of St Mary's parish.

5 Cantrell Legge, 'son of Edward Legge of Burcham in the County of Norfolk, Yeoman,' had been apprenticed to John Legate.

6 Thomas Buck had a way of quarrelling with his partners, and Leonard Greene, who claimed on his own behalf that he was 'acquainted with the matter of books and printing by reason of his trade therein for the space of thirty years almost,' complained that Mr Buck was 'unexperienced, having led a student's life.' Thomas Buck's printing house was first at 'the Angel,' on the Market Hill, east of the Rose Inn; and afterwards at 'the Augustine Friars' on the site of the Museums in Pembroke Street and Free School Lane. In 1629 he produced rather a fine Bible.

7 Thomas Buck's younger brother.

8 Roger Daniel was summoned before the House of Commons, 23 August 1642, for printing the King's answer to the Declaration of the Houses concerning the Commission of Array, and on 3 Sept. he was ordered not to print anything concerning the proceedings of Parliament, and discharged. In January 1643, however, the Commons took offence at the publication of The Resolving of Conscience, &c., a Royalist pamphlet by Henry Ferne, D.D., afterwards Bishop of Chester, and Daniel was taken into custody by the Serjeant-at-Arms, but when he produced the warrant of Dr Holdsworth, the Vice-Chancellor, for the printing of the book, the House ordered him to be bailed, and resolved 'that Dr Holdsworth forthwith be sent up in safe Custody at his own charges; and that Captain Cromwell be desired to take care to send him up accordingly.'

9 In 1655 Field built the new Printing Office in Silver Street, where St Catharine's Lodge now stands (see p. 221). In 1660 he held office as a Churchwarden of St Botolph's parish.

10 John Hayes paid the University £100, and later (in association with a partner), £150, for the privilege of printing. He was a Churchwarden of St Botolph's parish in 1669.

The Press Syndicate consists of the Vice-Chancellor and fourteen members of the Senate elected by Grace, each holding office for seven years, two retiring every year.

The publishing business of the Press is carried on, under the management of Charles Felix Clay, M.A., at the Cambridge University Press, Fetter Lane, London, E.C.

Members of the Senate may obtain information as to the days and hours of visiting the University Press at the Counting House of the Press. Generally speaking it is desirable that one or two days' notice should be given for fixing the time of the visit.

<sup>1</sup> Hugh Martin received a salary of £5, augmented for three years by an additional £5 in 1691.

<sup>4</sup> Cornelius Crownfield, described by Ames as 'a Dutchman who had been a soldier,' 'a very ingenious man,' had been engaged in the service of the Press for many years before his appointment as University Printer, and he appears to have acted as business adviser to the Curators since 1698, the date of their first appointment. He was also a bookseller on his own account.

<sup>5</sup> William Ged, 'an ingenious artist' who was a goldsmith in Edinburgh, invented about 1725 a practicable method of producing stereotype plates, and in 1729 he entered into partnership with William Fenner, a London stationer, John James, an architect at Greenwich, and Thomas James his brother, a London type-founder. In 1730 the partners applied to the University, through the Earl of Macclesfield, for a license to print Bibles and Prayer-books, and in 1731 a lease was granted to William Fenner for eleven years for the special purpose of printing from stereotype plates. The partners sank a large sum of money and Fenner died insolvent in 1734, but his widow continued printing under the lease in spite of the protests of John James, who claimed that the concession was really made to him, Fenner's name having been inserted in the lease only because he was a practical printer. The whole enterprise was, however, a failure, as only two Prayer-books were finished, and Mrs Fenner surrendered the lease in 1738.

<sup>6</sup> Joseph Bentham was the brother of James Bentham, the historian of Ely Cathedral. He was an Alderman of the town; he died in 1778, aged 68, and was buried in Trumpington Church.

<sup>7</sup> John Baskerville was the famous type-founder of Birmingham. He had a European reputation, and his folio Bible, published in 1763, is one of the finest English Bibles ever produced. As a type-founder Caslon was his only competitor of importance. He was elected University Printer for ten years from 16 December 1758, but four years later he was complaining bitterly of his arrangement with the University, describing himself as 'heartily tired' of the business of printing. 'It is surely a particular hardship,' he wrote, 'that I should not get bread in my own Country (and it is too late to go abroad) after having acquired the reputation of excelling in the most useful art known to mankind; while everyone who excels as a Printer, Fiddler, Dancer &c., not only lives in affluence, but has it in their power to save a fortune.' He died in 1775.

<sup>9</sup> From the appointment of John Burges in 1793 to the death of John Archdeacon in 1795, both names appear together as University Printers. Burges is buried in St Botolph's Church.

<sup>10</sup> Although John Deighton only held the office of Printer for eight months, he had already been connected with the Press as publisher, and had founded the firm now known as Messrs Deighton, Bell and Co. He died in 1828, aged 80.

<sup>11</sup> Andrew Wilson was appointed for the special purpose of re-introducing stereotyping, but he was to be joint agent with Watts for the sale of Bibles and Prayer-books. In 1807 the University acquired his stereotype secret, originally discovered by Earl Stanhope. He died in 1844, at an advanced age.

<sup>12</sup> There is a tablet to his memory in St Botolph's Church, and a portrait at the University Press.

<sup>13</sup> Parker's connexion with the Press dates from 1823, for he had already, acting on behalf of Mr Clowes, an eminent London printer, advised the Syndics with regard to certain economies by which the Press was established as a source of profit to the University. As Printer he received a salary of £400 a year, visiting Cambridge for two days once a fortnight. After much opposition he succeeded in introducing steam power. He died in 1879, aged 78.

THE REGISTRY

IN 1571-2 a room on the east side of the Schools Quadrangle was fitted up to serve the double purpose of a Registry and the Vice-Chancellor's Court or Consistory. In 1662, for the greater security of the University documents, the Registry was removed to a room equipped for the purpose situated between the Schools of Theology and Philosophy, and here it remained until 1831, when a Syndicate reported that the room was damp and dark, that the records were rapidly perishing, and that it would be well to remove them to a room in the Old Court of King's. The room selected was on the first floor of the south side, formerly the Combination Room. In 1836, when the Old Court was pulled down, the Registry was transferred to a room at the south end of the ground floor in the University Press, and in 1848 to its present position in the tower of the Pitt Press building.

THE FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM

RICHARD, Viscount FITZWILLIAM, of Trinity Hall (M.A. 1764), who died 5 February 1816, bequeathed to the University 144 pictures, as well as collections of illuminated MSS., books, engravings, etc., and the annual proceeds of £100,000 South Sea Annuities for the erection of a Museum for their reception.

The dividends having accumulated to a sum exceeding £40,000, the building was commenced on the 2nd of November, 1837, from the designs of George Basevi, and was carried on by him until his death in 1845<sup>1</sup>, when Charles Robert Cockerell, R.A., succeeded him. In 1847 it became evident that the available funds would not suffice for the decoration of the hall: work was therefore suspended, and the pictures, books and other objects which comprise the Fitzwilliam Collection, together with the Mesman Collection described below, and other donations, were removed into the unfinished building. The entrance hall was completed in 1875 at a cost of more than £20,000 from the designs of Edward Middleton Barry, R.A. The total cost of the building amounted to about £115,000.

Among the most valuable pictures in the original collection are three of the Venetian School, viz. Hermes, Aglauros, and Herse by Paul Veronese; Venus and Cupid by Palma Vecchio; and A Gentleman and his Mistress by Titian; and one by Rembrandt, engraved as the Portrait of an Officer. The collection of early prints is one of the richest in Europe. The bulk of this collection is contained in bound albums in the library of the Museum. The works of the early engravers of Germany and the Low Countries, including those of Dürer and Rembrandt, are separately mounted in solander cases.

Daniel Mesman bequeathed a collection of pictures to the University. His brother the Reverend Charles Mesman, to whom they were bequeathed for his life, having given up his life-interest in the bequest, the collection came in 1834 into the immediate possession of the University. The collection amounts in number to 248 paintings and 33 drawings and prints. The majority of the pictures are small examples of the Flemish and Dutch schools.

In 1850, John Disney, F.R.S., of the Hyde, near Ingatestone, Essex, presented a collection of ancient marbles, eighty-three in number. The collection of ancient marbles formed by Dr E. D. Clarke was transferred in 1865 from the University Library to the Sculpture Gallery of the Fitzwilliam Museum.

In 1861 John Ruskin presented to the Museum twenty-five water-colour drawings of great interest and beauty by J. M. W. Turner, R.A.; and in 1863 Mrs Elizabeth Ellison, of Sudbrooke Holme, Lincolnshire, presented thirty pictures by modern English painters. Seven pictures, by Adrian Vandervelde, Ruysdael, Paul Potter, Franck, Patel, and Nikkelen, were presented in 1864 by A. A. VanSittart, M.A., Fellow of Trinity College. In 1872, by an arrangement with the executors of the Reverend Richard Edward Kerrich, M.A., of Christ's College, the Museum acquired a portion of certain collections which he had bequeathed to it; viz. seven paintings, two hundred volumes of books, and many valuable portfolios of ancient prints. A small collection of oil paintings, including three important works by Hogarth, was bequeathed by James William Arnold, D.D., of Clare and St John's Colleges, in 1859, and placed in the Museum in 1873. In 1876, a further gift of seventeen pictures was made by A. A. VanSittart, M.A., including fine examples of Hobbema, Ruysdael, and Wynants. In 1878 the Museum acquired, by the bequest of the Reverend Charles Leasingham Smith, M.A., of Christ's College, eleven pictures of various schools, including works of Salvator Rosa, Peter Molyn, Marieschi, and a miniature portrait by Samuel Cooper.

Fifteen paintings on panel by early Italian masters were purchased from the late Charles Butler in 1893. These include a fine altar retable by Cosimo Rosselli, and other interesting examples of the schools of Siena and Florence during the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries.

In addition to the permanent collection, there are numerous pictures and other works of art on loan from time to time. Drawings by Old Masters are lent each term by His Majesty the King from Windsor Castle and by the Duke of Devonshire from Chatsworth.

The University purchased in 1864 a collection of coins from the executors of the late Lieutenant-Colonel William Martin Leake. In 1886 the Committee of the Antiquarian Society recommended that the Director of the Fitzwilliam Museum should receive under his charge the collection of coins belonging to the Society and consisting of, 1st, an old collection of English, Roman and foreign coins; 2nd, Dr Bacon's collection, mostly English and foreign; 3rd, 17th century tokens. This offer was accepted by Grace of the Senate, March 25, 1886. In 1899 a collection of coins, ancient, medieval, and modern, numbering about 12,000, was presented by the Reverend William George Searle, M.A., formerly Fellow of Queens' College, who afterwards largely increased his benefactions. In 1906 J. R. McClean, M.A., of Trinity College, the eldest son of another great benefactor, presented a most valuable collection of over 5000 Greek coins. Mr McClean died in 1913, having in the interval added almost as many more Greek coins to his original gift. In 1876 a considerable purchase of rare prints, towards the completion of the collection of German and Flemish masters, was made at the Liphart sale; also a collection of ancient Phœnician, Greek, and Roman glass from tombs in the island of Cyprus was purchased from General L. P. di Cesnola. A number of other objects from Cypriote tombs have been added to the collection. In the same year nineteen albums of ancient engravings, four of them containing exclusively the etchings of Rembrandt and his scholars, were transferred to the Fitzwilliam Museum from the University Library; and the most important portions of their contents have been incorporated with the collections of Lord Fitzwilliam and Mr Kerrich. In 1890 and 1891 a considerable number of early printed books illustrated with woodcuts were purchased for the Library. In 1910 the collection of modern engravings was enriched by John Charrington, M.A., of Trinity College, who presented a collection of over 300 proofs and early impressions of David Lucas's mezzotints after John Constable, R.A. The Museum is indebted to Mr Charrington for many subsequent gifts.

Between 1880 and 1902 the late Richard Pendlebury, M.A., Fellow of St John's College, presented a collection of printed music, both vocal and instrumental, together with a number of works of reference in the same subject. The Pendlebury Collection, as it is called, amounts to about two thousand bound volumes. Members of the University and others have the privilege of borrowing volumes from it under special regulations.

In 1902 Francis Barrett-Lennard presented a valuable collection of transcripts of the works of G. F. Handel, chiefly in the writing of the composer's amanuensis, J. C. Smith. The collection (known as the Barrett-Lennard Collection) is preserved in a book-case believed to have been the property of Handel.

In 1904 Frank McClean, M.A., F.R.S., of Trinity College, bequeathed 200 manuscripts of great interest, upwards of 200 early printed books, and a valuable collection of objects of art, including ivories, enamels, gems, and some fine Egyptian antiquities. Most of these belonged to classes previously unrepresented in the collections. The manuscripts range in date from the ninth to the sixteenth century; among them are many finely illustrated Horae and some excellent specimens of Greek calligraphy.

In 1912 the Museum received the greatest benefaction that has come to it since its original foundation. Charles Brinsley Marlay, M.A., of Trinity College, who died on June 18 of that year, bequeathed to it a very large and valuable collection of pictures and miscellaneous works of art, together with the sum of £80,000 for the enlargement of the existing building and the cost of the necessary increase of the staff. This collection, to be called the Marlay Collection, cannot be placed on exhibition in its entirety until the new galleries, plans for which are being prepared by Messrs Smith and Brewer, are erected.

In 1913 a valuable collection of 103 watches, dating from the 16th to the 19th century, was bequeathed by the late Francis Gray Smart, M.A., M.B., of Gonville and Caius College.

The picture-galleries are on the upper floor, on which are also Dr Glaisher's loan-collection of English and European pottery and faience, and some cases of Oriental pottery and porcelain. The Central Gallery on the ground floor contains the collection of Greek vases and glass and Cypriote antiquities, Greek and Roman marbles, bronzes and inscriptions, and the two North Galleries the Egyptian antiquities. Among these are an important series of models of boats and domestic scenes, with other antiquities of the Eleventh and Twelfth Dynasties from tombs at Beni Hasan acquired in 1903. In the South Gallery, which has been partitioned off from the rest, is the room containing the coins and medieval manuscripts.

The following catalogues of the collections in the Museum are now published: A Short Catalogue of the Pictures, edited by E. O. Vulliamy, M.A.; The Principal Pictures in the Fitzwilliam Museum, with 224 illustrations; Illustrated Catalogue of the Pictures, by F. R. Earp, M.A.; Catalogue of the Engraved Gems, by J. Henry Middleton; Catalogue of the Engraved Works of Albert Dürer, by C. H. Middleton-Wake, M.A.; Catalogue of the Fitzwilliam Collection of Music, by J. A. Fuller-Maitland, M.A., and A. H. Mann, Mus.D.; Catalogue of the Egyptian Antiquities, by E. A. Wallis-Budge, Litt.D.; Catalogue of the Manuscripts, by M. R. James, Litt.D.; Catalogue of the Greek Vases, by Ernest A. Gardner, M.A.; Catalogues of the McClean Bequest (1) Manuscripts by M. R. James, Litt.D., (2) Miscellaneous Objects by O. M. Dalton, M.A.

The care and arrangement of the Museum are entrusted to a Director, and its general management to a Syndicate consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, and eight other members of the Senate, two of whom in rotation retire every year, their places being supplied by two other members elected by the Senate. They meet in the Museum at least twice in every term, four members (the Vice-Chancellor or his deputy being one) constituting a quorum; but in cases of emergency a smaller number may act, provided they are unanimous.

The appointment of the Director is by a Board of Electors.

In 1913 the superintendence of the Marlay Collection was added to the duties of the Director of the Museum, who is now styled 'Director of the Fitzwilliam Museum and Marlay Curator.'

THE MUSEUM OF CLASSICAL ARCHAEOLOGY

THIS Museum, in Little St Mary's Lane, which until 1911 was regarded as part of the Fitzwilliam Museum, consists of four Galleries of Casts (A, B, C, D), a Library with a room for the Curator, and a Lecture-Room, together with large accommodation in the basement. A house has been secured as a residence for the Assistant.

The four Galleries of Casts are arranged in a chronological series, each Gallery representing, as far as practicable, a marked period in the history of Art, as follows:

- A. The Archaic period (down to the early part of the 5th century B.C.).
- B. The age of Pericles (Paionios, Alkamenes, Pheidias, Polykleitos, 5th century B.C.).
- C. The age of Philip and Alexander (Skopas, Praxiteles, Lysippos, 4th century B.C.).
- D. The Hellenistic schools of Pergamon and Rhodes, and the Graeco-Roman period, together with portrait-statues and busts.

Of these casts a certain number were already in the Fitzwilliam Museum, and have been transferred to this building; but the great mass of them have been purchased out of the Fitzwilliam income.

The Library consists, in the first place, of the chief part of Colonel Leake's books, which have been transferred from the Fitzwilliam Museum, forming a good working basis for further additions. A subscription raised by Professor Colvin in 1883-4 for this particular object was laid out by him in the purchase of upwards of 850 volumes, and a large number of works on Archaeology have been added since.

The Lecture-Room is not only used for University Lectures, but is available, by permission of the Syndics, for other archaeological lectures. It is also used for the meetings of the Cambridge Antiquarian Society.

The administration of the Museum of Classical Archaeology was separated from that of the Fitzwilliam Museum by Grace of 25 May 1911. It is now entrusted to a Curator under the direction of a Committee of six members of the Senate, of whom three are nominated to the Senate for election by the Special Board for Classics and three by the Fitzwilliam Museum Syndicate. The Reader in Classical Archaeology is ex-officio Curator of the Museum.

The rules for admission to the Museum will be found in the University Calendar and in the Student's Handbook.

THE MUSEUM OF ETHNOLOGY

THIS Museum, which formerly occupied the Eastern and Southern portions of the building in Little St Mary's Lane, consisted of four Galleries (E, F, G, H) and a room for the Curator, together with a portion of the basement; but in 1913 the Museum was removed to a new building in Downing Street, and by a Grace of 7 March 1913 it was styled 'The Museum of Archaeology and of Ethnology.'

The nucleus of this Museum is the 'Cambridge Antiquarian Museum and Library,' comprising the collections formed by the Cambridge Antiquarian Society since its foundation in 1840. During this period a large number of specimens of local antiquities were brought together, including more than one collection of intrinsic value and importance, relating to the district of which Cambridge may be looked upon as the centre. The Society never possessed any local habitation of its own, and its collections were long housed in one or other of the University buildings; but when the proposal for a University Museum of Archaeology took definite form, the Society offered to present the whole of its collections and library to the University, if only they could be adequately housed and cared for. This arrangement was carried into effect when the building in Little St Mary's Lane was completed. Two important ethnological collections formed in Fiji, the one by the Hon. Sir Arthur H. Gordon, G.C.M.G., M.A., of Trinity College, the other by A. P. Maudslay, M.A., of Trinity Hall, were presented by them to the University in 1884, and the entire series of South Sea Island native manufactures collected by Baron A. von Hügel was then placed on deposit in the Museum.

The most important collections since added, are: Archaeological—Roman objects in bronze, glass, earthenware, and stone from France and Italy, by J. Barratt, M.D.; Roman earthenware vessels from Great Chesterford, Essex, by Prof. Hughes and F. J. H. Jenkinson, M.A.; Saxon cinerary urns, personal ornaments, etc., from a burial ground near St John's College, by Museum excavation; local and foreign antiquities, bequeathed by Walter K. Foster; stone implements and other objects of predynastic date from Egypt, by the Egypt Exploration Fund; Benin bronzes, by Mr W. D. Webster; and the Murray Collection of Irish antiquities (chiefly prehistoric) by purchase through private subscriptions. Ethnological—Solomon Islands, by Professor Bevan; New Hebrides, by Bishop Selwyn; Islands of Torres Straits and British New Guinea, by A. C. Haddon, Sc.D.; New Guinea, etc. by Brady Bequest; Polynesian Islands, by George Brady, M.D.; Andaman Islands, by Colonel Sir R. C. Temple, Bart.; Nicobar Islands, by E. H. Man; Ellice Islands, and the Maldives and Laccadives, by J. S. Gardiner, M.A.; New Zealand, by Lord Peckover and C. J. P. Cave, M.A.; British New Guinea by Sir W. Macgregor, Borneo, by C. Hose, Sc.D., and R. Shelford, M.A.; Selangor, Malacca (Malay and Sakai), by W. W. Skeat, M.A.; Lower Siam, by purchase (private subscription); British Guiana, by Sir J. A. Swettenham and Major W. Cooke Daniels; Eastern Pacific, by Professor Bevan. The Starr Collection of Mexican Folk-Lore, and the Owen Collection of dresses and ornaments of the Musquallia Indians have been received on permanent deposit from the Folk-Lore Society; and the Captain Cook Collection in the possession of Trinity College has also been transferred to the Museum.

The management of this Museum is entrusted by Grace to the Antiquarian Committee. This body consists of the Vice-Chancellor, the Director of the Fitzwilliam Museum, the Disney Professor of Archaeology, the University Reader in Ethnology, two members of the Fitzwilliam Museum Syndicate appointed by the Syndicate, the President of the Cambridge Antiquarian Society, and two members of the Council of the Cambridge Antiquarian Society appointed by the Council of that body, every member of the Committee keeping his place on the Committee so long only as he holds the qualification in virtue of which he has been appointed, and of three other persons to be elected by Grace of the Senate. They are bound to meet at least once a term and to present an annual Report to the Senate before the end of each academical year; they may also report to the Senate at any other time when they deem it desirable.

The Curator, to whom the care of the Museum is entrusted, is appointed by the Antiquarian Committee, with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, and acts as Secretary to the Committee. The office was established in 1883.

THE LABORATORIES AND MUSEUMS OF SCIENCE<sup>1</sup>

THE earliest Lecture Room on the present site of the Museums of Science was that used by the Professor of Botany on the ground-floor of a house, usually known as 'The Great House,' which formerly stood in the Old Botanic Garden which had been given to the University by Dr Richard Walker in 1762 (see p. 214). In 1783 the building had become ruinous and its site was sold in the following year; it therefore became necessary to provide some other place for the lectures of the Professor of Botany, and also for those of the Jacksonian Professor, who had been appointed in 1783. This led to the erection, in 1786, of a large Lecture Room, 40 feet long by 28 feet broad, with a private room for the Professor of Botany at one end and for the Jacksonian Professor at the other.

The Professors of Anatomy and Chemistry had already been provided for by the assignment to them in 1716 of a house near the old University Press (see p. 221), but the accommodation thus provided was so inconvenient that the Professor of Chemistry took the earliest opportunity of migrating to the new Lecture Room, while the pressure on the available space compelled the Professor of Anatomy to share his room with the Professors of Physic and Modern History. No provision whatever was made for Mineralogy when the Professorship was founded in 1808, and Geology occupied a 'small, damp, and ill-lighted' room, 'at the north end of the Philosophy School,' now the 'Novel Room' of the University Library. In 1832 it was decided to enlarge the buildings in the Old Botanic Garden in order to provide for the Professors of Anatomy and Physic, as well as for the Professors of Botany and Chemistry and for the Jacksonian Professor. The completion of Cockerell's Building (see p. 211) in 1842, made for the time ample provision for Mineralogy and for the Woodwardian Museum of Geology.

The first comprehensive scheme for Museums and Lecture Rooms dates from the year 1863, when an important group of the present buildings was begun from the designs of Anthony Salvin, an architect well known as an authority on medieval military architecture, who had carried out works of restoration at the Tower of London and Windsor Castle. Under his direction accommodation was provided for all the Professors of the Natural Sciences, except Anatomy, Chemistry, and Geology. The work was completed by June 1865, the style and plan selected being fortunately such as readily to admit of extension and addition, and while it was proceeding, the old Schools on the south-east side of the site were altered so as to adapt them to the requirements of the Professors of Anatomy and Chemistry.

In 1870 the Duke of Devonshire, the Chancellor of the University, offered to defray the cost of a Laboratory for Experimental Physics in connexion with the Professorship then about to be established. A site for this was found in Free School Lane, adjoining the Old Botanic Garden, and the building, from the designs of W. M. Fawcett, M.A., of Jesus College, was completed in 1873. In order to commemorate the munificence of the Chancellor, it was agreed to call it 'The Cavendish Laboratory.' A southern wing, the cost of which (£4000) was largely paid for out of fees, was put up in 1895; and a further addition was erected in 1907 on the Mortlock site (see p. 233) at a cost of about £8000, the greater part of this sum being provided by the Nobel Prize awarded to Lord Rayleigh, who handed it over to the Department for this purpose.

After 1870 the next addition to the Museums was the building which extends from the Lecture Room of Zoology and Comparative Anatomy to Corn Exchange Street, erected in 1876-9 from the design of Mr Fawcett. It provided private rooms and work-rooms for Comparative Anatomy and Physiology. In 1880 two large rooms called "Museums of Philosophical Apparatus" were thrown into one, so as to provide suitable space for the Library of the Philosophical Society. In 1882 a Laboratory for Animal Morphology was constructed above the upper floor on the south side of Mr Salvin's quadrangle; and in 1884 a second Laboratory for the same science on the western side. In 1890 a range of buildings was erected from Mr Fawcett's designs on the ground next Corn Exchange Street, to provide additional Class Rooms for Physiology, a new building for Human Anatomy, and a large Lecture Room common to the two departments.

Space for further extensions had been provided by the purchase in 1884 of the site of the Perse Almshouses, at the south-west corner of the Museums grounds, for £2675, and in 1888 of the site of the Perse School for Boys (which had been removed to new buildings in Hills Road), at a cost of £12,500. In 1896 the garden ground and adjoining premises at the back of Messrs Mortlock's Bank was also bought by the University for £12,000 and in 1901 an adjoining house was acquired for £500. In 1885-9 the new Chemical Laboratory in Pembroke Street was built on the site of the Perse Almshouses from the design of Mr J. J. Stevenson upon a plan proposed by Professor Liveing, and in 1908 an eastern wing was added from the design of Messrs Stevenson and Redfern.

The Laboratory for Engineering and the Mechanical Sciences designed by W. C. Marshall, M.A., Trinity, erected between the Chemical and the Cavendish Laboratories on the site of the old Perse School House, which was incorporated in the new building, was opened in 1894. An extension of the Laboratory, built as a Memorial to the late John Hopkinson, M.A., F.R.S., formerly Fellow of Trinity College, and to his son, John Gustave Hopkinson, with funds given by Mrs Hopkinson and her son and daughter, was opened in 1900. In 1903 the Engineering Laboratory was further enlarged by the addition of the Perse School Headmaster's House, which had been for a time used as part of the Botany School. In 1912 this house was pulled down and replaced by a building specially designed for the work of the Department, planned by Mr Marshall.

In 1895 Downing College was empowered by Act of Parliament to sell their surplus ground, and three portions of this were purchased by the University. In 1896 two acres fronting Downing Street were bought for £15,000; in 1897 an additional strip of land 40 feet wide along the southern boundary of the land already purchased was acquired at the rate of £5000 an acre; and in 1902 arrangements were made for taking over  $6\frac{1}{4}$  acres more on the basis of an annual rent-charge of £120 an acre, redeemable at any time by the University. On the land thus acquired new University buildings have been erected from time to time, and these include further extensions of the Scientific Departments.

The Geological Collections were removed from the Woodwardian Museum to the Sedgwick Museum, designed by Mr, now Sir Thomas, Jackson, R.A. and erected on the Downing site in 1903 as a Memorial to Professor Adam Sedgwick (see p. 243). The total cost of this building was nearly £50,000, rather more than half being subscribed by the Sedgwick Memorial Trustees. The new Botany School, designed by Mr Marshall and erected on the same site, was also completed in 1903, and this set free space which was utilised by the Engineering Department, now greatly increased by the addition of many rooms formerly used for Botany and also by the erection of a new Drawing Office. The new Medical School in Downing Street, erected from the designs of E. S. Prior, M.A., of Gonville and Caius College, now Slade Professor of Fine Art, at a cost of some £34,000, was completed in 1904. The Sedgwick Museum, the Botany School, and the Medical School were formally opened by King Edward VII on March 1, 1904.

The School of Agriculture, situated on the Downing College site, was built during 1909 from the designs of Mr Arnold Mitchell and was formally opened by the Duke of Devonshire in April 1910. The cost of the building was defrayed by a sum of £20,000 collected by a Committee of the Cambridge University Association under the presidency of the late Duke of Devonshire, Chancellor of the University, and by the present Duke. This sum provided the building and equipment, and left a considerable residue to be invested for maintenance. The Drapers Company of the City of London, who also endow the Agricultural Professorships, were the largest subscribers.

The Drapers Company has also presented to the University a building for the accommodation of the Department of Physiology. This building, erected on the Downing site, in accordance with plans prepared by Sir T. G. Jackson, at a cost of about £22,000, was opened by Prince Arthur of Connaught on June 9, 1914.

Adjacent to the Drapers Building for Physiology is a new building, also from the plans of Sir T. G. Jackson, for the department of Experimental Psychology. The greater part of the funds for the erection of this building (between £3000 and £4000) was presented to the University by the family of Charles Samuel Myers, M.D., Sc.D., of Gonville and Caius College. It was opened in 1913. The University has recently extended the School of Agriculture by the addition of a building of about the same size as the original School, paid for by funds provided by the Development Commissioners, who are also providing funds for the research to be carried on there and for the upkeep. The architect is Mr Arnold Mitchell. The building was completed by the end of 1913. A new building has been erected on the Downing site for the Department of Forestry, from plans prepared by Mr Marshall. This was opened in 1914.

In the last 30 or 40 years nearly £400,000 has been expended in the provision of Laboratories, Lecture Rooms, and Museums; and a very large proportion of this sum has been provided by the munificence of benefactors to the University. Without these splendid gifts, which to a considerable extent are due to the exertions of the University Association, the University would not have been able to provide the accommodation necessary for the rapid expansion of her scientific departments. The University Association was founded at a meeting at Devonshire House on January 31, 1899. The first President was the late Duke of Devonshire, and the President now is Lord Rayleigh. The Honorary Treasurer has from the first been E. H. Parker, M.A., of King's College. The Secretaries have been H. J. Edwards, C.B., M.A., Peterhouse, from 1899 to 1906, and H. A. Roberts, M.A., of Gonville and Caius College, from 1904 to the present date (1915).

I. THE DEPARTMENT OF ZOOLOGY

The Zoological Laboratory consists of the top floor and the greater part of the floor beneath of the long range of buildings between Engineering and Human Anatomy. It is divided into the Balfour, Sedgwick, and advanced class rooms, research rooms, and the Balfour and Newton Libraries. It contains a valuable collection of portraits of zoologists and the microscopical collections of F. M. Balfour, Adam Sedgwick, F. G. Sinclair, W. Heape, and others. The Balfour Library owes its origin to the gift of Professor Balfour's collection of scientific papers and books; and in 1912 the Rev. A. M. Norman presented his library of over 1000 volumes, which contains a unique series of separate zoological papers.

The collections belonging to this Department are partly in the building on the east side of Mr Salvin's court, partly in the room called the Bird Room over the adjoining lecture-room.

The collection of skeletons of Vertebrates, which include a few stuffed specimens, was commenced by Sir Busick Harwood, Professor of Anatomy 1785-1814; but it owes its present development to the exertions of the Reverend William Clark, M.D., Professor of Anatomy 1817-1866. During his tenure of office no opportunity was lost of acquiring specimens. Of these some were purchased by the University or by subscription, others were presented by himself. Since the removal of the collection into the existing Museum in 1865 it has been largely increased by the exertions of the late Professor Newton, of J. W. Clark, M.A., Trinity, Superintendent 1866-91, and especially of S. F. Harmer, Sc.D., of King's, Superintendent 1892-1909; and it has become one of the most complete in this country for educational purposes.

The collection of organs in spirit originated in a small number of choice preparations presented to the University by Mr Lawrence. Subsequently, the museum of Sir Busick Harwood was purchased in 1815, after his death, for £367. 10s.; a considerable number of specimens were acquired at the sale of Mr Brookes's museum in 1830; and in 1836, the valuable collection of Dr Macartney, Professor of Anatomy in Trinity College, Dublin, was purchased by the University. It was later increased by the collection of Professor Schröder van der Kolk of Utrecht, presented by the late Professor Sir George Humphry. The series is under constant revision, and additions are made to it every year as opportunities occur.

With the continued increase of all parts of the collection, the Museum has become inadequate for the proper display and storage of the specimens; and new buildings are urgently required. As at present arranged, the Mammals occupy the ground-floor of the Museum; the Fishes, Amphibia, and Reptiles are in the galleries; and the Invertebrata in the annexe on the east side, formerly used by the Professor of Physiology as a class-room.

The fishes in spirit, among which are the very interesting collections formed by Charles Darwin, M.A., of Christ's College, during the voyage round the world of H.M.S. 'Beagle,' and by the Reverend R. T. Lowe, M.A., of Christ's College, in Madeira, have been placed in presses in the Gallery constructed in 1877 round the room in which the ornithological collections are placed for the present.

The Bird Room contains the collection of British Birds presented by the Cambridge Philosophical Society to the University in 1865; the Swainson Collection of birds purchased by subscription in 1840; the collection presented by F. B. Goodacre, M.D., of St John's, in 1863; the Strickland Collection presented by the widow of the late H. E. Strickland, M.A., in 1867; the Selby Collection deposited in 1869 by the trustees of the late Mr P. J. Selby; and the Hepburn Collection, presented in 1870 by the devisees of the late James Hepburn, of St John's College, long resident in San Francisco.

On the 18th June 1907 the Senate accepted a bequest made by the late Alfred Newton, M.A., Professor of Zoology and Comparative Anatomy from 1866 to 1907, of the whole of his Natural History collections and library, together with a sum of £1000 upon trust to provide for the maintenance of the said library. The Newton Collection, a large part of which had been presented during the life-time of the donor, includes unique series of the dodo, solitaire, and other extinct birds, and of the eggs of palaeartic birds, and is particularly rich in specimens illustrating the Avifauna of Jamaica and the Mascarene Islands. The library is one of the best and most comprehensive selections of works dealing with the study of birds, and contains many extremely valuable editions of ancient and modern travels.

On the 26th February 1874 the Senate accepted the offer of Miss Frances Strickland, of Apperley Court, to found a Curatorship endowed with a permanent stipend of £150 per annum. The chief duties of the Strickland Curator are the proper custody and accurate cataloguing of the Strickland and other ornithological collections belonging to the University. He is appointed by the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor.

1874 Osbert Salvin, M.A., Trinity Hall.

1883 Hans Friedrich Gadow, Ph.D., M.A. 1884, post King's.

A collection of Invertebrata has been gradually formed. It consisted, in the first instance, of a series, partly in spirit, partly dry, hastily put together for the instruction of students. The cabinet of shells formed by the late S. P. Woodward, author of the Manual of the Mollusca, was added in 1867. Since then the collection has been increased by several important acquisitions: (1) an extensive collection of Shells, with a valuable conchological library, bequeathed by Robert MacAndrew, F.R.S., in 1873, catalogued and the nomenclature revised by the Rev. A. H. Cooke, M.A., of King's College, for whom the office of Honorary Curator of the MacAndrew Collection was created in 1890; (2) a valuable collection of Shells, bequeathed by Miss Jane Saul in 1895; (3) a series of Invertebrata in spirit, formed by Dr Dohrn of Naples, and purchased in 1883; (4) the collection of Foraminifera formed by H. B. Brady, F.R.S., and presented by him in 1883 and following years; (5) the valuable series of marine Polyzoa, presented by Miss E. C. Jelly in 1895 and subsequent years, forming the beginning of a collection of Polyzoa which has been largely added to from other sources, especially by Dr S. F. Harmer, since the date of its commencement.

The Museum also possesses very large collections of Marine Invertebrata, brought back by various scientific expeditions organised from Cambridge, among which those presented by Professor J. Stanley Gardiner deserve special mention.

The collection of British Insects is extremely good. It has been formed by the union of the old collections belonging to the Philosophical Society, the Selby Collection, the Brown Collection—(made by the late Messrs J. and T. Brown of King's Parade)—and the collection of Coleoptera and Diptera made by the late G. R. Crotch, M.A., of St John's College, who bequeathed a sum of money to form a fund for the purchase of books or specimens. Numerous additions have recently been made to the British collection, among which should be mentioned especially the Blackburne-Maze collection of British Lepidoptera, made by the late Mr W. P. Blackburne-Maze, and presented in 1910 by his son, Mr C. J. Blackburne-Maze. The Museum also possesses Mr Crotch's collections of Coccinellidae and Erotilidae. The entomological department was largely developed by the exertions of Dr David Sharp, Curator in Zoology 1890–1909.

Recently, during the Superintendentship of Mr Punnett, half the ground-floor of the annexe has been devoted to the exhibition of series illustrating evolution and heredity. A large cabinet has been obtained through the generosity of T. H. Riches, M.A., of Gonville and Caius College, and specimens have been presented by Professor Bateson, Professor Punnett, and others, illustrating these subjects. It is proposed to call this department the "Darwin Gallery," and it is hoped before long to extend it.

A Catalogue of the Museum has been prepared, but remains for the present in manuscript.

The Museum is managed by a Superintendent appointed by the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor.

1866 John Willis Clark, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. Registry. 1891.

1892 Sidney Frederic Harmer, M.A., Fellow of King's. Sc.D. 1898.

1909 Reginald Crundall Punnett, M.A., Fellow of Caius. Professor of Biology, 1910. Arthur Balfour Professor of Genetics, 1912.

1910 Leonard Doncaster, M.A., Fellow of King's. Sc.D. 1913.

The office of Assistant to the Superintendent was established in 1891 without stipend from the University, and was revived in 1902 with a stipend of £50 a year. The Assistant is appointed by the Superintendent with the approval of the Vice-Chancellor.

1891 (only) Joseph Jackson Lister, M.A., St John's. Fellow of St John's, 1899.

1902 Leonard Doncaster, B.A., King's. M.A. 1903. Fellow of King's, 1910. Superintendent of the Museum, 1910. Sc.D. 1913.

1904 Stewart Andrew McDowall, B.A., Trinity. M.A. 1908.

1906 Frank Armitage Potts, B.A., Trinity Hall. Fellow of Trinity Hall, 1908. M.A. 1908.

1908 Charles Leopold Boulenger, B.A., King's. M.A. 1910.

1910[-11] Wilfred Backhouse Alexander, B.A., King's.

A Curator in Zoology, appointed in 1877, has been called since 1909 the Curator in Entomology. His duties are assigned to him by the Superintendent. The appointment is made by the Special Board for Biology and Geology, with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor.

1877 John Follett Bullar, B.A., Trinity. M.B., M.A. 1883.

1878 Francis John Henry Jenkinson, B.A., Fellow of Trinity. M.A. 1879. Librarian, 1889.

1879 Alfred Cort Haddon, B.A., Christ's. M.A. 1882. Sc.D. 1897. Fellow of Christ's, 1901. Reader in Ethnology, 1909.

1880 Alfred Hands Cooke, B.A., Fellow of King's. M.A. 1881. Sc.D. 1914.

1909 Hugh Scott, B.A., Trinity. M.A. 1910.

II. THE MINERALOGICAL MUSEUM

The formation of the Collection commenced with the minerals collected by Dr Edward Daniel Clarke, the first Professor of Mineralogy, which were purchased by the University after his death in 1822 for the sum of £1500. A collection of minerals suited for the purposes of instruction was presented by Dr Whewell in 1832, soon after his resignation of the Professorship. Many fine specimens of common and rare minerals have at different times been given by the late Marquis of Northampton, the Rev. G. Francis, Mr G. W. Hallam, Mr Hibbert, Mrs Calverley, Mrs Peacock, Miss Whitehurst, Mr W. Hopkins, Mr J. W. Clark, and others. In 1858 H. W. Elphinstone, M.A., of Trinity College, presented the collection of the late Henry Warburton, M.A., of Trinity, which includes the minerals formerly in the possession of Dr W. H. Wollaston. In 1860 the collection of Dr James Forbes Young was presented by his brothers, Sir Charles George Young and Mr H. Young. In 1866 a collection containing many choice minerals was presented by Lord Lilford. A valuable series of specimens of gold, collected by the late Mr J. Hepburn, was presented to the Museum in 1870.

In 1841 Viscount Alford gave the University the rich collection of minerals formed by Sir Abraham Hume, Bart. This collection includes one of diamonds, of which a catalogue was published by the Count de Bournon.

In 1857 Charles Brooke, M.A., of St John's College, presented the collection of minerals, in many respects unrivalled, made by his father Henry James Brooke, F.R.S., on condition that it be maintained entire as the Brooke Collection.

In 1897 the Reverend Thomas Wiltshire, M.A., Hon. Sc.D., of Trinity College, presented his fine collection. It contains many remarkably good specimens found during the preceding forty years in Swiss, American, and English localities.

In 1899 the Carne Collection, consisting mainly of Cornish minerals, together with the cabinets in which it was contained, was bought for the University, a sum of over £500 being raised by subscription to defray the cost.

The Mineralogical Collection is contained in two rooms on the first floor of the west wing of the building in which the Museum is situated. The entrance is at the north-west corner of the Court. The minerals are arranged in several glass covered table-cases, which resemble those in use in the École des Mines of Paris, space for duplicates and for the specimens required for the illustration of lectures being supplied by tiers of drawers placed underneath. The collection is arranged mainly according to the classification adopted in E. S. Dana's system of Mineralogy.

The lecture and demonstration rooms and the chemical laboratory are at the north end of the wing and on the ground floor below this end; they are entered by the passage used for a thoroughfare. The west windows of some of these rooms and of some of those in the gallery are provided with platforms for supporting the heliostat or other instrument used to give the bright signal needed in the determination of the geometrical characters of minerals.

The Demonstrator in Mineralogy (see p. 140) is ex officio Assistant Curator of the Museum.

III. THE CAVENDISH LABORATORY

In this Laboratory, which is provided with a library, dark rooms, and numerous rooms for conducting experiments, every facility is furnished for the prosecution of physical research.

The ground-floor contains a set of rooms for operations requiring great steadiness, such as exact measurements. A store-room, a workshop, and a battery-room are also provided on the ground-floor.

The first floor contains a spacious lecture-room with a preparation-room, a large apparatus-room, a private room for the Professor, and a large working laboratory, fitted with tables standing on beams of their own, so as to be independent of the vibrations of the floor. All the tables in the building are supported in the same way, and there are in every floor small trap-doors by means of which bodies may be suspended over the tables in the room beneath and through which electric and other communications may be made.

The office of Assistant Director of the Cavendish Laboratory, established in 1891, came to an end at Mr Shaw's resignation in 1899.

1891 Richard Tetley Glazebrook, M.A., Fellow of Trinity. C.B. 1910.

1898-9 [Sir] William Napier Shaw, M.A., Fellow of Emmanuel. Sc.D. 1902.
Knighthood, 1915.

IV. THE PHILOSOPHICAL LIBRARY

The use of the Library of the Cambridge Philosophical Society was offered to the University in 1881; and the conditions suggested by the Society having been accepted by the Senate (2 June 1881), the books were transferred to the large room on the ground-floor of the central building, with the view of commencing a general scientific library. In 1881 the library contained 5000 volumes, but since then the number of books and periodicals has been increased to 20,000 by donations, exchanges, and purchases. Most of these are journals, obtained by exchange with some 300 other societies. The Library thus formed is found to be of great service to the Professors and others who work in the Museums. The rules governing its use will be found in the University Calendar.

The room contains a portrait of Charles Darwin by Sir W. B. Richmond, a bust of Sir John Ray, busts of Cayley and Stokes by a local artist, a portrait of Professor Newton, and a replica of the bust of Darwin now in the South Kensington Museum.

V. THE OPTICAL LECTURE-ROOM

This room is at the south-west corner of the upper floor of the Museums adjacent to the rooms occupied by the Lucasian, Lowndean, and Plumian Professors. It was arranged as a lecture theatre, the fittings having been designed, perhaps in part by Sir G. B. Airy, but mainly by Sir G. G. Stokes, so as to be adapted to optical demonstrations with the aid of sunlight reflected from outside by heliostats. The lectures of the Lucasian Professor were formerly delivered in this room; and it was also the stated place of meeting of the Cambridge Philosophical Society.

The arrangements for the practice of students in astronomical observation, which was formerly connected with this lecture-room, have been transferred to the Observatory; and since the opening of new University Lecture Rooms in Bene't Street in 1911, the room has no longer been used for its original purpose, and is now assigned to the Balfour Library (see p. 235).

VI. THE CHEMICAL LABORATORY

The principal entrance to the Chemical Laboratory is from Pembroke Street, but access can also be obtained from the Museums Court and Free School Lane: a bronze bust of Professor Liveing adorns the entrance hall. The ground-floor contains the laboratories for elementary work, comprising the main laboratory provided with accommodation for 130 students, an auxiliary laboratory to accommodate 80 students, and a room between them which is used for large operations; communicating with these are two balance rooms and two rooms for the conduct of operations with noxious gases, etc. Separated from this set of rooms by the entrance hall are three lecture rooms connected directly with a series of preparation and specimen rooms. The large lecture room seats 240, and is accessible by separate entrances from the street and from the rear: the two smaller, each seating 60, are approached from the entrance hall. The mezzanine floor at the west end of the building contains laboratories for special purposes, and the mezzanine on the main staircase gives access to the private room of the Professor of Chemistry and a room for organic analysis; on the mezzanine floors at the east end are four smaller laboratories for the use of the Lecturers in Chemistry. On the first floor are found a large advanced laboratory, which accommodates about 65 students, and an auxiliary laboratory with benches for 30 workers; these are connected through a large room which is used for special operations. To the west of these rooms are a balance room, the lecture- and private rooms of the Jacksonian Professor, and another laboratory devoted to organic Chemistry. At the east end, communicating directly with the advanced laboratory, are the private laboratories of the Professor of Chemistry and a large physico-chemical laboratory. Higher up are the library and several rooms for special investigations; the attic floor contains rooms for the housekeeper and the assistants, and for a spectroscope with a concave grating. One part of the roof has been arranged as a large flat area upon which work can be carried out in the open air.

The basement contains laboratories for demonstration purposes and two rooms fitted entirely with fire-proof materials in which operations with easily inflammable substances can be safely conducted. Under the set of three lecture rooms are receiving and store rooms and rooms for gas analysis and high temperature work, together with the metallurgical laboratory, furnace room, and balance room occupied by the Goldsmiths Reader in Metallurgy. To the east of the entrance hall are the machinery room, containing two small steam engines, a dynamo, air pumps and other machinery, the accumulator room, and the boiler house. Further east lie a large research laboratory connected with a balance room, and a lecture room, to seat 150, with its accompanying preparation room.

The whole building is warmed by steam and hot water, and steam is laid on to all the rooms for use in chemical operations. Tubes from the air pumps are led into the different rooms, some giving low exhaustion for filtering are distributed to the working benches, while those giving the highest exhaustion are carried to the balance rooms, lecture rooms, and a few other points. The large lecture room and the low rooms on the mezzanine floors are lighted by electricity, and there are leads from the dynamo and storage battery to all the lecture rooms for experimental purposes. A separate small storage battery can be placed in connection with any of the laboratories where an electric current is needed. The whole of the working rooms are ventilated by a shaft 100 feet high heated by the boiler furnaces.

VII. THE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN ANATOMY

This building is the northern and the first floor of the southern portion of the large block erected in 1890, and consists of three floors.

On the ground-floor are large work-rooms and preparation-rooms with storage room, and the private room of the Professor of Anatomy.

The first floor is occupied chiefly by the Museum of Human Anatomy, which contains an extensive series of specimens illustrative of human anatomy and a very fine series of the skulls of men of different races. There are also many dissections, spirit preparations, and models for teaching purposes.

On the south side of the Lecture-Room occupying the western part of the first floor is the Anthropological Laboratory in which the practical classes in that subject are conducted, and the eastern part of that floor is the Embryological Laboratory.

Adjoining the gallery of the Museum is the Bone Room, wherein are mounted specimens of bones for the use of students.

The second floor is occupied by the dissecting room, which is capable of accommodating 250 students.

Between the northern and southern parts of this building is a large lecture-room capable of seating 280 students and on the ground-floor of the south block is a smaller lecture-room used for anatomical demonstrations.

VIII. THE ENGINEERING LABORATORY AND MECHANICAL WORKSHOPS

The Laboratory includes rooms and apparatus for the experimental study of mechanics and elasticity, the strength of materials, heat and heat engines, electricity and its practical applications. Amongst the apparatus are a 50-ton testing machine and three smaller testing machines, a large horizontal compound steam-engine specially arranged for experimental work and several other steam-engines (three with direct-coupled dynamos), two steam turbines and five internal combustion engines, together with many appliances for the practical study of electricity. The Laboratory is also furnished with apparatus for the practical study of hydraulics, including motor-driven centrifugal pump and two turbines. Adjoining the Laboratory are the Mechanical Workshops, in which practical instruction is given in wood work and iron work, including pattern-making, fitting, turning, and forging. These are fitted with numerous lathes and vices, machines for shaping, planing, slotting, and drilling, and all the appliances necessary for teaching pupils and for making instruments and machinery. There is also a drawing office furnished with the necessary appliances for mechanical drawing and designing.

The Laboratory is also well equipped with apparatus specially designed for research work, particularly in matters connected with the action of internal combustion engines, with the properties of materials of construction, and with a variety of electrical problems.

In 1884 the office of Superintendent of the Mechanical Workshops was established by Grace, but it was suppressed in 1890.

1884-90 James Samuel Lyon, B.A., Clare. M.A. 1885.

IX. THE SEDGWICK MUSEUM

The original Museum consisted exclusively of those specimens, English and Foreign, which are described in Dr Woodward's Catalogues, printed in 1728-9. The English Fossils were bequeathed by him to the University; and by a Grace of the Senate, dated Feb. 26, 1729, the Vice-Chancellor was empowered to purchase, for a sum not exceeding £1000, the Foreign Fossils described in those catalogues. During the lifetime of Professor Sedgwick and greatly by his influence £23,400 was collected for the extension of the University Library and the erection of a Geological Museum, which occupied two-thirds of the building then erected and represented about £15,598. £3900 of Woodwardian Trust money was put into the same building. The University enabled the Geological Department to realise these assets, and after Professor Sedgwick's death the public were again invited to subscribe, and by 1898 £28,700 was raised by subscription and interest. Dr Latham, late Master of Trinity Hall, gave about £700, and thus a sum of nearly £49,000 has been given to the University for the Geological Museum. The immense collection which grew around the original Woodwardian Museum has now been housed in a building erected as a memorial to Professor Sedgwick and opened by His Majesty King Edward VII on March 1, 1904.

The original collection possesses great historic value, as representing the condition of a progressive science during the latter half of the 17th century, and has not been incorporated among the more recent additions to the Museum. It contains amongst other things the fossils collected by Agostino Scilla, a distinguished Sicilian painter who published in 1670 a work entitled "La Vana speculazione disingannata dal senso," in which he shews by comparison with recent forms that fossils are really the remains of organisms. Pencil drawings of these fossils made by Scilla to illustrate his work are preserved in the Museum. Dr Woodward founded the chair of Geology to support this view, in opposition to Dr Elie Camerarius, who held that fossils were lusus naturae.

Professor Green, 1778-88, added a few valuable organic remains to the Woodwardian cabinets; and Professor Hailstone, 1788-1818, formed a collection of simple minerals, and other specimens illustrative of the physical structure of the British Isles and of some portions of the Continent.

During fifty-two years continual additions were made to the collection by the personal labours and munificence of Professor Sedgwick, by contributions from Cambridge graduates and undergraduates, by the purchase of specimens from time to time out of the old Woodwardian surplus fund, and, since the promulgation of the new Statutes, by special grants from the Senate. These later additions have been recorded in the annual reports.

The palaeozoic collections added to the Museum during the forty-four years previous to 1855 were arranged and classified by Professor McCoy, and his catalogue of them was published with an introductory essay by Professor Sedgwick.

A catalogue of the fossils of the older palaeozoic strata was prepared by J. W. Salter, also with a preface by Professor Sedgwick, the last work which proceeded from his pen.

Catalogues of the reptiles and birds by Professor H. G. Seeley, and of the type specimens in the Museum by Henry Woods, M.A., of St John's College, have been printed by the University.

The Museum contains many collections of note, among which may be mentioned those of Leckenby, Fletcher, Hugh Strickland, Montague Smith, Wiltshire, Meyer, and Whidborne, and portions of others which have an exceptional value from having been made by specialists such as Count Münster, Barrande, Bonney, Hudleston, Binney, and Turnbull; also the Petrological Museum arranged by Harker, the Elles Collection of graptolites, the Watson Collection of building stones, marbles, etc., besides numerous additions to the general collection by Marr, Woods, Reed, and other members of the staff.

X. THE BOTANY SCHOOL

The Herbarium was founded by John Martyn, Professor of Botany, 1733-61; but when Professor Henslow was appointed to the chair of Botany in 1825, he found nearly the whole of Martyn's collection gone hopelessly to decay. Professor Martyn also made a valuable donation of books to the Library; these and many other books which have been recently acquired are carefully preserved and available for use. The library of Charles Darwin, which Sir Francis Darwin has generously placed in this Department, has been catalogued and is accessible to those engaged in research.

The Herbarium includes selected sets of plants gathered by many botanical travellers; the whole herbarium of the late C. M. Lemann, M.D.; and nearly the whole of the valuable herbarium of the late Dr Lindley. The fine collections of Algae formed by the late Dr J. E. Gray (of the British Museum) and Mrs Gray were presented by them to the Herbarium. The herbarium of the late celebrated rubologist, Mons. Gaston Genevier of Nantes, was obtained in 1880. The late Professor Babington's valuable herbarium and library were left by him to the University for the Botany School. The herbarium of the late Rev. Dr Churchill Babington was presented in 1889. The Rev. J. D. Gray has recently (1908) presented an exceptionally good collection of British plants. The collections are open to the use of botanists with the permission of the Professor or the Curator.

In 1887, Lady Bunbury presented the whole of the herbarium and botanical collections of the late Sir Charles James Fox Bunbury to the Botanical Museum. These include Lichens, Fruits, and Seeds, a considerable general Herbarium (British and Foreign), and a collection of Fossil Plants.

The Museum, which was founded by Professor Henslow, has been considerably extended in recent years.

The office of Assistant Curator of the Herbarium was established in 1878, the Professor of Botany himself acting as Curator; but in 1907 the office of Curator was substituted for that of Assistant Curator. The Curator is appointed by the Professor of Botany, with the consent of the Vice-Chancellor, for a limited period, not exceeding five years, to be fixed by the Professor on making the appointment. The duties of the Curator are to assist the Professor in arranging and keeping in order the Herbarium, and to assist persons using it for the purpose of study.

1878 Thomas Hughes Corry, B.A., Caius, 1883.

1891 Isaac Henry Burkill<sup>2</sup>, B.A., Caius. M.A. 1895.

1898 Henry Harold Welch Pearson<sup>3</sup>, B.A., Caius (formerly Christ's). M.A. 1900. Sc.D. 1907.

1900 Richard Henry Yapp<sup>4</sup>, B.A., Caius (formerly St John's). M.A. 1903.

1905 Robert Heath Lock, B.A., Fellow of Caius. M.A. 1905. Sc.D. 1910.

1908 Charles Edward Moss, D.Sc. (Victoria). B.A., Emmanuel, 1910. M.A. 1915.

The office of Assistant Curator of the Botanical Museum was established in 1904 without stipend from the University; in 1907 the office of Curator was substituted for that of Assistant Curator. The Curator of the Botanical Museum is appointed in the same manner as the Curator of the Herbarium. His duties are to assist the Professor in arranging and keeping in order the Botanical Museum, and to assist persons using it for purposes of study.

1904 Edward Russell Burdon, B.A., Sidney. M.A. 1906.

1909 Hugh Hamshaw Thomas, B.A., Downing. M.A. 1911. Fellow of Downing, 1914.

The Botany School comprises a basement and three floors, with a mezzanine between the first and second floors. There is also a flat roof, available for experimental purposes.

For information with regard to the Botanic Garden see p. 214 above.

XI. THE MEDICAL SCHOOL

The new Medical School is assigned to the departments of Medicine, Surgery, Pharmacology, Pathology, and Public Health. Connected with the Pathological Laboratory is the Humphry Museum—intended to accommodate specimens chiefly in Morbid Anatomy—required for the teaching of the departments above mentioned.

The Pharmacological and the Pathological Laboratories are thoroughly equipped with apparatus and specimens, not only for teaching purposes but also for carrying on original research.

The new building also contains a Medical Library where the most recent literature—both British and Foreign—can be consulted by students.

XII. THE SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

The work of the Department of Agriculture is carried on in the School of Agriculture, on the University Farm, the Plant-Breeding Farm, and at the Field Laboratories.

The School contains three lecture-rooms, a library, large laboratories for Chemistry and for Biology, and many private rooms for research. An extension provided chiefly for research in Plant-Breeding and Animal Nutrition has also been completed, the funds being provided by a Government grant.

The University Farm, known as Gravel Hill, is approached from the Huntingdon Road, and lies between that road and the Madingley Road, adjoining the Observatory. It consists of 120 acres of arable land near the Huntingdon Road, and 80 acres of pasture on the Madingley Road. It is well equipped for teaching and experimental work.

The Plant-Breeding Farm, known as How Hill, is about two miles out of Cambridge on the Huntingdon Road, and adjoins the University Farm. It has been equipped by a grant from the Board of Agriculture out of the Development Fund in order to further Professor Biffen's work in Plant-Breeding. It consists of 230 acres, mostly arable, and is well equipped for seed growing.

The Field Laboratories, which were started in 1910 as a private venture, and have now been handed over to the University, are situated on the Milton Road, and cover an area of about ten acres. Among the numerous buildings are several designed for the accurate study of various problems in the nutrition of animals. These have been provided by Government grants for the use of Professors Wood and Hopkins, and form part of the equipment of an institute for Research in Animal Nutrition.

XIII. THE SCHOOL OF PHYSIOLOGY<sup>1</sup>

The first experimental laboratory known to have been equipped in Cambridge was the fifteenth century Audit Chamber of King's Hall, which Richard Bentley, the Master of Trinity, converted soon after 1702 into what he called an "elegant Chymical laboratory" for Francis Vigani, the first University Professor of Chemistry. This room, now the Bursary of Trinity College, may also be regarded as the first Physiological laboratory, for it is known that Stephen Hales, Fellow of Corpus Christi College, who first measured the blood pressure and made many important observations in animal and plant physiology, began his experiments early in the eighteenth century in this "elaboratory of Trinity College." But though many graduates in the ancient Faculty of Medicine in the University have left names now illustrious in the history of Physiology, like those of Harvey and of Glisson, and in a less degree those of Wharton, Joyliffe, Jurin, Wollaston, and Young, their chief work was not done in Cambridge itself, and it was not until the last third of the nineteenth century that Physiology began to be regarded no longer as an appanage of Human Anatomy or of Zoology, but as an independent experimental science in the main line of biological enquiry, and as an essential part of medical study.

The present School consists of five storeys, the lowest being sunk five feet below ground level. The whole of the floors are of fireproof construction and the roof trusses are of iron, which is exposed as much as possible within the building. At the West end the fourth and fifth storeys are thrown together into one large room for Histology classes, and here the fifth storey is represented by the gallery which surrounds the room. The special necessities for light in this room made the architectural treatment of the roof difficult. The ridge and furrow roof bears skylights on its western slopes and these are transverse to the long-axis of the building. The chief classes are in the morning and no direct sunlight then gives trouble by shining through the skylights. The ugly appearance of the ridges in saw-edge silhouette against the sky has been masked along the north and south external sides by narrow longitudinal roofs; and these are tiled.

Externally the building is of Cranley (purple) and Bracknell (red) brick, with dressings of Clipsham stone.

On the GROUND FLOOR, besides the rooms given to heating apparatus, coals, stores, etc., the following special rooms may be mentioned:

The Battery and Switch-board rooms. Continuous electric current of 110 volts is supplied to the Laboratory from an external power station. This can either be used directly on the Laboratory circuits or used to charge the batteries. The object of this system is to allow heavy currents to be drawn directly from the power station during the day, when the larger electric motors and arc lamps are in use in the Laboratory, and to provide by storage for the night load, when the dynamo in the station will not be running. In order that the voltage of the direct supply to the Laboratory circuits may not be altered while the cells are being charged, a booster motor is to be placed in the switch-board room for raising the voltage of the current supplied to the cells.

The battery has a capacity of 480 ampere-hours, which is sufficient for all the night load of the Laboratory. Some of the cells of the main battery are also used for supplying the four volt circuit which is distributed through the building and serves to drive time-marking clocks and tuning-forks, and other apparatus.

A special feature of the supply to certain of the research rooms is that both 110 and 4 volt current can be taken from plugs, attached to wires hanging from the ceiling.

The Workshop. This is intended only for the making of small pieces of apparatus and for the running repairs of the Laboratory. It is equipped with a screw-cutting lathe of  $3\frac{1}{2}$  inch centres, a sensitive drilling machine, emery grinders and grindstone. All these are driven through overhead shafting by a  $3\frac{1}{2}$  H.P. electric motor.

The Aquarium. Modern Physiological research takes account of the problems presented by invertebrates as well as by the higher animals. Many of the invertebrates studied are marine animals, and for these tanks of sea water are provided. The sea water is continuously aerated and passed through filters by a series of pumps operated by compressed air. The whole of the system is constructed of stoneware and glass, so that no metal comes into contact with the water. The method has been in use in the old Physiological Laboratory for two years, and has proved capable of maintaining the animals in good condition without renewal of the sea water more often than once in three months. The water is obtained from Lowestoft, and is filtered through Berkefeld filters before it is used in the tanks.

Compressed-air plant. The air compressor is driven by an electric motor from the direct-current supply. The system of pipes distributed through the building and the air-reservoir connected to the compressor have sufficient capacity to prevent rapid variations of the pressure. In order however that the supply may always be available at 25 lbs. per sq. in. the system is fitted with an automatic switch which starts the compressor as soon as the pressure drops to a predetermined value.

The compressed-air pipes are distributed to the research rooms throughout the building. The chief purposes of the supply are the artificial respiration of animals, the aeration of the sea-water tanks, the pumping of fluids which must not be brought into contact with metal pumps, and the drying of the inside surfaces of glass apparatus.

In this room is a small electrically driven centrifuge. A large one is to be installed later.

Research rooms for electro-physiology. The principal room (No. 4) has been designed for research into the electric stimulation of nerves and muscles and into the electric phenomena which accompany their action. For the latter purpose a capillary electrometer is installed on a base designed to eliminate vibration, and is so arranged that its movements can be recorded by photography in the adjoining dark room. On stone slabs let into the walls of the room there are placed the various devices used for measuring and timing electric stimuli. There is a pendulum capable of delivering two or three electric shocks at determined intervals of time ranging from one ten-thousandth to one-tenth of a second; a machine is also provided which will deliver a longer succession of shocks, the strength, duration, and periodicity of which can each be controlled independently.

This room has been placed in the basement, and at the greatest possible distance from the rooms which contain running machinery, in order that the capillary electrometer may not be affected by vibration.

In addition, room No. 1 is provided with a dark chamber for a string galvanometer, an instrument now in general use for the study of the heart and the diagnosis of its diseases.

Thermo-electric research. Rooms Nos. 2 and 3. In these rooms apparatus is set up for the determination of the evolution of heat by tissues. As little as a millionth of a degree centigrade can be detected. A continuous record can also be taken of the heat given out by small animals on different diets over a period of several days.

On the FIRST FLOOR are the Library and book-store, the Demonstration Theatre with adjoining Lecturer's Room, the Office, six private research rooms, a balance room, a dark room, and a cold storage room, placed above the refrigerating plant on the ground floor.

The Cold Storage Room is about 5 ft. 6 in.  $\times$  7 ft., fitted with shelves and with an electrically driven fan for ventilation. It has two doors and can be kept indefinitely at  $0^{\circ}$ — $2^{\circ}$  C. In the lobby to the cold storage room is a telephone.

The Demonstration Theatre will accommodate a class of about 80. By electro-motors controlled from the lecturer's desk the room can be rapidly darkened. Experiments can be prepared in the lecturer's room and brought in for demonstration. In the adjoining room (No. 7) given to photographic work, is the kinematograph which projects moving pictures upon a screen in the Theatre. This kinematograph has great value for teaching purposes. By its use, rapid movements which are exhibited can be slowed and their analysis facilitated.

On the SECOND FLOOR are the following:

X-ray room. Room No. 1. The X-ray apparatus which is being installed is designed partly to demonstrate to students the method of use for clinical purposes, and partly for physiological research especially on the digestive system.

Near the X-ray room are a student's research room, a room

(No. 3) arranged for observations on colloids and containing an ultra-microscope, two rooms for the study of the special senses, one of these capable of being darkened for demonstrating the ophthalmoscope and visual phenomena.

Respiration. Three rooms, Nos. 7, 8, 9, have been specially designed for the study of respiration. This study is largely concerned with the capacity possessed by the blood to absorb oxygen and carbonic acid. For the estimation of these gases in the blood two types of apparatus are in use:

(1) The mercurial air pump, in which the blood can be boiled in vacuo. Four of these pumps are on the west wall of room 7.

(2) The gases in small quantities of blood—a few drops—are estimated by expelling the gas from the blood on shaking it with appropriate re-agents in a bottle fitted to a gauge. The blood gas apparatus and the shaking machinery are on the east wall of room 9. In the middle of this room are gasometers containing gas of known composition. These gases can be put in suitable flasks and blood exposed to them at a known temperature in order to find the quantity of gas absorbed by the blood. The apparatus for this purpose is at the south end of the east wall.

On this floor are also a photographic room, a common room for the teaching staff, the Professor's room (10), a large room (11) for neurological research, now used in part for the storage of apparatus, and two private research rooms (12 and 13).

The THIRD FLOOR contains the large room for elementary classes in Histology. Abundant light is provided for the microscopes from the sides and from the roof lights, of which the arrangement has been described already. Microscopic sections and other materials are prepared in the adjoining room. In this large Histology room with its galleries 150 students can work simultaneously.

The Experimental and Histological room for advanced classes contains tables placed underneath the windows for microscopical work. Behind these there are tables equipped with drums and other apparatus for experimental work. The equipment is similar to that provided in the Elementary room with the exception that each student has a larger space allotted to him. The students in this room are also provided with apparatus for the accurate measurement of the time between two electric stimuli; with this they are able to measure time intervals as short as one ten-thousandth of a second. In the centre of the room connections are provided for two kymographs, and at the west end a large stone slab is let into the wall to provide a steady base for galvanometers and other instruments which are affected by vibration.

At the west end the FOURTH FLOOR gives on to the gallery of the Histology room. A small Demonstration Theatre is placed centrally and here classes of any number up to 50 can be drafted successively from the larger rooms to see demonstrations of methods or experiments.

At the east end is the Experimental room for elementary classes. This provides space for forty-six students, each of whom has a separate equipment consisting of a recording drum and of apparatus for electric stimulation. The recording drums are arranged on five tables, which form separate units and can be worked independently. The mechanism for driving the drums is of a particularly simple kind and has been specially designed for this Laboratory. Along the edge of each table there runs a continuous line of steel shafting driven by an electric motor which stands on the floor. Each drum is driven from the shafting through a pulley and a cord kept taut by a weight hanging beneath the table. A lever placed conveniently near to the drum serves for clutching the driving pulley to the shafting and so for starting the drum. A feature of this system is that no part of the mechanism with the exception of the main shaft is put into motion until the drum is actually required to rotate, so that wear of the moving parts is reduced to a minimum.

Two of the tables, namely those which occupy the centre of the room, carry the sixteen drums which formed the equipment of the old Physiological Laboratory. Some of these have been running since 1884. The other three tables contain thirty drums of a type designed for the new Laboratory. These drums can be driven at six different speeds ranging from one revolution per second to one revolution in thirty-five minutes. Every student is provided with a small storage cell as a source of current for the stimulation of nerves and muscles. The cells are charged from the main battery in the Laboratory at a time when there is no class occupying the room, and the students draw their current from special terminals on the cells which are provided with a safety device to prevent too heavy a discharge being taken. The bench tops are made of Nigerian mahogany.

For the purpose of communication between the rooms on the different floors, a metaphone is installed, giving communication between ten of the rooms.

In the Lecture Theatre, Demonstration rooms, Class rooms, Office, and Professor's room are time dials connected in circuit with a master clock and battery.

XIV. THE PSYCHOLOGICAL LABORATORY

The Psychological Laboratory, recently erected on the Downing site, is approached by the entrance and staircase of the new School of Physiology. The ground-floor contains a lecture-room, Director's and Assistant's rooms, a workshop, and a room for research in Animal Psychology opening out on to a grass court. On the first floor are a long practical class-room accommodating thirty students, a smaller practical class-room, a large dark room, and a library of psychological books and periodicals. The second floor consists solely of research rooms, including a top-lighted room suitable for work on vision, and a sound-proof room specially built for auditory experiments.

XV. THE DEPARTMENT OF BIO-CHEMISTRY

The Department of Bio-Chemistry, separately constituted in 1914, has succeeded to rooms previously occupied by the Department of Physiology. On the first floor of the building facing Corn Exchange Street is a large Laboratory for elementary classes. Rooms for advanced teaching are on the floor beneath.

On the first floor of an adjacent building, running westward, are ten smaller rooms devoted to research. There are also dark rooms for spectroscopic and polariscopic work, a balance room, and other rooms devoted to experiments requiring special apparatus.

XVI. THE SCHOOL OF FORESTRY

The work of the Department of Forestry is carried on in buildings erected in 1914 at the end of Downing Place. Towards the cost of the building a substantial government grant was received; the rest of the money being raised by public subscription. The building contains two lecture rooms, laboratories, research rooms, library, and a workshop. There are large collections of teaching material, including a herbarium, and a complete collection of timbers from all parts of the world.

The Department receives a government grant in aid of research work on timber and also a grant to cover the cost of advisory work in twelve eastern counties.

In addition to the indoor work of the School, facilities are provided for outdoor work at Sandringham and on the Cowdray estates in Sussex. At Sandringham an area has been granted for carrying on investigations, and for purposes of demonstration. Lord Cowdray has granted the use of the woodlands on his estate at Midhurst for the training of students in practical work. These woodlands extend to 4600 acres, and are admirably suited for the purpose.

THE SELWYN DIVINITY SCHOOL

THE original Divinity School, probably the oldest University building, was on the north side of the 'Schools Quadrangle,' under the present Catalogue Room of the University Library (see p. 210). This School was incorporated in the Library in 1856, and was fitted with shelves to accommodate books, although it was still also used for lectures for a long time afterwards. In the same year William Selwyn, D.D., of St John's College, Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity, set apart £700 a year from the income of his chair as an augmentation of the stipend of the Norrisian Professor, proposing at the same time, if the Norrisian Professorship should meanwhile become vacant, to continue the same contribution during his tenure of his office for the furtherance of theological studies in such way as might seem best. At that time the income of the Lady Margaret's Professorship was very large and that of the Norrisian Professorship quite small, but by a Statute of 1860 provision was made for a re-distribution of endowments between the two Chairs, thus giving a permanent character to Professor Selwyn's voluntary arrangement.

In accordance with this provision a Trust was formed in the year 1864 to receive and administer the sums so set apart with a view to building a Divinity School; and shortly before Professor Selwyn's death on April 24, 1875, when the accumulated Fund amounted to nearly £9,000, a Syndicate was appointed (Dec. 3, 1874) to consider the best site for such a building. In accordance with their report, a site opposite St John's College was purchased by the University for £3750 (Grace of May 27, 1875). On Nov. 2, 1876, designs prepared by Mr Basil Champneys, of Trinity College, for the Divinity School and Literary Lecture Rooms adjoining it, in "English Gothic of the early part of the sixteenth century," were approved by the Senate, and the Divinity School was ready for occupation at the beginning of the Michaelmas Term, 1879. The entire cost of the Divinity School, including fittings and furniture, amounted to a little more than £11,000, of which about £10,700 was provided by Dr Selwyn's gift. The Literary Lecture Rooms which were added at the expense of the University, cost about £4000 more. The niches on the exterior have since been filled (1892-1898) with a series of statues, through the liberality of the late Samuel Sandars, M.A., of Trinity College. The statues, executed by Mr Edmund Kett of Cambridge, represent nine eminent Cambridge theologians (Archbishops Cranmer and Barker, Bishops Fisher, Pearson, Andrewes, and Lightfoot, Erasmus, John Lightfoot, and Benjamin Whichcote).

The Divinity School contains a large lecture-room, capable of holding about 250 students, a smaller lecture-room, a Library, and four rooms for the Professors. In addition to this there are the four rooms assigned to literary subjects.

THE LAW SCHOOL AND SQUIRE LAW LIBRARY

THESE buildings, which are situated in Downing Street, adjoin the Sedgwick Memorial Museum on the east and the Archaeological Museum on the west. All were designed by Sir T. G. Jackson, R.A. The funds for the building of the Law Library, for the purchase of furniture, and for the original equipment of the Library with books, were provided under the Will of the late Miss Rebecca Flower Squire, who died November 26, 1898. Provision has also been made, under the same Will, for the salary of a Librarian and for the further purchase and renewal of books.

In addition a sum of £1000 has been received from the Master and Fellows of Gonville and Caius College in trust for the benefit of the Squire Law Library; such sum to be entitled the Charles Monro Fund and the annual income to be devoted to the purchase and binding of foreign books. An annual sum (not exceeding £50) is provided by the University for assistance to the Librarian and for incidental expenses of management.

The rules governing admission to, and the use of, the Library will be found in full in the University Calendar, and in an abbreviated form in the Student's Handbook.

THE EXAMINATION HALLS

THE Examination Halls, erected on part of the Mortlock site (see p. 233), from the designs of W. C. Marshall, M.A., Trinity, were first used in 1909. The larger Hall is 106 feet long, 51 feet wide, and 30 feet high. The smaller Hall, which is divisible into two unequal parts, is 106 feet long, 30 feet wide, and 16 feet high, and is lighted entirely from the roof. Each is ventilated throughout by electric fans on a system arranged by J. B. Lock, M.A., of Gonville and Caius College, a member of the University Building Committee.

UNIVERSITY LECTURE ROOMS

THE University Lecture Rooms erected on part of the Mortlock site (see p. 233) from the designs of Mr George Hubbard, were completed in 1911. The building contains a large Lecture Theatre, seated for about 275 students, nine lecture-rooms of various sizes, a common-room for Professors, Readers, and Lecturers, and three rooms suitable for small classes and interviews. The rooms are used mainly for lectures in Economics, English Literature, History, and Mathematics.

At the top of the building there is also a large Departmental Library, having a floor space of 2250 square feet. This provides accommodation for the Seeley Memorial Library, consisting of works on History and Comparative Politics; the German Research Library given to the University in 1914 by Mr Otto Beit; English, French, and German Departmental Libraries for the use of students reading for the Medieval and Modern Languages Tripos; and a small library of works on Moral Science. The rules governing admission to, and the use of, these Libraries will be found in the Student's Handbook.

THE UNIVERSITY OFFICES

THESE are situated in a large private house in St Andrew's Street, rented by the University from Emmanuel College. The ground floor provides a Syndicate Room, a room for the Vice-Chancellor, and an office for the University Marshal; the Council Room and the office of the Financial Board are on the first floor; the second floor furnishes accommodation for the offices of the Appointments Board, and the third floor for the Board of Military Studies.

FITZWILLIAM HALL

IN 1892 a house in Trumpington Street, built in 1727, was acquired to serve as the centre of the corporate life of the Non-Collegiate Students who were first admitted to the University in 1869 (see the University Calendar).

THE PERSE GRAMMAR SCHOOL

STEPHEN PERSE, M.D., senior Fellow of Gonville and Caius College, by a clause in his Will<sup>1</sup>, dated September 27, 1615, three days before his death, bequeathed certain property in charge to his executors, to purchase divers grounds and tenements, to be applied, amongst other purposes, to that of erecting and establishing within three years (if possible), after his decease, a convenient house capable of containing one hundred scholars to be used for a Free Grammar School. The earliest buildings were erected in what is now known as Free School Lane, at the back of Corpus Christi College. The first master was Thomas Lovering, M.A., of Pembroke, and Jeremy Taylor was Perse Scholar at Gonville and Caius College in 1628.

At the beginning of the 19th century the School had much decayed, and from 1816 to 1842 the large schoolroom was used as a picture gallery for the Fitzwilliam Collection.

In 1841 a new scheme for the administration of the Benefaction was approved and new buildings were erected; and in 1873 a Perse School for Girls was established. In 1888 the School was removed to a more convenient site on the Hills Road.

The School is now conducted according to a New Scheme under the Board of Education, sealed 1910. It is under the management of a Governing Body consisting of fifteen persons, of whom two are nominated by the Council of the Senate of the University, two by Gonville and Caius College, one by Trinity College, five by the Borough Council of Cambridge, and five by the County Council.

ADDENBROOKE'S HOSPITAL

THE Hospital was founded in the year 1719 by John Addenbrooke, M.D., formerly of Catharine Hall, who left about £4500, 'to hire, fit up, purchase, or erect, a building for a small Physical Hospital for poor people of any Parish or any County.' Land was purchased in 1728, and a building erected in 1740; but the money left by Dr Addenbrooke being insufficient for the maintenance of the Hospital so built, an Act of Parliament was obtained in 1766 for making it a General Hospital, and establishing a constitution under which additional funds should be obtained. In October 1766 the Hospital was first opened for the reception of patients.

In the year 1814 Mr John Bowtell, formerly a bookbinder of Cambridge, bequeathed a legacy of £7000, afterwards increased by dividends to £8400, part of which was expended in adding new wings to the Building.

During the years 1864 and 1865 the Hospital was almost rebuilt and greatly enlarged from the designs of Sir M. Digby Wyatt and Sir G. M. Humphry at a cost of about £15,000, and in 1878 additional wards were built at the cost of £3590.

In 1890 accommodation for sick nurses was provided in memory of Miss Alice Fisher, late Matron, at a cost of £300; the funds being chiefly raised by friends.

In 1895, through the generosity of Lord Peckover, a new Nurses' Home, consisting of 39 separate bedrooms, with requisite bath room and lavatory accommodation, was erected and furnished at a cost of about £3700. The same benefactor enabled the Governors during the years 1897 and 1898 to have a new Operating Theatre and Anaesthetising Room constructed and equipped with the most modern fittings and appliances at a cost of about £2000.

In the year 1899 a steam laundry was established and equipped at a cost of about £1250.

In the year 1910 an Electrical and X-Ray Department was established and equipped at a cost of about £220, from donations given by Mrs Lilley Smith, Colonel T. W. Harding, and the Cambridge Borough Education Committee.

In the year 1913 Mrs Bonnett of Lensfield Road, Cambridge, gave the sum of £3000 to erect and equip a Clinical Laboratory in memory of her son, the late John Bonnett, M.A., for many years Secretary and Legal Adviser to Addenbrooke's Hospital.

In the years 1913, 1914, and 1915, new wards for children were erected on the top of the North Wing of the Hospital, together with new sanitary annexes. The bath annexes on the same side were remodelled, and new Out-Patient and Special Departments erected on the south side. The old Out-Patient Department was converted into a new and better equipped Pharmacy and Surgical Dressings Stores, while the old Pharmacy was converted into Recovery Rooms in connection with the Out-Patient Operating Theatre. A new boiler house and pump room with hot water and heating installation were also provided. The cost of these additions and alterations was defrayed from the money provided by the King Edward VII Memorial Fund, the Ladies' Needlework Guild, and other benefactors. A new electric lift has since been provided and installed through the generosity of Mrs Almeric Paget and Lord Peckover of Wisbech.

The Hospital now (1916) contains 192 beds.

In consideration of a contribution of £300 a year to the funds of the Hospital, the University has the right of claiming appointments on the staff for the Regius Professor of Physic and the Professor of Surgery, with facilities for lecturing. The Hospital also provides proper facilities for conducting the University Examinations in Clinical Medicine and Clinical Surgery.

In addition to this contribution of £300 a year from the University Chest, payments are also made by the University, from the annual grant from the Board of Education, of £50 a year for the general purposes of the Hospital; £100 a year for the purchase of apparatus required by the Honorary Medical and Surgical staff for special methods of treatment or in the teaching of students; £350 a year for the stipends of seven members of the Honorary staff of the Hospital approved as University Teachers; and £50 a year for the stipend of a Pathologist. The regulations under which these payments are administered will be found in the University Calendar.

Certificates of attendance on the practice in the Hospital are recognized by the University, by the Royal Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons, and by the other licensing medical bodies.

University Scholarships, &c.

* * * THE substance of the Regulations governing the award of these Scholarships will be found in Chapter VII. of the Student's Handbook.

[New Regulations for the Classical Scholarships known as the 'University Scholarships' (i.e. the Battie, Browne, Craven, Davies, Pitt, Porson, and Waddington), made with a view to equalising the tenure and values of the Scholarships, were adopted in 1914. These will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar.]

CRAVEN SCHOLARSHIPS

THE Craven Scholarships were founded in 1649 under the Will of John Craven, Baron Craven of Ryton in Shropshire. The Testator's intention was to endow four Scholarships, two at Oxford and two at Cambridge, each Scholar receiving an annual stipend of £25 for fourteen years, and the residue of the estate being devoted to the redemption of English captives at Algiers or any other place under the dominion of the Turk. The Scholars were to be chosen by 'the Vice-Chancellor, the Kinges Professors, and the Orator there for the tyme beinge, or the greater parte of them,' but there was no further indication of the mode of election of the Scholars or the subjects in which they were to excel, and definite rules dealing with these matters were not drawn up until 1701. In 1819 the Court of Chancery decreed that the number of Scholarships should be increased to ten, five at Oxford and five at Cambridge, that they should be tenable for seven years, and that their value should be increased to £50; but the preference to poor scholars of the Testator's name and kindred mentioned in his Will was to be preserved. In 1841 the Court raised the value of the Scholarships to £75; and in 1860 the number of Scholarships was increased to twelve, six at each University, and their value to £80 a year.

CRANE'S CHARITY

JOHN CRANE, an apothecary in Cambridge, died in 1652, and left by his Will certain bequests to the University and Town of Cambridge and to other bodies. Among these bequests was money to buy an estate of £62 per annum, to be settled on the five corporations following, viz. the University of Cambridge, the towns of Wisbech, Cambridge, Lynn, and Ipswich. The rents were to be received by these in order, and were to be applied by the University, when their turn came, for the benefit of 'poore schollars for their Releife when they are sicke for paying for their Physick, dyet, or other things necessary for them in their sickness,' the Testator 'knowing heretofore many haue miscarried for want of meanes to releiue them.' The distribution was to be made by the Vice-Chancellor, the Professors of Divinity, Civil Law, and Physic, and the 'cheife Apothecary in the towne, for that he knowes the need of most of the poore schollars in that case'; 'desiring the Master of Caius Colledg to ioyne with them to assist them.' This part of Mr Crane's Benefaction remained inoperative until 1822, when public attention was called to the state of affairs, and since then the fund has been regularly distributed. In 1875 the Trustees were authorised to apply out of the income of the Fund a sum not exceeding £50 to the training of nurses. The present annual income of the Charity is about £220.

Grants are now made to poor scholars for medical attendance and nursing, as well as for medicine, diet, and other necessities in sickness. Meetings of the distributors, to consider and determine the claims of applicants for the benefit of the Charity, take place on the third Tuesday of May, and the third Tuesday of November, in every year; all applications of scholars must be made by the Tutors of their respective colleges.

LUMLEY EXHIBITIONS

ELIZABETH, Viscountess LUMLEY, by a deed bearing date October 8, 1657, directed certain Trustees therein named to pay and allow yearly to ten poor scholars of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, educated in the School founded by her at Thornton in the county of York, or in default of such to any other poor scholars, not exceeding ten in number (subsequently reduced to five), who should be nominated thereto by the respective Convocations of the said Universities for the time being, the sum of £4 a year each, to be continued until they should have time to become graduates in one of the said Universities.

By an Order of the Court of Chancery, issued in the year 1820, it was directed that, in consequence of the increased rents these five Exhibitions should in future be £15 per annum each, and that the rents not called for should accumulate.

These Exhibitions are not now given.

WORTS TRAVELLING BACHELORS

WILLIAM WORTS, B.A. 1698, M.A. 1702, of Catharine Hall, who died in 1709, bequeathed his estate to five Trustees for various purposes (see p. 168), one of which was the payment of 'annual Pensions of £100 a year each to two young Bachelors of Arts, who shall be sent into foreign countries soon after they have taken that Degree, and shall continue there for the space of three years.' They were required to travel by different roads, and each of them 'to write once in a month a letter in Latin to the Vice-Chancellor,' giving an account to the University 'of the religion, learning, laws, politics, customs, manners, and rarities, natural and artificial, which they shall find worth observing in the countries through which they pass.' They were to be 'chosen out of two different Colleges,' beginning with King's and Trinity, 'each of which shall present two young Gentlemen to the Congregation, which shall choose one out of each of the two Colleges,' and the rest of the Colleges were then to take it in turn to present in the order of the cycle for the nomination of Proctors (see p. 34).

In 1861 the following new Statute for the Travelling Bachelors was approved by the Queen in Council:—

The annual pensions charged by Mr Worts upon his estate of £100 a year each to two young Bachelors of Arts, to be sent into foreign countries and to continue there for the space of three years, shall cease to be so applied, and shall constitute a fund, from which the University may make grants from time to time, by Grace of the Senate, at its discretion, for the promotion or encouragement of investigations in foreign countries respecting the religion, learning, laws, politics, customs, manners, and rarities, natural or artificial, of those countries, or for purposes of geographical discovery or of antiquarian or scientific research in foreign countries: the conditions as to publishing the result of such investigations to be determined in every case when any grant is made.

BATTIE SCHOLARSHIP

THE Battie Scholarship was founded in 1747 by deed of gift from WILLIAM BATTIE (1704–1776), B.A. 1726, M.A. 1730, M.D. 1737, sometime Fellow of King's. Dr Battie had himself held a

Craven Scholarship 'whereby he was enabled to maintain himself in the...University and encouraged to proceed in his Studies' and 'being duly sensible of the great benefit he received' from it, 'and also considering that benefactions of this nature tend to the advancement of religion and learning, and are a great support to such Scholars who unhappily labour under indigent circumstances' 'out of a grateful sense of his own obligations' to the University, and 'as a perpetual acknowledgment for the same' he transferred lands to the University to endow the Scholarship which bears his name. During his lifetime he reserved the nomination of the Scholars to himself, and the first five were chosen by him, but after his death they were to be chosen by the Vice-Chancellor, the Provost of King's, 'the King's Professors of Divinity, Law, and Physic,' and the two Proctors for the time being. The Scholarship was to be awarded for Latin and Greek, and each candidate was required to visit each of the resident electors 'and shall give notice by a Latin epistle to such elector that he is a candidate.'

Present value (1915), £40 a year.

BROWNE SCHOLARSHIP

SIR WILLIAM BROWNE, Kt. (1692-1774), B.A. 1711, M.A. 1714, M.D. 1721, President of the College of Physicians, a member of Peterhouse, left in 1774 by his Will a perpetual rent-charge of £21 per annum upon sundry estates for founding a Classical Scholarship, to be paid 'clear of Taxes and Disbursements' to the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars of the University. The Scholar was required to 'admit himself at Peterhouse, and reside there every intire term during his Under-Graduate-ship,' to 'behave well, studiously, and religiously, and give up to the Fellows' Table every Sunday a Copy of Greek or Latin Verses,' and to 'go to Lectures with the Mathematic Professor for Three years.' These restrictions were not formally removed until 1858.

Present value (1915), £40 a year.

BELL SCHOLARSHIPS

WILLIAM BELL, B.A. 1753, M.A. 1756, D.D. 1767, Prebendary of the Collegiate Church of Westminster and late Fellow of Magdalene College, transferred in the year 1810 £15,200 to the University in Trust to found eight Scholarships. The purpose of the Benefaction was 'to give encouragement to learning, and to assist Clergymen of the Church of England in sending their sons to the University whose circumstances and situations are altogether such as not to enable them to bear the whole of that expense, as well as to assist orphans of Clergymen under similar circumstances in obtaining the benefit of an University education.' The Scholars originally were not to be elected from King's or Trinity Hall, 'but from every other College in the University without favour or partiality to any College.'

Present value (1915), about £50 a year for four years.

The numbers (1) and (2) designate the first and second Scholars, actually elected, and receiving the emolument of the Scholarship.

TYRWHITT HEBREW SCHOLARSHIPS

THE Reverend ROBERT TYRWHITT, B.A. 1757, M.A. 1760, Fellow of Jesus College, who died in 1817, by his Will bequeathed £4000 'for the sole encouragement of a general study of the Hebrew Language' in the University.

The Senate in 1818 decreed the foundation of three Scholarships, increased in 1826 to six, but in consequence of successive reductions in the interest of the stock in which the Benefaction was invested, it was found that the Fund was insufficient to meet the claims upon it, and in 1862 a sum of £486 was raised by private subscription 'for the Augmentation of Mr Tyrwhitt's Benefaction for the Encouragement of Hebrew Learning.'

There are now (1915) two Scholarships of the value of £40 and £20 a year, each for three years.

CROSSE SCHOLARSHIPS

THE Reverend JOHN CROSSE, B.A. Oxford 1768, incorporated at King's 1776, M.A. 1776, Vicar of Bradford in Yorkshire, by Will dated June 15, 1816, made a bequest to George Buxton

Browne in Trust, 'earnestly requesting and entreating him to expend the same in furthering and promoting the Cause of true Religion among the Inhabitants of Great Britain and Ireland as to him may appear most eligible.' The settlement of Mr Crosse's estate was delayed for some years by legal difficulties, but in 1832 three Theological Scholarships were founded from the sum of £2000. The examination was 'to turn upon a knowledge of the Holy Scriptures in their original tongues, Hebrew and Greek, of Ecclesiastical History, of the earlier and later Heresies, and such other subjects of useful inquiry as may be thought most likely to assist in the formation of valuable characters, fitted to sustain and adorn "the cause of true religion."'

Present value (1915), about £40 a year for two years.

JOHN LUCAS WALKER STUDENTSHIP AND EXHIBITIONS

JOHN LUCAS WALKER, LL.B. 1867, of Trinity College, having left by Will in 1886 to his friend Sir Richard Everard Webster, also of Trinity, then Attorney-General and afterwards Lord Chief Justice and Lord Alverstone, a sum of money to be spent 'in the promotion, without regard to sect or party, of Scientific and Literary Research, or of either of those objects in Cambridge or in the Metropolis or in both places,' a Scheme and Regulations for the establishment of a Studentship for the endowment of original research in Pathology, were submitted by the Attorney-

General to the University, and accepted by Grace of the Senate, March 10, 1887. The holder of the Studentship need not necessarily be a member of the University, and it is open to persons of either sex. The Managers of the Trust Fund are also empowered to further original research in Pathology by additional Studentships or Exhibitions, Prizes, or Grants, at Cambridge or in London.

Value, £200 a year.

WORDSWORTH STUDENTSHIPS

THESE Studentships were founded in 1892 by W. NICHOLSON, Esq. of London, in memory of CHRISTOPHER WORDSWORTH, D.D., late Bishop of Lincoln, and sometime Head Master of Harrow School. Candidates, who before the date of the election must have taken Honours in some Tripos, are required to present to the Electors a declaration in writing of their intention to take Holy Orders in the Church of England. Preference is to be given to candidates who have been educated for two years at Harrow School or at Winchester College.

Present value (1915), about £40.

STEEL STUDENTSHIPS

CANDIDATES before the date of the election must be at least twenty-one years of age, and must, generally speaking, have taken Honours in some Tripos. In the selection of Students the Trustees have regard to the fitness of the candidates for entering at once on a course of definite preparation for Holy Orders at the University, with a view to their future usefulness in parochial or missionary work.

STEWART OF RANNOCH SCHOLARSHIPS

MR JOHN STEWART of Rannoch, sometime resident at Bristol, who died 19 July 1884, left all his estate, subject to certain charges, to the University of Cambridge, to the intent that the University might found Scholarships, tenable for one year, of the annual value of twenty-five pounds each, in Hebrew, Greek, Latin, and Sacred Music, or in the discretion of the Governing Body of the said University to be tenable for three years for proficiency in some or one of the prescribed subjects, the preference in every case to be given to young men natives of the Counties of Wilts, Somerset, or Gloucester, including the City and County of Bristol. In the list of Scholars which follows the emoluments are described as r (restricted) or o (open) in all cases in which they were so described in the original awards. By Grace of the Senate, 7 December 1893, eighteen Scholarships were founded, of the annual value of £25, tenable for three years, six for proficiency in Hebrew, six for proficiency in Greek and Latin, and six for proficiency in Sacred Music.

HORT MEMORIAL FUND

IN 1893 the sum of £1000 was subscribed with the view of founding a Memorial to perpetuate in the University the memory of FENTON JOHN ANTHONY HORT, B.A. 1850, M.A. 1853, D.D. 1876, Fellow of Trinity and afterwards of Emmanuel, Hulsean Professor of Divinity 1878–87 and Lady Margaret's Reader in Divinity 1887–92, who died 30 November 1892. The Trust was accepted by the University in the year 1894, and Regulations for the administration of the Fund were approved. In 1896 the Fund was augmented by a gift of about £1800 offered to the University by certain members of the Old and New Testament Revision Companies, this sum to be called the Revision Surplus Fund and to be administered by the Managers of the Hort Memorial Fund. It was accepted by Grace of 18 June 1896. The Hort Memorial Fund is devoted to the promotion of Biblical, Hellenistic, and Patristic Research.

CHRIST'S HOSPITAL, WINCHESTER

IN 1895 the Charity Commissioners made a Scheme for the administration of two Foundations in the City of Winchester: (1) Christ's Hospital, founded under the Will of Peter Symonds, dated 24 April 1586; (2) Pemerton's or Pemberton's Donation. These Foundations were to be united, and administered by a Governing Body under the name of Christ's Hospital in Winchester. This Scheme was approved by the Queen in Council, 13 May 1896.

It was provided, among other things, that the Governors should maintain two Exhibitions, each of the yearly value of not more than £15, tenable for not more than four years, one at Oxford and the other at Cambridge. The Cambridge Exhibition is given as the reward of merit on the result of the First Part of any Tripos Examination to a candidate who is, or intends to be, a student in Divinity. It is tenable for one year, but the holder is re-eligible. The Governors require from each candidate, among other things, a statement of the position and means of his parents.

ALLEN FUND AND SCHOLARSHIP

IN 1898 the late ASHLEY WILLIAM GRAHAM ALLEN, B.A. 1890, of Trinity College, bequeathed £10,000 to the University for the foundation of a Scholarship or Prize in memory of his grandfather, the Right Rev. JOSEPH ALLEN, D.D., sometime Fellow of Trinity College, Bishop of Bristol 1834, and Bishop of Ely 1836 until his death, 20 March 1845. The bequest was accepted by Grace, 16 June 1898, and Regulations were approved by Grace, 16 Feb. 1899. The Allen Scholar is required to devote himself to research, the Scholarship being assigned in alternate years to literary and scientific subjects.

Value, £250.

BARNARD RANDOLPH EXHIBITION

IN accordance with a Scheme established by the Board of Education in 1906 and amended in 1913, a Barnard Randolph Exhibition is offered from time to time, as funds permit, to a graduate student of Divinity in the University of Cambridge who is in need of pecuniary assistance to enable him to pursue the study of Divinity in the University, with a preference for those whose parents are or have for not less than three years been resident in the Administrative County of London, and who have for not less than two years been in attendance at St Paul's, Merchant Taylors', or the City of London School; failing candidates who are privileged in any of these respects, any duly qualified candidate may be elected who is adjudged worthy to take the Exhibition. Candidates must have taken Honours in a Tripos and must undertake to reside for a period of one year, and to enter for such part of the Theological Tripos as the Governors, who are the five Professors of Divinity, shall determine.

Present value (1915), about £30 for one year.

FREDERICK JAMES QUICK FUND

FREDERICK JAMES QUICK, M.A., of Trinity Hall, by his Will left his residuary estate and the income thereof upon Trust to the University of Cambridge as a permanent Fund for the promotion of study and research in the sciences of Vegetable and Animal Biology, and it is from this Fund that the Quick Professorship of Biology (see p. 108) is maintained. But in the scheme adopted by Grace of the Senate, 10 May 1906, it is provided that one-tenth of the income of the Fund shall be used, first, in furnishing assistance for the Professor and in the general maintenance of his Laboratory, and afterwards, should there be any surplus, in the furtherance of original Biological investigations, and to the support and development of the study of Vegetable and Animal Biology either by contributions towards the stipends of existing teaching posts or by the establishment of new teaching posts.

CHARLES OLDHAM SCHOLARSHIPS

IN 1907 Mr CHARLES JAMES OLDHAM bequeathed to the University the sum of £5000 to be invested by and in the joint names of the Vice-Chancellor and two other members of the Senate. The income arising from such investments is to be applied to the founding and maintaining of one annual Prize or Scholarship in the Ancient Classics, Greek and Latin, and one annual Prize or Scholarship in the knowledge of William Shakespeare's Works. The bequest was accepted by Grace, 14 February 1907.

The value of the Classical Scholarship is at present (1915) about £75, and that of the Shakespeare Scholarship about £65.

GEORGE CHARLES WINTER WARR SCHOLARSHIP

MRS CONSTANCE EMILY WARR bequeathed £5000 for the founding of a Fellowship or Scholarship for Classical Research in memory of her husband, GEORGE CHARLES WINTER WARR, M.A., of Trinity College. By Grace of the Senate, 17 June 1909, Regulations for the Scholarship were adopted, which provide for an election in the Easter Term 1911, and in the same term in every alternate year thereafter, except that the Scholarship is not to be awarded in any year in which a vacancy in the Prendergast Studentship (see p. 278) is announced.

Value, £200.

TIARKS GERMAN SCHOLARSHIP

IN 1909 Mr HENRY F. TIARKS offered to the University the sum of £5000 for the endowment of one or more Scholarships for the encouragement of the study of German in the University. The offer was accepted by Grace of the Senate, 11 Nov. 1909, and Regulations were approved by Grace of the Senate, 26 May 1910.

Value, £150.

- 1910 Gilbert Waterhouse, B.A., Joh.

MAITLAND MEMORIAL FUND

THE Executive Committee of the Frederic William Maitland Memorial Fund offered the balance of the Fund (after providing a bronze bust) to the University of Cambridge to be held by it in Trust for the promotion of research and instruction in the History of Law and of Legal Language and Institutions. The offer was accepted by Grace of the Senate, 10 Nov. 1909, and Regulations were approved by Grace of the Senate, 20 January 1910. The Managers of the Fund are authorised to make at their discretion grants to any person engaged in any research in the History of Law or of Legal Language or Institutions; or may make grants for the delivery of lectures, the publication of works, or the promotion of any other undertaking connected with these departments of study; and they may attach to any grant such conditions as they may think fit.

BENN W. LEVY STUDENTSHIP IN BIO-CHEMISTRY

FOUNDED by a Committee formed to perpetuate the memory of the late Mr Benn Wolfe Levy. The offer of the Committee was accepted and Regulations were approved by Grace of the Senate, 10 March 1910. The Studentship is open to members of Girton and Newnham Colleges as well as members of the University.

Value, £100 a year.

1910 Annie Homer, Newnham College (resigned).

CITY COMPANIES' EXHIBITIONS

(1) THERE are four Exhibitions connected with the Benefaction of Sir James Lancaster (A.D. 1618) of the value of £21 a year each, in the gift of the Skinners Company. They are intended for students of Divinity, two being tenable at Oxford and two at Cambridge, and are usually awarded in November (whenever a vacancy occurs) to students then at the beginning of their second year of residence.

(2) There is also an Exhibition, tenable only at the University of Cambridge, connected with the Benefaction of Mr Edward Lewis (A.D. 1673) of the value of £21 a year, in the gift of the Skinners Company. It is usually awarded in November (whenever a vacancy occurs) to a student then at the beginning of his second year of residence.

(3) The various Benefactions for the assistance of poor students at the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, made among others by Mrs Ann Elliott, Mr George Humble, Mr William Moseley, Mr Robert Rogers, and entrusted to the Leathersellers Company, are awarded on the nomination of the Vice-Chancellor. A notice relating to these Exhibitions appears in the University Reporter, usually in the Lent or Easter Term.

(4) Six Goldsmiths' Exhibitions of £50 a year are awarded by means of an Examination in Classics, Mathematics, and Divinity, held in Cambridge, usually in the month of May. Notice of the date of entry and of the exact date of the Examination appears in the University Reporter.

(5) Two Grocers' Exhibitions of £40 a year each, tenable at Cambridge or Oxford, are awarded in January to candidates selected from those who make application beforehand. Information should be applied for in the course of the preceding November.

(6) The Clothworkers Company give six Exhibitions of £30 a year (with additions on admission to a degree), two of which are awarded in each year on the recommendation of the Censor to Non-Collegiate Students reading for Honours and intending to take Holy Orders. They are tenable for three years.

(7) Exhibitions of various values are also given by other Companies from time to time.

SURVEYORS' INSTITUTION SCHOLARSHIPS

A SURVEYORS' Institution Scholarship of £80 for three years is awarded annually to a Student of the Surveyors' Institution on the results of a competitive examination in Natural Science held annually at Cambridge in the month of July by the Board of Agricultural Studies. [The Regulations for these Scholarships were rescinded in 1915.]

ZOOLOGICAL STATION AT NAPLES

By Grace of 2 Dec. 1875, the University agreed to pay £75 per year for five years from the Worts' Fund for Travelling Bachelors to the institution at Naples under Dr Dohrn, for facilitating the study of Marine Zoology by students nominated by the University. This agreement is renewed from time to time. By Grace of 13 Dec. 1883, the annual payment was raised to £100. Those who go are expected to make reports of their investigations to the Vice-Chancellor.

MARINE BIOLOGICAL STATION AT PLYMOUTH

THE University has the right to nominate a student to study Marine Zoology at the Marine Biological Station at Plymouth. The nomination is made by the Special Board for Biology and Geology. Students are expected to make reports of their investigations to the Vice-Chancellor.

BRITISH SCHOOL AT ATHENS

THE Managing Committee of the British School at Athens places at the disposal of the Vice-Chancellor a Studentship of the value of £50 tenable by a student who is prepared to undertake archaeological work in connexion with the School, and who undertakes to reside three months. The Studentship is raised to £100 if the Student completes six months' residence. Students of Girton or Newnham are eligible.

SEATONIAN PRIZE

THE Reverend THOMAS SEATON, B.A. 1704, M.A. 1708, Fellow of Clare Hall, bequeathed to the University in 1741 the rents of his Kislingbury estate to be given yearly to that Master of Arts who writes the best English Poem on a sacred subject. Mr Seaton died 18 August 1741, but the estate was not recovered from the heir-at-law until 1748. The Prize was first awarded in 1750, but formal Regulations were not drawn up until 1898. Value (1915), about £32.

The Testator's Will assigns the rents of his estate at Kislingbury to be 'disposed of yearly by the Vice-Chancellor for the time being, as he the Vice-Chancellor, the Master of Clare Hall, and the Greek Professor for the time being, or two of them, shall agree. Which three persons aforesaid shall give out a subject, which subject shall for the first year be one or other of the Perfections or Attributes of the Supreme Being, and so the succeeding years till that subject is exhausted; and afterwards the subjects shall be either Death, Judgment, Heaven, Hell, Purity of Heart, &c., or whatsoever else may be judged by the Vice-Chancellor, Master of Clare Hall, and Greek Professor, to be most conducive to the honour of the Supreme Being and recommendation of virtue.

And they shall yearly dispose of the rent of the abovesaid estate to that Master of Arts whose poem on the subject given shall be best approved by them. Which poem I ordain to be always in English, and to be printed; the expense of which shall be deducted out of the product of the Estate, and the residue given as a reward for the composer of the poem, or ode, or copy of verses. And the reason of my thus ordaining it is, the language being changeable, and words growing obsolete, the great God might ever have his Attributes and Perfections celebrated and extolled in a stile perfectly adapted to the taste and understanding of every succeeding generation, and that virtue may be represented also to the world in the most amiable view.'

CHANCELLOR'S CLASSICAL MEDALS

THESE Prizes were instituted in 1751 by THOMAS HOLLES PELHAM, Duke of Newcastle, and have been continued by succeeding Chancellors. There are two Gold Medals, and until 1871 inclusive these were awarded to 'each of two commencing Bachelors of Arts, who having Senior Optimes shall make the best appearance in Classical Learning.' In 1869 the mathematical restriction was removed, and the competition was thrown open to all students qualified to be candidates for the Classical Tripos of that year. The present Regulations, which, in substance, date from 1881, admit students who have entered on their tenth term at least, having previously kept nine terms, provided that not more than ten terms shall have passed after the first of the said nine terms.

MEMBERS' PRIZES

THE REPRESENTATIVES IN PARLIAMENT of this University formerly gave four annual Prizes of fifteen guineas each, which were adjudged by the Vice-Chancellor and Heads of Colleges for the best Exercises in Latin prose. These Prizes (confined until 1827 to Senior and Middle Bachelors) were established in 1752 by the Honourable EDWARD FINCH and the Honourable THOMAS TOWNSHEND, and were continued by the succeeding Members until 1870, when in lieu of four Prizes for Latin Essays of £15. 15s. each, the Representatives of the University in Parliament desired to give annually two Prizes of £31. 10s. each, one for an English Essay on some subject connected with British History or Literature, the other for a Latin Essay, each Prize to be open for competition to all members of the University not of sufficient standing to be created Masters of Arts or Law; and Regulations to that effect were confirmed by Grace of the Senate, 11 Nov. 1869.

TOWNSHEND PRIZES

IN 1754 CHARLES, third VISCOUNT TOWNSHEND, offered two annual Prizes, of twenty guineas each, to encourage the study of the Theory of Trade, in view of 'the infinite advantage which would result to the public if young men could be led early in Life to a diligent study and correct knowledge of a Science so very important in it self and so intimately connected with the affairs and interests of this Kingdom as the subject of Trade is.' The Prizes were to be awarded to the authors of 'the two best Dissertations which shall be made by Gentlemen of the University of any Rank or Degree' upon set subjects included within the Theory of Trade. The gift was accepted in 1755 and the Prizes were awarded in that year for Dissertations on the subject 'In what manner do Trade and Civil Liberty support and assist each other'; but in the following year the donor was greatly dissatisfied with the action of the Vice-Chancellor in passing over altogether the first subject suggested by him: 'What influence has Trade on the Morals of a Nation?' and amending the form of another suggested subject so as to read: 'What causes principally contribute to render a nation populous?' and he therefore resolved 'to let the Institution drop.'

1755 William Hazeland, M.A., Fellow of St John's.
Guyon Griffith, M.A., Fellow of Clare.

1756 William Lobb, B.A., Fellow of Peterhouse.
William Bell, B.A., Fellow of Magdalene.

SMITH'S PRIZES AND RAYLEIGH PRIZES

ROBERT SMITH, B.A. 1711, M.A. 1715, LL.D. 1723, and D.D. 1739, Fellow of Trinity, was Plumian Professor of Astronomy and Experimental Philosophy 1716—1760, and succeeded Bentley as Master of Trinity 20 July 1742. He died 2 February 1768, and bequeathed £3500 to Trustees, partly to augment the salary of the Plumian Professor (see p. 86) and partly to be given 'in equal portions as premiums to two Junior Bachelors of Arts' who, having been 'examined by the Trustees, shall appear to them the best proficient in Mathematics and Natural Philosophy,' the preference, ceteris paribus, being given to 'the candidates of Trinity College.' The Trustees named in the Will were the Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor, the Master of Trinity, and the Lucasian, Plumian, and Lowndean Professors for the time being, and the Testator desired them 'to accept of a handsome dinner once a year as a small acknowledgment for their trouble in discharging this Trust.'

In 1883 the Smith's Prizes ceased to be awarded by means of a special Mathematical Examination and were given for the two best Essays by Bachelors of Arts on a subject in Mathematics or Natural Philosophy. The present value (1915) of the Smith's Prizes is about £23 each. In 1908 a sum of £812 was handed over to the University by a number of scientific friends of Lord Rayleigh to establish one or more Rayleigh Prizes to be awarded annually to Essays of high merit remaining after the two Smith's Prizes have been awarded.

SIR WILLIAM BROWNE'S MEDALS

SIR WILLIAM BROWNE, Kt., B.A. 1711, M.A. 1714, M.D. 1721, of Peterhouse, President of the College of Physicians, Founder of the Browne Scholarship (see p. 263), who died 10 March 1774, directed three Gold Medals, value five guineas each, to be given yearly to three Undergraduates on Commencement Day, when the exercises of the successful candidates were to be publicly read. According to the terms of the Will, one Medal was to be given for 'the best Greek Ode in imitation of Sappho,' the second for 'the best Latin Ode in imitation of Horace,' and the third for 'the best Greek Epigram after the Model of Anthologia, and the best Latin Epigramm after the Model of Martial' on subjects of the Vice-Chancellor's appointing, which Odes 'shall be fairly written, dated, and subscribed by the Authors in a Book, to be laid on the Register's Table, at every Commencement, for public Inspection.' Three of these volumes containing the successful exercises from 1775 to 1829 are preserved in the Registry.

A new Statute for the Medals, approved by the Queen in Council, 6 April 1858, authorised the division of the prize into two Medals of half the original value, should the best Greek and the best Latin Epigram be not written by the same person, and in 1866 the Earl of Powis, soon after he became High Steward, conveyed £200 to the University in order that each Medal might be of the uniform value of five guineas.

HULSEAN PRIZE

THE Reverend JOHN HULSE, B.A. 1728, of St John's College, who died 14 December 1790 at the age of 82, bequeathed to the University certain estates for the advancement of religious learning (see p. 97), and directed in his Will that out of the rents and profits an annual premium should be given to such 'learned and ingenious person' in the University, under the degree or standing of M.A., who should compose 'the best dissertation in the English language on the evidence in general or on the prophecies or miracles in particular, or any other particular argument, whether the same be direct or collateral proofs of the Christian Religion, in order to evince its truth and excellence.'

By a Statute confirmed by the Queen in Council, Aug. 1, 1860, the share of the 'Dissertator' is to be one-tenth part of the net income of Mr Hulse's Benefaction. The value of the Prize is now (1915) about £60.

BUCHANAN PRIZES

IN 1804 CLAUDIUS BUCHANAN, B.A. 1796, D.D. 1809, of Queens' College, Vice-Provost of Fort William College, Bengal, gave to the University £210 for four Prize Compositions: (1) £100 for the best English Dissertation, 'on the best means of civilizing the subjects of the British Empire in India; and of diffusing the light of the Christian Religion throughout the Eastern World'; (2) £60 for the best English Poem 'On the restoration of Learning in the East'; (3) £25 for the best Greek Ode on the subject Ἐνέσθω φῶς, 'Let there be light'; and (4) £25 for the best Latin Poem on the subject 'Collegium Bengalense.' The first and second were open to Masters of Arts and the third and fourth to Bachelors and Undergraduates.

- 1804 1. William Cockburn, M.A., Fellow of St John's.
 2. Charles Grant, M.A., Fellow of Magdalene.
 3. George Pryme, B.A., Trinity.
 4. George Pierce Richards, King's.

Mr Buchanan was so pleased with 'the good effects which have resulted from the institution of' his former Prizes, that in 1805 he proposed to give £500 to the University for the best work in English Prose 'embracing the following subjects: (1) The probable design of the divine Providence in subjecting so large a portion of Asia to the British dominion; (2) The Duty; the Means; and the Consequences of translating the Scriptures into the Oriental Tongues; and of promoting Christian knowledge in Asia; (3) A brief historic view of the progress of the Gospel in different nations, since its first promulgation; illustrated by Maps shewing its luminous tract throughout the world; with chronological notices of its duration in particular places. The regions of Mahomedanism to be marked with red; and those of Paganism with a dark colour.' The Prize, which was open to members of the University of Oxford also, was never awarded.

In 1806 Mr Buchanan again wrote to the Vice-Chancellor enclosing 'a copy of Proposals for translating the Scriptures into the Oriental Languages,' for submission to 'the principal members' of the University, and proposing that two Sermons should be preached before the University on the subject of Oriental Translations, each preacher to receive thirty guineas on delivery of a printed copy of his sermon to the Donor. By Grace of 16 January 1807 the selection of the Preachers was entrusted to the Vice-Chancellor, the Regius and Norrisian Professors of Divinity, and the two Proctors.

CHANCELLOR'S ENGLISH MEDAL

HIS Royal Highness WILLIAM FREDERICK, DUKE OF GLOUCESTER, Chancellor of the University from 1811 to 1834, offered, probably on the occasion of his installation, 28 June to 3 July 1811, to give annually a Gold Medal, to be conferred upon a resident Undergraduate who should compose in English the best Ode, or the best Poem in heroic verse. This prize has been continued by succeeding Chancellors. The original Regulations for the Medal appointed as Examiners for all three Chancellor's Medals (Classics, English Verse, and Legal Studies), the Vice-Chancellor, the Provost of King's, the Masters of Trinity, St John's, Peterhouse, Clare Hall, and Christ's, 'the Senior resident Fellow of Trinity College who has gained a Medal,' the Public Orator, the Greek Professor, and the Professor of Modern History.

PORSON PRIZE

IN 1792, when the Fellowship at Trinity held by RICHARD PORSON expired, a sum of about £2,000 was subscribed with a view to purchasing an annuity for him, but Porson declined to accept more than the interest on this sum during his life, and after his death, 25 September 1808, part of it was applied to the foundation of a Prize in books for the best translation in Greek verse. The Prize was accepted by the University in 1816, and in 1858 a new Statute for it was approved by the Queen in Council, but no Regulations were drawn up until 1898 (Grace, June 9, 1898). Present value (1915), about £11 in books.

CAMDEN AND POWIS MEDALS

A MEDAL was originally given in 1841 by GEORGE CHARLES, second MARQUIS CAMDEN, to mark his sense of the respect shewn by the University to his father, who had been Chancellor from 1834-40. The Prize was for the best Poem in Latin Hexameter Verse.

The Marquis died in 1866, but the Medal was continued by the late EARL OF POWIS, High Steward of the University, and by the present EARL OF POWIS until the year 1910 when it was discontinued, its place being taken by the Montagu Butler Prize (see p. 342).

SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND PRIZE

THE friends of Lieutenant-General Sir PEREGRINE MAITLAND, K.C.B., late Commander-in-Chief of the forces in South India<sup>1</sup>, being desirous of testifying their respect and esteem for his character and principles, and for his disinterested zeal in the cause of Christian truth in the East, raised a Memorial Fund, part of which was to be applied to the institution of a Prize in one of the Universities.

In pursuance of the foregoing scheme, the sum of £1000 was given to the University of Cambridge in 1844 for the purpose of instituting a Prize, offered once in every three years, to be called Sir Peregrine Maitland's Prize, for an English Essay on some subject connected with the propagation of the Gospel through Missionary exertions in India and other parts of the heathen world.

Besides the £1000 before mentioned, the sum of £100 was given for the first Prize.

The present value (1915) is about £125.

MUIR PRIZE

IN 1845 Mr JOHN MUIR, the orientalist, who was then in the service of the East India Company, at the suggestion of the Bishop of Calcutta, Dr Daniel Wilson, offered £500 to the University as a Prize. The object of the proposal was 'to cause to be written such a Treatise on the Evidences of Christianity as may in substance and form be best suited for the conviction of Hindus, learned in their own philosophical systems; together with such a refutation of Hinduism as may be necessary to establish the exclusive claims and authority of Christianity, as an object of faith and rule of life for the whole of mankind.' A preliminary prize of £100 was to be offered for a Dissertation on 'The Principles of Historical Evidence, applied to discriminate between the authority of the Christian Scriptures and of the religious books of the Hindus,' and the Graduate of the University to whom this Prize should be awarded was to receive the further sum of £400 on the publication of the larger Treatise.

The offer was accepted by Grace, 13 May 1846, and the author of the Prize Essay expanded it in due course into the larger work and published it in 1858 under the title Christianity and Hinduism.

1848 Rowland Williams, M.A., Fellow of King's.

BURNEY PRIZE

IN 1845 RICHARD BURNEY, B.A. 1822, M.A. 1838, of Christ's College, previously to his death on Nov. 30 of that year, empowered his cousin, Archdeacon Burney, to offer to the University through the Vice-Chancellor the sum of £3500 for the purpose of establishing an annual Prize, to be awarded to the Graduate who should produce the best English Essay on some moral and metaphysical subject, on the Existence, Nature, and Attributes of God, or on the Truth and Evidence of the Christian Religion. On the day after this offer was communicated to the Vice-Chancellor, Mr Burney died; but his sister and executrix, Miss Jane Caroline Burney, made over to the University a sum amounting to £3720. 8s. 10d. by an Indenture dated Jan. 19, 1847. The foundation of the Prize is dated from 1846, when Miss Burney's offer was accepted by the University.

In 1907 it was found possible also to establish a Burney Studentship (see p. 285), and both the Studentship and the Prize were assigned to the Philosophy of Religion, these words being interpreted so as to include Christian Ethics and questions relating to the truth and evidence of the Christian Religion.

Richard Burney was nephew to Frances Burney, afterwards Madame D'Arblay. He was born in India, where his father was in the service of the East India Company, and spent a large part of his life there; but in 1818 he entered Christ's as a Fellow Commoner at the age of 28. The long interval between his B.A. and M.A. degrees is explained by his returning to India after his first degree.

The present value (1915) of the Prize is £50.

LE BAS PRIZE

THIS Prize was founded in memory of the Reverend CHARLES WEBB LE BAS, B.A. 1800, M.A. 1803, formerly Fellow of Trinity, Mathematical Professor and Dean at Haileybury 1813–37, and Principal 1837–43, who died 25 January 1861.

A large number of members of the Civil Service of India who were students at the East India College at Haileybury at various intervals during the thirty years that he was connected with that institution, desirous of testifying their regard for Mr Le Bas, and of perpetuating the memory of his services, raised a Fund amounting to about £1920, which they offered to the University in 1848 for founding an annual Prize, to be called the Le Bas Prize, 'for the best English Essay on a subject of General Literature, such subject to be occasionally chosen with reference to the history, institutions, and probable destinies and prospects of the Anglo-Indian empire.'

The offer was accepted and Regulations approved by Grace of 22 November 1848. In 1857 the Council of the Senate proposed a new Statute for the Prize, which was accepted by Grace of 10 December, and approved by the Queen in Council, 6 April 1858. The Regulations have since been further modified. The value of the Prize is at present (1915) about £100.

WHEWELL MORAL PHILOSOPHY PRIZES

IN 1849 WILLIAM WHEWELL, D.D., Master of Trinity and Professor of Moral Philosophy, offered two Prizes of fifteen pounds each, to be given every year, so long as he held the Professorship, to the two persons who, as Commencing Bachelors, should shew the greatest proficiency in Moral Philosophy in the Examination for the Moral Sciences Tripos, provided that in the judgment of the Examiners they possessed sufficient merit. This was accepted by Grace of December 5, 1849.

1851 Fenton John Anthony Hort, Trin.
Andrew Wilson, Trin.

In 1851 he offered a Prize of twenty pounds, to be given every year for the next four years, to the person who should shew the greatest proficiency in Moral Philosophy in the Middle Bachelors' Moral Sciences Tripos Examination, appointed to commence in 1852, provided that in the judgment of the Examiners he possessed sufficient merit. This was accepted by Grace of October 29, 1851.

Dr Whewell resigned the Professorship in 1855 and the Prizes were not continued.

CARUS GREEK TESTAMENT PRIZES

SEVERAL friends of WILLIAM CARUS, B.A. 1827, M.A. 1830, Canon of Winchester, and late Senior Fellow of Trinity College, desirous of testifying their regard to him during his lifetime, raised a Fund amounting to £500, which they offered to the University 'for the purpose of founding a yearly Prize or Prizes for the encouragement of the accurate Study of the Greek Testament.' This was accepted by Grace of the Senate, Feb. 2, 1853.

Mr Carus himself gave to the University the sum of £500 to augment the Prize Fund, which was accepted by Grace, May 25, 1853.

A member of Trinity College offered in 1894 the sum of £100 to augment the Prize Fund, 'as a thank-offering for the instruction received by him, while an undergraduate, from the late Canon Carus, especially in his Sunday-evening addresses in the room over Trinity Gate.' This was accepted by Grace of the Senate, February 1, 1894.

The present value (1915) of the Prizes is about £11 in books.

CHANCELLOR'S MEDAL FOR LEGAL STUDIES

IN 1854 His Royal Highness the PRINCE CONSORT, then Chancellor of the University, gave annually a Gold Medal for the encouragement of Legal Studies in the University. This was awarded by means of an examination in the Elements of Roman Civil Law, the Principles of International Law, the Constitutional History and Constitutional Law of England, and the Principles of the General Law of England, viz. of the Law of Real Property, the Law of Personal Property, Criminal Law, and Equity; but the Examination was to be so conducted as not to give an undue advantage to students who had adopted the Law as a profession.

The Prize was continued by the succeeding Chancellors until 1885, after which date the Medal has been given as "The Chancellor's Medal for the Encouragement of the Study of English Law" (see below).

SCHOLEFIELD PRIZE

THE Reverend JAMES SCHOLEFIELD, B.A. 1813, M.A. 1816, Fellow of Trinity, and Regius Professor of Greek 1825-53, died 4 April 1853, and in 1856 his friends, wishing to establish a memorial of him in the University, presented the sum of £532 to the University, to be applied to the encouragement of the critical study of the Holy Scriptures. This sum was accepted by Grace of the Senate, April 30, 1856, and a Prize founded to be called the Scholefield Prize. It is now given to that candidate for the Second Part of the Theological Tripos who is judged by the Examiners to have shewn the best knowledge of the Greek Testament. [By Grace of May 30, 1914, two Prizes, one of £20 and one of £8, were established.]

KAYE PRIZE

THIS Prize originated with a committee of subscribers to a memorial which it was proposed to erect at Lincoln to JOHN KAYE, B.A. 1804, M.A. 1807, D.D. 1815, Master of Christ's 1814-30, Regius Professor of Divinity 1816-27, Bishop of Bristol 1820-7, and Bishop of Lincoln 1827 to his death, 18 February 1853. After erecting a monument to him in the Cathedral, a surplus of £500 remained in their hands, and it was at first proposed to found a Kaye Scholarship to be given to that candidate who passed second in the examination for the Crosse Scholarship (see p. 269). Dr Ainslie, Master of Pembroke, who was consulted on behalf of the Committee, pointed out, however, that this scheme 'made what can only be called a secondary recognition of the merits of one who was himself second to none,' and suggested instead a Prize for an English Dissertation. This suggestion was adopted, and in 1861 the Committee offered the sum of £500 for the foundation of a Prize to be called the Kaye Prize, to be given every fourth year to the Graduate of not more than ten years' standing from his first degree who should write the best English Dissertation upon some subject or question relating to Ancient Ecclesiastical History, to the Canon of Scripture, or to important points of Biblical criticism. The offer was accepted by Grace of the Senate, June 6, 1861. Present value (1915), about £60.

WINCHESTER READING PRIZES

THE Founder of these Prizes was Mr JOHN NOBLE, of Park Place, Henley-on-Thames, who in 1866 offered to the University anonymously a fund producing £40 a year 'for the encouragement of Elocution, or in other words good reading, among Candidates for Holy Orders.' The restriction to candidates for Orders was afterwards withdrawn, and the Benefaction was accepted by Grace, 14 November 1867. The 'Winchester Prizes' were so called at the Donor's request. His name was not made public until 1888. Present value (1915), about £16 and £8.

EVANS PRIZE

A SUM amounting to £300 was offered to the University in 1869 by friends of the late ROBERT WILSON EVANS, B.A. 1811, M.A. 1814, B.D. 1842, Archdeacon of Westmorland, formerly Fellow and Tutor of Trinity College, for the purpose of founding "a prize or prizes bearing the late Archdeacon's name, to be given annually to those students who distinguished themselves in the...Theological Examination at Cambridge." This was accepted by Grace of the Senate, March 13, 1869.

The Prize was formerly given to that candidate for the Second Part of the Theological Tripos who was judged by the Examiners to stand first in Ecclesiastical History and the Greek and Latin Fathers; [but by Grace of May 30, 1914, new Regulations were adopted, to come into force in 1915, by which the Prize will be awarded by an Examination in the Michaelmas Term of each year on selected Greek and Latin ecclesiastical writings earlier than 461 A.D. The value of the Prize is now £10].

YORKE PRIZE

EDMUND YORKE, B.A. 1810, M.A. 1813, late Fellow of St Catharine's Hall, 'having in view the advancement of sound learning as well as of moral and practical Christian principles worthy of a progressive age,' bequeathed in 1871 by a codicil to his Will a sum of £3989 to the Masters of Trinity and Magdalene and their successors for the purpose of founding two annual Prizes to be awarded half-yearly for an Essay on the Law of Primogeniture. The Prizes were to be given to the author of the best essay 'upon the consistency or inconsistency of the law of primogeniture with the dictates of nature as well as with the spirit and precepts of the Christian Religion; regard being had in the merits of the essay to the numerous Scriptures applicable to the subject which are to be construed not so much by their text as by their context and their bearing upon the English law referred to and how far such law in its practical operation is in conformity with the reciprocal obligations...taught by Our...Lord...in his answer to the question of the Lawyer as recorded in St Matthew's Gospel...'

It was found impossible literally to carry out the terms of the Will 'with advantage to the University or so as to fulfil the main design of the Testator,' but a modified scheme received the sanction of the Court of Chancery, June 1, 1875: a capital sum of £3689 being transferred to the University.

The Yorke Prize is now awarded annually to the author of the best Essay upon some subject relating to 'The Law of Property, its Principles and History in various Ages and Countries.' Present value (1915), about £115.

GEORGE WILLIAMS PRIZE

IN 1882 a sum amounting to £300 was offered to the University by friends of GEORGE WILLIAMS, B.A. 1837, M.A. 1840, B.D. 1848, Vicar of Ringwood, formerly Fellow of King's College, who died 26 January 1878, for the purpose of founding an annual Prize, to be called the George Williams Prize, to be given to students who distinguish themselves in the Theological Tripos.

The Prize was originally given to the candidate for the Second Part of the Theological Tripos who was judged by the Examiners to stand first in the papers on Doctrine and the Ancient Liturgies; but by Grace of March 9, 1907, new Regulations were substituted for those previously in force. These established a special Examination, to be held in the Michaelmas Term, consisting of two papers on the principles and history of Christian Worship and the Book of Common Prayer, with special reference to selected Liturgies, Breviaries, Ordines, and Hymns. The value of the Prize is £10.

PRINCE CONSORT PRIZE

At a meeting of the subscribers to the Memorial to His Royal Highness the PRINCE CONSORT, held on June 12, 1883, it was resolved to transfer the surplus of the Memorial Fund to the University, to found 'a Prize or Scholarship, to bear the Prince Consort's name, for the promotion of Historical Studies' in such manner as the Senate may from time to time determine. This offer was accepted by the Senate on June 23, 1883. The sum transferred to the University by the subscribers to the Prince Consort Memorial amounted to about £1850.

The Prize is given in alternate years with the Thirlwall Prize (see p. 336), beginning with 1888, for a Dissertation involving original historical research. It takes the form of a Bronze Medal only, but the successful Dissertations are printed at the expense of the University.

ROYAL GEOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY'S PRIZES

WHEN the Royal Geographical Society's Exhibition, first offered in 1886 (see p. 278), was not awarded, the Society offered two Prizes of £50 and £25 respectively, for an Essay on a geographical subject. These do not appear to have been adjudged.

WALSINGHAM MEDAL

IN 1891 LORD WALSINGHAM, High Steward of the University, offered to give annually for three years a Gold Medal for the best Monograph or Essay giving evidence of original research in any subject coming under the cognisance of the Special Board for Biology and Geology. The offer was accepted by Grace of the Senate, Dec. 3, 1891. In 1895 Lord Walsingham announced his intention of continuing the Medal, and in 1898 he offered to give a bronze replica of the Medal to be awarded as a second Medal in any year in which two essays of nearly equal or of exceptional merit were received.

The Medal was awarded for an Essay embodying the results of original research on any Botanical, Geological, or Zoological subject; Zoology being understood to include Animal Morphology and Physiology, and an Essay on any subject of Chemical Physiology being valued according to its Physiological rather than its Chemical importance. [It was, however, discontinued after 1913.]

ADAM SMITH PRIZE

WHEN the period of five years for which the 'Marshall Political Economy Prize' (see p. 336) had been offered was about to expire, Professor Marshall offered to substitute for it a triennial Essay Prize, the Essays being sent in at times midway between those proposed for the Cobden Prize Essays (see p. 333); and Regulations proposed by Professor Marshall were confirmed by Grace of the Senate, March 5, 1891. In 1909 Professor Pigou offered to continue to give the Adam Smith Prize formerly given by Professor Marshall. The offer was accepted by Grace of the Senate, Nov. 25, 1909. [In 1913 Dr Marshall offered to provide a permanent endowment for the Prize, and Professor Pigou undertook to contribute in any year in which a Prize is awarded whatever may be required to bring its value up to £40. New Regulations for the Prize were accordingly adopted by Grace of December 19, 1913, which will have the effect of substituting, in and after the year 1916, an annual Prize of £40 for a triennial Prize of £60.] The Essays are on some unsettled question in Economic Science, or in some branch of Economic History or Statistics subsequent to the year 1800 A.D.

TYSON MEDAL

MR HENRY TYSON, formerly Manager of the Bank of Westmorland, Kendal, who died 27 March 1852, made a bequest to the University of Cambridge, by his Will dated 13 August 1851, as follows:

"That the sum of three hundred pounds be paid to the Cambridge University the interest annually to be for a gold medal for the best proficient in Mathematics and Astronomy in the same way as Dr Smith's and to bear the donor's name."

The bequest was subject to the life interest of his widow, who died in 1880, but by inadvertence no steps were taken to establish the Medal until 1893, when Regulations were approved by Grace of the Senate, June 15, 1893.

The Medal is awarded annually to that candidate for Part II of the Mathematical Tripos who shall in the judgment of the examiners acquit himself best in Astronomy including related subjects as contained in Schedule B of the Regulations for the Examination, provided his work in these subjects be of sufficient merit and provided further that such candidate be placed in the first class.

WILTSHIRE PRIZE

IN 1900 the Reverend THOMAS WILTSHIRE, B.A. 1850, M.A. 1853, Hon. Sc.D. 1899, of Trinity College, Professor of Geology and Mineralogy in King's College, London, 1881-96, offered to the University a sum of £200, with the object of promoting the study of Geology and Mineralogy by the foundation of a University Prize to be awarded annually for proficiency in these two subjects.

The offer was accepted by Grace of June 14, 1900. The Prize is awarded in June of each year on the results of the First Part of the Natural Sciences Tripos. Present value (1915), about £7. 10s.

Mr Wiltshire died 25 October 1902.

1901 Edwin Roy Watson, Jesus.

1902 Owen Thomas Jones, Trin.

1903 Alfred Blackie, Pet.

Henry Herbert Hodgson, Trin. } Aeq.

1904 Hubert Arthur Wootton, Clare. } Aeq.

James Arnold Crowther, Joh. }

1905 Alexander McDonald, Emm.

1906 William Arthur Reginald Wilks, Caius.

1908 Walter Campbell Smith, Corpus.

1909 Ernest Sheppard Pinfold, Pet.

1910 John Mitchell Lee, Trin. H.

Proxime accessit: 1908, A. H. Noble, Queens'.

Deserving of honourable mention: 1909, P. Stocks, King's.

Note:—Whenever there is an omission of a year, no Prize was adjudged.

GLADSTONE MEMORIAL PRIZE

IN 1899 the Committee of the Liberal Memorial to WILLIAM EWART GLADSTONE offered to the University an annual Prize of books of the value of £10 for proficiency in History, Political Science, and Economics, or one of these subjects. The offer was accepted by Grace of June 6, 1901.

The Prize is given in every year at the discretion of the Examiners to that candidate for Honours in the First Part or the Second Part of the Historical Tripos who acquits himself best in any one of the above-mentioned subjects; provided that the Prize is only awarded in cases of distinguished merit.

1901 Harold William Vazeille Temperley, King's.	1906 Zachary Nugent Brooke, Joh. Dudley William Ward, Joh.
1902 Arnold John Hugh Smith, Trin.	1907 Charles William Previté-Orton, Joh.
1903 William Mitchell, Cath.	1908 John Eric Sidney Green, Pet. } Aeq.
1904 Charles Ryle Fay, King's.	Frank Dulcker Purser, Trin. }
Charles Stanley Phillips, King's. } Aeq.	1909 Noël Compton-Burnett, King's.
	1910 James Ramsay Montagu Butler, Trin.

JOHN WINBOLT PRIZE

IN 1903 Mrs WINBOLT offered to the University the sum of £500 in order to found an annual Prize in Civil Engineering, in memory of her husband, JOHN STEDDY WINBOLT, B.A. 1864, M.A. 1867, of Trinity College, to be called the John Winbolt Prize. The offer was accepted, and Regulations were confirmed by Grace of the Senate, Feb. 25, 1904. The Prize is awarded for an exercise on some subject related to the Profession of a Civil Engineer. Present value (1915), about £15.

1905 Frank Rogers, Non Coll.	1909 Edward Teshmaker Busk, King's.
1907 John Edward Sears, Joh.	1910 Alec Birks Eason, Jesus.
1908 Laurence Beddome Turner, King's.

Deserving of honourable mention : 1908, E. T. Busk, King's.

GORDON WIGAN PRIZE

A PRIZE of £50 from the Gordon Wigan Fund (see p. 284) is usually awarded at the end of the Easter Term in each year for a research in Chemistry of sufficient merit carried out in the University.

1906 Francis Edward Everard Lamplough, Trin.	1908 Leonard Angelo Levy, Clare.
1907 Frank Buckney, Sidney.	1909 Hubert Sanderson Tasker, Emm.
	1910 John Thomas, Trin.

FRANK SMART PRIZES

FRANCIS GRAY SMART, B.A. 1867, M.A. and M.B. 1870, gave in 1909 £600 in order to found two Prizes to be awarded in each year, one for Botany and one for Zoology. The Regulations adopted by Grace of the Senate, June 17, 1909, provide for their being awarded by a specially constituted Board. Present value (1915), about £10 each.

1910 Alfred James Wilmott, Joh. (Botany).
John Tennant Saunders, Christ's (Zoology).

MONTAGU BUTLER PRIZE

THE Reverend HENRY MONTAGU BUTLER, D.D., Master of Trinity College, having offered to pay to the University the sum of £250 for the endowment of a Prize in books for the best original Poem in Latin Hexameter Verse, the offer was accepted and Regulations were approved by Grace of the Senate, June 16, 1910. The value of the Prize is about £10.

HOPKINS PRIZE

FOUNDED by the Cambridge Philosophical Society in memory of WILLIAM HOPKINS, B.A. 1827, M.A. 1830, of Peterhouse, mathematician and geologist, Esquire Bedell 1827-66, who died in 1866. The Prize, the value of which is about £90, is awarded under the following Regulations:

1. That the Prize be called "THE HOPKINS PRIZE."
2. That this Prize be adjudged once in three years.
3. That it be adjudged for the best original memoir, invention, or discovery, in connexion with Mathematico-physical or Mathematico-experimental science that may have been published during the three years immediately preceding, but that the adjudicators be at liberty, if it seems to them advisable in any particular case, to award the prize for a discovery in Mathematics alone, or in Experimental Physics alone, or for one which has not been published within the forementioned period.
4. That it be confined to those who are or have been Members of the University of Cambridge.
5. That the fund be vested in the Cambridge Philosophical Society, and the Prize adjudged by three Fellows of the Society, nominated by the Council of the Society for each occasion.
6. That, in the event of any difficulty arising in carrying out the above provisions in any particular instance, either from lack of a prize-subject of sufficient merit, or from any other cause, the Council of the Cambridge Philosophical Society be at liberty to carry over the amount of the Prize for that term towards augmenting the fund for future prizes, or to award it to some one not a member of the University.

1867 George Gabriel Stokes, M.A., Fellow of Pembroke, Lucasian Professor of Mathematics.

1870 James Clerk Maxwell, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1873 Lord Rayleigh, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1876 Sir William Thomson, LL.D., Fellow of Peterhouse.

1879 George Howard Darwin, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1882 Richard Tetley Glazebrook, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1885 William Mitchinson Hicks, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

1888 Horace Lamb, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1891 Joseph John Thomson, M.A., Fellow of Trinity, Cavendish Professor of Experimental Physics.

1894 William Davidson Niven, M.A., Fellow of Trinity.

1897 Joseph Larmor, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

1900 Sydney Samuel Hough, M.A., Fellow of St John's.

1903 John Henry Poynting, Sc.D., Fellow of Trinity.

Old Degrees and Privileges

THE following section deals briefly with certain degrees granted by the University, and with various privileges allowed, in former times. Before detailing these degrees and diplomas, it may be stated that the old Grace-Books<sup>1</sup> abound with exemptions granted to members of the University dispensing them from various Academical requirements. These "graces" throw considerable light upon the studies and the customs of different periods, and they shew that at times more degrees were "gratiosi" than "rigorosi," at any rate in the higher faculties<sup>2</sup>.

A form of graduation which obtained of old was that of 'Master in Grammar.'<sup>3</sup> For this degree, which ranked lower than that of arts, certain lectures on Priscian were required, while the candidate had also to submit himself to examination by three masters, before he could be presented by a master in grammar or by the Master of the Glomery<sup>4</sup>. The ceremonies at the creation of a "M.Gram.," ferulâ et virgis, were so picturesque that room must be found for the following curious description<sup>5</sup> thereof:

"Whan the Father hath arguyde as shall plesse the Proctour, the Bedyll in Arte shall bring the Master of Gramer to the Vicechauncelar, delyvering hym a Palmer wyth a Rodde, whych the Vycechauncelar shall gyve to the seyde Master in Gramer, & so create hym Master. Than shall the Bedell purvay for every master in Gramer a shrewde Boy, whom the master in Gramer shall bete openlye in the Scolys, & the master in Gramer shall give the Boye a Grote for hys Labour, & another Grote to hym that provydeth the Rode and the Palmer &c. de singulis. And thus endythe the Acte in that Facultye."

The last record<sup>6</sup> of a degree in grammar refers to Geoffrey Gethyn, in the year 1547-8.

In mediæval times, the study<sup>7</sup> of Canon Law stood next in importance to that of Theology. Statute 122<sup>8</sup> deals with the course required in this faculty. Degrees in Canon Law were forbidden by the Royal Injunctions in 1536, upon the ground that the study of the decretals of the popes and the recognition of their authority was contrary to the exercise and acknowledgment of the king's supremacy in matters ecclesiastical as well as civil. But during the Marian reaction, certain degrees were taken in this faculty, Hugh Griffin, for instance, proceeding D.Can.L. in 1556, and William Smith, a Fellow of Trinity Hall, graduating as a Bachelor of Canon Law in the following year. Indeed, as regards the study of the Sentences, it may be remarked that so late as the year 1559, when Mr Porye, the Master of Corpus, took his D.D., the corresponding entry in Grace-Book Δ refers to "Studium 10 annorum in theologia post introitum in libros sententiarum." It is not necessary to dwell upon the old Civil Law degree; but it may be added that degrees in utroque jure were now and again taken.

With regard to the religiosi, it will be noticed in the early Grace-Books<sup>1</sup> that time in a cloister was often allowed to count as time in the University; yet the feeling against the friars was so great that, by a statute passed in 1369 only one member of the same house (of the four mendicant orders) was allowed to incept in each year. Not infrequently, however, graces granting leave of "concurrence" appear as exemptions from this statute.

An echo of this may be heard after the Reformation, when we meet with the class<sup>2</sup> subsequently known as "Ten-year-men."<sup>3</sup> They were first specifically provided for in the Statutes of Edward VI; this privilege of obtaining the B.D. without previous graduation in Arts had, as just hinted at, been long enjoyed by monks and friars, in accordance, it is supposed, with Statuta Antiqua 107.

Before referring to medical and surgical degrees and licences, it should be stated that, in accordance with its general practice (to which certain exceptions have just been noted) the University carefully required previous graduation. It will have been seen from certain Grace-Books<sup>4</sup>, that, besides degrees in Medicine, certain candidates were allowed to practise (practicantes); and so in Surgery. Thus to take an example<sup>5</sup>: "Turswell Tho... *King's... p. M. 1566... A.B. 1570-1; Pr. in Chir. 1572; A.M. 1574; M.L. 1578 (and 1581), and M.D. 1583." This, being interpreted, means that Thomas Turswell, a Fellow of King's, matriculated as a Pensioner in the Michaelmas Term of 1566; took his degree as a Bachelor of Arts in 1570-1; received a licence to practise in Surgery in 1572; proceeded M.A. in 1574; was granted a medical licence in 1578 (and, again, as we learn from Grace-Book Δ, in 1581) and took his full doctor's degree in that faculty in 1583 (when, it may be added, also on the authority of Δ, curious details are given of Dr Turswell's own illness).

Speaking of licences to practise, it may be noted that similar official permits were granted to certain students in law; e.g. 'Renawld de hospicio burdon admissus ad practicandum in lege' (Grace-Book B II, p. 55); 'scolares admissi ad practicandum in Curia' (id., p. 77); 'admissi ad practicandum in jure civili—Richardus Peers solus' (id., p. 95). Professor Clark<sup>1</sup> has pointed out that they were probably licentiates, not taking the full degree on account of the expense, but qualified therefor.

The University authorities<sup>2</sup> in certain cases granted letters "testificatory," letters of "conversation," issued under the seal; e.g. "Conceditur fratri laurencis Christiam carmelite ut habeat literas testificatorias sui gradus accepti in hac universitate suscepti"; similarly a certificate (literae conversationis) was granted to Hugh Latimer, B.D., in 1532-3.

Most of the degrees and licences hitherto mentioned have been earned by study, residence, and examination; some of those now to be mentioned are honorary or partly so.

The following extract from Grace-Book B I, p. 54, under date 1493, is of singular interest: "John Skelton, poet, having been crowned with laurel at Oxford, and also in parts beyond sea, shall receive the same decoration from ourselves." Later on, in 1504-5, another Grace<sup>3</sup> honours him with the same degree which he had at the sister University, and permits him "to use the dress allowed him by the Prince." This dress was of white and green, on which was embroidered the word CALLIOPE.

Undergraduates of King's College, for a very long period, obtained the B.A. and M.A. without any University examination. They competed for most of the classical scholarships and prizes, but till 1853 their names never appear in the Tripos lists. These exemptions are discussed by Peacock<sup>4</sup>, Austen Leigh<sup>5</sup>, Venn<sup>6</sup>, and other writers. Soon after the appointment of Richard Okes to the Provostship, the privilege or abuse was surrendered.

The Grace-Books shew that, from early times, noblemen and men of station were admitted to degrees under exceptional circumstances. In 1577, a question having arisen as to what persons were as nobles thus capable of graduating without observing the statutes as to time and exercises, the Vice-Chancellor and Heads, by an Interpretation<sup>1</sup> made on the 31st of January, declared that not only barons and those of superior dignity, but also those allied to the Queen by consanguinity or affinity, should be accounted nobles, as also all who were in the vernacular tongue customarily called "honourable personages, sive men, women, or maids of honour," and their sons, being their nearest heirs. On May 31st, 1786, a further Interpretation<sup>2</sup> was issued as to the degrees of noblemen, and those who proceed to their degrees, tanquam Nobiles. But on the 18th of March 1825, a Grace<sup>3</sup> was passed requiring noblemen to be examined before admission to any degree.

Certain degrees were conferred by Royal mandate; an example<sup>4</sup> of such a letter occurred in 1623 in the case of John Preston, B.D., Master of Emmanuel. A similar mandate<sup>5</sup> signed by Oliver Cromwell in 1658 claimed a musical degree for Benjamin Rogers. The Parliamentary Visitors had also been responsible for several graduations by mandate about the year 1652.

On the occasion of royal visits, honorary degrees were often conferred, sometimes on a large scale. (But this practice is not merely a matter of the past.) Queen Elizabeth's far-famed visit in the year 1564 formed such an opportunity. The Esquire Bedells reaped a harvest of rewards and fees from the noble and worshipful visitors on such occasions; in 1594-5, for instance, one of these officials<sup>6</sup> tells us: "My lord of Essex gave unto the Bedells v lib., my lord of Shrewsbury gave the Bedells v lib., Sir William Bowes, 30s., etc., etc., Mr Elmer gave the Bedels 18s. Reliqui nihil! And so let them go!"

Studies pursued and terms kept at other Universities have always been recognised at Cambridge; and hundreds of Graces granting exemptions or allowing Incorporation may be seen in the records at the Registry. Naturally the University which is most in evidence is that of Oxford. But the Venns<sup>7</sup> in their Matriculations and Degrees also record incorporations<sup>8</sup> from St Andrews, from Glasgow, and from Aberdeen; from Dublin; even from Lambeth; from the London College of Surgeons, and of Physicians, and, during the Protectorate, from Harvard in New England; while between 30 and 40 Continental Universities, including even Douay, are represented in these lists. At the present time, such incorporations are limited to the sister University of Oxford and to the daughter college of Trinity, Dublin.

Reference is made in the next section<sup>1</sup> to the students whose names were inserted<sup>2</sup> in the Tripos list by the Proctors. But it may here be added that these "gratuitous honorati" were further allowed to compete for the Chancellor's Classical Medals. For instance, in the year 1759, W. Stevenson of St John's, S. Berdmore of Jesus, Nic. Brown of Christ's, and J. Hawes of Jesus were not only granted honorary degrees by the prerogative of members of their respective colleges then in office, but their names were actually placed above the Senior Wrangler's in the Tripos List. Furthermore, Mr Hawes was granted permission to present himself for the examination for the Chancellor's Medals for Commencing Bachelors, and was awarded the first of these prizes, the second being adjudged to John Cowper<sup>3</sup>, of Corpus, a brother of the poet.

The University formerly had the power to confer the M.A. degree without a previous B.A., but of this ancient privilege<sup>4</sup> it was deprived by the rigid Elizabethan Statutes of 1572. See Dean Peacock's criticism<sup>5</sup> of the interpretation given in 1575 of the 21st chapter of these Statutes, which was made the foundation of per saltum degrees and which consequently excluded all persons whose names were upon the college boards, and therefore members of the senate, but who had ceased to be proper gremials or permanent residents of the University.

The Tripas<sup>1</sup>

THE mediæval undergraduate was required to study the subjects of the trivium—Latin Grammar, Logic, and Rhetoric. By the Lent Term of his third year of residence he was supposed to have read them, and he had then, as a 'general sophister,' to dispute publicly in the Schools four times—twice as a respondent defending a thesis which he propounded, and twice as an opponent, attacking those asserted by others. The subject-matter of these disputations was a problem in scholastic philosophy. As soon as he had in this way obtained the Bachelor's degree, he was supposed to pass on to the subjects of the quadrivium—Arithmetic, Geometry (including Geography), Music, and Astronomy, but as there was no public test of his knowledge of these subjects, but only a declaration that he had studied them to be made before proceeding to the Master's Degree, it was commonly the case that students would give most of their time to Logic, Metaphysics, or Theology, which then offered the only roads to fame.

But the scholastic philosophy was ridiculed by Erasmus and the New Learning would have none of it. The mediæval system of education may be said to have come to an end in 1535, when the Royal Injunctions forbade the teaching of the 'frivolous questions and obscure glosses' of the schoolmen, and substituted for them the study of classical and biblical literature and of science as it was then understood. The Edwardian Code of 1549 required Mathematics, Dialectics, and the Elements of Philosophy for the Bachelor's Degree, and Perspective, Astronomy, Greek, and further instruction in Philosophy for the Master's Degree; while a resident Master, after acting as Regent (see p. 3, above) for three years, was expected to study Law, Medicine, or Theology. It was about the same time that the Professorial system of instruction was inaugurated. The pioneer was the Lady Margaret, who established in 1502 the Divinity Professorships at Cambridge and Oxford called by her name; but the five Regius Professorships of Divinity, Law, Physics, Hebrew, and Greek, were endowed by Henry VIII in 1540, and the corresponding Professorships at Oxford date from 1546. The Elizabethan Statutes of 1570 omitted Mathematics from the undergraduate course, but made no other important changes in the curriculum, although they laid down with the utmost precision the conditions under which the Exercises necessary for a degree were in future to be performed. It is in these Exercises, themselves in part derived from much earlier customs, that we find the origin of some modern University technical terms and practices.

An undergraduate resided for three years as a member of a College, the period being in practice somewhat shortened by reckoning the time from the term in which his name was placed upon the College boards. During his residence he studied Greek, Arithmetic, Rhetoric, and Logic, and at the end of it became a 'general sophister.' He then attended the incepting Bachelors who were 'standing in quadragesima,' i.e., taking part in the disputations in the Schools which took place in the Lent Term after Ash Wednesday, when incepting Bachelors were required to 'dispute'<sup>1</sup> with any Regent Master who cared to test him and himself to preside over the discussions, criticize the arguments, and sum up. Besides this he read two theses, and kept at least two responsions and two opponencies. At the end of his fourth year he was examined by his College, and if approved became a 'questionist.' He was then examined, some time in the Lent Term before Ash Wednesday, by the Proctors, or by their deputies the 'posers,' afterwards called 'moderators,' and by any other Regents who wished to take part. A supplicat from his College was then presented, and if granted, the Vice-Chancellor admitted him a Bachelor of Arts, upon condition that he 'answered to his questions.' This was a merely formal proceeding in the Schools, at which a question was asked from Aristotle's Analytics, and the Bedells attended to 'knock out' anyone who attempted to argue, by knocking the door so loudly that nothing else could be heard. The questionist was then admitted a Bachelor Designate; and after himself 'standing in quadragesima' until the Thursday before Palm Sunday, received from the Proctors the complete Degree of Bachelor of Arts. The Bachelor of Arts desiring to proceed to the degree of Master of Arts was required to reside, to attend lectures, and to be present at all public Acts kept by Masters. He also had to deliver a declamation, and to keep three responsencies against M.A. opponents, two responsencies against B.A. opponents, and six opponencies against B.A. respondents. The practice of keeping residence, however, declined and in 1608 the Caput formally decided that it should no longer be required for the M.A. Degree, and from this time all the other exercises tended to become mere formalities, until as now, the only real tests of learning imposed by the University were those for the

Bachelor's Degree. It should, moreover, be noticed that, probably from the earliest times, some of the statutable exercises were 'huddled' by the weaker students with the tacit consent of the University authorities; and that in the 18th century the exercises for the higher degrees (if kept at all) were universally performed by 'huddling.'<sup>1</sup>

Although the Elizabethan Statutes had mapped out a course of study for members of the University aspiring to its degrees, it was not possible in practice thus to stereotype education, and in course of time the emphasis upon subjects came to be differently distributed. Very soon after the passing of the Statutes in 1570 the negative critical philosophy and logic of Peter Ramus became dominant in Cambridge, to be displaced about 1650 by the tenets of the Baconian and Cartesian systems; and about fifty years later these gave way in their turn to the philosophy of Locke. But meanwhile the mathematical school was displaying remarkable originality and power, and under the influence of the Newtonian philosophy, Mathematics, which the Statutes of 1570 had reduced to a subject of the second rank, became the leading study of the University. Finally in 1750 it was decided that it was not necessary for a candidate to offer any but Mathematical Subjects.

But although the subjects of education changed, the method of testing the knowledge and ability of candidates remained the same, and the procedure in acts and exercises appears to have altered but little until they came to be gradually displaced by written Examinations. At the beginning of the Lent Term the Proctors (or after 1680 the Moderators) obtained from the Tutors of the Colleges lists of their candidates, which were supplemented by memoranda about the men, and with the aid of these and the general reputation of the students, they selected those who were to keep the acts and opponencies. On the results of the disputations the final list of those qualified to receive degrees was drawn up, but the order was not strictly one of merit, as the Proctors possessed the right of inserting anywhere the names of 'honorary optimes' as they were called, who enjoyed a complimentary distinction not based upon merit. This appears later as the right of the Vice-Chancellor, the Senior Regent, and each Proctor, to place one candidate in the list, a right which existed until 1827 although it does not appear to have been exercised after the Tripos of 1797<sup>2</sup>. Subject, however, to the insertion of these 'honorary optimes' the final list was arranged in order of merit

<sup>1</sup> The statutable exercises for the M.A. Degree were three responsencies, each against a master as opponent, two responsencies against bachelor opponents, and one declamation. The usual procedure was to "declaim" two lines of the Aeneid or of Virgil's first Eclogue; and then to keep three acts with the formula, Recte statuit Newtonus, Woodius, et Paleius. To this the opponent replied (thus keeping three opponencies), Si non recte statuerunt Newtonus, Woodius, et Paleius cadunt quaestiones; sed non recte statuerunt Newtonus, Woodius, et Paleius; ergo cadunt quaestiones. (Ball, History of Mathematics, p. 185; cf. the reminiscences of the late Registrar in Dr Shipley's Memoir of John Willis Clark, p. 39).

<sup>2</sup> On this the Editor of the University Calendar of 1802 remarks: 'Whether from abuse in bestowing these Honors, or the insignificance attached to the characters of those who have accepted this Cobweb Plumage, none at present are hardy enough to offer and none so ridiculous as to accept them' (p. xliii).

into three classes:—(1) the wranglers and senior optimes; (2) the junior optimes; and (3) οἱ πολλοί, or poll men. Some few were found deficient, 'in which case they are plucked, i.e. turned over to Ash Wednesday (Dunce's Day), or 'till such time as they have qualified themselves for their Degree.'<sup>1</sup>

The first class included those Bachelors quibus sua reservatur senioritas Comitii prioribus (see p. 428, below) and these were admitted as Bachelors Designate on Ash Wednesday, taking seniority according to the order of merit. The second class, consisting of the Junior Optimes, or Bachelors quibus sua reservatur senioritas Comitii posterioribus, and the third class of poll men, received their degrees a few weeks later. Those who were plucked passed into the category of those men who for one reason or another proceeded to the degree later than the appointed time. If admitted ad respondendum quaestioni on or before Ash Wednesday, these were called Baccalaurei ad Diem Cinerum, and if after Ash Wednesday, Baccalaurei ad Baptistam, their names being at first inserted in the Ordo Senioritatis among the poll men<sup>2</sup>, but in the later Grace-Books these belated degrees appear under the separate heading Ad Baptistam at the end of the list.

The foundations of the modern Tripos system were laid when the test of merit involved in acts and exercises came to be supplemented by what was known as the Senate House Examination. The Proctors had from the earliest times the right of questioning a candidate after a disputation was closed, and about 1725<sup>3</sup> the Moderators, who in this matter inherited the Proctorial powers, began the practice of regularly summoning those candidates with regard to whose position in the list any doubt was felt, and before very long this came to be an additional test to which all candidates were liable. The success of the new system was promoted by the difficulty that was being experienced about this time in finding rooms in which the statutable exercises could be properly performed, and the alternative method of testing the abilities of the candidates was therefore useful, although it was still regarded as only supplementary to the exercises in the Schools. The Mathematical Tripos has been commonly dated from the year 1748<sup>4</sup>, because from that time onwards the final lists were printed and distributed; and the names of the 'honorary optimes' were specially marked, so that it was possible by erasing them to arrive at the real order of merit.

The remaining landmarks are as follows:—(1) In 1750 the University definitely recognised the Senate House Examination as an additional test of merit, although it was still entirely oral

<sup>3</sup> In 1731 the joint stipend of the Moderators was raised to £60, 'in consideration of their additional trouble in the Lent Term,' so by that time the Examination was well established.

<sup>4</sup> In the lists printed below this is described as 1747–8, as the Examination, being held before March 25, was reckoned under the Old Style as still belonging to the year 1747.

and was regarded as subsidiary to the disputations; (2) in 1753, since the new system made it possible for the men to be more accurately differentiated, the first class was subdivided into wranglers and senior optimes; (3) in 1763 the examination and not the disputations became the recognised test by which places in the list were determined, and the exercises were only used as a means of obtaining a rough preliminary classification of the men<sup>1</sup>; (4) about 1772 the practice began of dictating some or all of the questions and requiring written answers, although all the questions were not printed until 1827<sup>2</sup>; (5) from 1823 two Examiners were regularly appointed in addition to the two Moderators; and (6) from 1836 the Moderators and Examiners ceased to rely partly on general impressions of the work of the candidates and all the papers were marked.

An early volume of the University Calendar<sup>3</sup> contains a picturesque description of the Senate House Examination about the year 1802:—

On the Monday morning, a little before eight o'clock, the students, generally about a hundred, enter the Senate House, preceded by a Master of Arts, who on this occasion is styled the Father of the College to which he belongs. On two pillars at the entrance of the Senate House are hung the classes<sup>4</sup> and a paper denoting the hours of examination of those who are thought most competent to contend for Honours. Immediately after the University clock has struck eight, the names are called over, and the absentees, being marked, are subject to certain fines. The classes to be examined are called out, and proceed to their appointed tables, where they find pens, ink, and paper provided in great abundance. In this manner, with the utmost order and regularity, two-thirds of the young men are set to work within less than five minutes after the clock has struck eight. There are three chief tables, at which six Examiners preside. At the first, the Senior Moderator of the present year and the Junior Moderator of the preceding year. At the second, the Junior Moderator of the present and the Senior Moderator of the preceding year. At the third, the two Moderators of the year previous to the two last, or two Examiners appointed by the Senate. The two first tables are chiefly allotted to the six first classes; the third, or largest, to the οἱ πολλοί.

The young men hear the propositions or questions delivered by the Examiners; they instantly apply themselves: demonstrate, prove, work out, and write down, fairly and legibly (otherwise their labour is of little avail) the answers required. All is silence; nothing heard save the voice of the Examiners; or the gentle request of someone who may wish a repetition of the enunciation. It requires every person to use the utmost dispatch; for as soon as ever the Examiners perceive anyone to have finished his paper and subscribed his name to it, another question is immediately given. A smattering demonstration will weigh little in the scale of merit; everything must be fully, clearly, and scientifically brought to a true conclusion. And though a person may compose his papers amidst

<sup>1</sup> This preliminary classification was in eight classes, the first two including those who were expected to be Wranglers. Anyone placed in either of these two classes could escape further examination by taking an agrotat Senior Optime. This was called 'gulphing it.'

<sup>2</sup> The problem papers in the Tripos began to be printed about 1791, but the questions for the Smith's Prize continued to be given out by dictation until 1830.

hurry and embarrassment, he ought ever to recollect that his papers are all inspected by the united abilities of six Examiners with coolness, impartiality, and circumspection.

The Examiners are not seated, but keep moving round the tables, both to judge how matters proceed and to deliver their questions at proper intervals. The Examination, which embraces arithmetic, algebra, fluxions, the doctrine of infinitesimals and increments, geometry, trigonometry, mechanics, hydrostatics, optics, and astronomy, in all their various gradations, is varied according to circumstances: no one can anticipate a question, for in the course of five minutes he may be dragged from Euclid to Newton, from the humble arithmetic of Bonnycastle to the abstruse analytics of Waring. While this examination is proceeding at the three tables, between the hours of eight and nine, printed problems...are delivered to each person of the first and second classes; these he takes with him to any window he pleases, where there are pens, ink, and paper prepared for his operations. It is needless to add that every person now uses his utmost exertion, and solves as many problems as his abilities and time will allow.

Although the 'disputations' came to be completely eclipsed by the Senate House Examinations, they were not formally abolished until 1839. Whewell's account of those in 1819, the year in which he was Moderator, indicates however the process of decay that had set in:

They are held between undergraduates in pulpits on opposite sides of the room, in Latin and in a syllogistic form. As we are no longer here in the way either of talking Latin habitually or of reading Logic, neither the one nor the other is very scientifically exhibited. The syllogisms are such as would make Aristotle stare, and the Latin would make every classical hair on your head stand on end. Still it is an exercise well adapted to try the clearness and soundness of the mathematical ideas of the men, though they are of course embarrassed by talking in an unknown tongue....It does not, at least immediately, produce any effect on a man's place in the Tripos and is therefore considerably less attended to than used to be the case, and in most years is not very interesting after the five or six best men<sup>1</sup>.

About 1830 it became to be usual for the respondent and opponents to meet beforehand and arrange their arguments, and in this way the disputation became a mere farce—the performance in public of a play already rehearsed. The Moderators of 1840 therefore took the responsibility of discontinuing disputations, and thereafter the Tripos Examination reigned alone. Until 1850 it was the only Examination for the B.A. Degree, and although the Classical Tripos had been established in 1824, no candidate might enter for it unless he was at least a Junior Optime in the preceding Mathematical Tripos, so that it was in itself no avenue to a Degree. When the Moral Sciences Tripos and the Natural Sciences Tripos were first held in 1851, the condition about Mathematical Honours was not retained, but candidates were still required to be Bachelors of Arts<sup>2</sup>. These restrictions were, however, removed by later legislation.

In 1858 the Poll Examination was finally separated from the

Tripes and provided another avenue to a Degree. Different papers had been set to Poll men as far back as 1828, but the fiction had been still maintained that their examination was part of the Tripos, and the class lists had arranged the successful candidates in fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh classes as if in continuation of the Junior Optimes. The General Examination is the survival of the old Senate House Examination for Poll men, the Special Examination not having been instituted until 1852.

The word 'Tripos' originated in the three-legged stool on which in the 15th century the 'ould bachilour' sat 'before Mr Proctours' to argue with the senior undergraduate who represented the rest. He came to be known as 'Mr Tripos,' and his speeches or verses were called 'Tripos verses'—the earliest copies now extant being those for 1575. In or about 1748 the Honour lists began to be printed on the backs of the Tripos verses and soon the lists themselves came to be known as the Tripos, the term being eventually applied to the system of examination the results of which they represented. Thus the word Tripos gradually changed its meaning 'from a thing of wood (olim truncus) to a man, from a man to a speech, from a speech to two sets of verses, from verses to a sheet of coarse foolscap-paper, from a paper to a list of names, and from a list of names to a system of examination.'<sup>1</sup>

Honours Lists

A RECORD of members of the University who proceeded to the B.A. Degree, complete, except for the omission of a few years, from 1491 to the present day, is to be found in the Registry. At first the only form of this record was the Ordo Senioritatis<sup>1</sup>, originally an order of academic precedence. This gradually developed, probably during the first half of the 18th century, into an order of merit, and this Ordo is the Mathematical Tripos as it was until 1909 when the order of merit was abolished<sup>2</sup>. Although in earlier times the order was one of precedence only, merit, in the sense of intellectual superiority, must always have been recognised as a factor in the arrangement, especially with regard to men at the top of the list. Thus there are references to 'examiners' as far back as 1504<sup>3</sup>, and from 1545-6 two examinatores quaestionistarum or oppositores—commonly called 'posers'—were regularly appointed by Grace.

Although certain miscellaneous lists go back to 1491, the official Ordo begins with the Grace-Books in 1498-9, and this year has been taken as the starting-point of the lists printed below. From 1498-9 to 1531-2 these come from Grace-Book B, except the years 1521-2 and 1523-4, for which Grace-Book F is the better authority, and this also serves for 1532-3 to 1541-2. From 1542-3 to 1588-9 they come from Grace-Book Δ. The remainder are for the most part to be found in the Grace-Books which are not yet printed, but in certain cases, duly noted where they occur, lacunae from the Grace-Books have been filled up from the original signed lists now pasted into scrap-books at the Registry. The series of these lists is very incomplete, and some of the earlier ones are much defaced, so there are still a good many gaps in the records.

An element of uncertainty is introduced into the earlier lists by the fact that some of them are lists of determinatores and others of Bachelors of Arts. 'Determination' or 'standing in quadragesima' (see p. 349) was the further test applied to those students who, having been admitted ad respondendum quaestioni, were regarded as commencing Bachelors, and it was as a rule taken in the same year. But a commencing Bachelor was only bound to determine within

1 The relation of the Order of Seniority to the Mathematical Tripos is more fully discussed in Dr Venn's Introduction to Grace-Book Δ (p. viii).

2 It should, however, be remembered that in earlier times the Ordo was quite as important for the M.A. as for the B.A. and is more fully and regularly preserved (ib. p. x).

3 Grace-Book F, p. 34.

two years, and at least one case<sup>1</sup> occurs in which a name (Basse) appears in a list headed 'Bachalarii in artibus' for one year (1512-13) and again in a list of 'determinatores' for the following year (1513-14).

Although after the middle of the 16th century the lists of names grow longer, until 1569-70 an order of precedence of individuals is on the whole maintained, but in and after that year a tendency to group men of the same College together becomes more clearly marked, especially in the lower part of the list. In 1576-7 as many as 9 Christ's men, 12 Trinity men, and 12 Johnians are to be found in single groups, and in 1582-3 these groups are larger still. In 1612-13 only nine names are placed in order, with the note, 'Reliqui petant senioritatem suam e Registrario.' This is an exceptional case, but the method of grouping by Colleges had now become the rule for the lower names, only the first twenty or thirty being arranged in an order of individual precedence.

Although the existence of a point in the Ordo at which individual precedence gave way to College groups involves something of the nature of a division into two classes, it is not until 1710-11 that classes make their appearance in the lists. In that year the first seventeen names are headed '1st Tripos' and the remaining sixteen '2nd Tripos,' terms which are superseded in 1713-14 and subsequent years by In Comitiiis prioribus and In Comitiiis posterioribus<sup>2</sup>, and this classification was retained both in the Grace-Books and in the printed Tripos Lists until 1858. In the year 1734-5 three classes are to be found for the first time, but the third class evidently corresponds to what afterwards became the Ordinary Degree rather than to the Junior Optimes. It only represents a more ambitious attempt than usual to arrange the lower names in order, and the experiment was not repeated. The three classes as we know them do not appear until 1753, when the Baccalauri quibus sua reservatur senioritas Comitiiis prioribus are divided into Wranglers and Senior Optimes by a differentiation of type in the printed lists. The Grace-Books do not recognise the division until 1773, when a space so narrow as to be scarcely noticeable begins to be left between the last Wrangler and the first Senior Optime. The Junior Optimes, in Comitiiis posterioribus, had long been and continued to be clearly distinguished from the other two classes.

Moderators were first appointed by Grace in 1680 to assist the Proctors in conducting the disputations; but they were almost invariably the same persons as were appointed examinatores quaestionistarum, and it was usual also to appoint them Deputy Proctors. The typical form of Grace describes them as Moderatores in Scholis Publicis <sup>1</sup> Probably also Atkynson, 1525-6 and 1526-7 and Harker in the same years, and Laton, 1525-6 and 1527-8.

<sup>2</sup> The relation between these terms is indicated in the University Calendar for 1802 (p. xlix.), where an account is given of the proceedings on the First and Second Tripos days. On the First Tripos day, the day after Ash Wednesday, before an assembly in the Law School, 'each of the Proctors makes a Latin speech, and the Tripos papers, which contain the names of the Wranglers and Senior Optimes of the year, and Copies of Verses, written by two undergraduates whom the Proctors chuse to honor on this occasion, are distributed among the undergraduates and the company present. A Bedell reads from a Tripos paper, "Baccalauri quibus sua reservatur senioritas Comitiiis prioribus".... The proceedings on the Second Tripos day, the Thursday after Mid-Lent Sunday, are very similar, copies of the Tripos papers containing other verses and the names of the Junior Optimes, being distributed, but the part of the Proctors is now played by the Moderators and the seniority reserved is "in Comitiiis posterioribus." Cf. also Gunning, Ceremonies, pp. 84 and 89.

Sophistarum et Baccalaureorum. They continued to act both as Moderators and Examiners until 1779<sup>1</sup>, when the Moderators of the previous year were associated with them<sup>2</sup>. In 1793, however, Richard Buck, M.A., of Magdalene, and Thomas Browne, M.A., of Christ's, were appointed examinatores quaestionistarum, the latter only being also Moderator, and after 1810 the offices of Moderator and examinator quaestionistarum appear always to have been held by different persons. An entry for 1822<sup>3</sup> suggests that for some time before that date the two regularly appointed examinatores quaestionistarum had concerned themselves entirely with the two classes at the bottom of the list<sup>4</sup>, and in all probability it had been for some time the practice to call in a varying number of other Examiners to assist the Moderators in arranging the order of the higher men<sup>5</sup>. This appears to have been regularised in 1822 by a permanent provision for the regular appointment, for 1826 and subsequent years, of two Additional Examiners, nominated by the Colleges according to the cycle of Proctors and elected by Grace. The Moderators were formerly nominated to the Senate by the Proctors for the year<sup>6</sup>, who almost invariably chose them from their own Colleges; and the Proctor's book of Statutes (p. 34 above) was the Moderator's badge of office<sup>7</sup>.

From the foregoing facts it will appear that the selection of the year 1747-8 as the beginning of the Mathematical Tripos, because in that year the Moderators began to print the Honours Lists at the back of the sheets containing the Tripos verses, cannot be easily justified. The form of the lists themselves, and the method by which they were compiled, was the same after 1747-8 as it had been before it, and a change in the machinery of distribution does not constitute a real historical landmark. The beginning of the Tripos might be better assigned to 1710-11, when the list was divided into two classes; or to 1725, when the Senate House Examination probably began; or to 1750, when that Examination was first definitely recognised as an additional test of merit; or to 1753, when Wranglers, Senior Optimes, and Junior Optimes first appear as three separate orders of merit. But for more than a century and a half the foundation of the Mathematical Tripos has been dated from 1748, and the present generation is not revolutionary enough to disturb so venerable a tradition.

* * The Tripos Lists after 1910 will be found in the current issue of the University Calendar.

1 Except in 1700-10, when Richard Laughton of Clare, being then Senior Proctor, insisted on resuming for his own term of office the original function of the Proctors, and himself acted as Moderator in the Schools (Wordsworth, Scholae Academicæ, p. 34 n.).

2 Grace-Book A, p. 75.

3 Grace-Book M, p. 490.

4 The seventh and eighth classes, consisting of the Poll men.

5 The University Calendar of 1802 speaks of 'six examiners,' i.e. the Senior and Junior Moderators of that and the preceding year and 'two examiners appointed by the Senate,' as though this were the usual number. There were two of these additional Examiners in 1799-1800, but only one in 1800-1. In 1801-2 the same persons were, as usual, appointed Moderators and examinatores quaestionistarum, and there is no Grace appointing other Examiners. Two additional Examiners were, however, appointed in 1802-3 and the succeeding year, but none in 1804-5.

Ordo Senioritatis, 1499—1747

Down to the middle of the 16th century the number of names in the Ordo Senioritatis of any year is comparatively small, and does not as a rule exceed forty. After that time the numbers grow much larger, reaching 118 in 1568, 185 in 1572, 205 in 1580, and 267 in 1583. There were subsequent fluctuations, but the numbers are so large as to make it quite impossible to print the lists in full, and only the first thirty names are therefore given. This includes most of the students who obtained Fellowships or distinguished themselves in after life. It is also frequently the case that below the thirtieth name students are grouped in batches from each College, and anything of the nature of an order of merit disappears. Where less than thirty names are given it should be understood either that the grouping by colleges begins earlier, or that no more names are given in the original Grace-Books.

The power of the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors to nominate students into a certain number of places in each year's list, described on p. 350 above, was no doubt regularly exercised, but in the earlier lists there is as a rule no indication as to which are the names of the students so nominated.

Fellows of Colleges where known are marked with an asterisk, and in cases where the election was to a Fellowship at another College, this is indicated in a footnote.

Surnames are spelt as in the Grace-Books. An index of names is given on p. 1065 below.

1 It will be noticed that in every year since 1585-6, when Examiners were first appointed, they were of the same Colleges as the Proctors for the year. 1612-13 is no exception to this rule, as Richard Tomson, the Proctor first elected, was a Clare man. He died in January 1613, and the vacancy thus created was filled by Trinity Hall.

<sup>1</sup> Fellow of St John's.<sup>2</sup> Richard Bentley, Master of Trinity, 1700; Regius Professor of Divinity, 1717. Bentley's proper place in the list was third, but he was taken down to sixth by the intrusion above him of three 'honorary optimes' (Wordsworth, Scholae Academicæ, p. 57). He was never a Fellow of St John's, as two Fellowships were already held by York-shiremen and a third was not admissible.<sup>3</sup> Dean of Lincoln, 1722.<sup>4</sup> 'Cum vox sit, et consensio omnium plurimum referre, ut disputationibus Sophistarum in Scholis Publicis peragendis, gravior aliquis, et in literis provector deinceps præsint Moderator; Placeat vobis ut sortilegio de Magistro Jacobo Barnard è Collegio Regali, Magistro Tho. Browne è Collegio Sancti Johannis, et Magistro Smith, è Collegio Trinitatis a Procuratoribus, praesente Domino Procancelario facto declaratur, qui duo horum hunc Muneri (non tamen ultra duos proximè sequentes terminos) præficiantur, autoritate in Scholis, Procuratoribus absentibus, Procuratoriae parti committuntur...' (Grace-Book 9, p. 191).<sup>5</sup> There is no record in the Grace-Book, but the original list, signed by the Examiners, is pasted into a scrap-book at the Registry.<sup>6</sup> It is uncertain which Proctor he succeeded.

Mathematical Tripos, 1748—1910

OR LISTS OF THOSE WHO HAVE OBTAINED HONOURS ON COMMENCING
BACHELORS OF ARTS, WITH THE NAMES OF THE MODERATORS AND EXAMINERS OF THE RESPECTIVE YEARS.

Until the New Regulations for the Mathematical Tripos in 1882 the lists printed below are annotated as follows:—

(i) From the foundation of the Chancellor's Medals in 1852 the Medallists are indicated by a footnote.

(ii) From the foundation of the Smith's Prizes in 1769 the Prizemen are indicated by a footnote.

(iii) From the foundation of the Classical Tripos in 1824, classes in that Tripos are indicated by the figures (1), (2), or (3) affixed to names.

The names of the 'honorary optines' (see p. 350) are inserted in the lists in italics, but they are not reckoned in counting the order of merit<sup>1</sup>.

In cases where a name has been changed after the date of the Tripos List, the later name is inserted in brackets.

Until 1882 the Mathematical Tripos was held in January.

The * designates Fellows of Colleges.

NEW REGULATIONS

The Examinations under these Regulations are held in Easter Term.

A student who has obtained Honours in Part I. may be a candidate for Honours in Part II. following, provided that he has then kept seven terms, and that twelve terms have not passed after the first of the seven.

The names are arranged alphabetically, in Part I. in each division of each class, in Part II. in each class.

In Part II. the letters b, c, d, e, appended to the name of a candidate denote the section or sections for which he is placed in the first class. The combination of two letters thus, "b with e" or "c with d," indicates that a candidate has obtained a first class on the combined result of two sections. The letter a indicates that the candidate to whose name it is appended has also attained a first class standard in section A. The asterisk denotes special distinction.

NEW REGULATIONS

A student who has obtained Honours in Part I. or in some other Honour Examination, may be a candidate for Part II. provided that he has kept seven terms and that twelve terms have not passed after the first of the seven.

In Part II. the italic letters appended to the name of a candidate denote the subject or subjects for which he is placed in the first class. The letter a denotes the compulsory subjects; a<sub>1</sub>, Ethics and Metaphysics; a<sub>2</sub>, Ethics and Political Philosophy. The special subjects are denoted by b, History of Philosophy; c, Advanced Psychology and Psychophysics; d, Advanced Logic and Methodology; and e, Advanced Political Economy. The combination of two letters, thus b with c, indicates that a candidate has obtained a first class on the combined result of the two subjects. The asterisk denotes special distinction.

Civil Law Classes, 1816—57

Examinations admitting to the Degree of LL.B.

The following is the order of the Classes from October 1815-16.

The Third Classes from the year 1822-23 are, with one or two exceptions, in alphabetical order.

The students in the Classes whose names are inserted within brackets are equal.

In some years the names of such students are omitted, who, from want of merit, ill health, or some other sufficient reason, were not classed.

The * designates Fellows of Colleges.

THE Register of Matriculations at Cambridge begins in 1544, when one of the more distinguished Vice-Chancellors, Dr, afterwards Sir Thomas, Smith of Queens', the author of De Republica Anglorum, directed that all new students should go before the Registry and have their names, age, and College entered in a book. From the date of the establishment of this Register the numbers show a tendency to increase, and in the first 20 years they more than doubled, rising from 154 in 1544 to 363 in 1564, and except in particular years—generally years of Plague—the numbers did not again sink to the old level.

The effect of the Civil War, though more marked at Oxford, is clearly discernible at Cambridge also. The numbers begin to decline in 1640, but they recover again in 1645. This may be partly due to the fact that since Oxford was now a military centre, Cambridge was the only possible place for intending students. Thus in 1645, when there were 311 matriculations at Cambridge there were only 35 at Oxford, and in 1648 the Oxford entries sank to 2 as against 272 at Cambridge.

As compared with the prosperity of the 17th, the 18th century shewed a remarkable decline. From 1600 to 1699 Cambridge matriculated about 30,000 students, but the corresponding figure for 1700–99 was only 16,000. The 19th century, on the other hand, showed an equally remarkable rise. The Revolutionary and Napoleonic Wars appear not so much to have depleted the University as to have postponed its increase, and between 1810 and 1820 the matriculations nearly doubled. The Crimean War caused a set-back, but it was of brief duration, and the work of the Commission of 1850 bore fruit in a further increase of numbers. During the thirty years 1850–80 the matriculations doubled, rising from 400 to 800 a year, and in 1887 the record figure of 1012 was reached, to be eclipsed in 1890 by 1027. The 1000 limit was not again reached until 1905, but it was then maintained for six years in succession, the highest point being attained in 1909, when 1207 freshmen matriculated at the University.

<sup>1</sup> See Mr J. A. Venn's Oxford and Cambridge Matriculations, 1544–1906, with a graphic chart illustrating the varying fortunes of the two Universities (Cambridge, 1908). The figures from 1800 onwards are printed in the Graduati; the earlier figures have been obtained from the original Matriculation Books by Mr Venn. These are in all cases for the academical year: e.g. the matriculations given under 1544 are for the academical year 1543–44.

1 In 1556 there was a scarcity of victuals in Cambridge, and this, with the anticipation of the plague during the summer, led to the Easter Term being suspended (Cooper, Annals, ii. 305, 108). The religious troubles may also have been partly responsible for the decline in numbers in these two years.

2 In 1563-4 there was a severe visitation of the Plague in England and Cambridge was much affected. It appears to have been introduced into Barnwell by a Londoner who came to Midsummer Fair (Cooper, Annals, ii. 321).

3 Also a Plague year. Cf. the memorandum made by Whitgift when Master of Trinity in his Book of Accounts: 'Anno 1574, from Michaelmas till the beginning of March there was no days reckoned, because of the breaking up for the plague by the whole consent of the seniors' (Cooper, Annals, v. 305).

4 In 1610 there was an outbreak of Plague at Cambridge. The Corporation Common Day Book refers to 'the great visitation and infection now in this town very rife and dangerous' (Cooper, Annals, iii. 41).

5 In 1630 also there was an outbreak of Plague at Cambridge. Cf. a letter of 24 April: 'Our University is in a manner wholly dissolved, all exercises and meetings ceasing. In many Colleges almost none left. The Master of Sidney, writing on May 25 to Archbishop Ussher, refers to 'the most doleful dissolving of our University and the most sudden dispersion of our students that ever I knew, occasioned by the infection brought hither by a soldier or two, dismissed not long since from the King of Sweden's army' (Cooper, Annals, iii. 222, 223). It will be evident from the figures for 1631 that many matriculations were deferred for a year.

6 In 1643 Cambridge was occupied on behalf of the Parliament by an army of 30,000 men.

University Societies

The Union Society

The Union Society was founded in 1815 as a Debating Society by the union of three other Societies, the first Debate being held on Monday, February 20. The original founders are said to have been Henry Bickersteth, of Caius, afterwards Lord Langdale (1783—1851), who was Senior Wrangler and First Smith's Prizeman in 1808 and was appointed Master of the Rolls in 1836; Sir Edward Hall Alderson (1787—1857), also of Caius, who was Senior Wrangler, First Smith's Prizeman and First Chancellor's Medallist in 1809, and afterwards became a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas (1830), but is better known as a Baron of the Exchequer (1834); and Sir Jonathan Frederick Pollock (1783—1870), of Trinity, Senior Wrangler and First Smith's Prizeman in 1806, and Chief Baron of the Exchequer, 1844—66. The name of Henry Pakenham is also sometimes associated with these.

The Society held its earlier meetings in a room at the back of the Red Lion Inn in Petty Cury, but about 1832 it migrated to premises erected for its special use behind what used to be the Hoop Hotel in Bridge Street, now occupied by the A.D.C. In 1850 these were exchanged for a room in Green Street, and here the Society remained until the opening of the present buildings behind the Round Church on October 30, 1866. A later enlargement was opened by Prince Albert Victor of Wales on February 24, 1886.

2 Thomas Sunderland was one of the principal speakers at the famous Inter-University debate at Oxford, November 26, 1829, on the Comparative Merits of Byron and Shelley. Cardinal Newman wrote in 1866, 'I remember the effect of Sunderland's declamation and action to this day. It had never been seen or heard before among us; we cowered like birds and ran like sheep.' The other members of the Cambridge deputation were Richard Monckton-Milnes afterwards Lord Houghton, and Arthur Hallam, the friend of Tennyson.

The Philosophical Society<sup>1</sup>

The suggestion which led to the foundation of the Cambridge Philosophical Society originated with Professor Adam Sedgwick in the Easter Vacation of 1819. He had been elected Woodwardian Professor of Geology in the previous year, and was collecting materials for his first course of lectures, in the Isle of Wight, in company with his friend John Stevens Henslow, afterwards Professor of Mineralogy and later of Botany, and they conceived the idea of establishing 'a Corresponding Society for the purpose of introducing subjects of Natural History to the Cambridge students.' The idea was eagerly taken up by Dr E. D. Clarke, the Professor of Mineralogy, and a meeting of resident graduate members of the University was called on November 2 'for the purpose of instituting a Society as a point of concourse for scientific communications.' Among the 33 signatures to the notice convening the meeting were six Heads of Houses, six Professors and eleven Tutors of Colleges, and among these the following are the more distinguished names: the Hon. George Neville, Master of Magdalene and afterwards Dean of Windsor; William Lort Mansel, Master of Trinity and Bishop of Bristol; Isaac Milner, President of Queens' and Dean of Carlisle; John Kaye, Master of Christ's, and afterwards Bishop, first of Bristol and then of Lincoln; Martin Davy, Master of Caius; William Webb, Master of Clare; Edward Daniel Clarke, Professor of Mineralogy; John Haviland, Regius Professor of Medicine; James Henry Monk, Regius Professor of Greek and afterwards Bishop of Gloucester; James Cumming, Professor of Chemistry; Adam Sedgwick, Woodwardian Professor of Geology; Samuel Lee, Sir Thomas Adams's Professor of Arabic and afterwards Regius Professor of Hebrew; Robert Woodhouse, afterwards Lucasian and then Plumian Professor; Thomas Kerrich, Principal Librarian; William Hustler, Registrary; John Lamb, afterwards Master of Corpus; George Peacock, afterwards Lowndean Professor and Dean of Ely; and John Stevens Henslow, afterwards Professor of Mineralogy and then of Botany. The name of William Whewell, afterwards in succession Professor of Mineralogy, Knightbridge Professor of Moral Philosophy, and Master of Trinity ends the list.

<sup>1</sup> An account of the foundation and early years of the Society is contained in an Address delivered by Mr J. W. Clark on resigning the office of President, 27 October 1890 (Proceedings, vol. VII., 1891).

The Society was duly constituted and rules were adopted on November 15. The first President was William Farish, M.A., Fellow of Magdalene, Jacksonian Professor of Natural and Experimental Philosophy. The first meeting was held 'in the Museum of the Botanic Garden' on Monday, Dec. 13, 1819, when the newly-elected President gave an address, as also did Dr Clarke, to whose exertions the successful launching of the Society was so largely due. The number of members increased rapidly, and before the end of 1820 had reached 171, while the finances were so flourishing that £300 was invested in the Funds, a condition due in part to an undertaking by the University Press to publish the Transactions free of cost. The first communications were made to the Society on Feb. 20, 1820, by the President, Professor Farish, 'On Isometrical Perspective'; by Professor E. D. Clarke, 'On the discovery of Cadmium in some of the English ores of zinc, with some directions respecting the mode of operating'; and by Captain Fairfax (presented by Mr Okes), 'On Soundings at Sea.'

In April, 1820, the Society, which had hitherto met in the Lecture Room of the building on the east side of the Old Botanic Garden (see p. 231), acquired a home of its own in a house in Sidney Street, opposite to Jesus Lane, and here it at once commenced the formation of a Museum, and a Library which became the nucleus of the present Philosophical Library (see p. 240). In the next year a scheme was adopted for giving the Society a social as well as a scientific character, by establishing a reading-room equipped with newspapers, reviews, and magazines, both English and foreign, as well as with scientific journals. In 1833 the Society moved from Sidney Street to premises specially built for it on a site leased from St John's at the corner of All Saints' Passage, and here it enjoyed great prosperity for many years. The causes of its subsequent difficulties are thus described by Mr J. W. Clark:

The Society's house had been built, to a great extent, with borrowed money, as I have related, and it had cost a far larger sum than had been anticipated. It was possible to pay the interest on the loans, but the Society found itself unable to establish a sinking-fund for the repayment of the capital. Moreover, the number of Fellows gradually decreased. At one time it was usual for nearly every Fellow of a College to become a Fellow of the Philosophical Society; but, when the novelty of the existence of such a body in Cambridge had worn off, and when the reading-room had several rivals, not to mention the reduction of the price of newspapers, which enabled them to be taken in at home—there seemed to be no special reason for joining a Society where the papers read were chiefly mathematical, and which offered no other attractions not to be found elsewhere. The officers of the Society did their best in these adverse days; and some of those who had lent money cancelled their bonds—as for instance Professor Peacock, Professor Sedgwick, Professor Adams, and Professor Babington; but the financial difficulty could not be overcome. Finally, in 1865, the Museum was offered to, and accepted by, the University; the house was sold; and the Society found a home at the New Museums.

The Society received a Charter in 1832, and at a special meeting held on November 6 it was accepted by the Society, and the Council was directed to prepare a body of Bye-Laws. By this code, which is in close agreement with that of the Royal Society of London, but has been lately altered from its original form, the Society is still governed. It was on the occasion of the reception of the Charter—the first granted to a Society out of London—that the first of the annual dinners was held.

The following note on the Society's publications has been contributed by Dr Liveing:

The memoirs in quarto have always been printed and published at the expense of the Press Syndicate. The volumes have come out at irregular intervals depending on the supply of material. The separate papers have however been printed and the authors allowed to distribute a certain number of copies before the publication of the volume. The Proceedings were not published before 1845. A good many papers read before the Society were not of sufficient importance to be published in the 4to form, and were apt to be lost sight of unless they found a place in some other publication. In 1845 an arrangement was made with Taylor and Francis to publish them in the Philosophical Magazine in the same way as they were publishing the proceedings of the Royal and Astronomical and several other Societies. They appeared along with other contributions in the pages of the magazine and were reprinted in pamphlet form for distribution among the fellows of the Society. Only a fraction of the papers read to the Society appeared in this way, because the authors failed to supply suitable abstracts for publication. But 16 such pamphlets appeared at intervals in 1845—65 (the first paper included having been read in 1843) and these with a title and index, form Vol. I. of the Proceedings of the Cambridge Philosophical Society. Since 1865 the proceedings have been printed in Cambridge and more pains taken to get suitable abstracts from the authors, and to get the parts of each volume out more quickly. This has contributed to make the publication more valuable. The expense however is borne by the Society.

The Antiquarian Society

Minute Books of the Cambridge Antiquarian Society—recording in detail its Council Meetings, its ordinary gatherings and its Annual General Meetings—have been carefully preserved from its beginning. After preliminary arrangements in the year 1839, the first Council Meeting was held on February 29th, 1840—the chair being taken by the Rev. Dr Tatham, Master of St John's, the President, at his Lodge. There were present the Rev. H. W. Cookson (afterwards Master of Peterhouse), the Rev. Professor Corrie (afterwards Master of Jesus College), Sir Henry Dryden, the Rev. James Hildyard, Fellow of Christ's, the Rev. John Lodge, University Librarian, the Rev. J. J. Smith, Fellow of Caius and Editor of The Cambridge Portfolio, (Treasurer) and J. O. Halliwell of Jesus College, afterwards Halliwell-Phillipps, the celebrated Shakespearean scholar, (Secretary). The Rev. C. H. Hartshorne, of St John's, author of Book Rarities in the Cambridge University Library, the eighth member of the Council, was not present on this occasion.

It was a practical meeting; laws were adopted and sent to the printers; presents were accepted and enrolled; a College MS. was ordered to be printed as a Publication, etc.

The first law stated 'that a Society be instituted for the encouragement of the study of the History and Antiquities of the University, County and Town of Cambridge, and that such Society be called "the Cambridge Antiquarian Society."' Four years later, this law was altered as follows: 'that the Society be for the encouragement of the study of History, Architecture and Antiquities.' Years afterwards these words were added: 'especially in connection with the University, Town and County of Cambridge.'

But the Society—though of course thus particularly regarding local Antiquities—has always been noted for its wide outlook. In the year 1871, it incorporated 'the Cambridge Architectural Society.' It has included among its Presidents, it has numbered among its Lecturers and Authors, it has enrolled among its Members, besides Antiquaries and Archaeologists, Geologists and Anthropologists, Egyptologists and Excavators at home, Students of Numismatics, Palaeographers, Philologists, Ecclesiologists, and other scientists and practical workers. It has collected antiquities, and under its encouragement has grown up the splendid and increasing Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology, linked with the name of Baron Anatole von Hügel. It has acquired a remarkable Library. It has held Exhibitions of University and Local Portraits and of Caricatures, of Plate, of Stuart and Cromwellian relics, etc. It has acquired and maintained ancient buildings, such as the Cellarers' Checker, an interesting part of the great Barnwell Priory. It has effected restorations, such as the Maze at Comberton. It has done remarkable work in excavations, and in watching any diggings or exposures in Cambridge and the neighbourhood. It has issued a long series of Publications in Quarto and Folio. It has encouraged kindred societies. For years it has organised enjoyable and instructive excursions to historic sites and other places of interest.

Beside these positive efforts, it has exposed forgeries, it has corrected mistakes, it has uttered warnings.

During its existence of more than three quarters of a century, the Society has had its ups and its downs; at times its numbers have been small, though there are those who speak of the good work that was done when little groups of members met round a table in the rooms of the President or of the Secretary. At other times, under the management of keen and energetic officials, the roll of members has largely increased. The first list of members (issued in 1846) numbered over 100; but the Society only included 20 or 30 when the Rev. S. S. Lewis, of Corpus, became Secretary in the year 1873; under his enthusiastic service the numbers rose to over 300; while, after the efforts of Mr T. D. Atkinson and Mr J. E. Foster, the Society, during the secretariate of the Rev. F. G. Walker (1909-13), shewed a list of 450 members, and these numbers are still well maintained.

The List of Publications of the Cambridge Antiquarian Society (1840-1915) is long and important. In its first decade, it issued some 15 Quarto pamphlets; while from 1851 onwards, its Octavo Series numbers 50 volumes, some of them of considerable importance. During the same period, it has also printed, annually and sometimes in each term, Reports and Communications of extraordinary variety and interest. Occasional Publications include 'an Index to the Baker MSS.', 'the Charters of the Borough of Cambridge,' and various catalogues of the Exhibitions which the Society has fostered. Extra Publications shew the early numbers of the University Grace Books, etc. Some 200 names appear in the List of Contributors, including many of the most distinguished members of our University during the last 75 years, together with various well-known outsiders. In 1898 there was published 'An Index to the Reports and Abstracts of Proceedings; including Subjects and Authors of Communications and Publications (1840-97)'; from this may be seen not only the number and the variety of the papers, but also the numerous contributions of certain distinguished authors, such for instance as Professors Babington, G. F. Browne, Corrie, Hughes, Skeat, Messrs Bradshaw, J. W. Clark, C. H. Cooper, W. G. Searle; Dr M. R. James, etc. A second Index will, after a while, have to be issued.

The Society still has an extensive and varied programme for future workers; the archives of the University, the Colleges and the Town have still treasures to reveal; the Museum has not yet been able to exhibit many of its valuable acquisitions, while it is ever keen to welcome new contributions, not only from local sources, but from all parts of the world; townsmen are more than ever invited to join with University contributors; undergraduates are invited as Associates; while outside papers are welcomed.

It may be added that the Society hopes soon to hold its meetings in a completed Museum. Hitherto it has had various gathering-places; in the rooms of the Presidents or of the Secretaries, in the rooms of the Philosophical Society, in the Combination Room of St Catharine's, in the Hall of Jesus College, in the Albert Institute, in the Optical and Astronomical Lecture-Rooms of 'the New Museums,' in the Museum of Archaeology.

Similarly, it has housed its valuable collections in some of the places just mentioned, in the Mesman Picture Gallery formerly part of the Pitt Press, in the Fitzwilliam Museum. It now revels in the splendid New Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology.

Some of the names of those who have been its leaders should be recorded. Its Secretaries have included J. O. Halliwell [Phillipps], E. Venables, John Power, C. W. Goodwin, C. J. Ellicott (afterwards Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol), W. R. Collett, John Rigg, H. R. Luard, T. G. Bonney, T. Brocklebank, H. Bradshaw, S. S. Lewis, N. C. Hardcastle, M. R. James, T. D. Atkinson, J. E. Foster, C. J. B. Gaskoin, F. G. Walker, and F. J. Allen. Among its Excursion Secretaries have been Professor Bendall, Dr Hardcastle, G. B. Bowes, J. A. Venn and M. D. Forbes; among its Treasurers J. J. Smith, C. C. Babington, H. Bradshaw, T. Brocklebank, W. M. Fawcett, R. Bowes and H. F. Bird; and among the Editors of its Proceedings may be named F. J. H. Jenkinson, J. W. Clark, S. M. Leathes and C. E. Sayle; its Curators included J. J. Smith, Lionel H. Cust and F. J. H. Jenkinson—until Baron A. von Hügel undertook the post.

The Philological Society

The records of the Cambridge Philological Society begin abruptly with an account of a meeting held on February 23, 1872. The Society owes its existence to the energy and joint efforts of E. B. Cowell, then Professor of Sanskrit, and R. C. Jebb, then Public Orator, afterwards Regius Professor of Greek. Jebb was appointed Secretary at one of the first meetings, and undertook the preliminary correspondence, resigning the post when the Society had received an organization.

The first list of the Society's Council contains the names of E. B. Cowell, F. A. Paley, H. A. J. Munro, J. E. B. Mayor, W. W. Skeat, J. Peile, R. C. Jebb, H. Jackson, J. E. Sandys, and C. Wordsworth.

The earliest list of members of the Society contains 54 names. At the beginning of 1915 there were nearly 120 members, exclusive of honorary members and of Libraries and other institutions which subscribe.

For some years it was the custom of the Society to print and privately circulate among its members 'Memoranda' of the subjects discussed and business done. Some of the papers read were printed at length in the Journal of Philology, but the Society issued nothing of its own until in 1881 these 'Memoranda' were collected and published, together with its Transactions for 1879-80; reviews of work done in 1880 on Homer, Plato, Aristotle, Propertius, and Servius; an appendix on some votive tablets at York; lists of officers and members; and the laws of the Society, which begin thus:

'The design of the Society is to promote and to publish critical researches into the languages and literatures of the Indo-European group of nations, and to promote philological studies in general.'

After a second volume of Transactions, the Society began to issue an annual book of Proceedings, the first being for 1882. Longer papers have been published from time to time as parts of further volumes of Transactions. The Society has also published two pamphlets on 'Spelling Reform and English Literature' and 'The Pronunciation of Latin in the Augustan Period.' It has also encouraged by subsidies the publication of many important books; and since 1872 its members have received copies of the Journal of Philology free of charge.

The Classical Society

The Cambridge Classical Society was founded on May 9, 1903, when the Professors and University and College Teachers in Classics and some others interested in Classical teaching were invited to a meeting held in the Combination Room of Peterhouse. On June 15, 1903, at a meeting held in the Combination Room of Trinity College the Laws of the Society were submitted by a Committee appointed for the purpose and approved.

The Society discusses problems connected with the teaching of Classics, and arranges for open lectures on Classical subjects.

Among those who have lectured for the Society are Sir Richard Jebb, Dr Verrall, Dr Walter Headlam, M. Homolle, M. Victor Bérard, Professor Gilbert Murray, Professor Grenfell, Professor Mackail, Professor Myres, Sir William Ramsay, and Professor A. C. Clark.

Ordo Senioritatis, 1499—1747

Names are indexed as spelt in the Grace-Books, but alternative spellings are given in brackets. After 1543-4 these are, as a rule, taken from the Graduati. Cross-references are also given where necessary.

The * indicates Fellows of Colleges.

Governesses' Benevolent Institution

Founded in 1843.

Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1848.

UNDER THE PATRONAGE OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

President—MARQUESS OF ABERDEEN.

Hon. Treasurer—ROBERT S. GARDINER, Esq.

BRANCHES:

Home and Free Registration Office, 47 Harley St., W. 1

(Telephone, 3828 Mayfair.)

Furneaux Holiday House, Fairmount, Shanklin.

Home for Aged Governesses, Chislehurst.

THE work of the Institution is most comprehensive in character. It assists Governesses by investing their savings in Annuities, and helps them in their annual payments; it provides them with a temporary home at a small cost and a registration office through which they can obtain engagements entirely free of expense, not only as is customary to those seeking Governesses, but also to the Governesses themselves; also a Seaside Holiday House; and it makes them grants when in difficulties. It secures them a settled Income in the form of free Annuities and a Home for their declining years. Further, it offers a means whereby, through the payment of an Annual Subscription, they can claim the special consideration of the Society should necessity in later years compel them to seek its assistance.

2,000 Governesses were assisted by the Institution last year.

Donations of Stock or money sufficient to establish an annuity will be funded, the amount bearing the Founder's name, and the patronage, if he wish it, reserved to him for life. In this way the founder may benefit not only his nominee, but also the governesses who may subsequently enjoy his annuity.

Bequests of £50 and under £2,000 entitle each Executor proving the Will to the privilege of a Life Member, and if the legacy amount to £2,000 or upwards, the life privilege is repeated for each £1,000 bequeathed.

Subscriptions and Donations, which are most urgently needed, will be thankfully received by PARR'S BANK, LTD. (Sir S. Scott & Co.'s branch), 1 Cavendish Square, W., or by

A. WESLEY DENNIS, Secretary.

HEAD OFFICE:

Dacre House, 5 Arundel Street, Strand, W.C. 2

(Telephone, 3121 Central.)

THE CENTRAL CHURCH COMMITTEE

FOR ### DEFENCE AND INSTRUCTION.

---

Presidents—The Archbishops of Canterbury and York.

Chairman of the Executive Committee—The Duke of Devonshire.

Treasurers—The Lord Ashcombe, the Viscount Hambleden.

---

The Committee, as the body specially charged with the duty of spreading a sound knowledge of the origin, history, and work of the Church, and of organizing in defence of her secular interests, earnestly appeal for

SUBSCRIPTIONS, DONATIONS AND OFFERTORIES

to enable them adequately to comply with the demands made upon them throughout the country for Speakers, Organizers, Lecturers, Publications, Advice and Information, &c., in connection with Education and Disestablishment controversies.

It is sought to attain these objects by means of the organisation known as the Church Committee. It is, as its name implies, a committee or representation of the whole Church. Instruction is conveyed through the Diocesan, Ruri-decanal and Parochial Organisations, and each Bishop is at the head of the work in his own diocese. The objects are carried out by means of local meetings, lectures, and the distribution of literature.

CONTRIBUTIONS will be most thankfully received by the Bankers, Messrs HOARE & Co., 37, Fleet Street, E.C.; or by

T. MARTIN TILBY,

Secretary.
